But for the life of us, we cannot understand how Bryant could have become involved in such a sorry situation. Here is a man who had made the ascent to the top of the collegiate coaching ranks. Perhaps, his weakness lay in his ambition to remain there.

THE POST EXPOSE (if unshaken) has ruined three reputations. Butts and Bryant are through in the realm of athletics. No one group is more unforgiving than a willingly trusting sports public when betrayed. Burnett, who had guts enough to pop the cap on a personal pressure cooker, has no more distinction than being the "informer" with the tainted private life open for the nation to see.

But right is still right and vice versa. The story had to be told. It's highly doubtful that the Butts-Bryant bomb has enough explosiveness to shake the foundations, but it's just more ammunition for the "de-emphasis detail."

Taking the mess out of its emotion-charged surroundings is difficult to do. But it is necessary to stave off the witch hunters who would like nothing better than to use the incident as a kick off for a blanket condemnation.

PEOPLE CAN fall but well-founded, solid institutions like collegiate football don't crumble under sporadic attack. For every Butts and Bryant, there are thousands of coaches whose integrity is and will remain beyond question.

Tragic indeed, however, is the fact that people everywhere will be affected by the scandal and some guy somewhere will start wondering out loud why State U. lost to Central Tech by 35 points next fall.

As far as we're concerned, this fix makes the "Black Sox" episode and the basketball botch look like penny-ante stuff. Maybe Georgia coach Johnny Griffith said it best when he remarked, "I never had a chance."

For the sake of every pint-sized shaver that ever picks up a football again, we hope to God that Griffith's quote can never be spoken in reference to college football again.

SPRING IS HERE?

THAT'S WHAT the calendar said last week but here's one golfer [illegible] to argue the point. Could be that the past winter of every golfer's discontent is clattering to a close though. After three lusty swings, this early bird departed, promising he would return when he could shoot in the high 90's and we don't think he was referring to his golf score.

Pirate-Hawk Pin Tourney Opens Sunday At Lincoln

A list of local celebrities is being assembled to help kick off the jointly-sponsored West Side Pirate-Westgate Hawks Headpin Bowling Tournament opening Sunday at Lincoln Village Lanes.

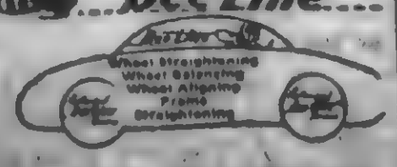
The kegling tourney, which will run through Apr. 21, is being held by the two West Side Little League football teams in an effort to raise funds to buy new equipment.

THERE WILL be over $500 in cash prizes on the line during the tourney with the men's first prize set at $250 and the women's top purse filled with $100. Trophies will be presented to the junior girls and boys winners.

The Sunday afternoon card will include an individual match between Hawk official Dick Bergman and Hartley Sports Editor Jack Wittenmeier with the loser contributing to the tournament proceeds.

At press time the celebrity list included Jet Business Manager Chuck Wareham, Jimmy Crum and "Rat" Trabue. Tournament officials hoped to add to the list by Sunday's opening session at 3 p.m.

DONATION FEE for competition is $1. Bowling dates during the course of the 13-day tournament are on Fridays, Saturdays, Sundays and Mondays.



Lincoln Village Lanes, which is donating the use of its facilities to the two teams, is located on W. Broad-st, directly across from Lazarus West.

Home Show Will Feature Full-Size Patio and Pool

A special feature of the 1963 Home Show, opening Saturday (Mar. 30) in the Buckeye Building (Ohio State Fairgrounds), will be a huge garden patio and swimming pool area.

The full-size, 18x36-foot pool, will be surrounded by a lovely patio with flowers, shrubs and trees in full bloom. Style shows will be held in the patio each day.

Over 300 exhibit spaces will be filled with hundreds of new ideas for the home, offering Central Ohioans their only chance to compare styles, quality and price under one roof.

Show hours are Saturday and Sunday, 2 to 10 p.m., and Monday through Friday, 5 to 10 p.m. This is the 31st year of the Home Show's sponsorship by the Builders Exchange of Columbus.

Who Says 'Hot Rods' Are For Kids? Better Re-Check

It's a funny thing, but I'd be willing to bet a set of spinner hub caps that there are more people who cringe at the words "hot rod" than not.

All derogatory connotations, however, should be fairly well expelled in the upcoming Sixth Annual Custom Car Show slated for the Youth Center, Ohio State Fairgrounds, Mar. 29, 30 and 31.

If nothing else, local residents may learn that the term "hot rod," popularly used to denote today's teenagers' souped-up cars, is just not what it implies.

In fact, a so-called "hot rod"—correctly and technically—is any individually designed and built vehicle or one that has been revamped and entirely restyled.

It is the end product of a dedicated hobbiest.

Seldom seen on the streets, these automotive wonders sport such special features as jet engines, fur-lined interiors and exteriors, TV, running hot and cold water, the finest hand tailored leather upholstery and other unique details.

The big show is being sponsored by the Columbus Trotters Hot Rod Club and will run from 5 p.m. to midnight on Friday, 10 a.m. to noon on Saturday, and 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. on Sunday.

More than 100 vehicles from a 15-state area will compete for trophies and special awards in this National Hot Rod sanctioned event. A custom model car race will highlight Saturday's activities.

Continuous films of the world's greatest auto races (Daytona, Sebring, LeMans and NHRA National Drag Races) will be shown. Accommodations for those wishing to stay for the entire three days will be available in Youth Center dorms.

Many of the cars are valued as highly as $100,000. One to be sure and see is an auto with a collapsible center. Upon impact it compresses like an accordion and then re-adjusts to contour.

A portion of the show's proceeds (tickets available at the door) will be given to Boys' Clubs organizations.

Hartley Newspaper area residents participating in the event include:

Quickies . . .

The recent popularity of Key Clubs prompted WLW-C's Jack Denton to comment recently, "Why doesn't someone start a combination lock club?"

It's probably not news anymore that talented WBNS radio newsman Willis Teague broke into the Saturday Evening Post recently with his story on OSU swimming coach Mike Peppe.

What might be news is the fact that it's not stopping here. He reports that he's getting another one ready — this time on Jim Lorimer, local insurance executive and coach of the Ohio Girls' Track Club.

The Only Thing Predictible About This Job Is Its Unpredictibility

By ROD WARNER
(Contributing Writer)

Rosa Knotts has connections.

As switchboard operator at busy WLW-C television, sometimes those connections can range from the embarrassing to the humorous — with every "Good afternoon, TV-4" phone answer an invitation to adventure.

Now and then Rosa gets a crank call, an employment application, a request to speak to Perry Como or a sudden life-and-death matter that quickly thrusts her into an exciting uniqueness.

For example:

• Rosa opened her switchboard one morning at 7:30 a.m. A man wanted to talk to the news department — he said he had an exclusive story. The news staff hadn't arrived yet so Rosa asked if she could help.

"I am in the process of committing suicide," the man said slowly. "I've taken 'pills' and I want your station to have the story."

"Just a moment," replied Rosa hastily, "there's a newsman coming in now." She switched the call to Jack Davis, announcer on duty, whom Rosa had forewarned.

Davis held the man on the phone while Rosa contacted a real TV-4 newsman, the police and the phone company. All arrived at the man's location in time to save his life.

• One time a cowboy was shot and killed on the old series "Twenty-Six Men." A teenage lad came in to apply for the job of replacing the gunfighter.

Rosa shrewdly gave him a job application form after the boy claimed he could ride, shoot and wrangle cattle. While he filled out the form, Rosa called his home and discovered he had been missing for several days, according to parents who came after him.

• Then there was the lady who called nearly every weekday to find out who the stars would be on "Here's Hollywood." Once Rosa asked her why the matter caused her so much interest.

"Well," she said, "I don't have a TV set and when someone is on I'd like to see, I take a bus downtown and watch the show in a department store window."

• Whenever the WLW-C gang gives out some "instructive" information, Rosa cringes a bit. She remembers recently when "Jamboree" star Clay Eager, then on "Farm Forecast," gave instructions for baking cookies.

He gave the wrong amount of baking soda and the calls started. One woman even threatened to make the cookies and make Clay eat them. "They looked terrible," she told Rosa. "They're all puffed up and everything."

Many more unexpected incidents have occurred. She remembers especially the 1959 flood when the police telephone lines were tied-up and the overflow calls were shuttled to TV-4 for Rosa to answer.

Her busiest times are created by such events as weather cancellation of a World Series baseball game, when a soap opera goes off the air or when popular Ruth Lyons comes to Columbus and people want tickets.

Born and raised in Fairfield County, Rosa became a telephone operator in Amanda when she was 16. Later, she transferred to Ohio Bell in Lancaster.

She's been with TV-4 since 1956 and, before that, was in the same position at University Hospital and the Tracy Wellen Co.

Rosa likes her job. More important, her experiences make her a veteran at the board and an expert in handling the unexpected.

WLW-C SWITCHBOARD operator Rosa Knotts rivals mountain climbers for adventures. She's shown here giving "Jamboree" star Clay Eager some incorrectly made cookies after Clay gave the wrong recipe over the air. She had numerous calls on this one.

"Heaven Knows, Mr. Allison," the "Monday Night at the Movies" feature preempted February 18 by the Ohio State vs. Michigan State Basketball game, has been rescheduled for Saturday, May 11, at 9 p.m. on TV-4 as the fare for "Saturday Night At The Movies." The film stars Robert Mitchum and Deborah Kerr.

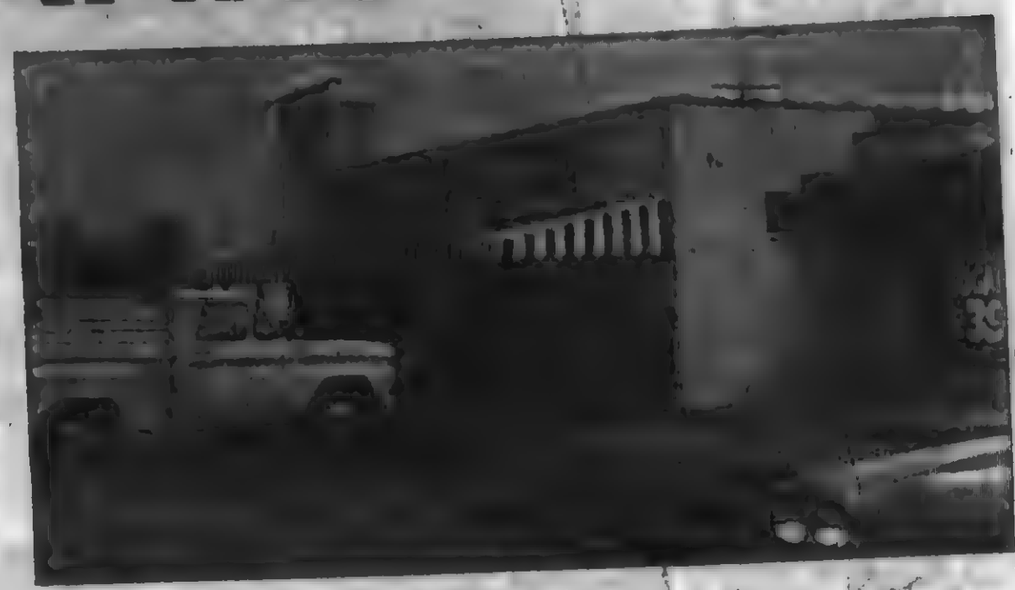
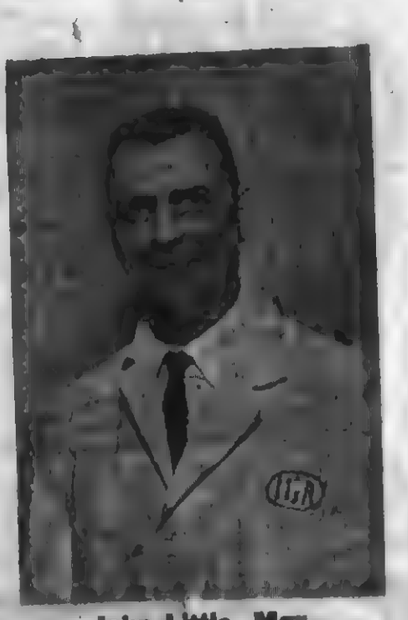
Hartley Newspapers
2465 West Broad St.
Columbus 4, Ohio

Gentlemen:



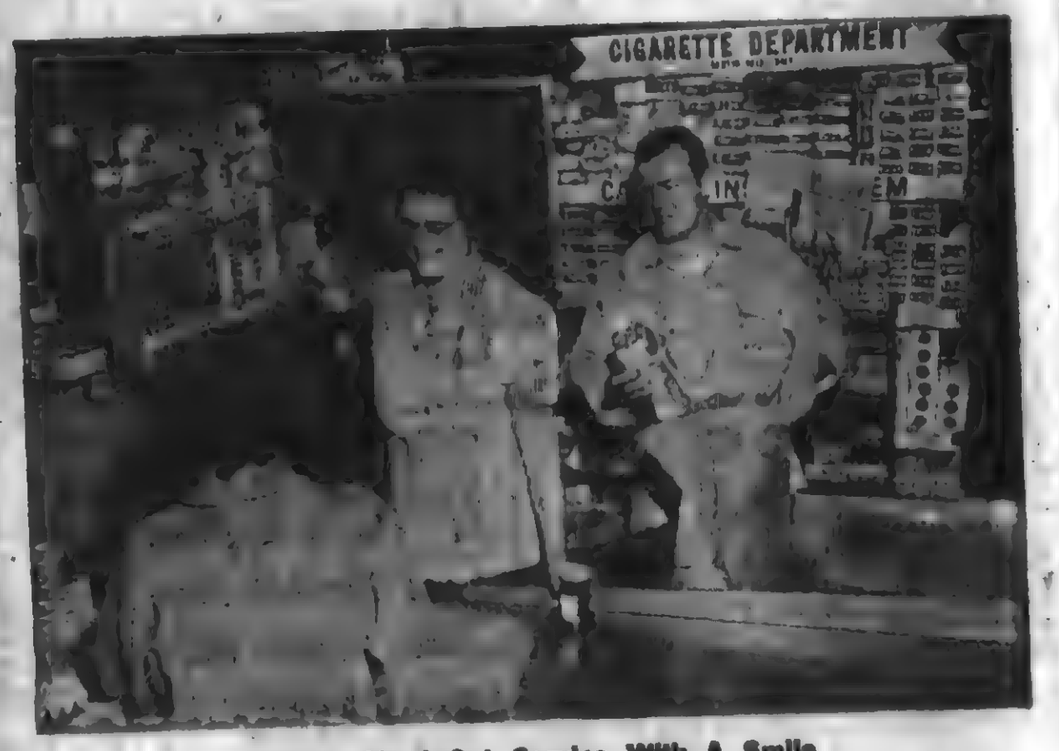
When your Mr. Dodpelder reminded us today that we had completed another year's contract for display advertising in the Rural Urban News, I felt it was appropriate that we express our appreciation to your organization for the fine service we have had from your sales representative in this area and also say thanks for the good job your paper is doing.

When we started this campaign in your paper we had hoped it would draw business to our store from several miles around. It has done just that and we have been highly pleased with our week to week increases.

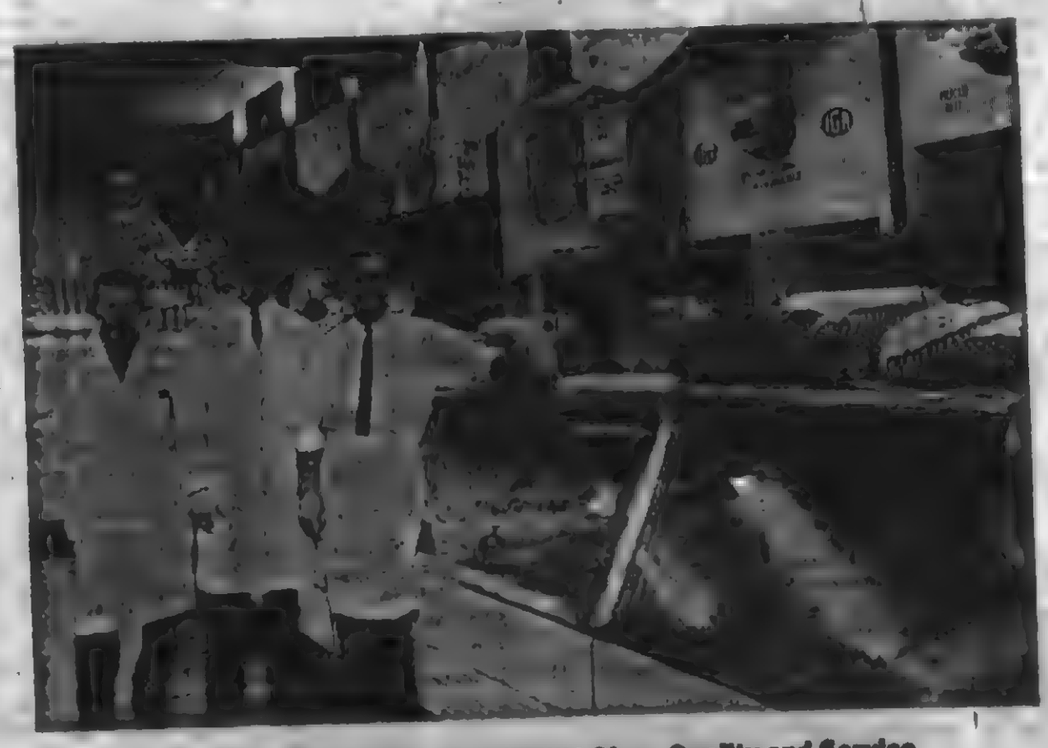


Today we are enjoying a new high in business in our Ashville IGA Store and attribute our success in a large degree to our regular weekly ad in the Rural Urban News.

Again, thanks for this fine service and for the good job you are doing in carrying the news of the wide area served by your newspaper.



Very truly yours,
John E. Little, Manager



An outstanding feature in each w e e k l y issue of the Southeast Rural-Urban News is the l a r g e ad of Ashville IGA. Consistent use of this paper has been a real business builder for this fine store.

John Little, Mgr.

Speedy Check-Out Service With A Smile

A Well Stocked Meat Department Gives Quality and Service

The above is a typical "Success Story" from a satisfied Hartley Newspapers customer. The advertising of Ashville IGA has been successful as a result of:

1. A good store has good merchandise being sold at enticing prices.
2. Their advertising message has always been large enough to attract attention.
3. Their ad copy has been appealing and well laid out.
4. Their message has appeared regularly each week in the South East Rural-Urban News, a good suburban newspaper.

All Seven of the Hartley Suburban Newspapers are tailored to the needs and interests of their communities.

A reader survey shows that 68% of the homes receiving these papers retain them for as many as five to six days. Another 23.6% keep the paper in the home a full week, until the next issue arrives.

This staying power of Hartley Newspapers is the equivalent of five days insertions in a daily paper.

Further details regarding the use of Hartley Newspapers may be had by calling the Display Advertising Department, BR. 4-1155 or dropping a note to Hartley Newspapers, 2465 W. Broad St., Columbus 4, Ohio.

CHOOSING SIDES

"Choose you this day whom ye will serve: but as for me and my house, we will serve the Lord." Joshua 24:15.

Children choose sides for a game; we choose someone to serve in this world. But rather than have it be a choosing by chance, ours shall be a definite, thought out, choice. We can choose God "this day" by attending Church on Sunday. As our Lord said in Matthew 4:10, "Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and Him only shalt thou serve." Let us worship and serve Him through His appointed agency, the Church.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and all He demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which shows will set him free to live as a child of God.

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH ... THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE

Lime is useful for correcting an acid soil in the garden. However, the addition of lime when it is not needed is just as serious a handicap to vegetables as the lack of lime when needed.

'Ailing' TV Sets Now Delivered By Ambulance To Dan Fisher's Repair Center

"We use it as an ambulance to bring in sick TV sets," said Dan Fisher, owner and operator of Dan Fisher's TV Repair, 4923 W. Broad-st, as he commented on his newly acquired 1951 Cadillac hearse and ambulance.

"At first," he continued, "it was just a publicity stunt or gimmick. I've always wanted a fire engine and my service manager, Jerry Morehouse, wanted a hearse. We talked it over and decided the hearse might be a little cheaper so we bought one."

Since that time, according to Fisher, the gimmick has proved its worth many times over. Not only has it brought many comments and become a publicity asset, but it has also become a valuable tool for an expanding TV repair center's free pickups and delivery service.

"For instance," Fisher said, "we used to tie all the TV sets we were delivering to the bed of our service truck. And even then the ride was so rough our serviceman had to adjust the set after it had been delivered to the customer. This usually takes about 20 minutes of a serviceman's time.

"By using the ambulance and getting such a smooth ride, it now only takes about five minutes for adjustments after delivery."

Fisher added, "Another nice thing about our ambulance is the heater in the rear, which keeps the sets warm on a cold day and prevents any moisture from condensing inside the electrical parts and receiver."

According to Fisher the savings in time is well worth the added cost of driving the big funeral car.

And so what started out as something to paint a sign on has turned out to be a real money saver and maker.

"Our big problem now," said the TV store owner, "is settling the arguments among the servicemen concerning who will get to use the new service car. One way of solving that problem is to buy another ambulance, and we plan to do just that," he said.

A PATIENT for Dan Fisher's "Television Hospital" is removed from the ambulance that Fisher organization now uses for service calls to customers' homes. Fisher first bought the ambulance for a publicity stunt, but says it's proved its worth many times over its cost. Removing "sick" TV from ambulance is Fisher, right, and service manager Jerry Morehouse, 500 Gates-st. Morehouse had just arrived with the ailing set.

NAMES THE MONKEYS

U. S. Licenses Vaccine To Halt Measles

A shipment of more than 7,000 doses of a new vaccine, designed to eliminate measles as a disease affecting the nation's children has been delivered to Columbus and is now available to area physicians.

Merck, Sharp and Dohme, one of two drug firms licensed by the government to distribute the live-virus vaccine, received the shipment from their laboratory on Saturday.

Jack Price, spokesman for the drug firm, said the vaccine is being distributed to local doctors as fast as the orders come to his office and more can be obtained as the need arises. He added that the cost to patients will be set by each individual physician.

U.S. Surgeon General Luther Terry, after announcing the release of the new measles preventative to the public, said he thought the disease could be eliminated within two years if the vaccine were were used effectively.

The vaccine distributed by Merck, Sharp and Dohme is made from a weakened form of wild measles and requires only one shot for lifetime protection. A second type is distributed by Charles Pfizer and Co. and requires three doses administered a month apart.

The vaccines are currently being distributed throughout the country by the two drug firms.

Jack Brown On Anderson Staff

Ralph H. Anderson, president of the Anderson Concrete Corp., has announced the appointment of John K. (Jack) Brown to the sales department of his company, effective Monday, Apr. 1.

Brown is a graduate of Muskingum College and has been associated with the Columbia Cement Corp. Sales Division as a district and regional sales manager.

He was president of the Columbus Builders Exchange in 1962 and is affiliated with the Engineers Club, Columbus Chamber of Commerce, the Athletic Club and the Columbus Sales Executive Club.

A BRIDAL BOUQUET

THE CORRECT WAY to hold a bridal bouquet is demonstrated by Hilltop Florist Earl Garrison for Barbara Foley, mistress of ceremonies for "Brides Night" at the Gladys Lee Bridal Salon, Graceland Shopping Center, Wednesday, Mar. 20. More than 200 brides and their mothers turned out to see the latest in bridal fashions and enjoy a bridal reception, complete with punch, wedding cake and ice cream. Garrison's store, 48 N. Powell-av, specializes in bridal flowers and arrangements.

Named Packing Group President

William W. Tinapple, packaging engineer at the Westinghouse Electric Corp major appliance plant on W. Broad-st, was installed as president of the Central Ohio Chapter of the Society of Packing and handling Engineers at Ilonka's, Mar. 25.

The occasion was the annual president's homecoming and ladies' night.

A native of Columbus, the new president has been with the Westinghouse Corp. for the last 10 years. Tinapple and his family live at [illegible] Fisher-rd.

Glenwood Intermediate Five Finishes Second In Festival

The Hilltop YMCA's representative to the Ohio-West Virginia Sports Festival this year was the Glenwood Methodist Intermediate quad. This was the second year in a row that Glenwood won the Southwest District Basketball Tournament, which entitled them to become semi-finalist in the area play-offs.

Last year Glenwood was taken in their first semi-final game. Saturday the Hilltop quintet was matched against the Cleveland Cedar Branch YMCA representative team, the Mt. Zion Baptist Church.

THE HALF TIME score was 27-18 in favor of Mt. Zion. Midway through the third quarter, Glenwood dropped behind by 15. As the third quarter came to a close Glenwood started a come back.

Throughout the fourth and final quarter the local quintet slowly diminished the deficit until they tied the score in the final three minutes. In the last 40 seconds of play Glenwood gained a four-point lead and Mt. Zion couldn't come back.

The final score was 49-45, and Glenwood was in the finals against the Portsmouth YMCA representative team, the Salvation Army squad.

IN THE championship game Saturday afternoon, Glenwood trailed 11-8 after one quarter. At the half, after trailing by as much as 10 in the second quarter, the Hilltop entry pulled within four points 21-17. The second half, however, saw Glenwood drop behind by a wider margin, finally losing, 50-35.

Sunshine Recreation Center

GENERAL ACTIVITIES
ZOO TIME

Hey kids, only 10 more days until the zoo parade at Sunshine Recreation Center on Apr. 5 at 4 p.m. in the auditorium. A zoo director will give a talk on the various animals at the zoo. There will also be a film and some live animals shown during the program.

TEEN CLUB

There will be an urgent meeting of all members of the Teen Club this Thursday at 6:30 p.m. Final plans will be made at this time for the open house program.

MOVIE

The movie this Thursday at 4 p.m. will be "Little Fugitive" and a cartoon.

ARTS AND CRAFTS

This week paper mache puppets were made by many children in the arts and crafts room. Carletta Allen, Victor Giammarco, Suellen Fout and Debbie Noel all did a good job on this. Also, the ceramics class on Saturday morning has been making progress, with many boys and girls working on animals. Wayne Murry made a giraffe, Doris Johnson a hippopotamus, and Janis Bragg a dinosaur. Here is our schedule for the week:

Thursday, Mar. 28, 3:30-5:30 p.m., preteen painting; 6:30-7:30 p.m., preteen sewing.

Friday, Mar. 29, 3:30-5:30 p.m., preteen paper mache.

Saturday, Mar. 30, 9:30-11:30 a.m., preteen [illegible]

Monday, Apr. 1, 3:30-5:30 p.m., preteen painting; 5:30-6 p.m., preteen piano lessons; 7:30-9:30 p.m., teen ceramics.

Tuesday, Apr. 2, 3:30-5:30 p.m., preteen folk dancing; 6:30-7:30 p.m., preteen sewing.

Wednesday, Apr. 3, 3:30-5:30 p.m., preteen paper craft.

BOXING NEWS

Sunshine's boxing room is open daily from 6 to 7 p.m. for preteen boys who are interested in receiving boxing instruction. Teen boys may work out daily from 7 to 10 p.m. Al George, Sunshine's boxing coach, reports that the boys are tuning up for the exhibition matches, which will be held Apr. 3 during Sunshine's Open House Week.

Those participating are as follows:

Sunshine Vs. Thompson

130 lb. — Frank Wolfe vs. Jim Austin.

200 lb. — Hans Dorn vs. Ed Barnes.

Attention preteen boys! A breezeball league is being formed at Sunshine for preteen boys (ages eight to 12). The various teams will play every Tuesday from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. Breezeball is similar to softball; it is played with a plastic bat and ball, although some of the rules are different from softball rules. It's an exciting, fast-moving, challenging game which is a lot of fun.

A junior soccer team has been formed for Sunshine boys. There is still room for interested boys who would like to play on this team. Coaches and players from the Germania Soccer Club are instructing and working with the boys. This is indeed a wonderful opportunity for all boys to learn to play this sport.

Any boy interested in either soccer or breezeball, see Bill Olt for further information.

Tumbling And Trampoline

Now that basketball and the Saturday Morning Boys Recreation Program has come to a close, the trampoline program can return to normal. Preteen and teen girls can participate on Wednesday afternoon and evening, respectively. Teen boys can participate on Friday night and preteen boys on Saturday morning.

Competition Gets Tougher At CBS Track

Sunny skies and mild temperatures assured a full card of events Sunday at the CBS Speedway as a number of area drivers got the checkered flag.

Top winner was Cletus Kuhns, Jr., of Circleville, who won three in a row to halt Columbus' Jack Humphrey's track dominance. Humphrey's racer was sidelined with minor mechanical difficulties.

A LARGE NUMBER of new drivers are competing at the CBS track and officials report that competition is at its peak. There weren't enough midgets last Sunday to schedule heats but, weather permitting, the pint-sized cars will have another go at it Sunday when racing gets underway at 2 p.m.

Other local winners were: Norman Holly, Ashville; Cletus Kuhns, Jr. and Sr., Circleville; Jack Goodwill and Larry Weisenstein of Reynoldsburg; B. Linley, Grove City; Tom Frazier, Obetz, and Don Blanck, Canal Winchester.

News 'n' Notes of Camp Fire Girls

The Tom Ki Wa Ya Jr. Hi group, accompanied by their leaders and sponsors went to the Nationwide Inn for a buffet supper. Those attending were Lorraine Brandt, Vicki Boggs, Susan Fleming, Pam Sherlock, Debbie Sherlock, Becky Triplett, Kathy Amore, Jill Snyder, Kathy Ripley, Jackie Dumm, Jerri Harrison, Mrs. Brandt, Mrs. Snyder, Mrs. Boggs and Mrs. Fleming.

The altar flowers at Bethlehem Lutheran Church Sunday, Mar. 17, were presented by the Tom Ki Wa Ya, Wat Da Ka Na, and Deer Camp Fire groups. They also furnished the bulletins for the morning service. In honor of Camp Fire birthday week, the members of these three groups attended morning service, accompanied by Mrs. Ross Brandt, Mrs. Jack Snyder, Mrs. Hazel Jenny and Mrs. Norman Daly.

Marsha Gladden reports the Wa Zu Nah Ki Camp Fire group participated in the flag raising ceremony at the February Youth Symphony Concert. Accompanied by Mrs. Riner and Mrs. Schults, the girls recently attended a smorgasbord dinner at Nation wide Inn. They are also currently taking a seven week first aid course.

Newly elected officers are Sue Schneider, president; Marsha Gladden, vice-president; Suesanna Schults, secretary; and Paula Kartsimas, treasurer. Karla Marlow will serve as chaplain and Marsha Gladden will report the news. Members of the Wa Zu Nah Ki group are Sue Schneider, Paula Kartsimas, Karla Marlow, Chris Riner, Judy Reiser, Suesanna Schults, and Marsha Gladden. Guardians of this group are Mrs. Robert Gladden and Mrs. Robert Schneider.

Members of the O Ki May Camp Fire group were guests on WTVN's Fun Fair program, Mar. 12. Each girl had an item of interest to share with the program's host, Chuck Nuzum. Members of this group are Barbara Biggers, Christine Crawford, Peggy Jaynes, Cindy Norris, Cathie Partridge, Cyndy Smith, Brenda Tingley, Kathy Watts, Kathy Wire and Elinda Wood. Guardian is Mrs. Phyllis Jaynes.

Mrs. Joanne Clinger and Mrs. Jack Congrove accompanied a group of Camp Fire Girls to Burgess Avenue EUB Church Sunday, Mar. 17. The girls were given special recognition in honor of Camp Fire birthday week. Girls who attended were Kathy Clinger, Karen Clinger, Sharon Congrove, Linda Congrove, Pam Gary, Corinne Gibson, Dixie Triplett, Sue Thorne, Debbie Ward, Mary Phillips, Patty Carmean, Beverly Barklow, Bonita Fee, Mary Truelove, Candy Hauser and Kitty Stilwell.

Day Camp Chairman Mrs. Joanne Clinger reports a total of 32 adults and 53 girls have signed as volunteers for Day Camp this year. Many counselors are needed and anyone interested may call Joanne Clinger at BR. 9-0826.

There will be an outdoor training session at Darby Creek Metropolitan Park on Saturday, Apr. 20, from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

Alice Ehman reports the Matanda Jr. High group is taking bowling lessons at Lincoln Lanes. This group recently completed cooking lessons at the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Company. A tea was given for their mothers and a surprise party for Mrs. Vonins, assistant guardian, on her birthday.

Members of the Ga Kee Ci Ne Wa group, the Ko Da Ki Wa group, the Tom Wa Ki Ya and Shu Na Ka groups were guests of the Matanda girls for a birthday celebration rehearsal. Mrs. Phyllis Herbert surprised the 42 girls with refreshments. Dorrie Beth Jinks entertained to everyone's delight.

WELCOME WAGON

WELL MADE and attractive was the clothing on display at the Lincoln Park Family Center open house. Mrs. Daisy Thompson carefully looks over a dress. The mother-daughter frocks shown were made from 80-cents-a-yard material.

Homemakers Flock To Learn How They Can Save Pennies

Though a ready-mix yellow cake can be purchased for 89 cents, the same cake can be made using surplus commodities for only four pennies.

A stuffed doll can't be touched for less than a dollar, but every child that walked by the toy display at the Family Living Center Open House at Lincoln Park last week was fascinated by a floppy doll made of old nylon hose and a few buttons.

Displayed was a child's coat, warm and attractive, that had been made from a woman's cast-off suit.

More than 150 homemakers interested in better and more economical ways to manage their homes and serve their families attended the Open House which was an introduction to the courses that opened Monday and Tuesday.

"Stretching the Dollar" began Monday and involves all phases of food preparation from careful buying to new and interesting menus.

"Making and Re-Making Clothing" which opened Tuesday will demonstrate not only how to handle the clothing problems of a growing family, but how to add to the charm of the home with home-made drapes and slipcovers.

Mrs. Lois Oliver Sigler, coordinator of the pilot program, the first in Ohio, is delighted with the interest shown and persons had enrolled for either or the other of the classes before the day was over.

The courses are the result of the joint efforts of the Vocational Home Economics section of the State Department of Education, the Columbus Public Schools, and the Columbus Metropolitan Housing Authority.

Folk Dancers Hold Course

The Columbus Folk Dancers will hold a ten-week intermediate course in folk dancing beginning next Tuesday, Apr. 2, at Whetstone Recreation Center. The course will feature dances from many lands and is open to anyone who has attended a beginning folk dance class or who has had some previous dancing experience. The sessions will begin at 8 p.m.

Cost is $3 per person. This is a fine opportunity to learn more about folk dancing or to brush up on styling or steps. It is not necessary to come as a couple.

Parenthood Group Reports Finances

Vittorio Cuniberti, campaign chairman for the 1963 Fund Raising Campaign for Planned Parenthood, announced that $21,214.17 has been received. "The results thus far are very encouraging," Cuniberti stated, "but we are far from having reached our 1963 goal of $60,000."

This is the amount needed by the center in order to continue meeting the increased demand for service.

Mrs. Rodney Hardy, president of the organization, announced that at a recent meeting of the board of trustees it was voted unanimously to re-apply for financial affiliation in the United Community Council in 1964.

In its letter of application the board called upon the council to recognize the increasing demand for services that this agency is meeting. It was pointed out that the clinic admitted 1,762 new patients and over 13,000 visits were made by new and returning patients during 1962.

In folklore, bees were created for the purpose of providing pure wax for church tapers.

Boy Scout News

JIM RENSHAW

Gary Moore, Mike Broome, Larry Keen, Delbert Smith, Gary Hoffman, Bill Kasdorf, Ronnie Nighbert, Mike Murphy, Mr. McGill, Mr. Bennett, and Mr. Smith.

TRAINING COURSE

Don't forget the junior leaders training course, Mar. 29, 30 and 31. The starting time will be 7:30 at Camp Lazarus.

Scouts Sponsor Chicken Dinner

Boy Scout Troop 297 of Columbus Aerie 297, Fraternal Order of Eagles, 771 N. High-st, is sponsoring a fried half chicken dinner Sunday March 31, from 3 to 8 p.m.

This dinner is open to all Eagles and their families only.

Youth Available For Employment

The Youth Employment Service, a service to in-school youngsters, age 14 through 18, is now being operated as a project of the local Ohio State Employment Service, 309 S. Fourth-st.

Originally sponsored by the downtown Sertoma Club, YES has accounted for some 3,000 placements of young workers in part-time and odd-job employment during the past three years.

Ralph E. Gabele, Columbus area manager of OSES, states that youths desiring part-time employment while in school or during the summer months will be registered through the YES. There is no charge. Registrations will be taken until 5 p.m., Mondays through Fridays, at 309 S. Fourth-st.

Employers, including housewives and home owners, who desire to secure young workers, are asked to contact the OSES Youth Employment Service at 228-2981.

TO BUILD GARAGE

THIS REPOSSESSED 1959 Chevrolet was used as the get-away car by an armed gunman who attempted a holdup of Modern Finance Co., 2500 W. Broad-st, early Monday afternoon. It crashed into a ditch at Wilson-rd and W. Broad-st following a chase by police.

BEVERLY MILLER (back to camera) of West Jefferson, one of the three hostages of an armed gunman, is tearfully reunited with her sister-in-law, Nancy Miller, also of West Jefferson, following the robbery.

AFTER ABANDONING the get-away car, the Modern Finance Co. stickup man ran to this late-model Ford of a passer-by in efforts to elude Columbus police officers. Note bullet-riddled back windshield. The gunman was finally seized from this auto. — (Hartley Groom Photos).

Hostage Trio Numb With Fear In Ride

By JOHN AUBLE, JR.

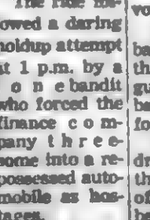
"Get going and keep going" was the order that launched a weaving, high-speed ride under gunpoint by a trio of shocked and numbed workers at Modern Finance Co., 2500 W. Broad-st, Monday.

Before the afternoon was over, another Hilltop family became involved in the incident, looked back on now by participants as "a bad dream."

Beverly

The ride followed a daring holdup attempt at 1 p.m. by a lone bandit who forced the finance company threesome into a repossessed automobile as hostages.

The gunman, being held at City Prison pending investigation of armed robbery and possible involvement in other loan company stickups in Columbus, was identified by police as Patrick Lee Appollonio, 20, of 757 Bryden-rd.



Lt. Francis Smith, head of the robbery squad, said Appollonio admitted five recent holdups of loan companies, including:

Reliance Finance Co., 587 Wedgewood-dr, Mar. 11; Service Finance Co., 34 W. Gay-st, Mar. 25; Economy Loan Co., 83 S. High-st, Mar. 26; Guardian Loan Co., 2177 Livingston-av, Mar. 30, and Monday's attempted robbery. The spree totaled upwards of $1800.

Still outwardly shaken from the brief but dangerous journey which finally ended at Wilson-rd and W. Broad-st, the trio talked about their adventure. They identified themselves as:

Beverly Miller, 1659 Garden-rd; Larry H. Falin, 67 S. Ogden-av, and the firm's manager, John E. Hawkins, 1387 Fullen-rd. A second worker in the store at the time was Nancy Miller, 20, also of 1659 Garden-rd, and sister-in-law to the female hostage.

This is their story and how they lived it that sunshiny Apr. 1 afternoon:

Hawkins

The bandit entered the store and flashed a revolver. "This is a holdup," he said. "Give me all your money." He was dressed neatly in a gray gabardine suit and wore a handkerchief over his mouth, trying to disguise his voice.

Nancy was working in the back room while the other three were in the front. The gunman herded the trio to the back of the store and reached for the money drawer.

He stuffed a "couple of hundred" in bills into a bag. Just then, the telephone rang. The office workers stiffened. The bandit screamed at Falin to answer the phone. It was one of Modern's clients in Lochbourne, O.

"Talk loud so that I can hear you," the bandit said. Falin raised his voice and tried to chat calmly with the caller about his account. The bandit glanced away and Falin whispered, "We're being robbed . . . please call the police."

Several other times in the brief five or 10-minute period the phones rang. Each time Falin was ordered to answer them and each time he whispered his desperate message about the in-progress robbery.

After hanging up the third

'Must've Lost His Mind . . .' Mother Sobs

With tears running down her cheeks, 46-year-old Marie Appollonio sat at the Columbus Police Station Monday afternoon trying, in her own mind, to discover why her 20-year-old son, Patrick Lee, had staged a daring armed robbery earlier that day.

Police were holding the man at City Prison pending investigation of armed robbery and a possible connection between the holdup attempt of Modern Finance Co., 2500 W. Broad-st, and other loan company burglaries throughout the city.

"Why can't I see my boy?" she pleaded with police officials. "He's never been in trouble before . . . why can't I see him?"

Mrs. Appollonio, 4426

What This City Needs Is . . .

Last week we editorialized on the fact that recommendations of a volunteer group of laymen with regard to the city water needs was ignored and the city will end up paying a lot of money for a worthless survey.

Columbus is blessed with groups of men and women who are willing to work in a volunteer capacity to conduct drives, make surveys, etc. The city government has availed itself of the use of many such people in various boards such as the traffic commission, the recreation council, etc. We have the Development Committee for Greater Columbus which has

Last Week For Entering Ham Contest

This is the last opportunity to enter the contest for the free Easter hams being given away by Hartley Newspapers and the merchants in your neighborhood. If you've already filled in your coupons and deposited them in the proper business places, then this is your last opportunity to complete the enclosed coupons and take advantage of as many chances as possible.

Next week's edition of this paper will contain the names of people in your area who have won a free Swift's Premium fully cooked ham.

There is nothing to buy to be eligible to enter the contest. Just fill in the coupons found on a full-page ad in this paper and deposit them in the place of business of the merchant sponsoring that particular coupon. Everyone reading this paper who is 16 years or older is eligible.

You do not have to be present for the drawings, Monday, Apr. 8, to win your ham. Just submit as many coupons as possible prior to the day of the drawing. Sponsoring merchants have additional coupons in the event you have a friend or relative who would like to join in the fun.

$1 MILLION DISCOUNT CENTER UNDER WAY ON W. BROAD-ST

Ground has been broken and construction is under way for what has been described as a more than one million dollar Whitehall Discount Center on the West Side of Columbus. Present plans call for the opening of the new center this summer, possibly by July.

A spokesman for the Pic-N-Pay Supermarkets, Inc., of Cleveland, owners of the Whitehall Discount Center, said the new construction, located immediately west of the Everglades Restaurant on the north side of W. Broad-st, will cover nearly eight acres. On this plot will be a complete shopping center, containing 90,000 square feet of floor space under one roof and a parking lot to accommodate 600 automobiles.

Included in the new center will be departments containing ladies' and children's wear, men's and boys' wear, snack bar, dry cleaner, shoe department, houseware, auto supplies, sporting goods and a complete super market featuring meats, produce and groceries.

The spokesman stated the new store will be much like the Whitehall Discount Center, already operating on E. Main-st. A similar shopping center will open simultaneously with the West area center on Hudson-av near 17th-av.

Land for the new development was purchased last winter according to the spokesman. Design was completed by Green and Associates, and construction is being done by Joseph Newman, Inc. of Cleveland.

An estimated 200 to 250 persons will be employed by the establishment after it has

Federal Aid Needed For Wilson-rd Job

Although construction of the proposed Wilson-rd highway extension apparently depends on federal aid, Columbus has already authorized expenditures totaling $27,000 for which there can be no federal participation.

The necessity for federal participation was expressed Tuesday by Columbus Service Director Ernest Stork and Robert Koerner, Franklin County engineer of construction. Both agreed that building the road depends on its acceptance as part of the Federal Aid Secondary Highway System. In this way it would be financed by 50 per cent federal funds. The rest of the cost would be shared by the city and county.

Although federal participation could affect all costs, from preliminary engineering to actual construction, such will not be the case with the proposed Wilson-rd project. According to a BPR spokesman, any money expended prior to concurrence by the federal agency is not reimbursable.

This would affect the $27,000 authorized by Columbus City Council in two 1962 ordinances for preliminary engineering and preparation of construction and right-of-way plans.

The same ruling would hold true for the $32,100 authorized Monday by Council for soil borings and purchase of right-of-way if these funds are expended prior to BPR

HBA Inquiry Reveals Plans For Fisher-rd

County plans for improvement of Fisher-rd between Route 33 and McKinley-av were revealed in an exchange of letters between the Hilltop Business Association and County Engineer Guy Elbin's office, urging progress on the Wilson-rd extension.

In a letter dated Mar. 26, R. F. Koerner, Franklin County engineer of construction, reported that a survey was instituted by the county to determine a proposed line for the improvement.

Koerner reported that the county plans were turned over to Columbus city officials following annexation to the city of the area between Route 33 and Olentangy River. He said it was his "understanding that Mr. Stork, Service Director, City of Columbus, is negotiating for the purchase of this property from the American Aggregates Corporation."

Boy Of The Year Honored At Banquet

BOY OF THE YEAR Donald R. (Butch) Weaver poses with Boys' Club President Floyd E. Gooding.

The first day of National Boys' Club Week was observed Monday in the Columbus area with the naming of the Boy of the Year at the 14th annual Awards Banquet of the West Side unit of the Boys' Club of Columbus in the Deshler-Hilton Hotel.

Named to the honor was 16-year-old Donald R. (Butch) Weaver, son of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Weaver, 628 W. State-st.

The youth accepted the honor from the Boys' Club president, Floyd E. Gooding, who praised the efforts, sportsmanship and willingness shown by Weaver during his association with the group. He was also cited for outstanding leadership by members of the Boys' Club staff.

Gooding added that "Butch" had followed in the footsteps

Those Who 'Hoof It' Getting Better Breaks At Westgate

There's a move on foot to make things safer for pedestrians near Westgate Recreation Center.

Mayor Westlake, finding that no sidewalk was included in the contracts for the new center which is to be finished May 1, is trying to find the ways and means of building one.

He has asked his aide, George Smith, to get cost estimates from the city engineering office and ask the finance director if funds for a walk are available.

The need for a walk along the west side of Westgate-av from Wicklow to Parkside, was pointed out by a Hilltop spokesman, John Holzapfel. Heavy mud this spring has made the area especially hazardous for school children.

Meanwhile, traffic hazards facing school children at the other end of Westgate Park has prompted Westgate School Principal Norma Grener and the PTA to ask the city for help. The Traffic Commission last week looked at climbing accident figures for the Demorest-av-Wicklow-rd intersection and decided to ask that the speed limit be lowered to 25 on both roads. Suggestions to put up a traffic light or reverse the stop signs were turned down.

The commission recommended that the school assign a school boy patrol at the corner and insist that youngsters now using Palmetto should use the patrolled spot. The traffic engineer promised to paint crosswalk areas if the patrol is used.

JUST FOLLOW RULES

Vets Say Can Stop Rabies

With the discovery Monday of a sixth rabid skunk in Franklin County since the first of the year, an appeal asking that all families take proper precautions against exposure to the deadly disease has been issued to the public by the Columbus Academy of Veterinary Medicine.

According to Dr. George A. Kukor, president of the Academy, there are several things individuals can do to help prevent the spread of the disease.

Here are his suggestions:

DO obey the county-wide quarantine on dogs. Keep the family pet at home or on a leash at all times. Have dogs and cats vaccinated against rabies, since they are the most likely means to spread rabies to humans.

DO destroy any skunks and other suspicious wildlife found in rural areas. Call the police and health officials in town; they will handle the matter.

DO report all dog bite cases to the police and health officials. Try to indentify the dog and take it to a veterinarian to be examined.

DON'T handle or pet stray dogs. Parents should warn their children to avoid contact with any strange dogs while going to and from school.

DON'T handle any wildlife that acts friendly; this sort of behavior change in a wild animal can indicate the presence of rabies.

At the present time, Franklin County has the second highest number of rabies cases reported in the state, with six skunks and two cattle reported as confirmed cases since Jan. 1.

Ohio is second only to Texas in rabies incidence among those states reporting, accord-time, a Columbus police officer (who, according to Capt. Herm Beck of the detective squad, was heading downtown on W. Broad-st with another criminal) saw the action and ran to the doorway.

He knelt down quickly and fired a shot at the ceiling.

"Get out of here," the gunman shouted in a nervous, high-pitched voice. "Get out or I'll kill 'em." At that he spun around and said, "I want a girl to go with me." He looked at Nancy but grabbed Beverly by the arm. "C'mon," he said and headed for the back door, still holding the revolver but pulling the handkerchief from his face.

"I've got one," Hawkins said quickly. "It's out back and ready to go."

"All right . . . all three of you come," the bandit said, handing the money bag to Falin and cramming the girl into the back seat of a 1959 Chevrolet.

He got in back with Beverly, ordered Falin in the front and told Hawkins to drive.

"Get going," the bandit said . . . nervous and shaky but this time he kept a lookout through the back window for policemen.

Hawkins stomped down on the accelerator.

The gunman ordered him north on N. Terrace-av and then west on Grace-st. "Keep going . . . keep going," the bandit said over and over. "I'm looking for an empty garage to dump this car."

The speedometer read 70 and then 75 and then 80 miles per hour. Grace deadends into Oral-av and there they headed south for W. Broad-st—ignoring stop signs up to this point but slowing down for a red light at Oral and W. Broad-st.

The gunman told Hawkins to drive through the service station there to avoid the light. Columbus police were approaching rapidly

At the underpass on W. Broad-st, the gunman tried to fire at the police. His gun was an old one . . . even rusty. It clicked twice but wouldn't fire.

The chase continued with the bandit hollering "faster . . . faster" all the way.

At Wilson-rd, Hawkins (with tires shot by police bullets) swerved to miss three pedestrians. He ended up in a ditch. The right front door—on Falin's side—was jammed against the sod. The gunman grabbed the pretty, blue-eyed blond office worker and leaped out of the Chevrolet.

Police officers — including sheriff's deputies and the Ohio State Patrol — were swarming on the scene. Police officials had ordered a 1959 Ford, owned by Alex Marcum, 582 Dyer-ln, over to the side. The gunman spotted the car and ran to it, dragging Beverly.

He pulled Marcum from the front seat who was with his 30-year-old wife, Laurabell, and their seven-month-old daughter, Melinda Kay. Alex fell to the street.

The bandit pushed his female hostage into the back seat with himself while Mrs. Marcum fell to the floor over the top of her baby.

Bullets started to fly.

Police first shot out Marcum's car tires, thinking that the bandit might try a getaway. They then fired at the windshield. They hit the bandit in the arm.

Mrs. Marcum was treated at Mt. Carmel Hospital for a right leg laceration from shattered glass and released. The baby and Beverly were unhurt.

Police apprehended the gunman and rushed him to Mt. Carmel for treatment and then on to city prison.

Back at the loan office, Beverly was tearfully reunited with her grief-stricken sister-in-law. Nancy is pregnant and, because of her shocked condition, was taken to a doctor for observation.

According to Capt. Beck, the man "may be connected" with a series of other robberies of loan companies. He was to receive a "showing" in the police line-up this week for identification.

"We're pretty positive there's a tie-in from the general description from the other holdup victims," Beck said.

turned in a stellar performance and likewise Citizens Research, Chamber of Commerce and the Metropolitan Committee all have their places and do a good job.

Now . . . how about a citizens group interested in seeing that more of these various recommendations get into the action stage? This would require that these same people take it on themselves to stand not only for a program but for candidates for office who will back up such programs.

There is a real opportunity for service here if the leadership for such a group can be forthcoming. Better qualified individuals will be willing to become candidates if they can have the feeling that they can have such backing.

It all comes down to one thing . . . we need business men and women and individuals with the fortitude to stand up and be counted and speak up in behalf of qualified men for our public offices.

Maize-rd, reflected over her son's life and concluded that "he must've lost his mind all at once . . . he's probably sitting there right now not knowing what he did."

Patrick has been under a psychiatrist's care as of late. His mother said he had been taking eight Librium (tranquilizers) a day and had left home Jan. 17 for his one-room apartment on Bryden-rd at the order of doctors.

"I've been sick myself," the graying woman sobbed. "This was a nervous strain on Pat . . . they thought it better if he left home for a while."

She continued, still choking down tears:

"He never drank or never smoked . . . he's always been a clean, neat boy . . . he was an "A" student at North High and had taken three courses at Columbus Business University.

"He was so proud of his musical talents . . . he played a clarinet in the North High band . . . he liked to dance and to date. He had a steady girl . . . wonder what she'll think now? I wonder what the neighbors will think?"

According to Mrs. Appollonio, Patrick had never been in trouble with the police before. "He never even played with guns as a kid . . . I just don't understand it . . . we went without to give Patrick things. He was a good boy."

Patrick was employed in the office of Commercial Motor Freight. He reportedly worked on a previous job "with a lot of pressures." Mrs. Appollonio stated that she had noticed "changes in Patrick" she could not explain . . . Just small things, like noticing a button off my coat and telling me about it . . . but it was things he never did before. I could spot them right away."

He was under tranquilizers since January. In Mrs. Appollonio's neat Maize-rd home ("we built it ourselves," she said, "Patrick, his father, and I") was the number of the Medical Bureau posted on the bulletin board.

"We left it there for him to call today," she said. Evidently Patrick's father was working in Chicago as a truck driver at the time of the incident.

Patrick had supposedly called his mother last Wednesday and asked her to go to dinner with him. Mrs. Appollonio said she had a headache and asked for a "rain check."

"I wish I would've gone now," she said. "Maybe I could've helped."

She also said that Patrick had phoned her the last week and said that he was taking 12 tranquilizers, that they weren't "holding him" and that he needed help.

Mrs. Appollonio said she called a psychiatrist and heard no more about it.

"How can you figure it," she asked herself. "He must've just flipped today . . . that's all. He must've just lost his mind . . ."

Somewhere in 21 different copies of Hartley Newspapers this week are hidden 20 insignias with the number "1", like the one shown in this column but in a color other than black, and one insignia containing the number "5."

By sending the entire page, including an ad with the insignia containing a "1," to Hartley Newspapers, 2465 W. Broad-st, a reader can win one "Confederate" dollar. An insignia containing the num- "5" is worth five "Confederate" dollars to the reader. If the readers, with the "5" is a paid subscriber to a Hartley Newspaper the insignia is worth the entire jackpot. The "5" insignia must be brought to the Newspaper office in person. Money not claimed each week is added to the next week's jackpot.

Employes of Hartley Newspapers, their families, carriers and their families are not eligible to participate in this contest.

Winners of "Confederate" Cash from Hartley Newspapers will find the old currency has become as good as gold if taken to an advertiser in a Hartley paper during the week the money is spent.

Hartley Newspapers guarantee the advertiser will receive the full amount of Hartley "Confederate" Money redeemed in his place of business.

Mrs. Suzanne Glitch, a South Side Leader subscriber, 1686 Linscomb-dr, was the first to discover a lucky "1" insignia in her paper and bring it to the newspaper office.

Others have won "Confederate" cash and so can you. No contest to enter, nothing to buy, nothing to write. Just watch this and future papers for the winning insignia, always in a color other than black, printed in one of the advertisements. It could be worth $45 this week, for a "5" and maybe more next week.

ing to Dr. Jack Russell, veterinarian with the Division of Communicable Diseases, Ohio Department of Health.

Dr. Robert Adams of the Columbus Health Department stated that there have been no cases of human rabies in Columbus since 1937. He pointed out that a great part of this decline has been due to the increased awareness of the problem, and the growing number of vaccinated pets.

Dogs, particularly, since they are usually the animals with closest contact with humans, can provide the link between rabies in wildlife and humans. The best way to break this chain reaction is to have the family pet vaccinated annually against rabies.

According to Dr. Adams, 21,000 dogs were given rabies vaccinations in the city of Columbus in 1962. There have been 38,318 dog licenses issued in Franklin County for 1963, estimated to cover about half the county dog population.

The City Health Department, which handles dog bite cases, had 2590 dog bites reported during 1962. This is a seasonal problem, with the highest number of bites usually occurring during April and May, when children and dogs are spending more time outdoors.

The number of dog bites reported this year have been as follow: January, 105; February, 126; March, 200.

In these cases, it is up to the family physician to decide whether the long and painful, and potentially dangerous, series of Pasteur shots must be given to the person bitten as a preventive measure. The only sure way to avoid this is to determine whether the animal responsible for the bite is immune to rabies.

Veterinarians throughout the county are prepared at all times to give rabies vaccinations to dogs and cats. There are two types of vaccine available; one with a one-year effectiveness, the other type effective for three years.

Both are acceptable with the city, county and state health officials. The law requires that all dogs over the age of three months must be vaccinated annually against rabies.

Complete compliance with this law will be a big step toward elimination of the health threat of rabies.

TO BUILD HOME

Police School Planner Chosen; New Rail Signal Authorized

Columbus City Council this week cleared the way for hiring an architect for a proposed $325,000 police academy on McKinley-av.

The training center and weapons facility is to be built this year on the site of the present pistol range. Freshwater and Harrison have been selected by the service director to prepare the plans at a cost of $16,000.

Council also:

- Gave the state permission to modernize a warning signal at the New York Central crossing on Georgesville-rd, seven tenths of a mile south of W. Broad-st.
- Approved expenditures of $2,700 for preparation of maps of Lower Scioto and Big Run parks.
- Authorized the contracting of Columbus Testing Laboratory to do soil borings and bridge foundation investigations, costing $2,100, in connection with the extension of Wilson-rd.
- No action was taken on an ordinance to spend $1,754 for folding gym seating in Westgate Recreation Center.

approval of the project for Federal Aid Secondary status.

A request to include the proposed Wilson-rd extension on the federal highway system is in a list of similar requests for other Franklin County roads sent to the BPR in Aug., 1962, through the Ohio Department of Highways. The department is the clearing house for all such requests from the county level.

The BPR is currently reviewing such requests from 82 of Ohio's 88 counties. It is not known when review of the Franklin County requests will be completed by BPR personnel.

The Wilson-rd request, if approved by the federal agency, will expedite plans for construction of the initial portion of a highway facility ultimately connecting Broad-st and Cline-rd or Alkire-rd. Initial construction would be from Broad-st to Sullivan-av. The 4,000-foot distance lies half in Columbus and half in Franklin County.

Plans for this section call for a two-lane highway, with four-lane approaches to Broad-st and Sullivant-av, and purchase of sufficient right-of-way for an eventual four-lane facility. Total cost is estimated at $600,000 for the two-lane highway.

If approved as a federal aid project, the construction contract would be let by the State Highway Department.

Valleyview Street Fixing Cost Told At Council Meet

An estimate of $1200 for surface treating Valleyview-dr, Dibblee-av and Powell-av was given to Valleyview Council Monday night by the Franklin County Engineer's office.

Mayor Harry Holroyd said the streets were "hard hit" during the winter and would be surface treated to preserve them until they can be blacktopped.

He also said that the resurfacing of the streets would be delayed until problems in village storm drainage facilities could be corrected.

Holroyd said the recent flood showed up many problem spots in the village.

Council agreed to install a storm sewer on the west side of Hague-av, from Elliot to the Dry Run branch, about 200 feet away, at a cost of $225.

Council also decided it could not accept a bid of $1000 for a storm sewer on the [illegible] side of Warren-av. Any project costing $1000 or more must be advertised and at least three bids submitted, according to the mayor.

Youth Offenses To Be Discussed

The alarming incidence of juvenile delinquency in Columbus and its outlying areas will be discussed Thursday, Apr. 4, at 7:30 p.m. on "Suburban Viewpoint" over WOSU-TV, Channel 34.

Mrs. Eleanor Boardman, editor of the Upper Arlington News and the Tri-Village News, will report on her research in recent weeks into youthful offenders in her community. A representative of the Upper Arlington Police Department and an Ohio State University sociologist will also participate.

The upswing of rabies, prevention and treatment will be discussed by members of the OSU College of Veterinary Medicine.

New Rome Asks State To Help Light Broad-st

New Rome Village Council sought answers from the state on a request to add mercury vapor street lights from the village corporation line to Rome-Hilliard-rd Monday night.

Council has already made plans to install 12 of the lights along W. Broad-st, in the village, and five on Green-st, but thinks that one or two more lights should be added, to stretch the illumination to Rome-Hilliard-rd and Rt. 40, which is a heavily used intersection.

Council tabled a rather unusual request from two residents to police the town, mainly to pick up speeders.

The two men offered to work on a commission basis, but the proposal met with little favor from council.

A request to lease the Municipal Building to the Prairie Players was also tabled.

Two Burglaries In West Area

Two different West Area burglaries, during the past weekend, resulted in the capture of one burglar and the loss of an estimated $3000 to a shopping center super market.

Ross Arledge, manager of the Albers Super Market in the Great Western Shopping Center, reported burglars entered the store sometime after 2 p.m. Sunday and successfully drilled the hinges off the company safe located in his office in the front of the store.

Arledge said that an estimated $3000 was in the safe when it was locked Saturday night.

Police report they are still investigating and no arrests have been made.

Late Saturday night a burglar entered the F. J. Quinn Furniture Store, 2655 W. Broad-st, and escaped with a small amount of cash and a television set.

Within 30 minutes police detectives apprehended 30-year-old James West, 40 W. Long-st (YMCA Building), who was reportedly in possession of the television set and missing cash.

West is charged with burglary and was slated to appear in Columbus Municipal Court.

S-W Instructors On National Club Committee

Stephen Lucas and Jack Strietelmeier, Distributive Education coordinators at Grove City and Franklin Heights High schools, have been appointed to serve on committees at the National Distributive Education Clubs of America Leadership Conference.

The meeting will be held at the Conrad Hilton Hotel in Chicago on May 2, 3 and 4.

Over 1,000 Distributive Education students from throughout the United States will participate in the conference.

Lucas will serve on the display contest committee and Strietelmeier on the advertising contest committee.

Others attending the conference from the South-Western City Schools include Gerald Patterson, D. E. coordinator at Pleasant-View High School, and Dennis Waugh, Mary Swiney, Bob Caldwell, and David Corbin, all students from the three South-Western high schools.

State Okays W. Outerbelt

An agreement with Burgess and Niple, Columbus engineering firm, for preparation of construction contract plans on the West Outerbelt was renewed by the State Highway Department last week.

The contract for the $10 million project was delayed in February to enable the department to review the state highway improvements program.

Plans are expected to be completed within 18 months and would be the basis for bidding on the job calling for a bridge over the Scioto River, north of State Route 161.

Y's Men Schedule Annual Bunny Hunt

The annual Hilltop Y's Men's Club Bunny Hunt will be held on Apr. 6 at 9 a.m. on the Hilltop YMCA property. Different age groups will be established for all boys and girls through the age of nine who hold memberships in the "Y." Your hunting areas will be designated for the different age groups. All hunters will be guaranteed at least one egg before the hunt is over.

The lucky hunters who find the three special eggs in each class will receive special prizes. Registration will begin at 8:30 a.m., at which time all hunters will receive official licenses. Harry Miller, chairman of the club Boys Work Committee, will supervise the Y's Men who will assist with this program.

Boyhood Cuts, Bruises Are Serious Hazards To This Plucky 10-Year-Old

Timothy W. Smith, 10, of 900 W. Rich-st, is like any other young schoolboy—except that any bruise or cut might prove fatal to him.

Timmy is a hemophiliac, a "bleeder," for his blood does not contain the coagulant—or clotting agent—fibrin. While a cut normally stops bleeding in a matter of a minute or so, such a cut sustained by Timmy might take several hours—and a large quantity of blood. Timmy has received 124 transfusions from Children's Hospital since his condition was discovered when he was nine months old.

Timmy's situation is not simply being careful of what he does to avoid injury. At any moment his joints may hemorrhage spontaneously with no warning or apparent reason. A bruise, of course, has the same result—internal bleeding far greater than the injury warrants. Timmy has received 51 pints of fresh frozen plasma, which incurs clotting faster than whole blood, and 22 pints of whole blood. This totals approximately nine gallons of blood products to keep him alive. And the blood bank does not come by blood easily.

Timmy's life has been seriously threatened twice—once when he fell on a bottle (he was not cut, however.) and induced a massive hemorrhage, and last summer when eye surgery was necessitated due to a blow received from a hard rubber ball. To avoid such incidents as much as possible, Timmy's situation demands special care. This attention he receives at the Neil Avenue School, 2571 Neil-av, a special city-operated school for the handicapped. Not that he is handicapped, but he does need special attention and supervision.

Timmy's mother, Mrs. Clarence B. Smith, said she is not aware of any prior hemophilia in her family. This hereditary disease is passed from grandfather to grandson with the mother as a carrier, but may lie dormant as true hemophilia for two or three hundred years. A brother, Clarence Jr., 15, and two sisters, Brenda 19, and Tina Marie 2, show no symptoms of hemophilia.

The critical factor in Timmy's existence, is, of course, the supply of O-positive blood. Fortunately, O-positive is the most common blood type, and Timmy has never come to the hospital to find a shortage of his type. But this is no guarantee that such a situation will not occur, for the Columbus Blood Bank has had difficulty in replenishing all types of blood during the past year. The center makes no charge for the blood.

Mrs. Smith tries, of course, to replenish the blood which is administered to Timmy by asking friends, neighbors and relatives to donate blood of any type in his name. But this is not enough. He has used far more than has been put back. Mr. Smith, a truck driver hauling new automobiles from Detroit to the Columbus area, does not have the time to solicit donations.

Mrs. Smith said, "I know Timmy's life depends on it, but I can't do anything more about it."

Individuals or organizations wishing to donate on Timmy's behalf may call the Red Cross Regional Blood Center, 812 E. Broad-st, at 253-5541, or University Hospital.

MOTHER HELPS with the buttons while Timmy Smith gets ready to meet his taxi for school. Timmy, a hemophiliac (bleeder), attends Neil Avenue School, a special school where he is less likely to be injured during play.

Left Bank Influence Hits Capital's Campus, Mon Ami

Things should be as French as French Fries Apr. 17-20 on the Capital University campus.

The reason, mon ami, for the transition from the dignified "University on Main Street" concept to the left bank influence is the big 1963 Creative Arts Festival.

Actually, "The Left Bank of Paris" is the theme for this year's festival and, according to talented publicity director Woody Books, over 150 entries have already reported in for such categories as:

Drama, fine arts, interpretive dance, literary arts, music and speech.

The whole French wingding will be climaxed with a Beaux Arts Ball open to all participants from 8 p.m. to midnight on the final day.

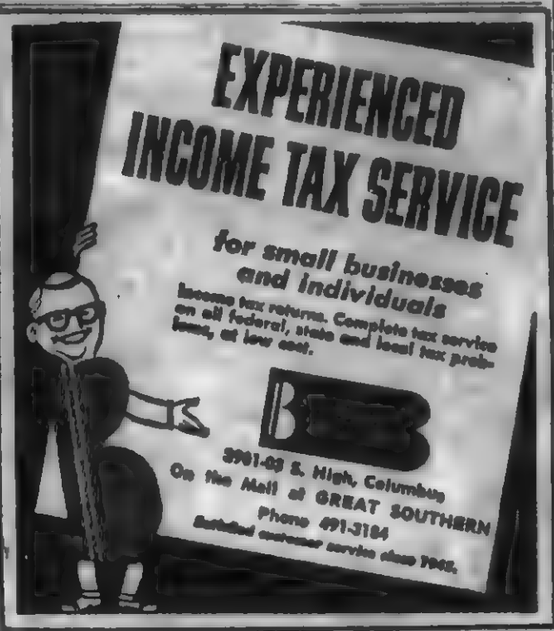
The Festival is open to all students, faculty and personnel at Cap, but the public, of course, is welcome to see the exhibitors.

Original one-act plays; informative, entertaining or stimulating speeches and musical compositions will highlight the four-day event, although original dance entries have been growing.

The schedule includes:

APR. 16 — A program relative to the Creative Arts will be presented in Convocation.

APR. 17 — An Art open house will be held in Schumacher Gallery from 7 until 10 p.m. Open to the public.



APR. 18 — Speeches to be presented and judged from 8 until 10 p.m. in the Toledo Room, in Bexley Hall. Music will be presented but not judged at this time. Open to the public.

APR. 19 — Music finalists and interpretive dance finalists will present program for judging from 8 until 8:45 p.m. in the Toledo Room, in Bexley Hall. Open to the public.

CALLED 'BEST EVER'

Trotters Did It Up Big In Custom Show

By JOHN AUBLE, JR.
Entertainment Editor

After leaving the annual Rod and Custom Show last weekend at the Fairgrounds, you can't help but feel a bit guilty easing into your auto that still looks like it did when it left the Detroit assembly line.

You pull away from the Youth Center and glance at your hood. "Same old paint job from the factory," you think. You run your hand over the "stock" seat covers and wish it were angora, like some of the other cars at the show.

Even the motor sounds a little sicker, and you start to wonder about phrases such as "headers," "air blowers" and "twin chrome pipes" and how much these items would do for your old burner.

It was that kind of a show.

The rod and custom spectacle, seen by observers as the best ever, was the sixth annual offering sanctioned by the Trotters' Hot Rod Club of Columbus.

And show it was. The Trotters left out little in crowd pleasing, what with a bevy of colored lights sparkling on the metallic paint jobs and the fluffy mesh to create a cloud effect around the cars.

Show Chairman Frank Clark, 1701 Marina-dr, probably still in high school, seems to typify the type of boys and well-adjusted adult men who participate in the activity of "hot rodding" — no longer a term to be frowned on.

It's easy to back up this last statement by merely witnessing the time, money and work put into the some 100 cars on display.

For instance, Mike Keefe, 628 S. Everett, along with neighbor, Ron Adams, 579 S. Everett, went to work on a late-model Chevrolet and, before they had finished, the car now sports a closed-circuit TV set-up and record player, among other things.

Another auto, a Corvette, took one and one-half years of work by Skip Krecsmar of Country Club-rd and Sharon Jahn of Reynoldsburg. They installed a brand new interior of a blend of wool and angora.

One of the most unique items to hit a hot rod show ever was offered by the "Barkers" Hot Rod Club of Grove City — a division of Teens Unlimited.

They came home with the club display trophy with their satirical look at custom car styling.

"We were formed too late to make a real custom," said Paul Goebbel, one of the club's members. "So, we hit on this idea instead."

They took a 1949 Buick, merely "stuck on" custom items like triple exhaust pipes coming from the motor, splashed it up with paint — over the mud, rust and everything—and threw an auction-type collection of articles in the interior and trunk.

If nothing else, the Barker effort demonstrated the fact that it's not so easy to design and construct a custom car and pointed out the various areas of the car body used as targets for customizing.

Other show highlights included:

- "The Flirtation," owned by Dave Classon with interior work by Lenny Gray. It's a 1957 Ford that features a purple and white metallic flake finish, swivel seats and a bar in its interior.
- "The Thing," by Paul Johnson of Elyria. It's a 1932 Ford with a completely chromed undercarriage and was named 1962 National Roadster.
- "Miss Midget," a Buckeye Quarter Midget stock-modified racer driven by Corky Tulton, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Tulton, 280 Dennis-ln, Grove City.

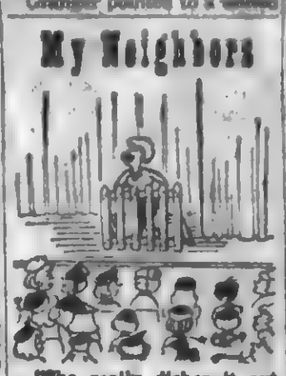
No Place For High School Drop Outs



The consequences of high school drop outs are much more serious today than in the past. Why? Because today's drop outs are virtually unemployable.

This was one of the prime messages carried to a capacity audience during a workshop meeting sponsored by the Columbus Urban League Guild. More than 200 persons attended the Mar. 27 meeting at the Southern Hotel.

Speaker for the program was Shelton B. Granger, director, Youth Development Unit, Children's Bureau, Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Granger reported on programs being developed by the federal government to assist states in dealing with the high rate of drop outs.

A problem area that is now diminishing, he said, is the past willingness of educators to assume total blame for drop outs, and of the public to subscribe to this mistaken belief.

Granger pointed to a united front by educators, parents and many other agencies as the best means of stemming the flow of potential drop outs.

"She really dishes it out that way!"

Although he called for a distinction between drop outs and juvenile delinquents, he said that much common ground is shared by the drop out, the delinquent and the unemployed youth.

The program was moderated by Dr. Harold H. Eibling, superintendent of Columbus Public Schools. Dr. Eibling told the gathering that a number of programs aimed at the drop out problem are being carried out in the public school system. He cited a reduction over the past year from 35 to 32 per cent in the number of ninth grade pupils who will fail to graduate because of dropping out.

The Urban League Guild will sponsor two follow-up study group meetings, according to Mrs. Albert Schwartz, staff consultant.

FOOD MARKETS THIS WEEK

Here's April Forecast For Food Shoppers

By ESTELLE B. FRANKS

THIS WEEK LOOK FOR:

Fruits — Bananas, apples, canned peaches.

Vegetables — Carrots, new potatoes, salad greens, new cabbage, peppers.

Food prices in April may push the over-all cost of living down a notch or so, some economists predict. They say the lower prices on meats and the declining prices on fresh vegetables will be largely responsible for the drop.

Mrs. Franks

As for meats and other main-dish proteins, food shoppers never had it so good — that is, not for many a moon. The whole family of pork cuts will be plentiful and prices well below last year, as unseasonally high slaughter rates for pork are expected in April and May. Beef also is expected to remain abundant. As much as 10 to 15 per cent more fed beef will be marketed in April, May and June of this year than during the same period in 1962, according to U.S.D.A. Marketing Service reports.

Other plentifuls for main dishes will be eggs, broiler-fryers and turkeys. Egg prices are expected to continue downward as hens increase their lay rate in the next few weeks. Increased supplies of fresh water fish, along with the good supply of frozen ones, offer fine menu changes. Milk production is on the up which means more cheese for cooking and for nibbling.

Fresh vegetables — partly responsible for the rising cost of food during the past winter — are on the increase and prices are beginning to drop. Florida growers say they're definitely back in business and will be sending us lots of pole beans, sweet corn, eggplant, squash and tomatoes. Our local greenhouse tomatoes will start this month — and, maybe, asparagus — if we have enough sunshine. Items to keep on your list are carrots, cabbage, potatoes and greens for both cooking or for salads.

As for fruits, that's another story. Fresh citrus will be about gone by the end of the month, although dealers say you can watch for better deals on grapefruit before the season ends. Banana imports will continue to be heavy, keeping them one of the best buys in fruits. There'll be enough good apples around to last throughout the month, but prices are firming up a bit.

Strawberries will be the brightest spot at fruit counters, if the weatherman behaves. Several southern states will be shipping berries and California will get into volume production.

In April, many folks begin to look for sassafras for a cup of "spring tonic." Sassafras bark has been around for weeks but have you noticed that it has gone convenient? Instead of the neat little bundles of bark, tied with cord string, you can now take your choice of instant or perculator grind — each packaged in a cello bag with the directions for making your cup of tea right on the label.

Dance Decor To Simulate Paris Holiday

"Evening in Paris" will be the theme of the annual dance sponsored by Young Associates, Women's Association of the Columbus Symphony Orchestra.

The Joe Marlee Quintet will play for dancing at the Athletic Club Saturday, Apr. 6, 10 until 1.

The foyer will be transformed into a small French street complete with gas lights and ornate wrought iron work. The Rainbow Room will be decorated in red, white and blue canapes, and guests will sit at tables representing various French cafes. The ballroom will depict a village green including a bubbling fountain.

Proceeds will benefit the Columbus Symphony Orchestra and will further Young Associates' effort in supporting musical ensembles for elementary schools, full concerts for Columbus area high schools, Columbus Youth Orchestra, and the young musicians' competition.

Tuesday Night TV? Depends On How You Look At It . . .

By JOHN AUBLE, JR.
Entertainment Editor

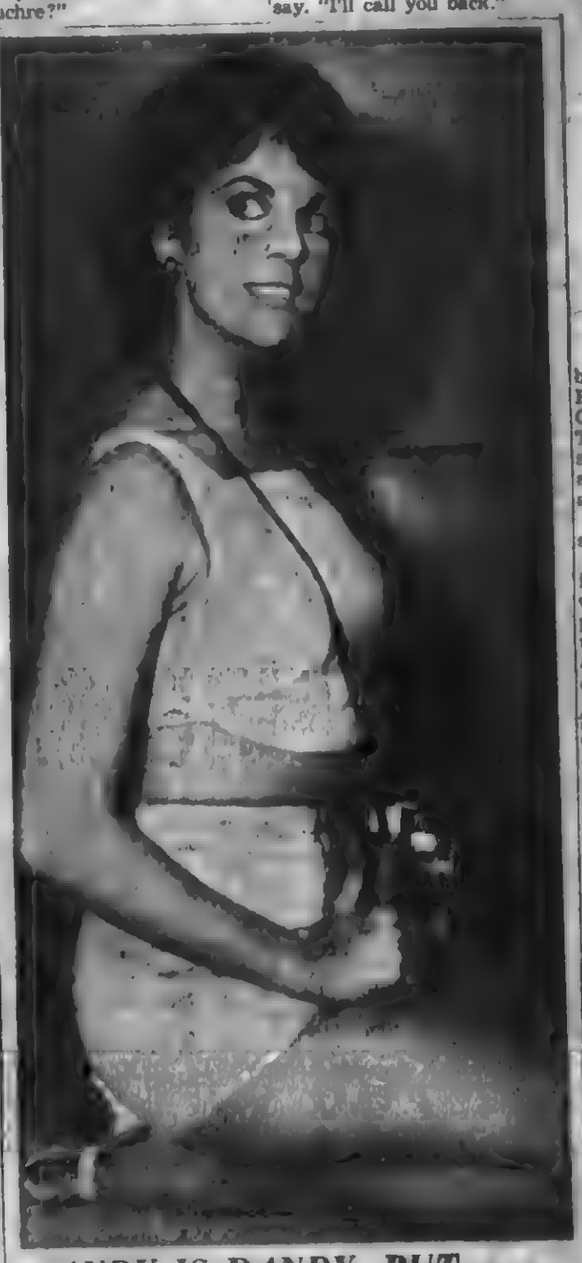
So I was watching TV with my wife, Hazel Eyes, last Tuesday night, and I noticed she was making fewer trips to the refrigerator.

"Not feeling well?" I asked sympathetically.

As usual, when she's engrossed in watching television, she replied with her regular (and barely audible) "Huh?"

"I mean, you've hardly left your seat all evening," I continued. "Not hungry?"

"Can't you see Im busy," she replied, still glued to the tube with a reverence likened to a youngster pasting Mikey Mantle clippings into a scraphook.



It's getting to be a regular Tuesday night ritual with Hazel Eyes. She sits with TV Guide in one hand and a sweaty palm in the other ready to reach for the dial selector.

So I wondered if Tuesday was something special. It does certainly seem to be packed with evening viewing entertainment but, after checking with the experts, I find that Hazel Eyes is all wet.

According to national Neilson surveys and local television station officials, Sunday is the night to watch television.

I offer this to Hazel Eyes, hoping to break the spell. "You're wasting your time," I say. "Only two of the shows in the top 10 are on Tuesday. Why not turn it off and play euchre?"

It didn't work. Evidently Hazel Eyes isn't much impressed with rating systems so I call some friends "Wait'll this program's over," they say. "I'll call you back."

ANDY IS DANDY, BUT . . .

WHERE is there a male televiewer who breathe who wouldn't like to see Mrs. Andy Williams once in awhile? Especially since she's as lovely as her picture. Going under her stage name of Claudine Longet, she'll have a part in the "Dr. Kildare" series show "Ship's Doctor" slated for WLW-C TV 4, on Thursday, Apr. 18, 8:30 to 9:30 p.m.

TOP TEN ON TV

The following regular viewing shows were listed as the top ten as of Feb. 24 as printed in "Variety" and compiled by the national Nielson survey:

1. "Beverly Hillbillies" (CBS) Wednesdays.
2. "Red Skelton Show" (CBS) Tuesdays.
3. "Candid Camera" (CBS) Sundays.
4. "Dick Van Dyke" (CBS) Wednesdays.
5. "Andy Griffith" (CBS) Mondays.
6. "Ben Casey" (ABC) Mondays.
7. "Dr. Kildare" (NBC) Thursdays.
8. "Lassie" (CBS) Sundays.
9. "Jack Benny Show" (CBS) Tuesdays.
10. "Bonanza" (NBC) Sundays.

The "Carol Burnett Special" and "A Look at Monaco" were also included but were omitted here since they are not regular series shows.

There was little else to do but check Tuesday's lineup. Red Skelton, Jack Benny and Garry Moore — there's a Big Three if I ever saw one, to say nothing of the "Untouchables" and "Dick Powell Theater" lest we forget "Empire."

The statistics tell a different story.

Some fast men with an adding machine have come up with the fact that 19,457,000 people in this country watch television on Sunday night. In comparison, 18,115,000 view on Tuesdays. See?

Benny and Skelton are the only shows in the top 10 on Tuesdays with top-ranked "Beverly Hillbillies" on Wednesdays and three of the top 10 on Sundays: "Candid Camera," "Lassie" and "Bonanza."

So what's with the Tuesday night business?

Officials at WLW-C television explain that "everybody's trying to knock everybody else out of the Tuesday night slot." Why? Who knows? At any rate, the big guns are certainly loaded for that evening, it seems.

Sunday night, the same officials say, is the best night for quality and variety. This doesn't impress Hazel Eyes much either. "There are eight different varieties of programming on prime time Sunday," they add, and Hazel Eyes shrugs her shoulders.

Of course she isn't paying the bills for programming and the people who do watch those ratings closer than a chicken hawk watches chickens.

Of course, the rating companies are under fire by Senate subcommittees for certain inequalities in their judgments, but their effectiveness is still felt in the TV market.

A look, by local television personnel, at the industry on a day to day basis reveals:

MONDAY — Weakest night for total viewers. TUESDAY —Five different varieties of programs with NBC drama and new commentary, CBS adventure, comedy and variety and ABC adventure.

WEDNESDAY—Five kinds of variety. THURSDAY — Four different varieties. FRIDAY — Six. SATURDAY — Seven, and SUNDAY — Eight.

The biggest video fight seems to be for Monday night viewership. CBS is bombing the other networks with the Lucille Ball Show, Andy Griffith and Danny Thomas. NBC is making a valiant fight with "Monday Night at the Movies" feeling it's doing a better job than "Saints and Sinners" formerly in that time slot.

Me? I'll stick to Hazel Eyes' rating system. Simply stated, this means, "When she don't answer, then watch."

W. Broad at Eureka — WE DELIVER — BR. 4-1141

BRAND NEW CITIZENS — Mr. and Mrs. Sandy Toth, 2447 W. Broad-st, were among the class of more than 100 who completed their requirements for American citizenship last Tuesday. Their daughter, Kathleen, was born two months after their arrival in America.

Hungarians By Birth, Americans By Choice

Citizenship in the country of their choice, with all its precious freedoms and privileges, made Mar. 26 a red-letter day in the lives of Mr. and Mrs. Sandy Toth and their daughter.

And Hilltoppers by the score, customers of Chubby Distelhorst's Market, W. Broad-st at Eureka-av, where Sandy has worked during his five years in Columbus, shared the friendly Hungarian refugee's joy.

In their hearts, Sandor and his wife, Ilona, pledged allegiance to their new country the day they arrived in August, 1957. Adapting their names to the American versions, Sandy and Helen, was the first step. And when their daughter was born two months later they chose another American favorite for her name—Kathleen.

The desperate flight from their native northern Hungary, the long wait in Austria for admittance to America, and the sadness at leaving their families, friends and homeland, were put resolutely in the past.

An ad placed by Sandy in the Retail Grocers' magazine, and the gesture of Chubby Distelhorst to help at least one Hungarian refugee to build a new life by giving him a job, resulted in the association neither has ever regretted.

"He is like a father to me," Sandy says earnestly.

And Chubby, counting the many reasons he has to be grateful for Sandy's help in the store, says:

"... I can depend on him—he's taken so many responsibilities from me, and even does some of the buying. I think the good Lord sent him."

Sandy started working at the store Oct. 23, 1957, on the first anniversary of the Hungarian revolution, the family moved to an apartment over the grocery soon after for added convenience.

With Chubby as an adopted "father," store employes for "family," the grocery for school and the encouraging help of customers, Sandy's education in American ways moved with astonishing speed.

Although he worked as a grocer in his native land, Sandy knew no English when he arrived here, and the stock in an American grocery is a far cry from that in an Hungarian store.

English came rapidly, and reading and writing followed. Sandy and Helen studied requirements for their citizenship at home.

Keeping a promise made to their mothers before they left Hungary, the family speaks Hungarian and English at home, so their daughter is proficient in both languages and can translate with ease.

The Toths' plans for a bright future include, first of all, a house. "We need it now," they explain, "because Kathleen will start to school in the fall." And Sandy will start inquiries this week into procedure for sponsoring his brother's admittance to America from Canada, where he has obtained citizenship.

COFFMANS REPRESENT HILLCREST BAPTIST IN HAWAII

BACK HOME from a trip to Hawaii, as "Ambassadors of Good Will," to the American Baptist Churches of Hawaii from their home church, Hillcrest Baptist, are Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Coffman, 185 Eldon-av. Appointed by Hillcrest, the Coffmans were given letters of introduction from their church and from the American Baptist Home Mission Society, and asked to become acquainted with the work of Hawaiian Baptists. Beginning in September, 1963, American Baptists will encourage members who are vacationing, on business trips or serving in the armed forces, to visit mission areas as representatives of their local churches. The Coffmans left on their trip Mar. 7, and returned home Mar. 26. They will report on their experiences to their church Thursday, Apr. 25, illustrating their talk with maps and films. From left, are Rev. David Fish, pastor of Hillcrest; James Brannon, moderator; Mrs. Gary Reynolds, clerk, and the Coffmans.

A Word Of Advice On Quitting School

If drop outs in the Columbus Public High Schools continue at the current rate, 33 percent of today's ninth grade pupils will not graduate.

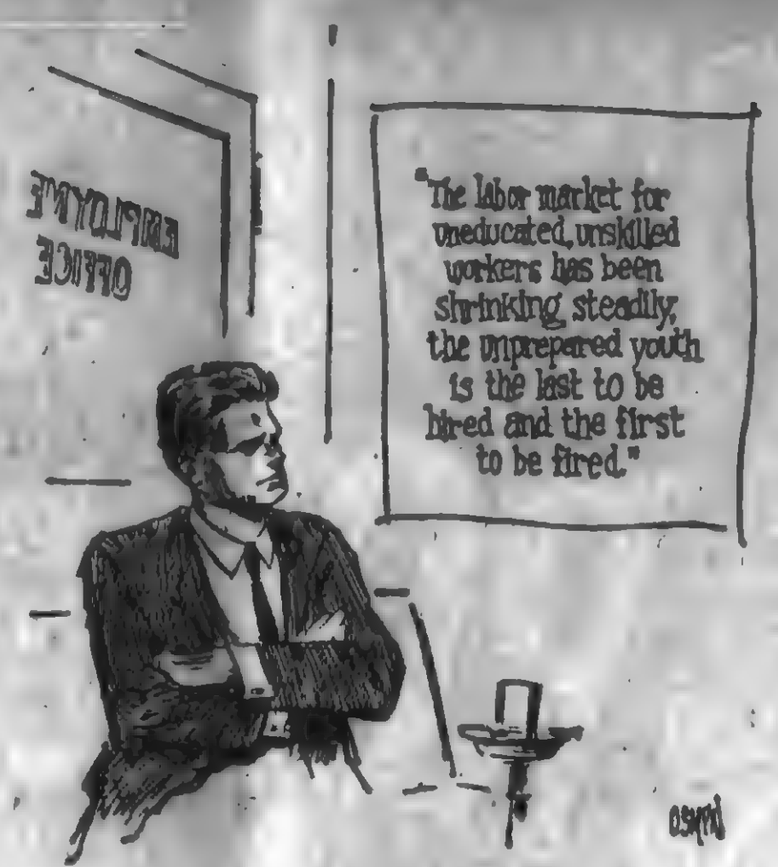
Local school officials are working diligently to develop a program to better meet this problem. As an intermediate step, we present the following points for consideration by potential drop outs and their parents:

To the would-be drop out:

At first freedom will be fun, but you will pay a heavy future price. Even if you have a job, your chances of advancement will be nil. If should you become unemployed (and this is almost certain to happen sooner or later) you will find that there is no place for you in industry. Many employers are demanding a high school diploma for such jobs as porters and common laborers.

In short, by avoiding the admittedly tough couple of years required to finish high school, you will almost certainly suffer a lifetime of misery, poverty and remorse. You will probably not be able to support yourself, much less a wife and family. You will deny yourself the right to participate as a worthwhile member of your community, and you will be a self-made second class citizen.

To the parents:



The foregoing tells you where your child is headed if he quits school. Statistics say that many of you have traveled the same road. Do you really want the same for your offspring?

Let your child quit and he will think you are "swell guys." But you will be blamed and condemned when the trouble begins.

It is much harder to be more firm and unyielding than you have ever been before; to do everything humanly possible, in cooperation with school officials, to keep your child in school. But this course of action will surely gain you the love and respect of your child for all of his adult life.

You will have the satisfaction of knowing that, when the blue chips were down, you met your burdensome duty as parents.

Know The Things That Make For Peace

"Would that even today you knew the things that make for peace."
Luke 19:42

It was the evening of Jesus' last visit to Jerusalem before His crucifixion—Jerusalem, the "holy city" in whose streets, synagogues, temple, He had preached and taught the gospel of the kingdom, had healed the sick, had worked many miracles to the glory of God. Here, as everywhere else He had gone, a worthy compendium of His ministry was that "He went about doing good."

What a metamorphosis! That morning, heralded by a motley throng, He had entered the gates of the city, with the loud plaudits of the self-seekers, the curious, and even many who did not know who He was, all rallying to the chance of being recognized by the object of popular acclaim.

Rev. Tuttle

There were a few who knew Him, including children, whose praise was genuine, and acknowledged by their Master.

But the crowd disassembled and the shouting faded away when it became apparent that, Jesus was not riding into Jerusalem to claim the political throne. The multitude had frantically assumed that this was the time and the place, and the person who would fulfill the long-hoped-for deliverance from Roman rule and usher in a reign of peace and freedom from oppression.

And now it is evening, and He who a few hours before was borne along in a jubilant processional, with "Blessed is He who comes in the Name of the Lord," is away from the crowd, on Mount Olivet, overlooking the city, weeping.

Who is He that weeps? The central figure of the Bible, the Founder of the Church, Friend of the Sinner, the Hope of the Resurrection, our Advocate, the Bright and Morning Star, King of Kings, Lord of Lords, The Way, The Truth, The Life, The Good Shepherd, the Son of God, Savior of the World, The Prince of Peace! Yet He weeps.

Why? Not for Himself. This had been settled. Nor as a defeated conqueror. He wept, as He saw again in those streets, those who so needed the peace He had come to bring. He saw through their false ambitions and selfish motives, their crass unconcern, the emptiness of their pursuits. And He cried out, "Would that even today you knew the things that make for peace."

Now, 2,000 years later, do we know the things that make for peace? We have tried everything, and still are bored. Peace is not to be bought at the prescription counter or the liquor store, nor is it to be found in the possession of things or gadgets, nor yet in the mad attempt at satisfying our sensual appetites, nor in the busyness of our affairs, nor in the attainment of unworthy goals.

Peace must begin in the heart of man. The peace of forgiven sins; "which passeth understanding" has no substitute. The love for God, giving Him first place in our lives, worshiping and serving Him, loving our fellowmen, even our enemies, forgiving others as God forgives us, growing in our faith through daily devotions and prayer habits,—these are some of the things that "make for our peace."

And as St. Paul urges, "Let the peace of Christ rule in your hearts . . . and be ye thankful."

United Brethren Church

Variety . . .
by I. F. Howell

"An House of Prayer for All People." That is the inscription over the doorway of one church in Columbus. It is typical of many places of worship in this great and good land.

In using the word "church," perhaps not too accurately, we mean any house of worship. Most are Christian, Protestant or Roman Catholic. There are many synagogues, perhaps even a few Buddhist temples and mosques of Islam.

This is not a sermon. It is a layman's effort to express his views and thoughts about the value and necessity of worship without either denial or affirmation of any creed.

All worshipers believe in a Supreme Power, a Creator of all things, whether they call Him God, Jehovah, Allah, or whatever. All have a concept of His omnipotence, justice and mercy.

Some non-believers and agnostics say they would join no church because they are all full of sinners. Of course they are. Redemption is religion's business. That's why repentant sinners seek it in a church.

We believe few or none, not even the worst criminals, would want to live in a land without churches. The meaning of freedom to worship may be hard to define, because it is so big. But wherever it is, we all are beneficiaries.

It says here . . .
Religion on earth is on-the-job training for Heaven.

For Whom The Fight Bell Tolls

(A Play in One Act)

Scene: Office of St. Bernadine just inside the Pearly Gates.

Cast: St. Bernadine and Teddy Jones, a new arrival from earth.

McPeek

SAINT B.: Hello, my son. May I help you?

TEDDY: I was sent here from the Gate for instructions. I just arrived.

ST. B.: Hmmm, that's odd. I usually don't handle general indoctrination cases. May I ask who you are?

TEDDY: My name is Teddy Jones. I'm a boxer . . . or rather I was until last night. I was killed in a match.

ST. B.: Oh, that explains why they sent you to me. I'm considered the patron saint of boxers. When I was on earth, a priest of Siena more than 700 years ago, I fostered the sport of boxing. It was much more moral than dueling with daggers, as was the custom then, and certainly vastly more healthful.

TEDDY: So that's how it started.

ST. B.: But, my son, you say you were killed in a boxing match. How could that happen? In my day, boxing was a fistic sport to determine the skill of the opponents. It was supervised and was never permitted to get out of hand, so to speak.

TEDDY: Well, boxing still is a sport among amateurs. But I was a professional boxer who fought for money. Professional boxing is run by gangsters and thugs, for the most part, and they don't want any real supervision cribbing their fun. They want the fights to be bloody. It pleases the fans who pay to see the fights and bet large sums on the outcome. So we professionals just wear light gloves and mix it up as much as possible. When you slug away all the time you don't have much chance to exhibit boxing skills. About nine of us are killed each year.

SAINT B.: My goodness! Why is this mayhem permitted?

TEDDY: Because a lot of people like it. They come for miles to see the professionals fight. It's probably a lot like when Nero used to throw Christians to the lions. You've heard how the crowds went for that "sport."

ST. B.: Alas, it's true. Many people responded to such base instincts in Nero's time, and also in my time of the dagger duelists — but up here we had hoped that such habits had been overcome on earth by now. Surely not all of the people encourage professional boxing. Why is it permitted?

TEDDY: Well, most states at one time or another did outlaw professional fighting. But there are an awful lot of people who love to see someone else's brains bashed out, and the gangsters who have lots of money and power use it to influence the lawmakers.

SAINT B.: Even if this is so, why do the boxers permit the gangsters to control them? Why do they fight?

TEDDY: Again it's because of money. Take me, for instance, I'm a Negro, as are most professional fighters today. We box because it is one of the few ways we can get money to enjoy a better life. Besides, we're used to fighting. We have to fight most of our lives. Many white people hate us and it is very difficult to get a good job, or even a suitable education in many places that would qualify a Negro for a good job if it was offered to him.

SAINT B.: What a deplorable situation. We must pray for the sake of those poor boxers and Negroes.

TEDDY: No disrespect intended, Saint Bernadine, but I would suggest that we pray for those poor bloodthirsty slobs who pay money to see two "civilized" men climb into a ring with the intent to murder each other. If we cure the fans then we need not worry about boxers. It might not hurt to pray for the bigots, too.

Spring Is To Enjoy

Beautiful spring is here at last,
More welcome this year than ever before—
A time for letting the fresh air in
And "shoolin' " the children out the door.

It's a sad reflection to think that the innocence of this springtime story can — in a few unsuspecting moments — result in tragedy. How many times this summer will our story continue like this?:

A ball is thrown or batted out,
A child chases it to the street
A screech of brakes — long moment —
Maybe he stopped in time, and maybe not

If it happens, we can't rewrite all the wonderful moments lost of the joy of spring. Perhaps we should — before the playing season begins — conduct "spring training" to condition our children and ourselves for the even more dangerous months ahead.

Let us invest a few minutes to tell our children about the dangers of competing with traffic or take time to transport them to a safe play area. It may well protect us from the hours of agony and self-recrimination spent in a hospital emergency room.

Buy Easter Seals

A message coming across our desk from the Franklin County Society for Crippled Children reminds us that giving, through Easter Seal contributions, is really a means of receiving. "Instant contentment," the society says, is the commodity received.

How great the reward for those who watch crippled children — some of them tiny tots — laugh at their accomplishments as they drop their crutches and haltingly walk three or four steps into the arms of a physical therapist.

Those of us who support the Easter Seal drive can rephrase the old slogan to "give until it doesn't hurt," i.e. until it (crippling disease) doesn't hurt the children.

Frosting On The Cake

By [illegible] ROSS — U.S.A.

We are dealing with so many amazing paradoxes in this country today that it is almost impossible for rational people to decide which way is up. Confusion is the order of the day.

On the happy side, I have never known a time in my public and professional career of 45 years, when so many fine and decent people are seeking modern scientific enlightenment.

Night schools are jammed with hungry-minded individuals, teenagers and adults. Libraries report a great demand for books that deal with self-improvement.

On the negative side, I have never known a time when there were so many confused and fear-bedeviled people as this generation. We read every day of almost incomprehensible behavior. Crime is now a disease in our entire social order, and experts are at loggerheads to find one right answer.

Those who know clearly today where they are going and what they wish to accomplish in this life, are constantly held up to ridicule and even slanderous comment. Work is a dirty word and old fashioned honesty is a mark of "not being quite bright."

Good manners and self-imposed consideration for the feelings of all others is so rare that anytime, anywhere we see a gracious and thoughtful individual it is almost a shock. Automobile drivers who don't even know the meaning of the word manners are more and more numerous, and if the decent and attentive driver even attempts to reason politely with such goons he lays himself open to mayhem or worse.

Police take constant abuse from ruffians just because they are trying to do their job. The only time a cop has a friend is when some ox gets gored by another oaf who then hollers bloody murder for "the law." Teachers finally blow their tops and whale the deviltment out of some spoiled brat and the "dear darling's" mama or stupid dad have the teacher arrested on an assault and battery charge.

Judges are waking up at last to the fact that no "slap on the wrist" is going to cure this disease. Calling punks juveniles up to age 18 is social suicide. A full grown bully at 15 who won't behave himself is an adult physically and should be handled that way.

Unless we get this country back to God and back to work, it matters not one iota what the Communists do henceforth. May Almighty God speed the day!

Start Your Spring Fishing Slow 'n Easy

INSIDE ON THE Outdoors By ROB COCHRAN

By the time you read this I fully expect to have received reports of some good fishing in this area. After the warm spell, largemouth bass should be showing up from farm ponds. And the word will be out any day now that walleyes are hitting at Hoover Dam.

Not more than two or three weeks ago when a lot of waters were still icebound, I heard anglers predicting a late spring. "No fishing until after the middle of April," was the general opinion. I had to agree.

But not even the weathermen could know about the warm rains and days of sunshine — those welcomed balmy breezes. As it turned out, the fishing season will begin about as usual.

The timeless roll of the seasons moves on with the regularity of waves beating on the shore, and nature has a way of catching up if she gets behind momentarily. A flood is a catastrophy for human beings, but you must admit it's a pretty good way of getting rid of a lot of ice.

I can predict fishing reports with more accuracy than the weather. The first bass will be taken from farm ponds or the shallow bays of larger lakes. Here, the water warms quickly, and the bass move in to bask in the sun and to shake the winter chill from their bones.

The first stringers will be taken on baits fished slowly. A medium-sized spinner with a white pork strip added is deadly at this season. It should be worked across the mud bottom in slow jerks. Either live, or artificial nightcrawlers will also do the job.

Walleyes are where you find them. These are school fish and are highly mobile. They may be in deep water one week, and in the bay the next. At flowage, however, the action generally starts in the upper end. The spawning urge will be upon them, and you may find walleyes congregated at the mouths of inlet streams.

Preferred baits are nightcrawlers and minnows. Some anglers use a spinner and nightcrawler. Spinners worked properly will also take them. Fishing is usually done near bottom early in the season.

The important thing right now is the slow and easy approach. Bass, especially, are in a slow motion mood, and the slashing strikes and spectacular leaps you see pictured in outdoor magazines come later. The knack of catching bass from cool water is to know when you have a strike. It is not uncommon for a bass to pick up a lure without the angler even knowing it. In these cases, hooking the fish is accidental. But it's a pleasant surprise to all at once have a fish on the end of your line.

The great enrush of spring has started. You might as well be a part of it and get in on the early fishing. It's been a long winter!

Hostess to the Monday Night Card Club was Mrs. Allen F. Burns, 167 Pasadena-av. Award winners were Mrs. Waldo Ison, Mrs. W. E. Douglas and Mrs. T. J. Repp. Others present were Mrs. William G. Lamb, Mrs. Martha Friedman, Mrs. T. Morris, Mrs. Michael Ison and Mrs. Carl Cole.

Circle 4, St. Paul's Lutheran Church will meet at the church at 9:15 a.m. Tuesday, Apr. 9.

Mrs. Robert South is chairman.

Bible study leader will be Mrs. George Koncar and worship offering leader, Mrs. James Hamilton.

Hostesses will be Mrs. E. E. Donaldson and Mrs. Delbert Fisher.

The members of the Rome Study Club will meet at the home of Mrs. Sarah Mae Coulter, 185 Pasadena-av, on Monday, Apr. 8, at 8 p.m.

Group president is Mrs. Mrs. William G. Lamb.

Assisting hostesses will be Mrs. Floyd Armstrong, Mrs. W. H. Ball, Mrs. Allen Burns, and Mrs. H. Jack Craven.

Program for the evening will be on Easter and presented by Mrs. Otto Emmelhainz.

Circle 6, St. Paul's Lutheran Church, will meet in the church lounge Tuesday, Apr. 9, at 8 p.m. Hostesses will be Miss Karen Kaderly and Mrs. Eugene Kaderly.

Bible study leader will be Mrs. Luther Walz. Mrs. Stanley Barnett is chairman.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Huey of 193 Lenox-av, just returned from a two week vacation with their son, A-1C Don M. Huey and family of Dallas, Tex. He is with the US Air Force.

HE JUMPED OFF A HIGH BRIDGE WITH SIX MILLION DOLLARS IN HIS POCKET

His will showed not one cent for charity. Vision what a fraction of that could have done in human welfare!

Think of the thousands of boys and young men who could have been helped to better manhood. If his thoughts had been running along that line he would probably still be here.

The YMCA is struggling from year to year to meet the needs of an increased population and rising operating costs. It needs a life. It welcomes endowments, bequests, and memorial gifts to further its great work.

Inquiries invited.

Burgess EUB Plans Sunday Worship Rites

A service of baptism and the reception of a class of young people into the church will be included in the 10 a. m. worship services at Burgess EUB Palm Sunday.

The Young People's Choir will sing and the pastor, Rev. Irvin H. Lane, will preach on "King on Palm Sunday."

The three choirs of the church — the Junior Choir under the direction of Mrs. Elmer Bropher, the Young People's Choir directed by Mrs. Robert Trott, and the Senior Choir, directed by Mrs. Edward Thomas, will present a program at 7:30 p.m.

Each choir will sing a selection of anthems, and the service will close with an anthem sung by the combined choirs and directed by Mrs. Thomas.

Mrs. Richard Grant and Mrs. Donald Furry are the organists.

Cantata, Revival Set At Warren

"No Greater Love," an Easter cantata by John W. Peterson, will be presented by the Chancel Choir of Warren Avenue Church of the Nazarene, under direction of John S. Manley, Sunday evening, Apr. 7 at 7:30.

Soloists are, Harry P. King, Norman King, David Priest, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas King, and Miss Margaret King. Mrs. William Fishburn is the accompanist.

An eight-day revival will begin on Easter Sunday, with Rev. David K. Wachtel of Madison, Tenn., as evangelist.

The Golden Keys Quartet of Portsmouth will sing in all services Easter Sunday, and will give a sacred concert at 2:30 p.m.

Hoge Choir To Present Messiah

Chancel Choir of Hoge Memorial Presbyterian Church, 2930 W. Broad-st, will present the Lenten and Easter portions of the "Messiah," Palm Sunday at 4 p.m.

Soloists are, soprano, Mrs. Calvin Didier; altos, Mrs. Rufus Glass and Mrs. David Colborne; tenor, David Dick, and bass, Dean Yoesting.

There will also be Palm Sunday music at both the 9 and 10:45 a.m. services, and a communicant class of 40 will be received at 10:45.

OSU Glee Club To Give 60th Concert

Women's Glee Club of Ohio State University will present its 60th annual home concert Sunday, Apr. 7, 3 p.m. in Mershon Auditorium.

John H. Muschick, director, has announced a program which will cover the history of music from the renaissance to the contemporary period.

Included will be a premiere performance for the Columbus area of the contemporary masterpiece written for women's voices, "The Mass in Honor of Saint Sebastian," by Heitor Villa-Lobos (1887-1957).

Other selections include compositions by John Wilbye, Goerge Friedrich Handel, Howard Hanson and Cole Porter, as well as a group of traditional Hebrew folk songs. Admission is free.

Students from Hartley Newspapers' area in the glee club are, Linda Decker, Sharon Downey, Sharon Marzluf, Linda Phillips and Flora Walters from the Hilltop.

Peggy Gregg, Nina Nesbitt and Merrily Butler, eastern Columbus area; Sharon Standard, 1206 Geers-av, and Sharon Welch, 1671 Central-av.

CHOIR TO SING 'SEVEN LAST WORDS'

CHANCEL CHOIR of Westgate Evangelical United Brethren Church will sing "The Seven Last Words of Christ" by Theodore DeRois at a candlelight vesper service Palm Sunday, 7:30 p.m. at the church, 61 S. Powell-av. Soloists will be, Tim Morris, tenor; Mrs. Danelle Morris, soprano, and Dr. Eldred Heisel, baritone. Members of the instrumental Ensemble who will accompany the concert are, Tom Lange, first violin; Miss Marie Lange, second violin; Mrs. Ernest Ehlers, viola; Mrs. Wilma Masters, cello, and Mrs. John Kurtz, flutist. Completing arrangements for the program are, from left, Carl Speckman, conductor; Dr. Heisel; Mrs. Morris, Tom Lange, and seated Mrs. Eldred Heisel, organist. Public is invited.

St. John Church To Confirm Class On Palm Sunday

Palm Sunday services will be held at 8 and 10:30 a.m. at St. John Lutheran Church.

A class of young people will be received into the communicant membership of the church by the rite of confirmation during the 10:30 service.

Seasonal Rites Are Scheduled At St. Timothy

St. Timothy Lutheran Church, Harrisburg-pk at Rosemont-av, has arranged a series of seasonal services of worship for Palm Sunday and Holy Week.

There will be a reception of members by baptism and confirmation at the Sunday morning service at 10:30. The pastor, Rev. K. H. Bishop, will preach on "My King And My God."

Family night program Sunday evening will start with a covered dish supper at 6, followed by a program at 6:45, featuring presentation of the Ohio Synod camping plan by the director, R. Falde.

A service of prayer and devotion is planned Good Friday, 7:30 p.m.

True Story Of Regained Eyesight To Be Featured 'Tuesday At The Y' Apr. 9

Mrs. Thomas Cunningham, 182 Sturbridge-rd, will be the Holy Week speaker for "Tuesday at the Y" Apr. 9 at the Hilltop YWCA Center, 2879 Valleyview-dr.

The story that Mrs. Cunningham will tell is one which she has recently sold to "Guideposts" Magazine, relating a personal experience —the story of a corneal transplant and the philosophy that came with it.

Mrs. Cunningham is a member of Columbia Heights Methodist Church and is active in the work of the church. Her unique presentation will be given at the afternoon session.

At noon the board of the Central YWCA will join those attending "Tuesday at the Y" for lunch and Mrs. Cunningham's address.

"Good Buying Cents" will be the topic of the morning lecture to be given by Charles (Jack) Truxal, executive secretary of the Ohio Dry Cleaner's Association.

He is the official representative of the dry cleaning industry of Ohio, and is past president of National Dry Cleaning Association Executives and Ohio Trade Association Executives.

Truxal will talk about fabrics, how to get the most for your money and what happens to them when they are dry cleaned.

Cost of the day-long program is $1, including lunch.

Baby sitting, with supervised crafts, is available without charge. Mothers are requested to bring a sack lunch for their children. Milk will be furnished.

"Tuesday at the Y" is arranged as a privilege of YWCA membership or family membership in the Hilltop YMCA. For further information call CA. 4-9121.

Glenwood Plans Three Services On Palm Sunday

Three worship services will be held at Glenwood Methodist Church Palm Sunday at 8:15, 9:30 and 10:45 a.m.

Rev. Warren H. Bright will preach at each service on "The Doctrine of the Cross." Music will be by the chancel choir.

"The King of Kings," Cecil B. DeMille's Bible classic, will be shown in the sanctuary of Glenwood at 7 p.m. Wednesday.

There will be no admission charge.

GIRL FOR NEBINGERS

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Nebinger (Maureen Krems) are parents of a baby daughter, Brenda Lee, born Feb. 27 at Toledo. The Nebingers, both West High graduates, are at home at 2255 Rose Hill-dr, Toledo.

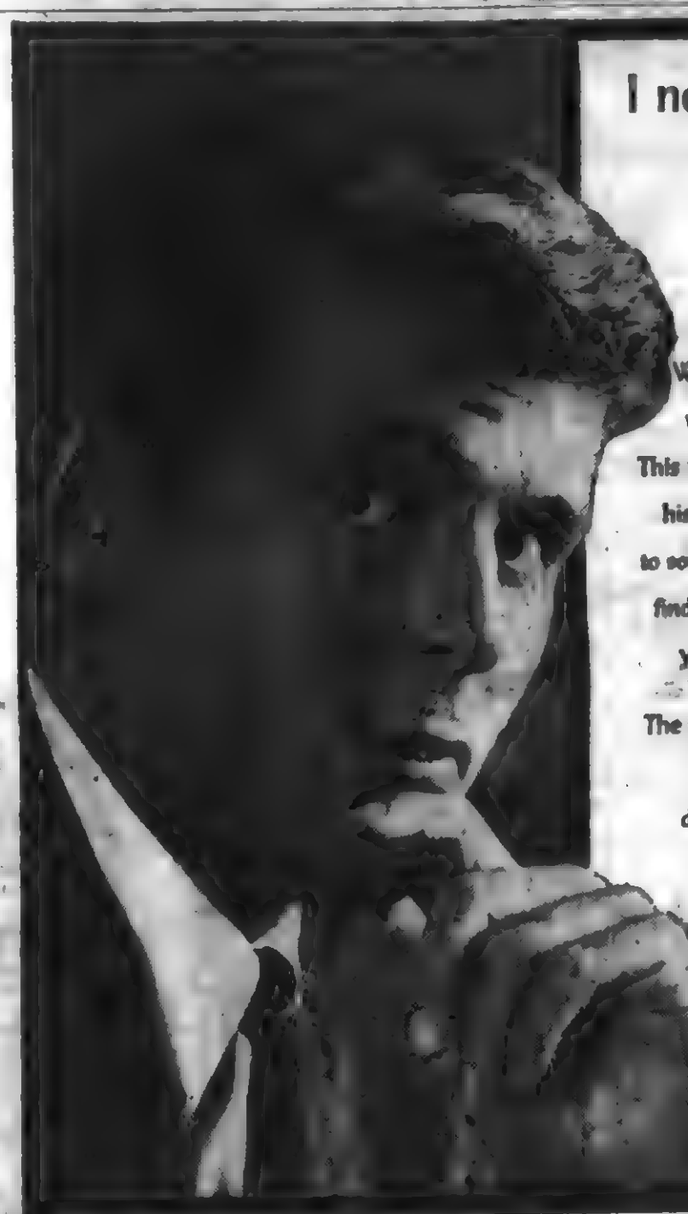
TWIG TO MEET

Children's Hospital Twig 68 will meet Wednesday, Apr 3 for pot-luck dinner at the home of Mrs. P Robert Pritchard, 631 Crescent-dr.

Music, Worship Slated Sunday At Westgate

Two identical services of worship are planned at Westgate Evangelical United Brethren Church on Palm Sunday at 9:30 and 10 a.m. Nursery service will be available at both.

Baptism of children and adults and reception of new members will be held at both services. Rev. Howard W. Buckley, minister, will speak on "Love Discipline—Courage."



Junior and chancel choir will sing "Hosanna" by Gregor. The junior choir will sing "The Palms," and the chancel choir, "Surely He Hath Born Our Griefs," from Handel's "Messiah."

I need the Answers to some SERIOUS QUESTIONS
Why am I here? What shall I do with my life? Where am I going? This young man is at the threshold of his adult life and needs the answer to some serious questions. Perhaps you find yourself pausing to take stock of your life and groping for direction.
The Church of the Living God tells the truth about man's life, death, and destiny. The truths learned there will set you free to live a more abundant, meaningful, and creative life. "And ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free." John 8:32.
The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Well Landscaped Grounds Will Greatly Enhance A Home's Beauty, Charm, Value

Modern home improvement should start with one's land, says the American Association of Nurserymen. The costliest mansion surrounded by bare and eroded soil is a depressing sight. By comparison, a four-room house on a beautifully landscaped plot can provide a lovely setting for more beautiful and gracious living.

Natural beauty on the land has no limitations of wealth! Anyone can achieve it. The principal requirement is an appreciation of the land on which the family lives and what it can do for those who treat it kindly by planting and maintaining it.

Success in landscaping the property requires, as in everything else, a sound approach.

1. Sit down and figure out what you wish to achieve — outdoor living, armfuls of flowers, tree-ripened fruits, cool shade, play areas. It may be a combination of all.

2. Start with a plan to achieve what you wish. Where you want your fruits and berries; where the ideal spot is for outdoor living (you may also wish to screen it with shrubs or trees from the neighborhood generally). Shade should be where you most desire it. The foliage of the tree when mature should be between the place where you want shade and the sun. A professional plan by a landscape nurseryman often is advisable.

3. Plant according to the plan. At the same time, after each plant is placed in the ground, stand off and observe whether you are planting it in exactly the right place. If not, shift it a little until it is most pleasing to the eye.

4. Maintain your plants once they are in the ground. A good soaking with water only when the soil becomes dry is a general rule. Fertilizing and mulching may be needed. Get advice from neighbors, nurserymen, state university extension services. Many pamphlets are available. Read the garden stories in your local newspaper for ideas.

Property improvement by landscaping and gardening can be a very rewarding experience.

Landscaping can also be a sound investment, the trees and shrubs growing in value from year to year, increasing the value of the property up to 25 per cent or more.

BEAUTIFUL APPROACH to this home is created by carefully proportioned grouping of colorful rhododendron and other shrubbery.

Many Easy Ways To Finance Projects

If you are like most families planning a major remodeling or modernization project, you most likely will find it necessary to borrow some or most of the money to pay for it. In today's money market, home improvement financing is one of the most common types of lending transactions. In fact, home improvements can be financed through a greater variety of techniques than almost any other kind of purchase.

Choose Your Plan

To choose the one method of financing that is best suited to your particular situation is a basic step in making sure that your remodeling or modernization project will meet all the requirements of a sound investment.

To aid you in making this selection, here is a quick wrapup of methods of home improvement currently available.

FHA Title 1 Short-Term Loan: You can borrow up to $3,500 with five years to repay under this loan, which is insured by the Federal Housing Administration. It is confined to improvements considered "essential" to the home, such as modernizing kitchens, bathrooms, finishing off extra rooms, etc. Interest usually runs five per cent discount on the first $2500 of the loan, drops to four per cent on the balance of the loan. "Discount" interest means that the full interest charges are deducted from the amount of the loan at the outset.

FHA Long-Term Loan (Section 203K): You can borrow up to $10,000 for as long as 20 years. The loan (also insured by the Federal Housing Administration) must be used to make major structural changes in your home, such as adding a new wing. Your dwelling must be at least 10 years old. Simple interest runs around six per cent.

Bank Home Improvement Loan: Like a Title 1 Loan, you can borrow up to $3,500 and take five years to repay. The interest varies from five per cent to seven per cent discount. While costing slightly more than Title 1 loans, bank loans are more flexible. You can use the money for many improvements which are considered "non-essential," and, thus, not eligible for a Title 1 loan.

Open End Mortgage Loan: If the mortgage on your home contains an "open end" provision, you may be able to borrow on it for home improvements, an amount equal to that which you have already paid off. To handle the added debt, (1) your monthly payment may be increased, or (2) the time of repayment may be increased slightly.

New Mortgages

Refinancing Present Mortgage: If your mortgage does not include an "open end" clause, look into the possibility of retiring your present mortgage, by getting a new one large enough to pay off the old loan and also cover the additional cost of your home improvement project.

Personal Bank Loan: If your home improvement project is relatively minor, such as installing storm doors or windows, repainting or the like, you might consider this type of financing.

Backyard Gamesmanship

To help you plan your backyard playground, here are the areas recommended for popular pastimes:

Archery: 25' for "plinking"; regulation course: 100' with 10' baseline.

Badminton: Doubles court 20'x44'; singles 17' x 44'.

Croquet: 30' x60'.

Deck Tennis: 18'x44' (doubles); 12'x44' (singles).

Handball: 20' x 34' (smaller if necessary).

Horseshoes: 10' x 50'; pitcher's box 6' square.

Quoits: 2 circles, 3' diameter, 54' apart.

Home Owners Start Clean-Up, Check-Up, Fix-Up Operations

As spring approaches, the home-owner's thoughts turn traditionally to cleaning-up and sprucing-up his property, both inside and outside.

In addition to the "spring cleaning" phase of the operation (usually Mrs. Home-Owner's department) there are matters of minor or major repairs, redecorating, replacement of outworn or outmoded equipment, even remodeling (the latter to meet changing family needs) that are likely to get top priority at this time of year.

Certainly this is a good time to make a systematic check-up of the whole house, assessing the damage that the ravages of winter weather may have caused, and locating potential trouble spots that can result in more serious breakdowns later on.

A good place to start is outdoors. Check the ground around the home's foundation where washouts may have left holes. Further rainfall will fill these holes with water, which can leak through any cracks in the masonry. Such holes should be filled with sand or gravel and topped with soil at grade level.

Next take a close look at the foundation. Cracks should be repaired with a pitch base waterproofing cement that can be applied with a pointing tool, putty knife or trowel.

Inspect Siding

Siding should be closely inspected for cracks and splits or decay, and the decayed or rotten boards replaced, where practical. The homeowner also might consider re-siding with asbestos cement siding shingles that are virtually maintenance-free.

Roofing should be checked for loose or curled shingles, and these should be renailed in place. Nailheads should be covered with roofing cement. Badly damaged shingles should be replaced. Condition of chimney morter should be checked, and also the flashing, for holes, cracks or corrosion.

Take a look at gutters and downspouts, which may have become loose or damaged during the winter. Tighten up hangers, refastening them where necessary.

Check door frames and windows for deteriorating caulking, and replace it where necessary.

Outside paint should be checked for signs of peeling or flaking. Bare spots should be scraped clean, then touched up promptly to keep moisture from entering the wood. If the condition is widespread, a complete paint job is probably needed as soon as possible.

A close check should be made for possible signs of termite entry. Wooden members that are in contact with the ground should be treated with a penetrating type wood preservative.

Heating System

If heating system is more than 20 years old, consider possible modernization. Certainly the furnace and heating plant should be inspected, adjusted and lubricated at least once a year by a competent service man.

Inside the house, look for wall cracks and bulges and sagging ceilings. Check for needed paint work. In dry-wall construction, drive any protruding nails below the surface and fill hole before starting to paint.

Check flooring for needed repairs or replacement of boards or tiles. Consider refloorring one or more rooms with some of the new, attractive and highly durable materials, such as vinyl tiles.

Room Additions Can Often Solve Space Problems

Americans spent nearly $1 billion dollars last year adding space to their homes — proving that a new room is sometimes a better solution than a new house.

A survey of these families indicates that most of them had outgrown their present homes. However, they liked their present neighbors and neighborhood, had children in nearby schools, were located near their place of employment, had a mortgage with a favorable interest rate, and did not want to pay the real estate and moving costs involved in buying a new house. Many families also reported that they had not been able to get their price when they tried to sell their house, so they decided to "stay put" and add a room for greater convenience.

Most families add a 12x16 foot or 16x20 foot family room or parents' bedroom, depending upon their most urgent needs. New bedrooms usually include a half-bath. Family rooms are the most popular additions, because they provide leisure and entertainment space that is lacking in most three-bedroom homes today. Costs range from $14 to $18 per square foot, depending upon the amount of plumbing and wiring needed.

Ideas for those who are thinking of expanding their homes are offered by the Douglas Fir Plywood Association in "Add-a-Room-Manual." It shows how to add a bedroom or family room to the side or rear of a one-story or split-level house. There are also helpful tips on financing, decoration and choosing a contractor. For a copy of the Manual, send 15c to the above association at 1119 "A" Street, Tacoma 2, Wash.

What Paint To Use Where

Here's a quick run-down on the proper paint to use for any interior surface you may be beautifying:

Plaster walls and ceilings—any high quality interior flat paint, oil, alkyd or latex paint. For bathrooms and kitchens, use semi-gloss or gloss enamel paint for greater washability.

Wallboard — seal with primer sealer and then follow with any high quality wall paint.

Plywood—for an opaque top coat, seal with penetrating resin sealer, flat oil or alkyd paint or enamel undercoat. When dry, apply a second coat. For a natural finish which shows the grain, use a clear penetrating resin sealer, followed by varnish.

OUTSIDE — POST and YARD LIGHTS

Wanted—Talent Scouts To Up Olympic Stock

If you were to stop the man on the street and ask him to name the most dominant necessity of the 1960's, he would more than likely say prestige.

If the man you had questioned happened to be Ohio Track Club president Jim Lorimer, you would have gotten a more categorical response — U.S. Olympic prestige.

"SPORTS HAVE BECOME an instrument of international prestige," said Lorimer last week in a speech to a gathering of five local Civitan Clubs. "The Russians are out to prove that their system will produce superior results whether in space or the sporting world."

Pravda has kept us well informed about the Soviet space accomplishments and a quick check of Olympic results since 1948 indicates that the USSR hasn't been much of a slouch in the athletic battlefield either.

In '48 the Soviets had no Olympic team but arrived at the games with a gigantic battery of coaches and cameramen. In '52 Russia had its first team—a small but well-scoring nucleus. Four years later the USSR fielded a complete team and swept to victory. The Red win was encored in '60, and from all indications Russia should nail down its third straight Olympic title in the track and field games of 1964.

LORIMER HAD the reason for the Russian success and consequent American defeat—girls.

The simple tragic fact of the matter is that our girls haven't been able to compete with the Russian girls. The male contingent of the U.S. team has constantly outscored its Soviet counterpart, despite the fact that Russian athletes are trained by the government while American sportsmen operate on a part-time amateur basis.

The wide-point spread separating the Red gals from the American squad has made the difference in team totals, and there's no reason to believe the situation will improve unless some positive action is taken.

"TOO LARGE a percentage of our high school competitive program is devoted to the boys," Lorimer said. "There are no opportunities for the girls. Too many potential Olympic prospects are left to die on the vine simply because of a lack of competitive programs.

"Our American boys are trained in athletics from grade school on up. A girl in Soviet Russia is trained on an equal basis with the boy. If we don't find some ways of getting our girls into necessary competition, we'll remain at our decided Olympic disadvantage."

There are two basic solutions that can rectify the present situation. One, we must find the girls who are qualified to compete on an Olympic basis, and two, we must sponsor their progress on a local level. Unlike the Russian setup, our government does not sponsor the development of local talent.

SOME EFFORTS have been initiated on a local basis. This May 3, for example, the Central Ohio Girls Championships will be held at Whetstone High School. Lorimer, who is also the secretary of the U.S. Olympic Committee for Women's Track and Field events, has sent out registration blanks to all schools and recreation centers.

"We'll probably attract about 500 girls of all age levels in this novice program," Lorimer said.

Another step in the right direction has been made with the establishment of a Girls' Track and Field Clinic by the department of Women's Physical Education at Ohio State University.

"Most necessary," Lorimer declared, "is the job of finding girls who have Olympic-level talents while they are young so we can bring them along. The tragedy is not finding the Estelle Baskervilles (East High high jumper who will represent the U.S. at the Pan American Games)."

THEN, OF COURSE, there's the problem of expenses. "The Ohio Track Club is not a profit-making organization," Lorimer continued. "Last year we went to New York three times by car. The parents had to foot the bill for travel and hotel expenses."

"We also had to get 14 of our girls to California. We must go where the competition is. In this case, we had to contact local service clubs, individuals and businesses to sponsor our trip. We can't go to the government."

It seems to us that Jim Lorimer and his Track Club shouldn't have this dilemma.

What is needed to make strides in the direction of Olympic success is an effort to find the best girl prospects from each school, get them oriented sports-wise and have them compete on a regular basis.

THE OHIO TRACK Club's victory in the recent Pan American Trials here represented a major achievement for Lorimer's dream of closing the Olympic gap. With the assistance of OSU track coach Larry Snyder, the Junior Olympics here attracted 2000 youngsters last summer, half of them girls. The labors of three and one-half years of hard work paid off big at the trials. So, you see, it can be done.

"The victory proved what can be done in a short period of time with a novice group of youngsters who are trying to improve the image of youth," Lorimer said.

Another point Lorimer brought up was that of facilities. "In Russia, all the athletic facilities are open to the public in keeping with the Soviet plan to make everyone Olympic-minded." Unfortunately, the same is not true in this country.

WHAT CAN BE done here? The Columbus West Civitan Club helped to get the ball rolling by sponsoring the 220-yard dash at the trials. This involved about $100 for trophies and expenses.

The sponsorship of regional level meets, which would attract prospective Olympic talent, is another possible means of improving the situation. The grass roots exploration and discovery of these youngsters should be a challenge for every citizen.

"We don't wish to pattern our American girl athlete after her Russian competitor. Our only desire is to find the talent and give the girls the opportunity to develop into potential Olympic champions," Lorimer said. "We cannot afford less than the best of this country's athletes.

"I JUST CAN'T overestimate the importance of this campaign. After the last Olympics, other countries wanted to know why we let the Russians beat us again."

The most encouraging aspect of Lorimer's plan is that everyone can participate. Everyone can be an "Olympic talent scout." The challenge is obvious enough—the need for a number of people working together to negate another false premise of the Soviets.

We can't think of a better way to take an individual part in stealing the thunder from that steady stream of the Russian line. If you're one of those people like Jim Lorimer, who is a little tired of hearing that boast, "The Soviets have won again," here's your chance to do something about it.

Track Outlook Bright For Central Runners

By KENNY ASH

"I feel we will have a good season. The boys want to run. We have more depth in each event this year than we did when we won the championship last year. We are hoping to have a repeat of last year's success again this year."

Such were the comments on the upcoming track season of John Biltz, head coach of Central High School's defending 1962 City League track champs.

COACH BILTZ feels that a strong force of sophomores and juniors will be a great help to the team this spring. "George Trammell, sophomore sprint man, should be one of the outstanding runners in the city this year," Biltz said.

Biltz also feels that Wayne Redmon, a soph miler and Al Carmon, an 880 runner, will show the city a lot of competition. Junior Willie Hoke, shot put and discus man, should also take his share of honors this year.

Bill Soloman, 100-yard dash, Charles Smith, 440, and Tom Fullove, 220, are three more of Central's top cindermen who should make Biltz's hopes for a successful season bright.

Here is Central's 1963 track schedule:

Apr. 4—Eastmoor
Apr. 9—North
Apr. 13—at Mansfield Relays
Apr. 16—at West
Apr. 18—Eastmoor at Linden
Apr. 20 — Ohio Relays at OSU
Apr. 25—Riverside Relays
Apr. 30—at Marion-Franklin
May 3 — Hilltop Relays at West
May 7—North-East
May 9—Aquinas at Whetstone
May 11 — at Eastmoor Relays
May 14—North-Whetstone
May 17-18 — District Meet at Worthington
May 21 — City Meet (Reserves and Varsity)
May 22—City Meet Varsity Finals

GIVING THE PINS A BEST—for a few minutes in this group of participants in the first annual Westside Pirates-Westgate Hawks Headpin Tournament which got underway last Sunday at Lincoln Village Lanes. Behind an assortment of Pirate and Hawk players are, standing, left to right: Paul Uhrig of the House of Trophies, Pirate Mascot Greg Levitt, Chuck Colgrove, Hawks Booster president, Pirate player Steve Levitt, city official John W. Clark, city councilman Roland A. Sedgwick, Hawk head coach Dennis McDonald, Hawk business manager Pete Carney, Ralph Arms, tournament co-chairman Dick Bergman, TV sportscaster Jimmy Crum, assistant Hawk coach Karl Fulton and Scarlet Football Commissioner Ed Walker.

BIGGEST NEWS—to come out of the first session of the Westside Pirate-Westgate Hawk Headpin Tournament Sunday at Lincoln Village Lanes was the announcement by Lincoln president Jack McComber that the lanes will provide their services to the two little league football clubs each year, making the pin-spilling event an annual project. McComber (right) is pictured here presenting the contract to tourney co-chairmen Don Held (center) of the Hawks and Dick Bergman of the Pirates.

Pirate-Hawks' Headpin Event To Be Slated As Annual Affair

The Westside Pirate-Westgate Hawks Headpin Tournament registered its first scores Sunday at Lincoln Village Lanes as area keglers grooved in on the pins in hopes of pocketing some of the $500 in cash prizes on the line for the tourney's top bowling performances.

The headpin event, which will run through Sunday, Apr. 21 at the W. Broad-st lanes, was initiated in grand fashion with the appearance of several local personalities to help kick off the opening festivities.

BIGGEST NEWS of the pre-tourney ceremonies came, however, with the announcement by Lincoln Village Lanes president, Jack McComber, and tournament co-chairmen, Dick Bergman and Don Held, that the pin-spilling event, which benefits the two little league football teams, will be staged on an annual basis.

The pre-tournament festivities got underway with an invocation by Father Karl of the Columbus State School. Master of ceremonies, Jimmy Crum, of WLW-C TV, introduced such local personalities as City Councilman Roland A. Sedgwick, Columbus Jet Business Manager Chuck Wareham, Columbus Athletic Club Athletic Director Frazier Ferguson and John W. Clark, representing Mayor Westlake.

Although the opening session of the headpin event was well attended, tournament officials remind local bowling fans that the pin assault will continue each day for the remainder of this week and the following two weeks.

LANES WILL BE available for tourney competition from 6 to 12 p.m. Monday through Friday and noon to midnight on Saturday and Sunday.

First place prizes in the event have been set at $250 for the top male bowler and $100 for the best women's score. Trophies will be presented to winners in the junior girls and boys divisions.

BOWLING FEE for the tournament is only $1. The headpin proceeds will be used to provide the two boys' football teams with new equipment.

LINCOLN VILLAGE Lanes, which is donating the services of its bowling facilities during the course of the event, is located on W. Broadst, directly across from Lazarus West.

ALONG WITH the announcement that the tournament will continue on a year-to-year basis came the report that Dick Bergman and Hartley Sports Editor Jack Wittenmeier will continue their individual competition on a yearly basis also.

Bergman outclassed Wittenmeier in a 10-frame "grudge" showdown Sunday with the loser contributing to the tournament fund. The "grudge" aspect of the roll-off occurred after Bergman, a Pirate booster, was identified in a pre-tournament story as a "Hawk official."

The two football teams will also conduct their annual Easter flower sale this week, Thursday through Saturday, at Western Lanes and the Associates Loan Co. at Wilson-rd and W. Broad-st.

THE SALE will include potted flowers and all customers will be provided with free cokes donated by the Coca-Cola Co.

Remember — tournament competition picks up again tonight at Lincoln Village Lanes with the $500 in prize money still very much up for grabs.

Joos, COACH Rifle Winners In Final Match

In the wind-up match of the Buckeye Junior Rifle League, fired Sunday, Carl Joos of the Olentangy Rifle Club, fired 382 to take high individual score honors.

Joe Downey, Ft. Hayes Club, was second with 381; third place went to John McCoy, COACH Club, with 372; fourth, Janet Hanley, COACH Club, 369 and fifth was Bill Morrow, COACH Club, with 367.

The COACH five-man team scored first place with an aggregate of 1823; second, Ft. Hayes, 1754; third, Troop 200, 1683; fourth, Olentangy Club, 1661; fifth, Worthington Jr. Optimist, 1503; sixth, Nationwide Club, 1071.

John McCoy	372
Janet Hanley	369
Bill Morrow	367
Brian Mefferd	361

	1823

Paul Hanley, League President, has announced that Awards Night will be held Apr. 26 at 8 p.m. at the City National Bank, 3300 W. Broad-st.

Ryan's Theft Stops Ready

Dublin hurler Mike Ryan took matters into his own hands Monday as he provided the Shamrocks with their winning run over Ready, 2-1, on a daring steal of home in the last inning.

The Silver Knights led, 1-0, entering the final frame but catcher Craig Duffey opened the inning with a single. Mike Calhoun sacrificed Duffey and Ryan, who had walked, to second and third.

The Irish tied the score when Duffey scored on a balk, setting up Ryan's winning effort. Roger Essig, Dave Bakenhaster and Ryan limited Ready to a single hit as the three Shamrock hurlers divided mound duties. Five Dublin bobbles kept the Irish in hot water until the final inning.

Buckeye Grid Five Battles Ex-Cage Stars Saturday In Ambuc Benefit Headliner

An All-Star basketball game, featuring play of past, present and future cage stars, will be held Saturday evening at the North High School gym.

The opening game at 7 p.m. will be a cage battle between two sixth-grade quintets representing the Whetstone Recreation Center. The second game (7:30 p.m.) will pit the Ambucs (American Business Club) against a team composed of teachers from West Jefferson High School.

THE FINALE at 8:15 sets the OSU varsity football team against a quintet composed of former Buckeye basketball stars. The Ohio State cagers' starting five will be Mel Nowell, Larry Siegfried, Joe Roberts, Bobby Knight and Richie Hoyt.

TV personalities Clay Enger and Clark Smith will take part in the Ambuc-Jeff teachers game. Eager will perform as a player-coach for the teachers' team while Smith will serve in the same capacity for the Ambuc five.

Tickets, which sell for one dollar for adults and 50 cents for children, may be purchased from the Ambucs, Whetstone Recreation Center children, the Gahanna Youth Group or at the door.

The three-game cage spectacular is being sponsored by the Ambucs in an effort to raise funds to help the handicapped-retarded children and those afflicted with cerebral palsy.

Central Honors Wrestlers, Cage Team At Assembly

At an assembly held last week at Central High School, athletic awards were presented to members of the basketball and wrestling teams.

Following the award presentations, members of the spring sports teams — baseball, track and golf were introduced by their respective coaches, Charles Koterba, John Biltz and Earl Hayes.

VARSITY BASKETBALL coach Wayne Rittenhouse presented letters to Tom Fullove, who has now earned three varsity letters; Dave Roberts and George Broadnax, who have two each, and to Mike Grady and Gibson Hayes.

Fullove also received a trophy as a member of the all-city team for the current season—an honor which he had also received for the 1961-'62 season.

Horner also received a trophy as winner of the city league heavyweight division, thus marking his second CL win in this division.

Junior varsity letter winners were: Harry Loftus, Leonard Loftus, Steve Howard, Bob Arnett, Dick Morgan, Walter Bowman, Joe Collins, Charles Smith, Rick Hannas, Alonzo Amos, Bill Lewis, Dick Gilliam, Don Bosley, and Larry Jackson.

Whistling Dixie!

An estimated 1,500 to 2,000 whistling swans are resting and feeding in the marshes along Lake Erie, according to Karl Bednarik, wetlands biologist, Ohio Division of Wildlife. This is a large concentration but less than half of the tremendous buildup which occurred last spring.

Catholic Center Stages Karate, Judo Exhibition

An exhibition in judo, self-defense, and karate will be given at 8 p.m., Friday, Apr. 5, at the Catholic Center, 80 S. Sixth-st. The presentation will feature members of the Columbus Branch of the Korean Sports Judo Association.

The exhibition is open to all Catholic high school boys and men in the area.

INSTRUCTORS WILL be Doug Grant and Nick Liberty. Grant, a holder of the fourth-grade black belt, is the top ranking judo expert in the state. He is also the highest rate KSJA member in the United States.

Liberty, who has been participating in the sport for eight years, holds the first-degree black belt.

Soap Box Derby Interest Is High

There is every indication that the 1963 Columbus Soap Box Derby will be the biggest ever, according to Derby Director Tom Hawk, who added that already more than 500 boys from throughout Central Ohio have shown an interest in the coming race.

Hawk estimated that possibly 125 of these youngsters would compete in the Derby on race day, July 13. The winner will represent the Columbus area at the All-American Soap Box Derby in Akron, Aug. 3.

The third advance clinic for boys with previous racing experience will be held at the Sunshine Recreation Center, 667 Sullivant-av, Saturday, Apr. 6. The first clinic for boys entering their first Derby will be held Saturday, Apr. 13, at Hugh White Chevrolet.

RETIRES

AFTER 34 YEARS as an engineer for the Ohio Fuel Gas Co., Earl H. Smashall, 200 S. Harris-av, has announced he will retire Apr. 1. He started with the Columbia Engineering and Management Corp. in 1929 as an engineer working on the problems of pipeline corrosion in several states. He transferred to Ohio Fuel in 1949. He was graduated from the Columbus High School of Commerce and attended Franklin University. He was a member and is past chairman of the American Gas Association's Underground Corrosion Committee, an industry-wide organization.

HOME PERMIT ISSUED

Luther Lyons, 1134 Genevaav, has been issued a building permit to construct a five-room, one and a half bath, frame and concrete block home at 1647 Jackson-rd. Construction is valued at $15,000. Contractor is Grove City Home Repair Co.

Watch Out For Furnace 'Inspectors'

Beware of furnace repair gyp artists. High pressure operators are costing American homeowners hundreds of thousands of dollars a year in exorbitant, unnecessary furnace repair and installation, according to Daniel Severt, president of Suburban Heating Co., Inc.

Severt pointed out that many such artists pick up their activities at the end of the heating season. In most cases a man introducing himself as a furnace inspector will call on the homeowner and ask to check the furnace.

In every case, Severt said, the "inspector" will find something wrong with the furnace and want to dismantle the heating plant in your home. "Of course," he added, "the salesman will want a down payment before making repairs he has recommended." In most cases, according to Severt, the furnace actually needed little repairing, if any.

Severt recommended that anyone identifying himself as an inspector should be required to produce proper credentials to substantiate his claim.

He added, "Don't let anyone dismantle your furnace and don't sign a contract or make a down payment for repairs before checking on the company doing the work. If it is a legitimate firm, it will welcome inquiries," he said.

"A phone call to the Better Business Bureau, Chamber of Commerce or utility companies might very well save money and headaches," he concluded.

IT RUNS ON SUN

New Furniture Line At Westhill

The McVay Furniture Co., of Westerville has purchased the Westhill Furniture Store at 2542 W. Broad-st, according to an announcement by Westhill owner Ed Schadler. The new owners have stated that Schadler will remain as manager at the store.

The store will now be known as McVay's Westhill Colonial Shoppe, and plans call for the liquidation of the present stock of merchandise and restocking with early American period furniture.

L. L. Claymier, vice-president of the McVay Westerville store, announced that besides retaining Schadler as manager, Tom Garity will remain as assistant manager and Mrs. Ralph Stewart will continue in the bookkeeping department.

The new Westhill store will be primarily devoted to early American furniture, featuring the Ethan Allen line, along with carpeting, draperies, accessories and a decorating service.

EGGSACTLY 563 PRIZES!

Slate Great Western Hunt For Saturday

Youngsters to 10 years of age will begin a gigantic search for 563 plastic eggs at Great Western Shoppers' Mart, beginning at 9:30 a.m. Saturday.

The eggs will be concealed in straw, scattered over the cruising lanes between Woolworth's and Grant's. Each will contain a number and the name of the store providing the prize. Children have only to match posted numbers at each store to redeem their prizes.

Top prizes include two boys' or girls' bicycles, four coaster wagons, two scooters and four tricycles.

The annual event usually draws more than 1,000 children.

Community Council Invites Public To Tour Whetstone

Hilltop Community Council will hold an open meeting at Whetstone Recreation Center, 3923 N. High-st, Thursday, Apr. 4, at 8 p.m. Lila Morgan, Whetstone director, will describe activities at the center.

"The local public should be interested in touring Whetstone," said HCC President Pete Block, "because the new Westgate Center is being modeled directly from it."

The executive board will meet at 7 p.m., preceding the general meeting. The membership committee announced that a new membership roster will be available.

The program committee announced that plans have been completed for the remainder of the year. Events are as follow:

May 9, 8 p.m. — Lindsay Johnson, parole supervisor of girls' and boys' division of Juvenile Court, will speak.

June 13, 6 to 9 p.m. — Picnic at Westgate Park.

Sept. 12, 8 p.m. — Jack Sensenbrenner will speak.

Oct. 10, 8 p.m. — Mayor Ralston Westlake will speak.

Oct. 31, 6 p.m. — Annual Halloween party.

Dec. 8, 6 to 8:30 p.m. — Annual Christmas tree lighting ceremony at Glenwood Park.

Dec. 12, 6 p.m. — New officers installation dinner.

WINS KROGER CASH

Lincoln Village Women To Sponsor Easter Egg Hunt

LINCOLN VILLAGE
Mrs. Forrest Allen
878-4551

The Lincoln Village Women's Club is sponsoring its annual Easter Egg Hunt for preschoolers and kindergarten children on Wednesday, Apr. 10, 10:30 at Carl Frye Park, located on the corner of Darbyhurst-rd and Amesbury-wy. In case of inclement weather it will be held the following day. This is a community services project. The Easter Egg Hunt chairman is Mrs. Joseph Dowin.

Mr. and Mrs. James Powers, 289 Deerfield-rd, are the proud parents of a son born Mar. 22.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Miller, 424 Yarmouth-ln, are the proud parents of a son born Mar. 30.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hess, 4959 Hamden-wy, are the happy parents of a baby daughter, born Mar. 30.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Poppe, 4998 Eastham-wy, are the happy parents of a son born Mar. 30.

The March meeting of the Colic to College CCL was held at the home of Mrs. William Kelly, with Mrs. Norman DeVictor as co-hostess. Squadmen Crabtree and Bowers of the Prairie Township Fire and Emergency Dept. showed two films on first-aid and answered question of the group.

The regular meeting of the Pleasant View Music Boosters will be held Apr. 9, 7:30 p.m. at the school. Entertainment will be furnished by the dance band. You may not be aware of it, but if you have a child in either band or one of the choruses, you are automatically a member of the Music Boosters. We are beginning to make plans for our summer projects, so please plan to attend.

Winners in the Thursday Bridge Club were as follows: first, Zita Johnson; second, Lu Hess; and third, Ella Mae Trees. Thelma Fursell and Lu Hess also bid and made a grand slam, the second time in as many months for Thelma, splitting the bonus between them.

Lincoln Village Beautifier's were represented at the Mar. 25 meeting of officers council of the Franklin County Garden Clubs, OAGC, by Mrs. Robert Fox, Mrs. Fred Howell, Mrs. Richard Maples and Mrs. Philip Regen.

William F. Walton of the Division of Parks and Forestry gave an illustrated program on "Put Color in Your Tree Planting." The meeting was held at the Horticulture Building at OSU.

Mrs. Ray Russell and Mrs. Alva Cyrus of the Beautifier's attended the afternoon session of the "Flower Garden and Landscape Forum" held at the YWCA, Mar. 26. Program was "Flower Arranging" by Mrs. T. J. Ruble and "A to Z Techniques on the Care of Flowers" by Mrs. Albert Vitik.

The Palm Sunday Community Service, Apr. 17, will be at 7:30 p.m. in the Columbia Heights Methodist Church. Dr. Raymond V. Kearns, pastor of the Broad Street Presbyterian Church, will be the guest speaker, with each of the local pastors participating. The combined choirs will furnish the special music.

Westminster Presbyterian Church will hold a candlelight communion service Maundy Thursday, Apr. 11, at 7:30 p.m.

Also, on Apr. 11, Concordia Lutheran Church will hold Maundy Thursday Communion Service at 7:30 p.m. On Good Friday services will also be held at 7:30 p.m.

Bill and Karol Strapp, Taunton-wy, spent last weekend at Howard Johnson's. A short vacation for the children with mother and father away.

On Apr. 4 Doris Bryant and Pat Matyskella are chairmen of a Retreat Program in preparation for the annual retreat to be held at St. Theresa Shrine on the second weekend in June.

LINCOLN VILLAGE SOUTH AND ROME HEIGHTS

Betty Burke TR. 8-6167

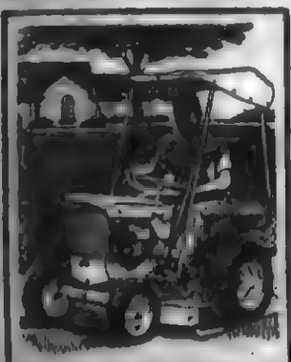
Miss Pamela Aldrich of 257 South Murray Hill-av, celebrated her sixth birthday at a party, at home, on Mar. 30.

The next meeting of the Rome Heights Women's Club will be held Tuesday, Apr. 23. There will be a white elephant sale.

There is now a membership drive on for the club. Anyone interested can contact Mrs. William Catlett at BR. 8-3481, Mrs. Helen Lantz at TR. 8-3266 or Mrs. Mary Cook at TP. 8-5905.

The monthly meeting of the Lincoln Village South CCL will be held on Thursday, Apr. 18, at 8 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Mary Lee Nourse of 462 Celina-av.

Frazier Ferguson will be the guest speaker and will discuss physical fitness.



The CCL project for April is collecting games for the Methodist Children's Home in Worthington. Anyone interested in donating anything please contact Mrs. Mary De Stazio at TR. 8-3022.

Anyone having information for this column please contact Mrs. Betty Burke, 4940 Frost-av., after 6 p.m. weekdays and anytime Saturday or Sunday at TR. 8-6167.

FRANKLIN HEIGHTS

Falcon Footnotes

By Gail and Lynn Bradford

Cheryl Blue and Karen DeWitt have been selected to represent Franklin Heights in the annual Buckeye Girls' State. The girls will spend one week during June in this government education program. Alternates are Nancy Delong and Sherry Boehringer.

Ed Bozemann, Bill Smith, Bill Kilbourne and Lynn Brock have been nominated as delegates for Buckeye Boys State. The boys, as yet, have not been interviewed and therefore the two alternates have not been decided. The program for Boys State is similar to that of Girls State. Both are sponsored by the American Legion Post.

Faculty Stipends

Three faculty members have received full finance stipends from the National Science Foundation. Mr. Wiens and Mr. Jordan will attend OSU. Mr. Russell, who received his second grant this year, will attend Antioch College.

Junior Leader Training

The Junior Leaders Training Course was held Mar. 29, 30 and 31 at Camp Lazarus. Eighty-two leaders and 29 adults attended the two-day training experience. The program consisted of teaching the junior leaders how to work with the Scouts in their patrol.

The course was directed by Harold Arnold, Meari Weaver, Gene Stinson, Collin Rockhold, Art Beaird, Ivan Krack, Gene Lona and Bruce Miller.

The units attending were Troop 79, Burgess EUB; Troop 114; St. Timothy Lutheran; Troop 136, Grove City Presbyterian Church; Troop 162, Oakley Baptist Church; Troop 186, St. John's Lutheran; Troop 212, Hilltop Methodist; Troop 223, Bethlehem Lutheran Church; Troop 250, St. Agnes Roman Catholic; Troop 275, Grove City Methodist; Troop 357, Hilltonia EUB; Troop 426, Lincoln Baptist; Troop 520, St. Aloysius, and Troop 580, Salem Methodist Church.

Committee Meeting

Wednesday, Apr. 3, will be the date of the district committee meeting at the home of Robert Ding.

Council Meeting

The council program and budget meeting will be held Tuesday, Apr. 9, at General Motors. All institutional apprentices are urged to attend.

GRANGE INSPECTION

Plain City Grange will have inspection Wednesday evening, Apr. 10, at 8 p.m. County deputies, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Terhune, will be present. A special program is being planned by Mrs. Mary Roby, lecturer. All members are urged to attend. Refreshments will be served.

Return To Incentive Idea Long Overdue

One of the vice presidents of General Electric Co., speaking in Chicago last week urged all Americans to "take a stand for incentive" as being the best plan to get our economy moving.

He pointed out that it is time to rebuild the value of rewarding success instead of penalizing it.

Any man who does a good job should be rewarded. It is not enough to live in a system that brings the same pay to the man who does a far less productive job.

Beware The Coupons

The old coupon racket is about to hit Columbus again.

Advance inquiries from an out of town firm point to the early arrival of sales people who will be calling upon business houses to sell them participation in a coupon book plan.

Better Business Bureau officials advise that many of these plans are pure rackets. Better be safe than sorry. Check with BBB before you buy.

$71 ConfederateCash Jackpot Awaits LuckySubscriber

Think of the many things $71 will buy. It could be used to buy a needed appliance, shop at the market, repair the car or do any number of things for you or your family.

That $71 now awaits the winner of the rapidly growing jackpot in the "Confederate" Money Contest sponsored by Hartley Newspapers and its advertisers.

You could be the lucky reader who discovers the "5" insignia in this newspaper and bringing it to the Hartley Newspaper office, 2465 W. Broad-st you can claim five Hartley Newspapers dollars. But, if you are a paid subscriber to a Hartley Newspaper, you can also claim the growing jackpot of 71 "Confederate" bills.

Besides the lucky "5" readers will also find insignia containing the number "1" hidden in 20 different newspapers. These insignia are worth one "Confederate" dollar which may be claimed by simply mailing the page containing the insignia to Hartley Newspapers or by bringing the page into the office.

All insignia are printed in a color other than black and are like the two insignia printed in this article. All insignia are hidden in the advertisements of the Hartley Newspapers this week.

Those fortunate enough to be the possessors of Hartley "Confederate" cash will find their lucky money is as good as money in the bank when spent with an advertiser in a Hartley Newspaper during the week the winner wishes to spend his "Confederate" money. Hartley Newspapers guarantees all advertisers that "Confederate" money accepted from winners will be redeemed for U. S. currency in present use.

Employes or carriers of Hartley Newspapers or their families are not eligible to claim "Confederate" money.

So now is the time to polish up the reading glasses and begin to search through this newspaper for one of the lucky insignia. You could make as

What Is Lincoln Village Future? Time (Maybe Columbus) Will Tell

All Aspects Are Being Considered

By ED CHURCHILL

Many people, and not only those in Lincoln Village, are wondering what's in the future for that community.

The question looms bigger and bigger for the residents as community leaders study the fate of the unincorporated settlement of nearly 7,000.

Incorporation as a city, annexation to Columbus and even to New Rome are being studied and considered as possible answers to village problems.

Some higher-ups in Franklin Township, an area for the most part dead set against annexation to Columbus, have intimated they may be willing to join in with an incorporation move.

One recognized expert in community government problems reportedly told villagers that incorporation might be a more equitable solution to their problems than annexation to Columbus.

Repercussions are feared from Columbus) in an incorporation move, however, because of the not-unfounded suspicion that the city is interested in annexing the village.

The consensus among leaders seems to be that Columbus would start annexation procedures at the first hint.

Eh, What's Up Doc? Three Big Egg Hunts On Hilltop, West Side

Neighborhood children from the Hilltop and West Side will swarm by the hundreds to Westgate, Glenwood and Sunshine parks Saturday morning to see what the Easter bunny has left. Egg hunts in the three areas will get under way at 9 a.m.

In its 13th annual event, Sunshine Park, 667 Sullivant-av, will have three separate hunts — one for those four years old and under, for those five through seven, and for those eight through 10. All groups will first meet at the parking lot.

The search is sponsored by the West Side Board of Trade, in cooperation with the staffs of the City Recreation Department and the Boys' Clubs of Columbus. According to co-chairmen, Don McCann and Ralph Oberleitner, there will be a distribtuion of 1,000 individually wrapped eggs after the hunt.

S. P. Smith is arranging for prizes which will include stuffed toys and bonus baskets of candy. The Golden Age Club of the center is boiling several cases of eggs and the Teenage Club is doing the coloring.

'Near Perfect' Bank Robbers Victimized

By FRANK RYAN

Three brothers who staged a near-perfect bank robbery fell victim to the old dime novel axiom that the criminal always returns to the scene of the crime.

All three have been arraigned on federal bank robbery charges as participants in the daring Monday afternoon robbery of $45,519 from the Great Western branch of the Ohio National Bank. All of the loot was recovered in a shattered suitcase buried in the woods near Xenia.

Norman Linville, 39, a Wright Patterson Air Force Base staff sergeant, and his brother, Kenneth, 27, Paris, Ky., were arrested less than two hours after the robbery. They were apprehended when a late model Cadillac driven by one of them was seen cruising past the robbery scene.

The pair was stopped at a roadblock set up by West Jefferson police on Rt. 40 following a police radio call from Sheriff's Sgt. Clyde Mann, who was in pursuit of the car.

A .38 caliber revolver and a .45 caliber automatic were found in the car.

It was later learned they had decided to go bowling in the vicinity of the crime.

The third brother, George Linville, 32, of Miami, Fla., was arrested in Dayton. He confessed his part in the robbery after three hours of questioning by FBI agents. He implicated his brothers.

Both police and witnesses agree that the bank robbers "knew what they were doing inside the bank." The only apparent trouble they encountered was in their escape when their stolen 1963 car smashed into a curb in front of the Woolworth store in the Great Western Shopping Center.

The robbers apparently entered the rear of the J. C. Penney Co. store, police said. Three coats, believed worn by the robbers, were found in the rear of the store. It is believed that the men walked out the front of the store and mingled with shoppers.

Inside the bank, however, the trio seemed to have no difficulty. Despite the presence of 35 customers, the robbers maintained almost complete control as they collected their $45,519 loot from tellers' cages in about five minutes.

The robbery began at 2 p.m., an hour before bank closing time, when the trio entered

Witnesses Term Trio Calm, Cool

Calm, cool, collected and businesslike are not usually the words one expects to be applied to bank robbers. But such was the case as witnesses to the daring Monday afternoon robbery of the Great Western branch of the Ohio National Bank described a quiet, five-minute "stick-up job."

"I was sitting at the table counting money and I looked up and was facing a gun," said a young mother who wished to remain anonymous.

Her first thought, she said, was that she did not want to be cheated of the opportunity to raise her baby.

The robber she and three other persons encountered was apparently the only one of the trio to display a gun. The group was in a conference room adjoining the main section of the bank.

"It was a tiny gun," she said, "nickel-plated and with a long barrel. The robber was cool. He wasn't afraid. He knew what he was doing."

She spoke of hearing a "sawing" noise just prior to

Ten Win Trip To Boys' State

Camp Chase Post 98, American Legion, today revealed the names of 10 west area high school junior classmen chosen to attend Buckeye Boys' State.

The youths will join 1,300 others at the 26th annual state-wide "workshop in democracy" June 13 through 22 at Ohio University, Athens.

All will go to an orientation meeting June 2 at Veterans Memorial.

According to Chester Wagner, Boys' State chairman of Camp Chase Post, the students are picked for their qualities of leadership, sportsmanship, and scholarship, and zeal for service. They must demonstrate self reliance and have an interest in civics, history, public speaking, or debate. "All candidates rated extremely high," Wagner said, "and it is regrettable that every one of the boys cannot go."

Upon arriving at Ohio U.

Read 'An Editor's Outlook' --On The Editorial Page

It's on the Editorial Page this week!

Jenkins Lloyd Jones, provocative, and sometimes crusading editor of the Tulsa (Okla.) Tribune, this week starts his stimulating new column, "An Editor's Outlook," which will run every week in the Hartley Newspapers.

JONES

The dynamic editor, who promises that his column will be "politically impartial and nonpartisan," will "cover all phases of human experience" as he sees it. His brilliant editorials have been likened to those of the late William Allen White, who, as editor of the Emporia (Kan.) Gazette, received high acclaim earlier in the century for his journalistic achievements and became a legend in the newspaper world.

Jones just may follow in his footsteps. His speech, entitled "America's Moral Crisis," delivered before the American Society of Newspaper Editors, received widespread praise.

It was reprinted in Hartley Newspapers under the title "Who Is Tampering With the Soul Of America?" and requests for 500 copies of the speech came in. A reprint in Reader's Digest drew more requests for copies than any article the magazine has published in years!

In 1958, Jones won the William Allen White Citation for Journalistic Merit, which is considered one of the highest honors in the field of journalism.

"Jones and Typewriter" have been an unbeatable combination for years. When he isn't tied to his news desk in Tulsa, he's off to far places shooting back his columns to the U.S.A.

Jones resides in Tulsa with his wife, the former Juanita Carlson (daughter of a former governor of Colorado), and their two sons and daughter.

The publishers of Hartley Newspapers think readers will like the straight-thinking views of this hard-fisted editor as he shares "An Editor's Outlook," starting today on the Editorial Page.

Wilson-rd Extension Decision Due Soon

The fate of the proposed Wilson-rd extension project as a federal aid highway may be decided in three or four weeks.

A spokesman for the Bureau of Public Roads has set an early May target date for completing his review of Franklin County's request for addition of roads to the Federal Aid Secondary Highway System.

Barring serious points of contention between the BPR and county officials, the spokesman said, a final decision could be effected in about 30 days following reply by county officials to the bureau's original comments.

Construction of the proposed Wilson-rd extension from W. Broad-st to Sullivant-av could begin in 1964 if the project gains federal aid status.

Columbus Mayor W. Ralston Westlake and City Engineer Robert F. Werner told Hartley Newspapers that it is their hope to meet the 1964 schedule called for in capital improvement plans.

Mayor Westlake said he wanted to be prepared to proceed with the project as quickly as possible following federal approval for the proposed extension as part of the Federal Aid Secondary Highway System. The mayor said he felt such approval would be authorized by the Bureau of Public Roads.

As an example of work being processed in anticipation of federal aid for the project, the mayor called attention to approval by the New York Central Railroad of site plans involving railroad property.

The mayor said he called for appropriation of money by City Council for purchase of right-of-way for the project to enable the city to be better prepared to proceed with plans.

Asked if any of the right-of-way funds might be expended prior to approval necessary for federal participation in such costs, Mayor Westlake said: "We're hoping we'll get the word on the (federal) acceptance real soon."

Parents Told Not To Give Live Animals

The Columbus Humane Society again urges parents to purchase toy animals, not live ones, for their children's Easter gifts.

Many tiny animals, such as chicks, ducklings, or bunnies, have died because children forget they cannot be played with as puppies and kittens. The bones of little animals are fragile and will break easily; a gentle squeeze, a light blow or a fall will break legs, wings and ribs.

Special temperature, care and feeding are required of them, or they will die. The Humane Society suggests parents fill Easter baskets with colored eggs, candy and stuffed toy animals.

Final Plea Given For Easter Seals

The amount of contributions received during the first three and a half weeks of the Easter campaign now totals $60,206. This sum represents 75 per cent of the amount received in the 1962 campaign. This figure includes money collected during the Easter Seal parade, Mar. 31 and mail contributions.

Hilltoppers Given Preview Of New Westgate Center

The Hilltop Community Council's Apr. 4 meeting was held outside home grounds in the Whetstone Recreation Center on N. High-st.

Whetstone, which served as a partial model for the $400,000 Westgate Center to be opened in May, gave the group of about 25 Hilltoppers a preview of things to come.

The up-to-date and amply equipped gymnasium and athletic facilities impressed the visiting local delegation greatly. An auditorium, complete with a stage suitable for dramatic productions, also proved of interest, especially since rehearsal was in progress for a high school presentation. The Hilltop Council could then grasp an adequate idea of what was to be forthcoming.

The women were particularly taken by a sewing class in progress and also in the arts and crafts section. All were intrigued with the clay modeling room, which sported several high-heat kilns for clay-firing and the bonding of copper enamelling works.

The tour ended in the well-equipped kitchen, which is adequate for turning out meals for meetings, groups, etc., numbering up to 300.

Easter Egg Hunt Set For West Area

A total of 1,500 eggs and prizes will be hidden in the field behind Nationwide Inn, near Georgesville-rd, for the west area children's Easter egg hunt Saturday, Apr. 13. The search for the eggs, sponsored by Lincoln Village Lanes and Nationwide Inn, will begin at 10:30 a.m., but youngsters are urged to be on hand at 10 a.m. for opening ceremonies and games.

A special feature of the event, according to Lincoln Village Lanes Manager Gene Coover, will be the arrival of "Buster" the Easter bunny by helicopter at 10:30 to start the hunt. The entire affair will be broadcast over radio station WMNI by Bill Robinson.

Along with "Buster" will be a second Easter bunny and Linco the Clown from Lincoln Village Lanes.

Top prize of the day will be hidden in a golden egg and will make the lucky finder a co-pilot, along with "Buster," for a ride in the WMNI helicopter. Other eggs will contain certificates for free bowling at Lincoln Lanes, free dinners for the family and other prizes donated by west area merchants.

Children under 10 will be allowed to search the big field for eggs. Youngsters under four will be given a separate playground area to conduct their search.

Bellar Chairman Of Public Works Conference Here

Arthur J. Bellar of Algonquin-av, superintendent of the City Division of Sanitation, is chairman of the Ohio Chapter Conference of the American Public Works Association to be held Apr. 25 and 26 at the Deshler-Hilton.

Mayor Ralston Westlake will issue the welcome at the annual banquet Thursday evening.

A Friday feature will be a tour of the new Columbus Fire Department complex on Greenlawn-av.

CANCER CRUSADERS NEEDED NOW

The best laid plans of any campaign leaders are dependent upon workers for their successful completion, as is the April Cancer Crusade.

In recognition of their important role in the combination plan of education and fund-raising, 1963 has been designated as "the Year of the Volunteer."

Volunteers in the campaign to combat the disease that has touched the lives of so many have something vitally important to offer at each home they visit.

Carefully prepared educational pamphlets, with sound medical advice that may save countless lives, will be supplied to each volunteer in the crusade.

Thousands of women have already pledged their time in the effort, and many more are needed.

Anyone wishing to volunteer for the crusade may call the American Cancer Society's Franklin County headquarters, 2300 W. Mound-st, BR. 6-5134.

PILOT CLUB TO MEET

It's Good They Got Together

Fifty years ago your gas company had relatively few customers. Local gas production could meet their demands. Now, nearly everyone in your town uses gas. It heats most homes.

Over the years the tremendous growth in demand for natural gas caused a number of smaller companies to join together for economy and efficiency in operations. Gradually, they faced the problems of supplying gas service not to just hundreds of consumers — but to hundreds of thousands.

Today, your gas company is part of the Columbia Gas System. That's one big reason you can enjoy the best possible natural gas service and the wonderful advantages of natural gas at [illegible]

'Music Around The World' Featured Tuesday At 'Y'

A musical program will be presented at 10 a.m. on "Tuesday at the 'Y,'" Apr. 16, at the Hilltop YWCA Center, 2879 Valleyview-dr.

"Music Around The World" will feature selections from many lands. Mrs. Stanford Ackley, on her recent world tour, made a collection of musical favorites of the countries she visited, and will comment upon them and the occasions for which they are used.

Mrs. E. D. Guernsey, pianist, will then play them.

The customary gourmet luncheon will be served at noon with Mrs. William Sanderson, Mrs. Hottes DeHays, and Mrs. Donald McCann as hostesses.

In the afternoon, Jeanne Bray of the Columbus Police Department will talk about "Personal Safety at Home and on the Street," with common sense advice on safety measures every woman should know for her own protection and that of her family.

A series of slides will illustrate her lecture. A discussion period will follow.

Baby sitting, with supervised crafts, will be available without charge. Cost of the entire day, including luncheon, will be $1. Mothers are requested to bring a sack lunch for their children. Milk will be furnished.

For further information call CA. 4-9121.

Union Good Friday Worship Services Slated At Three Location In The Community

Annual community Good Friday services will be held at Hillcrest Baptist Church, Hilltop Lutheran Church and St. John Lutheran Church beginning at noon on Friday, Apr. 12.

at Hillcrest . . .

Rev. Van Bogard Dunn, dean of the Methodist Theological School in Ohio, will be the speaker at the non-denominational service at Hillcrest, W. Broad-st. at Eldon-av. The service, sponsored by the West Side Ministerial Association, will be from 12:30 to 1:30 p.m., Rev. Jacob Ashburn, president, said.

Dr. Dunn is a native of Kentucky and attended college at Murray State College in Kentucky. He received his B.D. from Duke University and was ordained in the Methodist ministry. He returned to Duke as a teaching fellow, was awarded a Ph.D. in New Testament, and became a member of Phi Beta Kappa, national honorary scholarship fraternity.

He has taught at Lambuth College in Jackson, Tenn., and at Duke. He was appointed first dean of the Theological School in 1959.

at Hilltop Lutheran . . .

Pastor John Hydinger will host a neighborhood Lutheran service from noon to 3 p.m. at the church, located at W. Broad-st at Terrace-av. The theme will be "The Seven Last Words of Christ" with the following sermonettes:

"Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do." —Pastor Hydinger.

"Woman, behold thy son! Behold thy mother!" — Rev. Paul Buchholtz of Our Saviour Lutheran Church.

"Today shalt thou be with Me in Paradise" — Rev. K. Jay Bishop of St. Timothy Lutheran Church.

"My God, My God, why hast Thou forsaken Me?"—

REV. DUNN

Rev. J. Robert Ensign of All Saints Lutheran Church, Worthington.

"I thirst" — Seminarian James H. Heil, vicar at First English Lutheran Church.

"It is finished!" — Rev. David L. Scharf, newly elected director of stewardship and American missions of the Ohio Synod, Lutheran Church in America.

"Father, into Thy hands I commend My spirit"—Rev. H. N. Brobst, pastor-emeritus of St. Matthew's Lutheran Church.

Choirs and soloists from the participating congregations will take part in the service. There will be brief breaks between the sermons for those who cannot be present at the entire service.

at St. John Lutheran . . .

"Beneath the Cross of Jesus" is the theme of the two-hour Good Friday service to be held at St. John Lutheran Church, W. Broad-st at Hague-av, sponsored by the Columbus Lutheran Pastors Conference.

Four 30-minute periods of worship will begin at noon. There will be special music and hymn singing. Pastor C. T. Langholz and Vicar Thomas Waber of St. John will serve as liturgists. The following messages will be given in order:

"Followers Were Grieving" —Rev. K. J. Bishop of St. Timothy Church.

"Scornful Voices Resounded" — Rev. G. A. Haubrich of St. Matthew Church.

"A Remarkable Confession Was Made" — Rev. F. Klopfer of Bethlehem Church.

Seasonal Worship Rites Are Slated At Concordia

The community is invited to attend Holy Week services at Concordia Lutheran Church, 225 Schoolhouse-ln, Lincoln Village.

On Maundy Thursday at 7:30 p.m., communion will be held, and Good Friday services are planned at 7:30 p.m.

"In The Shadow Of The Cross" is the theme of Friday's service, and is a variation of the traditional Tenebrae, especially in the use of seven candles. The Choir will take part.

First Easter day service, at 7 a.m., will be held outside, weather permitting. The second service will be at 11 a.m.

Rev. Raymond A. Ensig, pastor, will conduct the services, and will use as his theme, "What Does the Easter Message Mean to You."

Easter Day Is Planned At Burgess

Young People's Choir of Burgess Avenue Evangelical United Brethren Church will sing at the 6:30 a.m. sunrise service, and will be in charge of the entire service.

William Hunter, Otterbein College student and member of the local church, will be the narrator for the program, based on the theme, "Were You There?"

Identical worship services are scheduled for 8 and 10 a.m., with the Junior Choir singing at the earlier service, and the Senior Choir, at the later service. The pastor, Rev. Irvin H. Lane, will preach at each service on "Easter's Message of Triumph."

Choir To Present Cantata

Hilltop Methodist Choir will present an Easter cantata, "The Crown Of Life" by Rob Roy Parry, Sunday, 7:30 p.m.

The choir is composed of members of the Gospel, Senior and Young Adult Choirs, interested singers from different choirs in the city, and other people who like to sing.

Soloists for the occasion will be, soprano, Mrs. Lambert, Bethel AME; Mrs. Marilyn Crowell, alto; Maceo Jackson and Robert Beatty, tenor soloists; Rev. R. Goodrich, baritone, and Rev. H. Turner, bass.

Accompanists are Miss Thelma Lowry and Mrs. Gene Ginn.

Maundy Thursday, April 11, will be observed, beginning at 7:45 p.m. Communion will be held. Public is invited.

Rev. Frederick R. Clay is minister.

Westgate To Mark Easter

Westgate Methodist Church at 345 S. Brinker will hold communion services Maundy Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

On Good Friday, the Chancel Choir, under the direction of Jack O. Woodruff, will present John Stainer's "The Crucifixion." Soloists will be Charles Hoover and Dr. Richard Baumgartner.

Easter sunrise service will be held at 6:30 a.m., followed by breakfast.

Worship service is planned at 9 a.m. and Sunday School for everyone at 10.

Second worship begins at 11 a.m., with Sunday School provided for children.

The pastor, Rev. Sydney C. G. Everson, will deliver all sermons.

Rev. Dutt To Talk At Hilltonia

Rev. Harold Dutt, conference superintendent of the Evangelical United Brethren Church, will preach at Easter Sunday services at Hilltonia EUB, 514 Columbian-av.

His message at the 6:30 a.m. service will be "A Sunrise Worship Experience."

Youth will have charge of the service and the Youth Choir will sing. Betty Carson will be director of the program.

Rev. Dutt will speak on "A Post-Resurrection Challenge," at identical worship services at 8:30 and 10:30 a.m.

Glenwood Plans Worship Rites For Easter Day

Four Easter services, beginning with a sunrise program at 6:30, will be held in Glenwood Methodist Church.

A dramatization of the resurrection story will be featured at the sunrise service with the chancel and youth choirs participating. Rev. James Dunaway will have charge.

In identical services to be held at 8:15, 9:30 and 10:45 a.m. chancel, youth and chapel choirs will sing. Rev. Warren H. Bright will preach.

Friends Churches To Host Chorale

The 40-voice Chorale of Malone College, a Christian liberal arts college in Canton, will present a sacred concert Easter Sunday, Apr. 14, 10:30 a.m. at Sullivant Avenue Friends Church, 1442 Sullivant-av, and at 7:30 p.m. at Westgate Friends Church, 3750 Sullivant-av.

Under the direction of Roger W. Leach, chairman Division of Fine Arts, the Chorale will sing sacred classics, spirituals, and favorite hymns and songs of the Christian church.

The Malone College Chorale is on its annual spring tour, which this year includes many churches of different denominations in Ohio and Indiana. The concert is open to the public with no admission charge.

FAIRBORN, O.

Steeples Soar In Downtown City's Skyline

Their spires are neighbors to downtown skyscrapers, their chimes strike a melodious note in the medley of city traffic.

By Betty Deft

The heart of Columbus has a busy beat — hurried by the rush of business, nervous with noisy traffic, strong with the authority of city, county and state affairs. . .

And reverent, with more than a dozen churches standing within a few blocks of Broad and High.

Many are very old, first houses of worship of some of the city's largest denominations. And their membership includes families whose names have been on the rolls for generations. Most members now live in various parts of the city and suburbs, but their loyalties have remained with their "home church."

Built a century or more ago, of enduring stone and hardwood, these churches with their interesting architecture stand serenely unaware of the brash, noisy downtown area. Behind magnificent old doors are islands of calm, dimly lit with quiet lights, candles and sun streaming faintly through stained glass.

Differing from neighborhood churches whose primary concern is for their own people, downtown churches also serve travelers and the business community. Services are held frequently, and many of the churches are open for rest, meditation and prayer.

Thirteen churches of the larger denominations, one vacant at 72 E. Mound-st, and a number of smaller houses of worship are located within the boundaries of the Scioto River, Livingston-av, Washington-av and Long-st.

And just beyond are others — Broad Street Presbyterian, St. Paul's Episcopal, Shiloh Baptist, St. Paul's AME and St. Patrick's and St. Mary's Catholic churches.

Within the downtown area are two Methodist, one Christian Science, one Congregational, two Roman Catholic, three Baptist, one Evangelical Protestant, a Presbyterian, Episcopal and a Lutheran church.

The distinctive spire of Trinity Evangelical Lutheran, 404 S. Third-st, dominates the neighborhood. Founded in 1848, it has occupied its present site since 1856. Rev. Harold S. Goers is pastor. The church numbers 604 confirmed members and a Sunday School enrollment of 300.

St. John's Evangelical Protestant, 61 E. Mound-st, was founded on its present site in 1872, and the present church was dedicated in 1924. Rev. William von Brauchitsch is acting pastor, and Rev. E. Bruce Jacobs, visiting pastor. There are about 1,400 communicant members, and 400 in church school.

Central Presbyterian, 182 S. Third-st, was founded at Cherry and S. Third-st in 1839, and the present building was dedicated in 1860. There are 400 members and 175 in church school, and the minister is Rev. John W. Omerod.

The seat of the Bishop of the Diocesan See of Columbus, and also a parish church served by Msgr. Joseph E. McGlynn, the Gothic, St. Joseph Catholic Cathedral on E. Broad-st, at Fifth-st, was consecrated in 1878. The parish was founded in 1866. About 3,500 attend eight Sunday masses.

Mt. Olivet Baptist Church, 428 E. Main-st, with its large marble cross in front was built in 1927, and the site purchased eight years earlier. Dr. H. Beecher Hicks is pastor, and of the 1,600 members, 400 are in Sunday School.

The spire with its large cross has made Holy Cross Catholic Church at 204 S. Fifth-st, a landmark. First mass was celebrated in the church in 1838. Fr. George Fulcher, pastor, is also editor of The Catholic Times.

First service of Trinity Episcopal Parish was led by Rev. Philander Chase in 1817 in the home of Dr. Lincoln Goodale, and the church school, formed in 1827, was the first in Columbus. Worship was held at Broad-st and Pearl-st from 1834 to 1869, when the present church was built at 125 E. Broad-st. Rev. Roger B. Nichols, rector, is assisted by Rev. Robert R. Hansel. Noonday Lenten services are a tradition at Trinity.

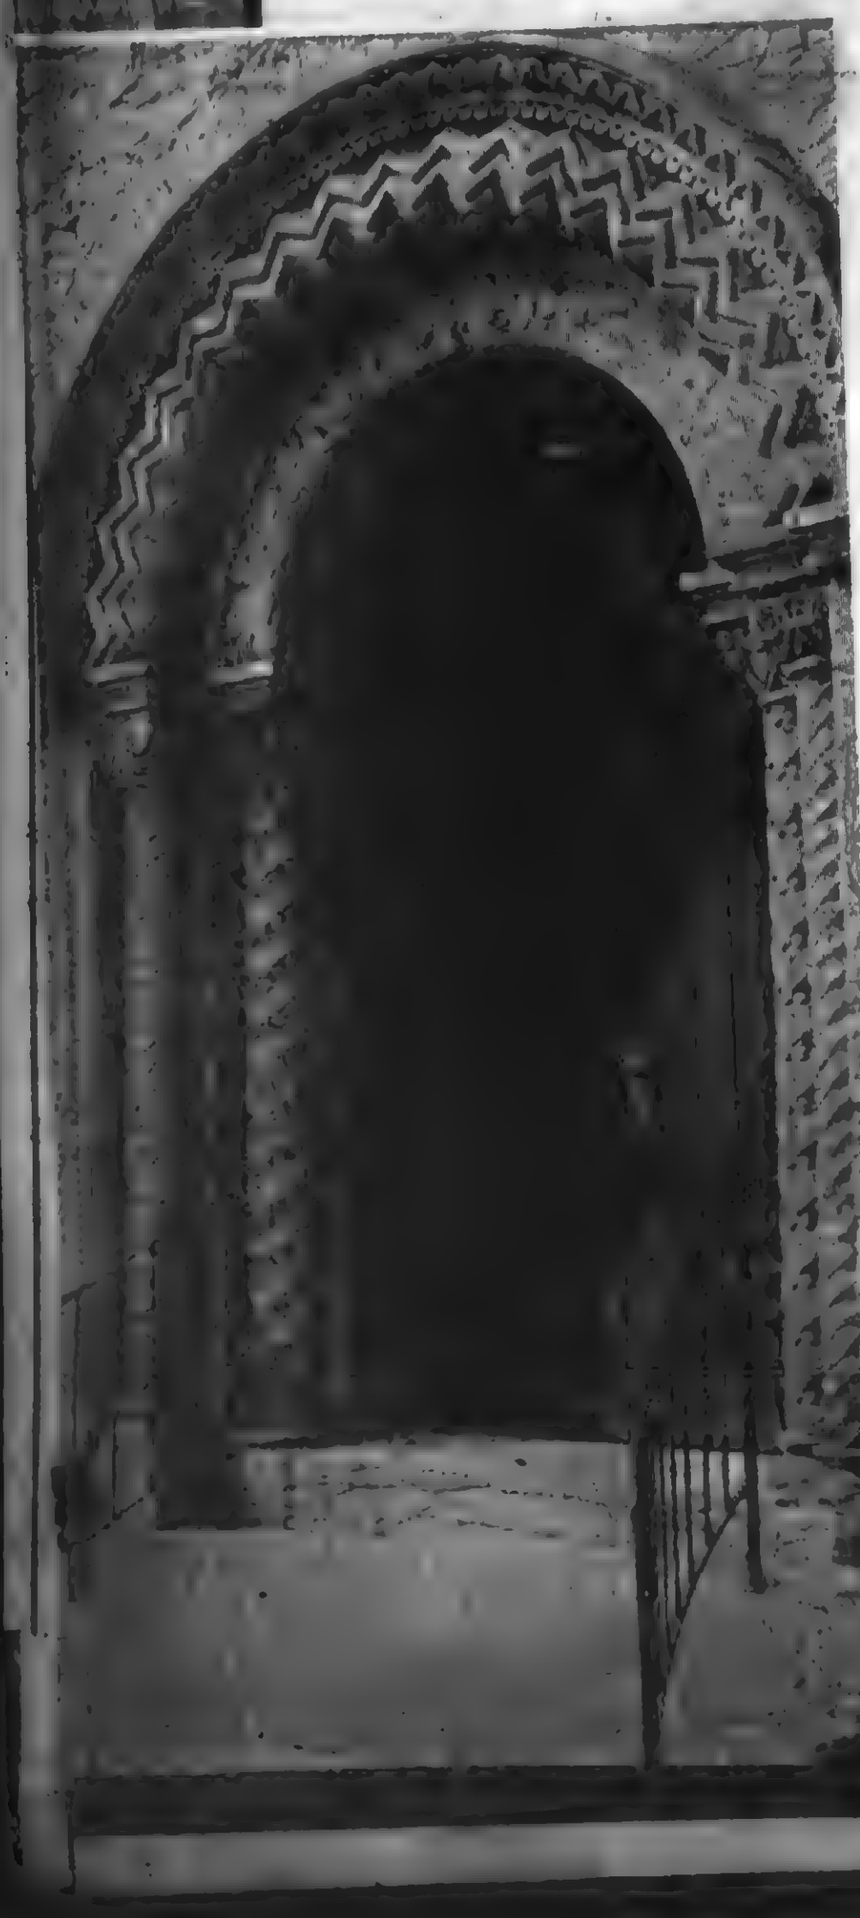
Gay Street Baptist at 496 E. Gay-st, was originated as the People's Baptist at 146 Talmadge, and the present structure was built in 1926. Rev. U. G. Campbell is pastor.

Livingston Methodist, 76 E. Livingston-av, was founded in 1834, near its present site, as the German Methodist. The present church, built in 1878, is expected to be razed this year to make way for the expressway. Rev. Roland G. Perkins is pastor.

Founded in 1922 at Grant-av and Donaldson, Friendship Baptist Church building at 442 Donaldson-st, was once a Jewish synagogue. Pastor is Rev. R. T. Gleaves.

A feature of First Congregational Church, 444 E. Broad-st, is the fleche, or spire, rising directly over the intersection of the cross that is the floor design of the church. The church was founded in 1852 on the site of the old Columbus Citizen. A structure was built at Third and Broad-sts in 1857, and the present one in 1931. There are about 1,800 members, with 300 in church school. Rev. Chalmers Coe is pastor, Rev. Ralph Colby, associate pastor, and Rev. Howard Russell in charge of youth work.

First building of Broad Street Methodist Church, built on its present site at 501 E. Broad-st, was a frame, dedicated in 1875. The present green serpentine stone was dedicated in 1895. Rev. David W. Skeen, pastor, is assisted by Rev. Richard Calentine. Of its 1,000 members, 200 are in church school.



First Church of Christ, Scientist, 457 E. Broad-st, is a branch of The Mother Church in Boston, Mass. Two locally elected readers conduct services. After the first formal meeting in 1896, First Church congregation outgrew three other locations before establishing its present church in 1914.

The role of urban churches in a city's religious life is the concern of denomination leaders everywhere, who recognize the added responsibility of downtown churches to their community, as well as to their own people.

This challenge to the urban church is being met by many. Varying programs of adult education, social services, and extensive youth activities are their answer to a city's need.

Downtown churches . . . their architecture a note of grandeur in the downtown scene, and their sanctuaries a place of peace for the business community and travelers . . . may they ever linger on.

Good Friday, Easter Sunday Services Set At Westgate

A candlelight communion service is planned Good Friday, 7:30 p.m. at Westgate Evangelical United Brethren Church, 61 S. Powell-av.

Rev. Harold Dutt, former pastor and now conference superintendent, Ohio Southeast Conference, will be the speaker. The Chancel Choir, directed by Carl Speckman, will sing "Were You There?" and "Go To Dark Gethsemane."

The pastor, Rev. Howard W. Buckley, will conduct the service. Mrs. Eldred Heisel is the organist.

Sunrise service at 6:30 Easter Sunday will be sponsored by the Youth Fellowship.

Rev. Arthur Myers, pastor of East Eighth Avenue EUB Church, will be the speaker.

A trumpet trio, with Tim Watson, Cliff Surrell and Connell Zerman will play, and the Junior Choir will sing "Christ Is Risen," and a women's sextette from the church will sing "Open The Gates Of The Temple."

There will be identical worship services at 8:30 and 10 a.m., with the pastor speaking on "Love's Disciplines—Hope."

The Chancel Choir will sing Cesar Franck's "150th Psalm," "Hallelujah" from the Mt. of Olives, and the Junior Choir will sing "He Arose."

A brass ensemble will play a fanfare and the processional.

Rites Slated At St. John

St. John Lutheran Church, West Broad street at Hague avenue will hold Maundy Thursday communion at 7:45 p.m. The pastor, Rev. C. T. Langholz, will speak on "Our Lord's Pronouncement on Holy Communion."

A two-hour service will be held on Good Friday, starting at noon. Theme will be "Beneath the Cross of Jesus."

An evening service will be held Friday with the theme, "St. John's Pronouncement on the Passion of Christ."

Easter Sunday service will begin at 6:30 a.m., followed by Sunday School at 9:15 a.m.

Rev. C. T. Langholz will deliver the sermon at the second worship service at 10:30 a.m. His theme will be, "The Third Day He Rose Again From the Dead."

Holy communion will be celebrated near the close of both Easter services. The reception of new members will be a feature of the 10:30 worship.

Easter Rites Set At Rich

The Rich Street Church of Christ, W. Rich-st at Grubb-st, will hold a candlelight service Thursday, Apr. 11, 7:30 p.m.

A sunrise service will be held at 6:30 a.m. on Easter Sunday, directed by the Christian Endeavor and followed by an Easter breakfast. Mrs. Russell Jordan is in charge of the breakfast.

At the Bible School hour at 9:30, a program directed by Mrs. Ray Dixon will be presented by the children and the young peoples choir, directed by Marilyn Taylor and Mary Jo Johnson, will sing.

Morning worship service is at 10:30.

Richard Clipner, Bible School superintendent, and the teachers have set a goal of 175. The public is invited to all of these services.

Witnesses—

the robbery. There was talk, she said, that the robbers had cut off communication to the outside, and also that it was work being done on the air conditioning system.

(Branch manager Jim Goudy said he did not believe that any work was being performed on the air conditioning system at the time of the robbery. Columbus Detective Sgt. Francis B. Smith said that there apparently was no alarm sounded. Police were notified of the robbery by telephone just after the bandits left.)

Others in the conference room entered by the gun-wielding member of the robbery gang were Rev. Ralph Martin, 38 S. Roys-av, assistant minister of Hoge Memorial Presbyterian Church; a member of his congregation, and Mrs. Delores Webb, 301 Hibler-dr, a bank employe.

Rev. Martin reported that the gunman became agitated only twice: when the minister put his hands in his pockets, and when Mrs. Webb walked between him and the bandit.

On the first occasion, the bandit gave a curt order to the minister to face the wall and place his hands over his head. He seemed more concerned when Mrs. Webb stepped between him and the minister. He grabbed her by the arm and pushed her against the wall, witnesses said.

"We were terrified," the unidentified young mother said, "but he wasn't waving the gun around. I wasn't afraid when it was all over. Being young, I thought it was exciting."

Bank branch manager Goudy and a bank patron, David Dean, 1427 S. Weyant-av, backed up the contention of other witnesses that the robbers were well organized.

Dean, assistant comptroller for Monarch Finer Foods Co., watched as one of the bandits scooped up $3,000 to $4,000 of the money he was depositing for the firm. Because the deposit slip had been filled out and handed to the teller prior to the robbery, the money was included in the $45,519 bank loss.

He said the robbers left by the rear entrance they had used to enter the bank. Dean agreed with other witnesses that the robbery lasted about five minutes.

Witnesses in the conference room said the robber apparently did not expect to find anyone in the room. Yet he remained calm as he scooped up money that was being counted and stuffed it into his pockets. (This money, too, was listed as part of the bank's loss because deposit slips had been filled out.) The gunman kept the occupants of the conference room under surveillance until his companions had finished their work in the main park of the bank.

DAR, Science Awards Won By West Pupils

Four West High School students took honors over last weekend. Three were recipients of Daughters of the American Revolution awards, and one took an award at the Science Fair.

Seniors Karen Alexander and Roland Lane received, at the DAR banquet Saturday evening, the chapter's medals of good citizenship.

Anna Fodor, a junior, received the $25 scholarship to Tar Hollow Camp of the Ohio Forestry Association.

Selected by Miss Mary Baker, West teacher, the DAR sponsors the student in the summer botany experience.

Hers was among 91 entries in the local fair.

CLASS SPEAKERS NAMED

ANN LEHMAN AND JAMES WIDENER will be senior class speakers at the 1963 West High School commencement, June 4. Selected from a field of 47 candidates by a panel of faculty members, the two will address 274 graduates in the school's Otis Magly athletic field. Miss Lehman's address will be "The Unfinished Tapestry," and Widener's speech is titled, "From Pathways to Highways." — J. Curtis Allen photos.

League To Hold Easter Sunrise At Hilltop Church

Easter sunrise service and breakfast will be held at Hilltop Lutheran Church, beginning at 6 a.m., presented by the Luther Leagues.

Sermonettes will be given by Tim Weisert, Tom Heil, and Keith Billhimer, on "What the Resurrection Means to Me".

Following the service, sunrise breakfast will be served by the leaguers.

On Monday, Apr. 15, the Intermediate League will hold a bowling party. Persons attending will meet at the church at 2 and be transported to Lincoln Village Bowling Lanes.

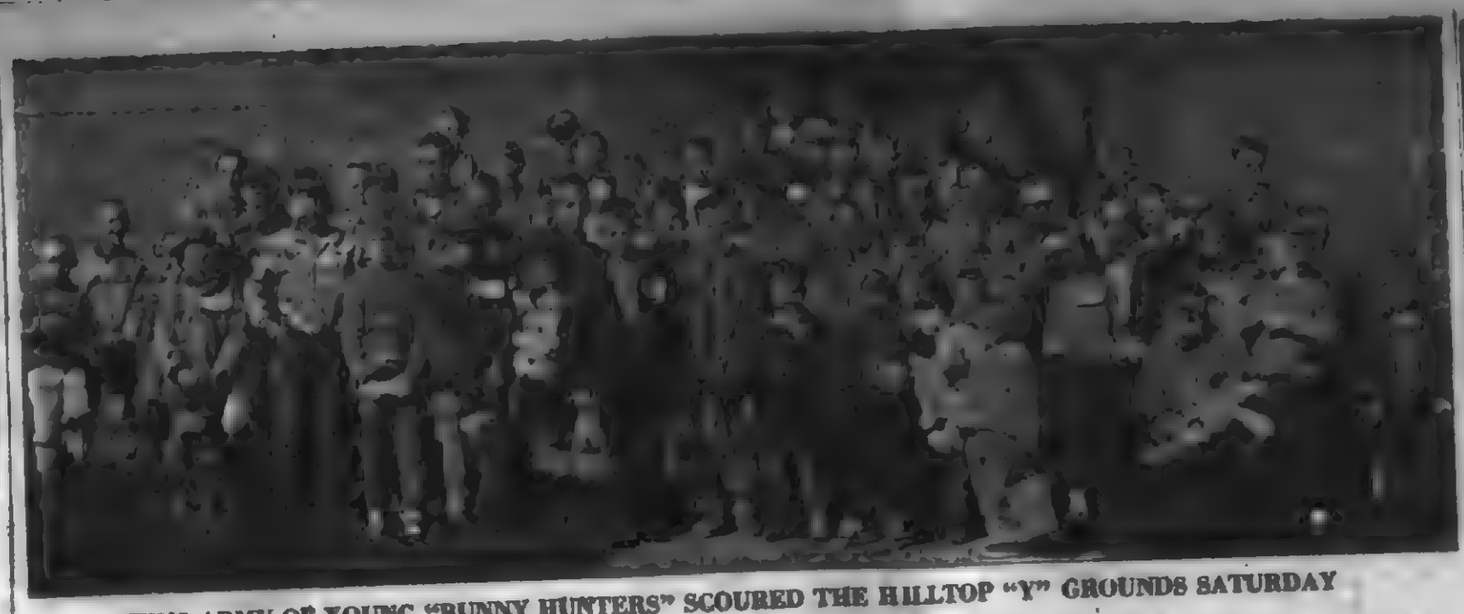
your North American man...



Now is the cost of my move determined?

Five booklet answers questions about moving

The final charge for any move is based on (1) actual weight of your goods; (2) actual distance goods are moved; (3) the charge for "accessorial services". For the facts about moving services and charges, call or write for free booklet, "How to Buy a Move".

the delegates will be divided into political parties. They will then go through the flurry of campaigning, nominations, and election, the same as in real government. They will vie for city, county, and state offices. Boys' Staters will hear addresses by Gov. James Rhodes, C. William O'Neill, Rev. Harvey Hahn, Don Hanning of the FBI, and representatives of the Air Force, Coast Guard, and Army academies. There will also be athletics and other diversions.

Selections were made by a committee from organizations that are underwriting costs of the trip. Included were: C. H. Bogart, Earl P. McNutt, and Wesley Clemens of West Side Kiwanis; Stan Taylor, Bob Hess, Paul Wagner, and Mel Cramer of Civitan of West Columbus; the bank from the rear. They ordered several employes into a back room, while one of the robbers scooped up money at the tellers' windows.

Donald Keefe and Don Tracy of Hilltop Kiwanis; Samuel H. Orr and Harry W. Hewson of West Franklin Kiwanis; Walter E. Donaugh of Western Optimists; J. Curtis Allen of Hilltop Business Association, and Dick Hall of the Thirteen Club. Hilltop Lions Club also is a sponsor.

The robbers spoke only to give specific instructions, and did not raise their voices, according to witnesses.

Future—

of an incorporation move.

Those opposing annexation seem to feel that Lincoln Village can solve its own problems of police protection, sidewalk and street maintenance, and other public services, as a city.

While some residents oppose annexation, others oppose incorporation.

Most general of their reasons is that too many problems result from incorporation and growth of a small city.

These opponents point to Grove City and Hilliard as examples of communities with "growing pains."

Another contention against incorporation is that Lincoln Village has neither the commerce nor industry, sufficient to bear the brunt of a city tax burden, a malady also common to smaller cities.

Their pleasure is, of course, annexation to Columbus.

Annexing to New Rome is thought of as a "last resort," but still not a thought to be ignored.

The two communities combined would form a city of about 8,000 population.

New Rome officials have not publicly indicated their feelings on such a move yet, but it is believed many in that village would oppose it.

Still another factor to be contended with is a proposed bill in the Ohio Legislature which would prevent any new incorporation within three miles of an existing city.

At least two groups of Lincoln Villagers are now studying the various aspects of possible future action and trying to determine what they think best for Lincoln Village. But neither they, nor the cloudy old crystal ball, have yet yielded an answer to the question: "What's going to happen to Lincoln Village?"

Until these studies are completed, nothing definite is going to happen to Lincoln Village in the immediate future—unless Columbus makes its move for annexation in a hurry.

Bunny Hunt Winners Announced

At the annual Hilltop Y's Men's Bunny Hunt, Apr. 6, more than 100 boys and girls joined in the search for candy Easter eggs and special prize eggs hidden on the Hilltop YMCA grounds.

Chairman Harry Miller was assisted by John Scott, Frank Howison, Bill Kirwin, Ralph Murphey, Don Dodson, Bob Walker, John Hutchinson, John Clay, Dewey Parris and Bert Korte in hiding the eggs and supervising the four hunting areas.

Winners in the four age groups were Patti Ehlers, Jeffrey Clark, David Poole, Craig Howison, Curt Korte, Pat McCleery, Dawn Curtis, Bob Truelove, Mark Ervin, Tom Truelove, Doug Roush, Dave Parris and Jeffry Curtis. The lucky hunters were awarded stuffed bunnies or model cars.

The Y's Men's Club, service organization of Hilltop YMCA, finances the Bunny Hunt, Gra-Y Relays, Gra-Y Talent Show, and many other activities throughout the year by such projects as the annual Christmas Tree Sale and the Strawberry Festival in early June.

New Y's Men's officers were installed at Lincoln Lodge Apr. 6. Dewey Parris, past director of Y's Men's International, installed the following: John R. Scott, Jr., president; Roger Chrisman, vice-president; Don Ehman, secretary; Don Dodson, treasurer; and George Hughes, assistant secretary-treasurer.

Centralites Pupils Win Top Honors

Twenty-five Central High School seniors were inducted into the National Honor Society at an assembly held Apr. 4 in the school auditorium.

Returning National Honor Society alumni tapped the seniors, and escorted them to the stage for the induction ceremonies conducted by former Centralite members, Patricia Gillispie, Richard Dildine, Toni Kalliantas, Benny Davis, William Ratliffe and Roberta Dildine.

Guest speaker was Don Weaver, editor of the Citizen-Journal.

WRONG SCHOOL LISTED

It was reported in the last issue of this paper that Donald (Butch) Weaver, who received the Boy of the Year Award from the West Side Unit of the Boys' Clubs of Columbus was a student at Central High School. It was learned that Butch is not a Central High student but is actually in the ninth grade at Starling Junior High School.

Process Liquor Permit Transfers

The Ohio Department of Liquor Control has announced it is processing a transfer application for the Lamplighter, 2447-49 W. Broad-st. The transfer is from Val Boehm, trustee in bankruptcy for John R. Abrams, to Mary A. Kirwin. The permits are for the sale of 3.2 per cent beer, high-powered beer and wine for on-premises consumption and carryout and also for spirituous liquor and wine by-the-glass until 2:30 a.m.

MEN LEARN TO WELD AT CENTRAL

CORRECT COMBINATION WELDING is pointed out to Roger Chaney, instructor for the 16-week course being offered at Central High School under the joint sponsorship of the Columbus Public Schools and the Ohio State Employment Service. Among the 18 enrolled in the class which began four weeks ago are, from left, Eugene Adams, 320 Sturbridge-rd, Lincoln Village; John Bridgman, 396 S. Eureka-av; and David McKinnon, 415 Nagel-av. Chaney is a certified regular high school teacher.

Giles Confirms It -- Rich, Town To Stay Two-Way

Columbus traffic officials have abandoned their plans (first proposed in 1961) to make one-way thoroughfares out of Town and Rich-sts in the West Side.

Safety Director Albert G. Giles and his assistant, John Parks, met with the traffic committee of the West Side Neighborhood Council, Apr. 4, to report on several traffic matters of interest here. Giles said there are "too many prohibitive factors" involved in changing the two major streets over to one-ways.

As relayed to the WSNC executive committee by Traffic Committee Chairman Frank Schneider, the city also plans to:

- Push for neon lighting under the expressway crossovers at Rich, Town, Sullivant and Greenlawn-avs and study traffic lights at the off-ramps on these streets.
- Pursue further the Mound - Central intersection problem and the flooding on Central, north of the intersection.
- Install a trip-signal traffic light at Yale and Broad on a trial basis, timing it with the new Glenwood and Broad light. Retain the light at Davis and W. Broad-st. (The WSNC recommended that it be moved to Souder and Broad.)
- Investigate converting Souder-av, south of Sullivant-av, to two-way and eliminate the left turn at Souder and Mound for westbound traffic on Mound.

At the request of the city, the local traffic committee also plans to call a meeting of all the people in the S. Ryan-av area to determine their feelings about making their street a one-way north. According to a petition from several of the residents, this would allow parking on the east side.

Mrs. Bonnie Durbin, chairman of the WSNC health committee, told those at the executive session Tuesday night that no concentrated West Side clean-up campaign will be conducted this year, excepting as part of the city-wide annual effort. Instead, she said, effort will be turned to finding means to provide West Side residents with information on property improvement loans. The committee is scheduled to meet officers of several financing companies Apr. 24.

Claud Jones, chairman of membership, said his group would like to secure funds to produce a pamphlet which would interest more people in the work of the neighborhood council. The booklet would touch on the council's educational, recreational, health and welfare services and other agencies that serve the West Side.

Stanley Doran, council president, reported that Dana Avenue Playground will not be open this summer. A letter supporting use of the playground was sent to the Recreation Department.

Doran also revealed that Mayor Westlake has accepted an invitation to speak at the next open meeting of the council, May 14, at Gladden Community House.

Lower Water Pressure For Pipe Inspection

The Hilltop area had lower water pressure Monday while the water storage tank in Westgate Park was inspected for damage.

Service Director Ernest H. Stork stated that city workmen attempted to determine the extent of the damage — if any — to an overflow pipe in the tank. The damage is attributed to the winter storms.

An Allied news blackout was imposed on the fighting in the Battle of the Bulge during World War II, Dec. 18, 1944.

HE DIED TO SAVE OUR SOULS

At Eastertime . .

What is Easter? It is truth, love, joy, hope, promise and beauty.

Easter is proof that the God of justice is, first, a loving God. It is the joy of Resurrection, the hope of salvation and the promise of eternal life.

Easter is an invitation to the individual to join in Nature's rebirth; to grow; to know the spiritual life that overcomes all the sorrows and heartaches of man.

Variety . . . by I. F. Howell

PRELUDE OF LIFE

Earth children kneeling, sorrowing
Before a Cross black-shrouded,
Symbol of despair
Until the third day.
For a brief interim
Faith and universe
And hope anesthetized.
Men of earth not knowing
Of Heaven's Grand Design.

For nearly 2,000 years Christians have met on the last Friday in Lent in commemoration of the Crucifixion. It is the prelude of Easter, the joyous day of Resurrection when death is vanquished with the assurance of life everlasting.

In His own earthly lifetime, many had accepted Jesus of Nazareth as the Christ, the long prophesied Messiah, king of heaven and earth. It was beyond their imagining that He could be put to the most cruel and degrading of deaths by any earthly authority. Yet it had happened. And to the faithful it must have seemed the end of all hope.

They could not foresee the glory and the power yet to appear. The Cross had indeed become the symbol of despair, unexplained to those not knowing of Heaven's Grand Design.

Now, for three hours, we shroud the Cross with black crepe, symbol of death, and kneel before it in sorrowful self-discipline. Yet we know what the first Christians did not know —that on the third day, grief will yield suddenly to joy and assurance bounded only by our capacity to believe.

It says here . . .

True religion is the victory of faith over doubt.

Togetherness? Yes!

Maybe it's "spring fever," or maybe we're dreaming out loud, but we can't help dwelling on those oft-heard phrases "wouldn't it be nice," and "maybe, someday."

Here are our thoughts on these phrases.

Wouldn't it be nice if there were a clear understanding that Columbus and Franklin County are each a part of the other? Maybe, someday, this fact will be generally accepted.

Wouldn't it be nice if ALL communities within the county—cities, townships and villages—realized that, combined, they CONSTITUTE Franklin County; that certain major functions can BEST be handled ONLY through a UNITED, cooperative effort? Maybe, someday, a representative group of citizens will carry this message to their friends and neighbors at the "grass roots" levels.

Wouldn't it be nice if we could apply this thinking to such areas as water, sewer, zoning and other problems that recognize NO intra-county territorial boundary lines? Maybe, someday, we will.

Wouldn't it be nice? It certainly would! And there is no better time for that "someday" than RIGHT NOW.

Honesty Still Best Policy

Local striking members of the Insurance Workers' International Union have chosen an ill-conceived and potentially harmful method of enlisting the aid of local policyholders.

In an unsigned letter to policyholders, the striking agents have urged that premiums not be paid during the course of the strike. The closest thing to a guarantee of protection they offer the policyholder is a statement that "other insurance companies did not lapse insurance for non-payment during a strike."

As a matter of fact, the company has the right, by law, to lapse any policy that is not kept in force under the terms of the policy. Under Ohio law, the use of agents by insurance companies is only a convenience to the policyholders. Should the agent fail to collect, or should the policyholder refuse to make a payment to an agent, this does not relieve the policyholder of the obligation to meet payment terms of the policy.

We feel that any insurance agent worthy of his job should be aware of these facts.

This particular incident is the more serious, we feel, because the striking agents chose to remind the policyholders in their letter that: "We have dedicated our lives to bring FINANCIAL SECURITY and FREEDOM from WORRY to you and your family."

The ethics of these striking agents is certainly open to question when—through ignorance or intent—they place in jeopardy the very purpose they claim as their life's dedication.

Guest Pulpit . . .

He Said: 'Because I Live, Ye Shall Live Also'

Rev. Brown

There once was a man born of a peasant family who grew up in an obscure village and lived a relatively quiet life for 30 years. During these years there burned within Him a deep desire to be "about His Father's business."

And so, with no college credentials He set out to proclaim His convictions to His fellow man. According to all historical accounts He was a righteous man. Although confronted with all the sins of man He remained victorious over these temptations. However, early in His ministry His friends turned against Him and criticism was so high that He was sentenced to death. Only a handful of His friends witnessed His execution and mourned the loss of this great man. He had stirred them with the fire of His enthusiasm. He had preached His convictions and His followers were willing to do anything for Him.

Why did He have to die? What could He possibly have done wrong? Who would take His place? Who could deliver the love of God the way He had? And then they remembered His words: "If ye love me, keep my commandments. And I will pray the Father, and He shall give you another Comforter, that he may abide with you forever; even the Spirit of truth; whom the world cannot receive, because it seeth him not, neither knoweth him; but ye know him; for he dwelleth with you, and shall be in you. I will not leave you comfortless: I will come to you. Yet a little while, and the world seeth me no more; but ye see me: because I live, ye shall live also." John 14:15-19. What kind of a comforter could possibly take the place of Jesus Christ?

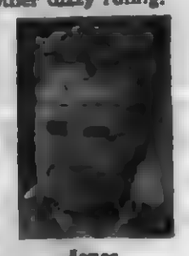
In sorrow they recalled the comforters of a righteous man named Job who suffered great loss and pain. His comforters were of very little comfort to him. As though he were a dead man, they went through the prescribed seven days of mourning for him. Even in their great wisdom they were unable to offer any solution to his problem. If this was comfort, as far as the disciples were concerned there was no comfort to be found for them in all the earth.

In spite of a compelling urge to go back to their old ways of life, they stayed together for three days trying to formulate some plans. Early in the afternoon of the third day following His death, they were confronted by the angelic form of their leader. By some miraculous manner He stayed with them awhile and bolstered their faith. The followers were later blessed with His divine power and began performing great things in His memory, but they never met the comforter—or did they?

Job's problem and the Apostles' problems are translated over and over in our present times. Needless wars and desires have plagued mankind for years and no matter how righteous we may be, we are not immune to suffering at the hands of evil.

It would be foolish for us to try to prophesy what the future holds for although the problems will remain the same, the instruments of destruction will develop with civilization. The inevitable comforters will not always have the same beliefs as Job's friends but as long as they refer to suffering in terms of worldly experience their words "will be as sounding brass." We may be forced to cry out, like the disciples, "What next?" According to the Book of Revelations, eventually Christ is next. That same Jesus who, faced with all the temptations of man, emerged victorious.

Symbolically, the Book of Job is a panoramic view of the birth, development, discipline, and reward of a spirit. Are we not all Jobs? Are we not all spirits? Is not this life on earth as flesh a short disciplinary action to make us more appreciative of a hereafter? Do we not search sometimes aimlessly for comfort?



Those who finally find real comfort span the chasm safely back to the dimension from which they as spirits came, now educated in the divine power of the Creator. There, meeting the Comforter "face-to-face," the words of Christ ring triumphantly in our ears. ". . . because I live, ye shall live also."

An Editor's Outlook . . . by Jenkin Lloyd Jones

Now, What About The Poor Majority?

The U.S. Supreme Court now has under advisement another school prayer case, and if it hasn't learned anything since its decision on the New York regents prayer last fall it is likely to come up with another dizzy ruling.

Jones

The new suit came out of Baltimore where a mother who is an avowed atheist sued the Baltimore school board because a passage from the Old Testament and the Lord's Prayer were part of the daily opening exercises at her son's school.

When she complained in the lower court the school board promptly offered to let her son be excused from hearing the offensive words. But now the mother claims that this sets her son apart and subjects him to ridicule and abuse. She has demanded that no Bible readings or prayers be made in the hearing of any Maryland child while in public school.

Now someday the majority are going to be tired of being pushed around by the minority. Because we have moved into an era where the minority is demanding satisfaction for itself even where it interferes with the satisfaction of the majority. This can get absurd.

The overwhelming majority of Marylanders are not atheists and they think it is a good idea if their children listen to a few preachments. The communists think so, too. They smother Russian and Chinese children with preachments, most of them from their pickled god, Lenin. So do the Koran, the Zend Avesta and the sacred books of Buddha — all filled with good advice to youth. But all but a handful of Americans subscribe to religious bodies that venerate the Old Testament.

Yet the angry lady in Baltimore holds that even though it is okay with the majority of Marylanders that her son duck out when the Bible is opened, his "rights" are being outraged. They will only be satisfied if all Marylanders agree to conform to her taboos. Otherwise, Maryland shall be damned as "intolerant."

Is it possible for the minority to be intolerant, too?

Both houses of the U.S. Congress open with prayer. Isn't this an affront to atheist citizens? Let us fire the chaplains.

On most of the coins and bills we carry there is the legend, "In God We Trust." Aren't we being cruel to sincere atheists in forcing them to purchase their groceries with this pious money ?

The school assembly salutes the flag. The students stand with their hands over their hearts intoning the words— this nation under god . . ." Surely the cops should be called and the principal arrested.

School lunches offer meat. Meat is an abomination to vegetarians. Shall we, therefore, feed our children pea soup and yogurt?

Last December, three public schools in Sharon, Mass., removed all Christmas trees and Christmas decorations from their classrooms on the theory that they were an affront to Jewish students. Bye-bye Santa Claus because Saint Nicholas was a Christian saint. However, the Russians have shown us how we can still get our presents. We welcome Grandfather Frost. Merry Present-Giving Day!

And bye-bye to all the school Easter Bunnies. Easter is a Christian festival in which the resurrection of living things from the death of winter is symbolized by observance of the story of Christ's resurrection, which you may or may not believe. This has got to go. But on the other hand, the millinery business, the garment industry and the candy makers need something like Easter. So let's train our children to look forward to New-Hat-New-Dress-Chocolate-Egg Day.

We've got to clean up Thanksgiving, too. These silhouettes of obviously Protestant Pilgrim fathers that we have the kindergarten kids cutting out, are an insult to all other sects and religions. And the whole business is a slam at our atheists. For Thanksgiving means giving thanks to God. What shall be substitute? The United Nations?

American Negroes have properly battled for the right to live where they choose and go to school where they live. In some places the reluctant majority have had to be spanked pretty hard and the battle isn't over. But New Jersey hasn't had to be spanked. These rights have long been guaranteed there.

Yet, at the urging of the NAACP, Negroes are boycotting a school in northern New Jersey because 90 per cent of the students are colored. Why? Because white families exercised what Negroes have been demanding, namely the right to move where they pleased. And they moved out of the neighborhood. So the Negroes are demanding that white children be driven back into that school.

It is one thing to insist that the majority accord a minority that which the majority enjoys. This is justice. But it is another thing to chase the majority around the block with a stick, demanding that it behave in a way decreed by the minority.

We're getting close to that point. The tragedy is that a growing public consciousness of minority rights is likely to be soured by the arrogance of some minority leaders. This could set us back—way back.

The majority will stand just so much kicking.

"UNCLE DOC" ROSS — U.S.A.

Thousands of marriages are destroyed every year in family situations, not because the battling parties aren't decent people, but because their "personality quotient" is so deficient.

Many students of social and personality problems are coming to realize that fundamentally there is no insoluble problem involved. It used to be that sadism had only one category of identification—that was deliberate and violent physical abuse of other humans or domestic animals in deranged "fits of temper."

Now we know that much so-called sadism is wholly verbal and that it hurts much worse than actual physical violence, not inflicted to the point of fatality. The tragedy is that all such behavior injures two people. The hapless victim many times can do nothing except keep still about it, given that such an individual has enough adulthood to "consider the source."

If this unhealthy habit of always "going into orbit" on the slightest excuse, or no real excuse, continues, then it becomes more and more dangerous to the perpetrator because he can become neurotic or even psychotic to the point of paranoic deadly behavior.

Many a grass widow is "out to pasture" because she never learned how to take the vinegar out of her voice. Many a no-good oaf is shucked off by a high grade and civilized woman because he had "no raising and a foul mouth."

Leftovers . . . by John McPeek

Human Dynamo Suffers Power Failure

The "new me," that's who I've got to find.

Everyone else seems to be finding his "new me," so why should I be having such trouble? As a sometime book reviewer, I have had many of the how-to-find-your-new-self books placed at my disposal. But either I've been getting the wrong books or I've been failing to get the messages correctly.

Needless to say, this has greatly fueled the milquetoast tumor within my quivering frame. Each day I find it more difficult to meet the level glances of passers-by on the street. Even my gym's cat (a totally shiftless beast that does little more than eat, sleep and foul litters) can now stare me down.

McPeek

For a brief while, I thought I had found the "new me." It came after I read the recently published "Seven Days to New Power and Happiness." (In a concession to cowardly instincts, I've altered the title somewhat to prevent the author from seeking me out to punch my old nose.)

After re-reading three times the chapter that tells how to bolster your self-confidence, I eagerly set out to put this new information into practice. I swaggered into the kitchen where my soulmate was preparing dinner. Masterfully brushing her aside, I took a few sniffs over the range.

"Macaroni and cheese!" I snarled. "Good grief, that's the third casserole you've made in three days. Don't you know how to make an occasional man's meal? What's wrong with steak, or a roast?"

For a moment the scene was frozen as my stunned mate studied my confidently arrogant face.

"You sick?" she asked gently after about 30 loud ticks of the wall clock.

"No," I replied, taken aback by her sudden show of concern.

"Then get that asthmatic beak of yours out of my kitchen," she exploded, "before I show you how to garnish a spouse with bruises!"

Trembling, I dashed into the living room and sought refuge behind the sofa where I set up a loud hissing. After a few minutes, she came into the room and shooed the dozing cat out the door.

Taking some consolation in my smallness, I slunk upstairs and slammed "Seven Days to New etc." into the corner, then re-read a magazine review of the movie, "Divorce, Italian Style."

After a few days of mental convalescence, I retrieved "Seven Days . . ." and read the chapter on "How to Bring Out Your Hidden Power."

Well, why not, I decided. But this time I would wisely forego any kitchen experiments. I waited until going to work the next day.

Striding briskly into the newsroom, I flipped my hat atop the coat rack, spun my chair, catching it neatly on the third twirl, and commanded: "Boy, get me coffee . . . black, and make it quick!"

"Simmer down, Cletus," he chuckled. "I've got to clip the one-star and it'll be at least a half-hour before I can make a coffee run."

Smart aleck copy boys! No wonder the world's going to pot, I said to myself. Oh well, why waste newly found hidden power on a punk kid. Save it for the news editor, where it will count.

About three hours later I got my chance. (No use being foolish; no one speaks to the news editor until after mid-morning.)

"If you don't mind a constructive suggestion," said I in a firm tone, "I think that front page wing makeup we used yesterday fell apart when we threw in those two-column pictures."

He gazed at me blandly for a brief second or two, waggled his head sadly and turned to his desk.

"Don't you agree?" I insisted.

He pivoted about, zeroed a 100-watt stare between my eyes, and said:

"Whadda you want . . . my job? You wantta get ahead? Is your talent being wasted?" Then muttering something about "d--n office climbers," he turned his back to me.

For the next few weeks, I consoled myself with thoughts of my next vacation.

So who needs confidence, power, mental energy, etc? Phooey!

Theologian To Address Youth Rally

"Can science and the Bible be reconciled?" This question will be posed by Dr. John C. Whitcomb, Jr., in his presentation, "The Genesis Flood and the Final Judgment," at the Word of Truth rally at Immanuel Baptist Church, 3417 Palmetto-st, Saturday, Apr. 20, 7:45 p.m.

Dr. Whitcomb, professor of Old Testament and Hebrew at Grace Theological Seminary in Winona Lake, Ind., was graduated from Princeton University in 1948 with a BA degree in Ancient and European History, took theological training at Grace Theological Seminary and in 1951 was graduated with a BD degree.

In 1953 he received a Th.M. degree and in 1957 a Th.D. degree.

He has contributed articles to several theological journals and Bible dictionaries.

Dr. Whitcomb is being sponsored by the Word of Truth, an organization of young adults of high school and college age from more than 15 independent fundamental churches in the Columbus area.

The group has been in existence for four or five years. Present officers are Kerry McDowell, president; Mike Hamilton, vice-president; Ruth Gray, secretary, and Marilyn Castle, treasurer.

Monthly meetings are held at one of these churches. The meetings serve as training for Christian service in the church and the community, through special speakers such as Dr. Whitcomb, and films or panel discussions.

The public is invited. There is no admission charge.

A. L. Jones was awarded a patent Dec. 19, 1871, for inventing corrugated paper.

Becomes U S Citizen

Peter F. "Pete" Strathie, already a seaman in the U. S. Navy, became a citizen of his adopted country at Brunswick Ga., Mar. 11.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter F. Strathie, 276 N. Burgess-av, he came with his family to Columbus from Edinburgh, Scotland, in 1955. Pete was graduated from West High School in 1961. He immediately enlisted in the U.S. Navy.

His citizenship entitles him to advance to the rank of third class petty officer.

After completing boot training at Great Lakes, Ill., Pete stayed at the Navy's electronics school there, and after graduation last year was assigned to the U.S. Naval Air Station at Glynco, Ga.

Next year's vacation dreams are for a visit to Scotland to see his sister, still living there.

Council Releases River Work Funds

Monday night's Columbus City Council action was highlighted by approval of a $369,120 appropriation for a flood control project in the Scioto River channel from Greenlawn-av to below Frank-rd.

Work on the project is scheduled to begin immediately. Service Director Ernest Stork said the project calls for cleaning and dredging the channel to improve water flow, and also includes repair and raising of levees where needed.

Low bid on the project was submitted by Christopher Construction Co., 3150 Valley-view-dr.

Council also authorized the public service director to release easements across Lots 522, 523 and 524 in Holly Hill No. 5 Subdivision.

Public hearings on zoning changes resulted in one measure being passed and another tabled.

Passed was the petition of Francis P. Sexton, 3739 Parkside-rd, to rezone Lot 1 of Burnside Heights addition, Sullivant-av, from commercial to an apartment residential-office classification.

Council tabled a request to rezone the north side of Bellows-av and west side of Yale-av from residential to apartment residential.

An Apr. 22 public hearing was set for a request to rezone Lot 95 of Thomas E. Knauss' amended subdivision from a residential to an off-street parking designation. The lot extends from the north corner of Hayden-av to the first alley north of W. Broad-st.

TO BUILD ADDITION

Lasko Properties Inc., Gahanna, has been issued a building permit to construct an alteration to a frame building at 266-68 E. Wheatland-av. Construction is valued at $1000.

The GIRL SCOUT DISTRICT DIARY

Mrs. James W. Whalen — Ohio Trefoil Council

GLEN VALLEY NEIGHBORHOOD

March 21 was Mother-Daughter Night at Avondale PTA. Mrs. Louis Boeheinger, District Eight chairman of the Ohio Trefoil Council, gave a talk on Girl Scouting. Troop 884 gave the flag ceremony and repeated their promise and what it means in their daily lives. This troop also presented a skit about the Girl Scout laws and how they apply to our daily life.

Brownie Troop 1136 repeated their promise and sang songs. Troop 884 then invited the Brownies to join them in their closing circle and they all sang Taps.

Girls attending from Troop 884 were Dolly Durbin, Sue Durham, Linda Hodges, Jan Gotta, Pam Gregory, Dixie Lockwood, Peggy Hixson, Sandy Hixson, Jacque Kerley, Marsha Minnix, Theresa Hammack, Sherry Clarke, Terri Searles, Deborah Southward and Deborah Waldeck.

Parents attending were Mrs. Bonnie Durbin, Mrs. Betty Durham, Mrs. Tom Gregory, Mrs. John Southward, Mrs. Jean Searles and Mrs. James Hammack.

The Brownies were Bonnie Lockwood, Deborah Denney, Martha Reichel, Joan Mulholland, Colleen Hammack, Carla Davis, Penny Hix, Christine Steele, Cathy Hunter, Cathy Harris, Lou Ann Herman, Betty Herman, Carol Ann Symoure and Elizabeth Wolfe.

Program Fair has been scheduled for Apr. 27 from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. and will be held at Veterans Memorial Auditorium.

HAZELWOOD NEIGHBORHOOD TROOP 1114

March 18, Troop 1114 held a court of awards. Patricia Fuller received First Class rank. This is the culmination of three years of diligent work. Christie Rotolo was the first to receive First Class—in Nov. 1962.

The Adventure Badge was awarded to Patricia Fuller, Christie Rotolo, Cathy Beatty, Kathy and Karen Locy, Dianna Speakman, Sharon Bright, Penny Norton and Carol Primmer. Patricia Fuller received the "My Community" badge; Penny Norton "Skating," Cathy Beatty, "Homemaker," "Housekeeper," and "Childcare" badges. Kitty Walker received her wings.

Eight girls were given their Dolly Derby Ribbons.

All awards were made by leaders Mrs. David T. Spangler and Mrs. James Penwell.

Refreshments and entertainment were planned by the Red Wing Patrol: Judy Barnett, Beth Hopper, Karen Hill, Kathy Locy, Gilva Russell and Sharon Sidner. The girls were helped by leader, Mrs. Ralph Barnett.

On Mar. 16 Brownie Troop 569 toured the Kahiki Restaurant. They were accompanied by their leaders, Mrs. Stephen Flohr and Mrs. Richard Roberts and Mrs. S. J. Reppert. Some of the parents came.

Your Youth

By Hilltop YMCA Staff

Due to this being the Holy Week, the Hilltop YMCA will go on a schedule of limited hours. There will be no dance on Friday and the "Y" will close at 5 p.m. No program will be conducted Saturday morning and the building will be closed. Building hours will return to normal on Monday. The Youth Center is scheduled to be open from 1 to 3 p.m.

The next teenage dance at the "Y" will be held Apr. 19. Plans call for a special Bermuda shorts dance. All boys and girls planning to attend are encouraged to wear the prescribed dress. These dances are open only to youth members of the Hilltop "Y".

Members of various "Y" groups are now in the process of selling Jet badges. These badges allow the holder to attend some 50 games of the Columbus Jets baseball team free, providing he is accompanied by an adult. These badges sell for 50 cents and may be purchased at the "Y" or from any salesman.

The Hilltop Gra-Y clubs held their annual Tall Tale contest Tuesday night. The contest was a "whooper," which the boys provide by telling the "tallest tale" they can in the three-minute time limit.

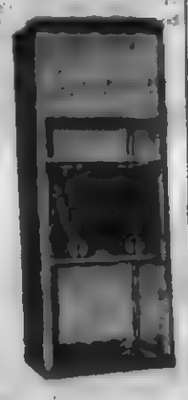
The winner received a trophy, second and third places received models. All boys participating received a YMCA T-shirt. The school sponsoring the winning boy received the traveling trophy, to be displayed in their school for the year.

The Hilltop Y's Men's Gra-Y Relays have been scheduled for May 11 at the West High oval. Club members will soon be preparing to select entries to participate in this outstanding program. The third annual relays held last year were won by the Wildcats of Westgate School.

The Gra-Y Talent Show will be held the middle of May. The boys in the Gra-Y clubs provide some good talent.

Hospital Council To Hold Meeting

The Volunteer Service Council of the Columbus State Hospital invites members and friends to attend the sixth annual meeting at the Central YMCA, 40 W. Long-st, on Tuesday, Apr. 23, from 6:30 to 9 p.m.



After dinner there will be an election of officers and board members, and consideration of a revisions in the by-laws. Martin A. Janis, newly-appointed commissioner of Mental Hygiene and Correction, will speak on "Human Tranquilizers."

Gen. Georg Washington established winter quarters at Valley Forge, Pa., Dec. 19, 1777, for his beleaguered army.

JUNIORS WILL COMPETE

Aqua Ski Club Gets OWSA Nod For Annual State Tourney Here

With climbing temperatures and sunny skies evident once more, the Columbus Aqua Ski Club is making preparations for its ninth season of competition.

There is an added tone of excitement this spring as the 82-family membership makes plans to host the Ohio Water Ski Association's state championships at their tournament site on the Scioto River, July 19-21.

FOR THE first time in its history the American Water Ski Association sanctioned tourney will include competition in the Junior Boys and Girls Division (12 and under) this summer.

The local club, which carries on a year-round social program as well as skiing and safety instructions, has high hopes of making a good performance in the tournament in the junior division as well as the senior category.

Last summer at the state tournament in Piqua, O., three members of the Columbus Club entered the charmed Century Club with ski jumps of over 100 fet. The trio — Sonny Williams, Harold Taylor and Dan Poelman — will try to better their marks this time around.

THE CENTURY Club membership is quite an honor when you consider that it includes only 116 members in its fold which cover the United States, Canada and Mexico.

Of the Columbus club's total membership, approximately 30 percent are tournament skiers, 25 percent show skiers and the remaining 45 percent listed as novice and "fun" skiers.

The Ohio Water Ski Association selected the Columbus site this year due to the well-operated Buckeye Open Tournament conducted here last summer as well as in 1960 and veteran, will be the '63 tournament here occured in 1959.

THE OHIO ASSOCIATION has expanded from its original 11-club organization to 20 clubs in the past three years. Sonny Williams, a 16-year ski veeran, will be the '63 tournament chairman.

Club officials welcome everyone to attend their tournament free of charge this July on the Scioto River, eight miles north of downtown Columbus on Route 33, just north of Hayden Run Bridge.

The Columbus club's ski jump, which is 14 ft. wide by 24 ft. long, surpasses all American Ski specifications. It welded steel frame, decked with hardwood and sided fully with marine plywood, is bouyed with 14 55-gallon drums.

THE JUMP'S surface is covered with Carnauba wax and a small two-cycle gasoline motor pumps a continuous flow of water over the surface.

The 315 yard salalom course is a permanent [illegible] which is raised and lowered from the east bank. Plastic bleach bottles are used for practice and the course is left in the water on Saturdays and Sundays as a public service for weekend fun skiers.

Game Hearing Here April 16

County fish and game hearings have been scheduled for April in all six Wildlife Districts. Sportsmen and farmers have been urged by Hayden W. Olds, Divison of Wildlife, to attend.

The recommendations from each county are taken to a central hearing in each of the six Wildlife Districts. From these a suggested set of regulations is compiled for presentation at the state hearing in Columbus, June 27.

THE WILDLIFE Council considers the recommendations before it sets fish and game regulations immediately after the one-day hearing.

The County hearings have been scheduled for Franklin County on Tuesday, Apr. 16 at 7:30 p.m. at the Columbus Youth Center on the State Fairgrounds and for Pickaway County on Thursday, Apr. 18 at Circleville. Time and location of the latter meeting was unavailable at press time.

Yanks '63 Series Foe Giants, Reds Or LA?

Someone once described spring as a season for showers, vegetational growth and pennant race mystics. More exactly, April is the month when every male who's ever tossed a baseball lists September's final standings.

With sportswriters, as well as oddsmakers, picking the major league winners isn't just a game, it's a serious business. It becomes even more serious in the fall when some reader mails in your preseason picks pointing out that both of your pennant winners finished in the second division.

THE NEW YORK Yankees (who?) will play either the San Francisco Giants, Los Angeles Dodgers or Cincinnati Redlegs in the 1963 World Series. So far, we believe we're safe.

Quite a few Bomber fans have been concerned with the departure of Bill Skowron. "And how about Mickey Mantle's knee? Can Stan Williams duplicate his '62 W-L mark with the Yankees?" they ask, wringing their hands.

The rest of the AL should have so many problems. If Williams only pitches batting practice (unlikely), Mantle only plays half of the schedule (more unlikely) and Skowron's replacement, Joe Pepitone, only bats .187 (most unlikely), the Yanks still have more than enough to nail down their fourth straight flag.

DETROIT, WITH a healthy Al Kaline and a Frank Lary "comeback," figures to lead the American League "also-runs." Baltimore, always tough on paper, looks like a good bet for third with the addition of Al Smith and Louie Aparicio.

We like Cleveland in the number four slot. The Indians have unquestionably improved their offensive stock this time around and if Davillilo and Martinez can show well all season, the Tribe could finish higher. But there are still too many question marks on the pitching staff.

THE NATIONAL League race should be the best of the century if early indications are worth anything. We'll stick with the defending champ, San Francisco—strictly on the basis of two pitching question marks at Cincinnati and Los Angeles.

It's highly possible that guys like Billy Pierce and Billy O'Dell will never win 35 games between them ever again, but there's still Sanford and Marichal, and oh—that offense!

TRY THE Dodgers on for size in the runnerup spot. Skowron adds real punch to the LA lineup and the Dodger "kiddie korps" of Davis, Wills, Howard, etc., are another step closer to full major league maturity.

The LA puzzler is Sandy Koufax. If Sandy's back to par in '63, LA might take it all.

Bob Purkey tells the whole story at Cincinnati (third place). If the Redlegs' leading moundsman (23-5) doesn't shake his spring arm malady, Cincy won't have the impetus to make it to the top.

CINCINNATI HAS depth in the hurling department with front liners like Jay, Maloney and O'Toole but without Purkey? ? ? Offensively, the Reds have sufficient guns to match the Giants and Dodgers.

Pittsburgh took a big gulp with its winter shakeup but the gamble might get the Pirates back into the pennant race and should at least tab them a "dark horse candidate."

WITH FINGERS crossed, here's the complete rundown:

AMERICAN LEAGUE
1—New York Yankees
2—Detroit Tigers
3—Baltimore Orioles
4—Cleveland Indians
5—Minnesota Twins
6—Los Angeles Angels
7—Boston Red Sox
8—Kansas City Athletics
9—Chicago White Sox
10—Washington Senators

NATIONAL LEAGUE
1—San Francisco Giants
2—Los Angeles Dodgers
3—Cincinnati Redlegs
4—Pittsburgh Pirates
5—St. Louis Cardinals
6—Milwaukee Braves
7—Philadelphia Phillies
8—Chicago Cubs
9—Houston Colt 45's
10—New York Mets (sorry Casey)

Ok—you can smirk now. But no fair belly laughing until September.

Calling All Fishermen— 'Big Ones' Hitting Again

INSIDE ON THE Outdoors By ROB COCHRAN

Well, the fishing reports came in as we predicted last week. Phil McGinnis, 640 S. 18th.-st, started things off in a big way. He caught an eight pound, one ounce largemouth bass at Hocking Lake. Using his special homemade lure, he took the lunker on his first cast. The fish was 22 inches in length and had a girth of 18½ inches.

Muskellunge are hitting at Hoover Reservoir. Carl Schott, at Paul's Marine, reported that Charles Mangus, 1887 Roberts-rd, caught a six pounder while fishing for bass. The muskie was 27¾ inches in length. Another one was weighed in, but Schott missed the angler's name.

SMALL BASS are being caught at Hoover, up to a pound and a half, but nothing much to brag about yet. They are being taken on Shysters, ABUS and plugs. Incidentally, the muskellunge are being caught by the bass fishermen. Crappies have also started to hit minnows.

Best fishing waters at Hoover are in the upper end. It is shallow there, and the water warms faster.

"Bud" Geibe, 2673 Johnstown-rd, has reported two stringers of smallish bass from Buckeye Lake. He fished two days, and his score was five and four. "I used spinners and a Johnson silver minnow," said Geibe. "The bass weren't large, but at least it was a start for the season."

Actually Geibe started the season in Florida, over a month ago. His best bass went over nine pounds, and he had another almost nine pounds.

THE ONLY THING not typical of this beginning is the appearance of muskies on this list—they are newcomers to this section of the state. Due to a stocking program carried out by the Ohio Division of Wildlife, this fighting trophy fish is available to anglers here. Muskies have been stocked in a number of lakes, but Hoover is the closest. Several area anglers go to Rocky Fork for muskellunge, and have been successful in taking them.

A Hoover muskie received statewide recognition recently, when the fish was given an honorable mention rating by the Huskie Muskie Club. The fish was caught by Dick H. Lewis, of Marysville, and weighed 17 pounds. It was 41 inches in length.

The Huskie Muskie Club was started by the Division of Wildlife to honor fishermen taking large muskellunge, to promote muskie fishing in Ohio, and to evaluate the stocking program.

TO QUALIFY in the regular listing, a muskie must be at least 40 inches long and weigh 20 pounds or more. Honorable mention is given to every muskie 30 or more inches in length. For more information write: Huskie Muskie Club, 1500 Dublin-rd, Columbus 12.

This is a happy day! When you can report that good fishing has started, it makes the winter seem not so bad. Who would have thought a month ago, that the fishing season would be off and running the first week of April? I haven't heard of anyone complaining.

JET BASEBALL, ANYONE?

JET TICKET Book Drive Chairman Bob Gruesser reminds local baseball fans that the West Mound-st stadium is open each day from 9 a.m. till 5 p.m. to take your orders for 1963 ticket books. The book bargain (10 general admission tickets for $10.) will continue through Thursday, Apr. 18, when the Jets open their International League home season with Indianapolis.

TV-4 Carries 26 Red Games

WLW-C will televise at least 26 Cincinnati Reds baseball games this season — 12 of them in color — plus the regular NBC - TV weekend games of both National and American League pennant contenders.

By agreement, these television games will only be carried when the Columbus Jets are playing on the road. In addition, TV-4 will carry both the All-Star Game and World Series in color.

OUTLOOK 'BRIGHT'

West Coach Optimistic On Bronco Flag Hopes

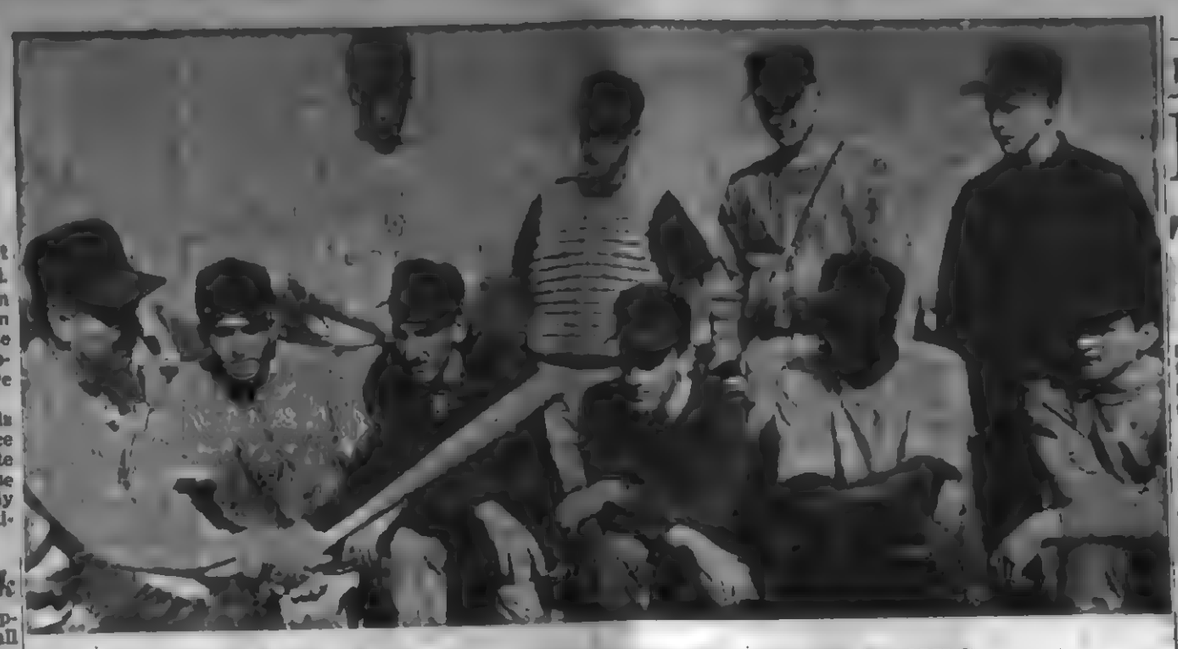
By BOB LYNCH

Prospects for this year's edition of the West High Cowboy baseball squad are very bright, feels second-year coach, Dwight Black.

Coach Black bases his optimism on the result of last summer's entry in the Summer Baseball League, composed of most of the City League teams.

The squad copped the championship, finishing the season with a 10-1 record.

THIS YEAR'S Broncos have nine lettermen returning from last spring's squad, including three outfielders (Rich Neely, Larry Cole and Ron Grundstein); four infielders (Steve Takos, Ron McDaniel, Don Van Order and Jim Hughes); southpaw pitcher John Goodin and catcher Bill Bateman.



The Cowboys also have some excellent prospects who gained valuable experience on last summer's squad, the first such team West ever fielded.

Among these were: John Morlan, Gary Smith, John Sines, Larry Wardrup, Mike Canney, Pete Krull, Ray Glascor, Darrel Rohrer and Steve Prater.

Coach Black feels this year's squad, with experience and hustle will be a definite contender for the City League title, and will undoubtedly provide some strong competition in district play.

Henricks To Talk

Hilltop Kiwanians have appropriately chosen a baseball man as their guest at noon Thursday, Apr. 18 — the day Jet Stadium opens. Tommy Henricks, former Yankee outfielder great, will speak. Wil Whiers is program chairman of the meeting at the Black Angus Restaurant, formerly Monaco's.

Glenwood All-Star Quintets Whip Divisional Champs

In the boys' basketball all-star games during open house at Glenwood Recreation Center, the All-Stars defeated the Champs, who were the league divisional winners, in all three games.

In the Intermediate Division, the All-Stars, led by forward Steve Penell, stopped the Whizzers, coached by Charles Carney, 47-40.

AT HALF-TIME the score was 23-18 (All-Stars) but the winners upped their margin to 35-20 at the end of the third quarter.

Steve Penell of the Stars led all scorers with a big 20 points and Nick Damopoulos, also of the Stars, hit for 11, 10 in the second half. Pete Krull hit for 14 for the Champs.

IN THE SENIOR Division the Senior Stars stopped the league champion Commodores, 61-56. Phil Tucker of the Stars played a fine defensive game and was also the leading scorer with 21 points. Bill Wells, also of the Stars, hit for 13.

IN THE JUNIOR Division, the Stars defeated the champion Trotters, 37-31. Steve Evans of the Champs led all scorers with 15 points, in a losing cause. Kenny Shaw and Willie Peaks of the Stars tallied 11 and nine points, respectively.

Pirates Score Track Victory

Charles Smith's 14⅓ points paced Central's cinder team to a 76-42 City League victory over Eastmoor last week to highlight area track action.

In other lane competition, Arlington came from behind to nip West at the wire, 61½ to 56½ while Bishop Ready opened its '63 season with a loss to Hartley despite Vince Martinsen's 18 points.

COWBOY RUNNER Steve Barnard paced West's losing effort against the Golden Bears with 12¼ points which included wins in both the low and high hurdles and a first place tie in the high jump.

Arlington nosed out the victory in the final event when its mile relay team outdistanced the Bronco entry.

Hartley scored 65 points to the Silver Knights' 44 as the Hawks raced to a triangular victory. Aquinas finished in third place with a total of 39 mariners.

MARTINSEN'S POINT total was accumulated with first-place wins in the pole vault, high and low hurdles and a runnerup finish in the high jump.

Weekend action is centered around two major track events —the Gahanna and Mansfield Relays. The latter event will attract the Central squad Saturday.

Eastmoor is the Gahanna event's defending champion. Fourteen schools will compete in the meet with prelims set for 2 p.m. Saturday.

West will host Central in the area's top track event next Tuesday.

Glenwood Edged In Cage Finals

Glenwood gained a finals berth by defeating Schiller Recreation Center, 63-61. The winner's Phil Tucker led all scorers with 16 points.

GLENWOOD SUFFERED its first tournament defeat at the hands of Poindexter, 68-61, in the championship game. Glenwood had a 10-point lead at the end of the first quarter but Poindexter cut the margin to one point at intermission.

The second half lead was traded back and forth until Poindexter gained a four-point spread with a minute to go. Bill Karn, playing guard for Glenwood, led all scorers with 22 points.

Central Slates AM Sessions For Golfers

By KENNY ASH

It's that time of the year again at Central High School when the golf balls start flying. Mr. Hayes, head golf coach, assisted by Mr. Katterhenrich, have started a unique practice setup for their Pirate team.

Mr. Hayes has a new plan for practice that will enable the boys to get home early after school and get their homework. The players begin practice at 6 in the morning before school.

The practice lasts until 8 at which time the boys report to school for classes. Practices are being held at Beacon Lights golf course.

Jay Snivley was elected captain of the golf team. The following boys are members of the team: Roger Arnold, Jim Huston, Larry Snoffer, Bill Driscoll and Larry Boyd.

Buckley Becomes M-14 Rifle Expert

Army Pfc. Robert J. Buckley, son of James J. Buckley, 41 N. Skidmore-st, recently qualified as expert in firing the M-14 rifle at Fort Bliss, Tex.

Buckley, a mechanic in Battery A of the 1st Guided Missile Group's 1st Battalion at the fort, entered the Army in Mar., 1962 and completed basic training at Fort Knox, Ky.

The 22-year-old soldier is a 1959 graduate of Holy Family High School and was employed by Diehl Office Equipment Company before entering the Army.

FOR A CHAMPION

ERNIE GODFREY, president of the Central Ohio Chapter of the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame, presents a "Brick For Champions" to Mrs. Dave Parks in honor of her husband, the late Central football coach who produced championship teams in 1929-'30-'31-'41-'49-'51. The brick will be enshrined for posterity in the National Football Hall of Fame, to be constructed soon in Brunswick, N. J.

Ready Nine Wins Pair

Bishop Ready picked up two diamond wins this week — a 9-0 shutout of the St. Charles Reserves and a 13-1 shellacking of the Hilliard J-V's.

Pat Elkis notched the win over the Carolians, yielding but two hits while fanning six rival batsmen. The Silver Knights' Gallenstein allowed only two bingles in blanking the Wildcat nine.

Ready iced its win over Hilliard with a big seven-run seventh inning.

Paneling Can Define Room's Activity Areas

Solid lumber paneling is not only distinctive in and of itself, but it can also create distinctions between activity areas within a room.

The lines of demarcation which can be achieved with wall paneling may be either visual or physical.

To visually separate different activity areas, certain walls or sections of walls may be paneled while the remaining wall space is left unpaneled. In this way a specific area of the room becomes the focal point.

Fireplace Wall

An example of this sort of visual delineation would be the treatment of a fireplace wall on which the mantel itself is kept simple. The center of interest is created through the effective contrast between the brick or stone of the fireplace and the vertical rise of the paneling.

Similarly, an unusual collection of paintings or other wall hangings could be displayed to advantage against a wall paneled with solid lumber — such as clear, vertical grain Larch from the Western Pine region.

To emphasize a study corner in a larger room — a family or living room, for instance — that corner might be paneled in knotty Ponderosa Pine and bookcases built-in, thereby creating a comfortable room within a room. In like manner, a difficult alcove might be transformed into a distinctive and distinct dining area simply by installing handsomely patterned paneling on its three walls.

It is also possible to differentiate between activity areas in a room where all the walls are paneled by using a different installation design or pattern on the featured wall.

Thus, in a room where vertical paneling has been used throughout, the fireplace wall might be done in horizontal or even diagonal paneling. In using the same wood species, but varying the installation, the differentiation can be achieved without disrupting the integrity of the decor.

Room Dividers

The alternative to visual demarication is physical separation via paneled screens and room dividers. These devices are more definitive than is the paneled feature wall, but as they are usually neither solid nor built to ceiling height, they divide space but do not enclose it.

For instance, many of today's homes are not designed with entrance foyers, nor are the living rooms such that they will stand being chopped off with a solid wall to create an entrance hall. However, an effective entrance can be achieved with a divider built of solid lumber.

Such a divider might be a simple screen of vertical White Fir 1x2's, or something of a lattice-work nature. Or it might be a series of shelves at random intervals which could accommodate plants or a collection of glassware and china.

Another area in which the solid lumber screen can produce effective results is in the case of the non-existent dining room. Rather than simply establish one end of the living room as a dining area, it is possible to construct a handsome and not-too-space-consuming divider which would serve, on both sides, as a backdrop for furniture. This sort of divider is most effective if it is solid perhaps two-thirds of the way up and open from there to the ceiling.

Open-work screens can also be used to span the wide opening between two definite rooms where the opening is an alternate entrance that is not used, but shouldn't be sealed off with a solid door.

Enjoy More Peace And Quiet In Your Home

One of the reasons for the mass exodus from the city to suburbia is to get away from the bang, clatter and roar of the big metropolises.

But the new suburban resident has found that the country can be noisy too and he has to take steps to insure peace and quiet.

In the country, dogs bark, trains whistle, traffic still roars and swishes, appliances whirl, horns blow and the kids still make a rumpus when playing in the street or when confined to home by inclement weather.

How can the suburban dweller protect himself against the annoying suburban noises that he was not conscious of in the city. Here are a few suggestions:

Hedges, bushes, trees and fences can deflect a lot of traffic noise if you live near a busy street or highway.

Weather-stripping — felt strips and caulking can control sound as well as temperature.

Door Closers

Shaving a bit of wood off a door may stop annoying squeaks.

Lubricating hinges has the same effect.

Put casters under [illegible] to cut down on scraping noises. Glass casters instead of rubber or cloth-backed metal, however, [illegible] purpose.

A felt or rubber pad under an appliance may absorb more than 25 per cent of the noise. Keep pads under carpets, too.

Heavy drapes will absorb a lot of noise and keep it from spreading.

Quiet rooms such as bedrooms or reading rooms should be as far as possible from noisy rooms such as the kitchen or rumpus room.

You may become accustomed to a leaking faucet, but it may be annoying to others. Put in a new washer when necessary.

The suburban dweller also has found that new homes, while they are clean and beautiful inside, have a maximum of hard surfaces that act as sounding boards which reflect and amplify noise.

One of the most important noise reduction steps is to add absorptive material. The best method is to put acoustical tiles on ceilings, especially in the family room, living room, kitchen, den and playroom.

If the homeowner belongs to the new breed or do-it-yourselfers, he finds it's an easy job to install these tiles. All he needs are a few instructions which come with the materials. If he's that rare "unhandyman" he gets an accoustical contractor to do the job.

Amazing Difference

Amazing is the word for the difference between a sound conditioned room and an old fashioned one with hard surfaces from which noise bounces back and forth like a tennis ball.

Acoustical treatment is a comparative newcomer in the field of home repair, although it is included in the plans of many new homes.

Sound conditioning for many years has been a "must" in commercial buildings, auditoriums, broadcasting stations and other public and quasi-public structures.

Originally most acoustical tiles were white or off-white, but as they moved into the home, a wide variety of patterns and colors and color combinations were developed.

Some tiles resemble veined marble, others have appearance of vari-colored stone, still others are scultpured or embossed. Some are so cunningly designed they seem to change patterns with change in lights.

An acoustical ceiling can effect a marked, even quite striking change in a room's appearance, especially when care is taken to choose one or more of the distinctive surface designs that will complement the motif or color scheme.

Maintenance of acoustical ceiling tiles is an easy matter. They can be washed, dusted or painted, though in painting care should be taken not to clog the perforations that absorb most of the unwanted sound in a room.

Acoustical tiles are especially handy if the ceiling is in poor condition but does not need replacing. The tiles can be placed on the old ceiling with a special type of adhesive.

Decorative Lighting Effects Can Prove Highly Functional

Not all fixture lighting is intended specifically to provide illumination for clear, quick, comfortable seeing. Some lighting is used primarily to create an emotionally satisfying environment, according to the American Home Lighting Institute.

Decorative, or non-task lighting can also be highly functional. Used correctly, it helps repair the two most common mistakes in home lighting: glaring concentrations of light surrounded by drabness or extreme, flat, even lighting.

Avoid High Contrast

Undesirable high contrast —or difference in brightness —is often created, for example, by using portable lamps without general light from ceiling or wall fixtures. The picture is one of pools of light surrounded by extensive unlighted areas. This type of harsh lighting is hard on the eyes and contributes to discomfort and irritability.

Contrasts are normally reduced by lighting a vertical surface, such as a wall or drapery, in the normal field of vision. Such lighting adds to the over-all illumination of a room and softens the lighting. Lighting experts employ hanging or surface-mounted fixtures, valances, cornices, wall brackets, coves, soffits or custom architectural lighting for this purpose.

This type of lighting also accentuates the color and texture of wall or window treatments and contributes to the over-all interior design.

Just as undesirable in the home is flat, even lighting. It does not jangle the nerves like sharp concentrations of light but it produces boredom and monotony.

ORIENTAL flavor of the dining area is enhanced by a colorful cluster of porcelain lighting pendants, in white with multi-colored bands. By Mac Light.

This is best offset with pinpoints of light in key areas and on decorative accents to stimulate interest, excitement and alertness.

Highlighting of art objects such as paintings, murals, sculptures or planters can be done with recessed or surface-mounted directional lights or hanging fixtures. Many have focusing mechanisms for precise light control.

Similar techniques can be used to add emotional impact and visual excitement over a coffee or end table or a room divider, creating the theatrical effect of spotlighting key areas.

Good fixture lighting does more than deliver the right light for seeing it. It combines general illumination with sparkling highlights that add variation and interest and keeps the senses alive.

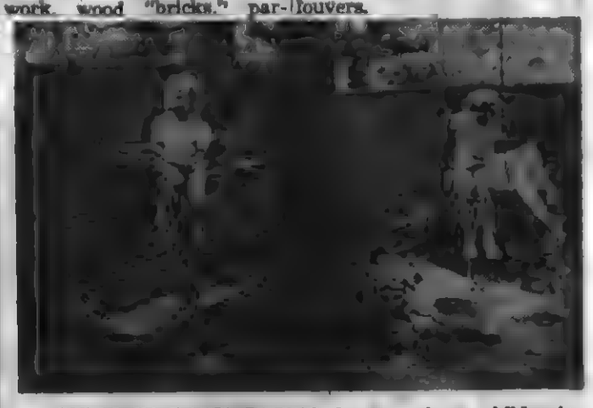
Fencing Provides Privacy Outdoors

For privacy and a sense of shelter, outdoor living space should be enclosed. Containment may be accomplished by a fence, a series of panels or a trellis.

These screens provide decorative protection—area delineation, privacy from passers by and sun or shade, when or where you want it.

When it comes to functionalism that's handsome too, fences and fence panels must certainly be given top priority in yard development.

Used alone or in conjunction with activity areas, fences can provide as little or as much protection and privacy as desired in a variety of attractive designs.



The more solid and taller the fence, the more privacy and protection achieved. Degree depends on purpose — whether the fence is to keep children in the yard or stray dogs out, to delineate between children's play area and yard proper, to create a barbecue patio or to screen utility areas from general view.

Fence design is limited only by the imagination.

Choices include basket-weave, herringbone, lattice work, wood "bricks," parquets, alternating panels back and front, and vertical louvers.

BUILT-IN BABY SITTER fence encloses children's play-yard, protecting them from neighborhood hazards. Vertical, solid board design in red cedar provides no footholds. When youngsters are grown, area can be turned into a walled terrace for adults.

Fly A Kite— But Be Careful

Spring breezes are blowing again and the bright, cloud-studded skies are dotted with gaily-painted harbingers of the season—kites.

A kite, bobbing merrily on the end of a string, makes a happy and fun-filled toy. It's good for countless hours of enjoyment for youngsters and oldsters alike. But the dangers surrounding the launching of a kite into the air should not be forgotten.

There are some good rules to keep in mind to minimize the dangers connected with this sport.

- First select an open area, well away from traffic, people, electric lines, buildings, trees and other kite flyers.
- When running with the kite check the terrain first. This could prevent a twisted ankle or broken leg. Be sure the path is clear of auto traffic or a person you might run into.
- Use a good quality cotton string or line. NEVER USE WIRE.
- If your kite does become entangled in electric lines, call the electric company immediately. If not removed, the paper and string could collect enough moisture to short out the current in the wires. Never attempt to remove the kite yourself. Let the electric man do it the safe and proper way.

Colorful posters, along with Yogi Bear comic books, have been distributed to fourth, fifth and sixth grade students in public and parochial schools by the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Company. These tell the illustrated story of safety precautions to be observed by anyone preparing to fly a kite.

Parents are urged to remind the youngsters of the dangers of kite flying and see to it they have a safe kite to fly and a safe area in which to fly it.

YMCA Elects Officers, Presents Awards

The Columbus Town and Country Branch of the Young Men's Christian Association at its annual meeting re-elected Thomas J. Quick, county superintendent of schools, as chairman, and Elmer G. Lambert, of Reynoldsburg, vice-chairman.

The following men were re-elected to the board for a three-year term expiring in 1966: William Hockman, Canal Winchester; Roger Frank, Grove City; Wilbur Heisel, Hamilton Township, and Judge H. W. Troop, Westerville.

The following new men were elected for a three-year term expiring in 1966: Edgar Murray, Brown Township, and Gene Pflieger, Worthington.

At the annual meeting recognition was given the following lay leaders for volunteer service to the youth in Franklin County:

Nancy Parr, secretary of Mifflin Tri-Hi-Y, on behalf of all Tri-Hi-Y members, presented Mrs. Marian Smith a service award for six years as advisor to the Mifflin Tri-Hi-Y Club. Other Tri-Hi-Y advisors recognized but unable to attend were: Mrs. Lois Brewer, Hamilton Township, 15 years; Miss Lillian Meloy, Groveport, 10 years, and Miss Lois Kemp, Franklin Heights, seven years.

James Cooper, president of Westerville Hi-Y, on behalf of all Hi-Y members, presented a five-year service award to Marion Canter, Reynoldsburg Hi-Y advisor. Other Hi-Y advisors, all with five years of service but unable to attend were Herbert Campbell, Jonathan Alder; James Doran, Mifflin; Harrold Layman, Reynoldsburg, and Jack Williams, Worthington.

Judge H. W. Troop, the senior member of the Town and Country Board, presented certificates of service to the following board members, each a past chairman: Samuel Frantz, Dublin, 21 years; William Spangler, Franklin Township, 19 years, and Wilbur Heisel, Hamilton Township, 17 years. Others unable to attend were Frank Wilcox, Pleasant Township, 12 years; Elmer Lambert, Reynoldsburg, and Willis Steinman, Worthington, each with seven years.

Dec. 17, 1945, Buffalo and upstate New York were buried by a 50-inch snowfall at the end of a four-day blizzard.

HELLO, WORLD—I THINK I'M GOING TO MAKE IT!

When we first met Tommy he had lost all hope. He wouldn't even speak to us—let alone try to walk.

But hope is our business. So we coaxed and needled and loved him until he crawled out of his shell and stood up. Now he is walking, and talking, and full of hope.

Hope raises up crippled children. So does money. We've got hope. But we're looking to you for the money. Not a lot—just enough to put one kid one day closer to walking.

The Easter Seals you use enable the Easter Seal Society, at more than a thousand clinics and centers, to help people fight against these crippling disorders—crippling accidents, poliomyelitis, cerebral palsy, multiple sclerosis, muscular dystrophy, arthritis, birth deformities, speech defects and many others.

Boxer Dog Wins Best In Show

A three-year-old Boxer dog, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Donald F. Smith of 2977 W. Broad-st, was awarded the Best-In-Show Award at the 1963 International Kennel Club Show held recently in Chicago.

The dog, Painted Lady, has now won 21 Best-In-Show awards. In the Chicago show, the fawn-colored Boxer was in competition with 2,642 dogs of 112 breeds.

WEST BROAD APPLIANCE manager Fred Phillips carefully places an advertising sign on a new Frigidaire electric range in preparation for the month-long fourth anniversary sale. The range is only one of the items reduced in price for the celebration.

Fourth Anniversary Celebration Now In Progress At West Broad Appliance Store

"Volume buying and mass displaying have been very important factors contributing to our success," said Fred Phillips, manager of the West Broad Appliance Store, 3192 W. Broad-st, while commenting on the store's fourth anniversary celebration.

He went on to say that since the store opened in March, 1959, they had been able to offer good prices to the buying public because of direct factory buying from many large manufacturers like Frigidaire. "Since we are one of three appliance stores under the same management we are able to purchase directly by the carload," Phillips stated.

"Now," according to Phillips, "besides the usual savings we can offer we are going to cut prices on everything for the remainder of the month during our anniversary sale."

Some of the well known brands to be featured during the celebration include: Frigidaire, Zenith, Philco, Admiral, Curtis-Mathis, Maytag, Hoover, Amana, Hamilton and Easy. Every type of appliance from refrigerators to toasters and TV sets will be offered during the month long observance.

Free candy will be offered to youngsters and oldsters visiting the store while the sale is in progress according to Phillips.

West Broad Appliance has six persons on its staff in the store, a radio and television repairman and a delivery and warehouse staff which is used in conjunction with the other two stores in the organization.

Phillips extended an invitation to everyone to visit the appliance store during the month long celebration and join in the savings on every item.

Rail Fence To Front New Black Angus

Bob Clark

West Broad will be even more "West" with the addition of a split rail fence in front of Bob Clark's Black Angus Restaurant, in the 3100-block of that famous thoroughfare.

Bob, who resides in Hilliard with his wife and four children, has purchased the restaurant formerly known as Monaco's, and has actively taken over the management. The rail fence and a new sign will be put in place as soon as construction details are completed.

Clark has secured the services of Charles Griffith as chef. Griffith was chef at the Scioto Country Club for six years, two of which were in an executive capacity.

"We plan to provide a restaurant for the people of our city which—in addition to top quality food—will have an atmosphere of quiet dignity which the diners to whom we intend to cater will appreciate," Clark said.

A newspaper man for several years, Clark has also owned the Disc Jockey Record Shops, operated a restaurant in Springfield and was with Pfaelzer Bros. Meat Purveyors of Chicago for two years.

TB Tests Reveal Positive Reactors

Seven positive reactors were found through free TB tests given in Hilltop and West Side parochial schools, the Tuberculosis Society reported. A total of 515 first, seventh and 11th graders received the free tests during March.

C. Edward Harrison, society director of case-detection, explained that a positive reaction to the test does not necessarily mean the student has active, contagious tuberculosis. It does mean he has been in close contact with someone who has active TB.

"All positive reactors and their close relatives are routinely X-rayed to locate contagious tuberculosis," Harrison said.

Area schools and the number of reactors checked include: St. Agnes, 1; St. Aloysius, 1; Holy Family, 3; St. Cecilia, 0; St. Mary Magdalene, 2.

Hilltop Traffic Crackdown Soon

George W. Scholer, Columbus chief of police, recently reported that Police District 22 in the Hilltop area (Mound-st from Wayne to Hague in particular) has been a high accident area during the second half of March.

The major violations and accidents have been due to excessive speed and failure to comply with stop sign regulations. The critical hours are between 4 and 9 p.m.

The enforcement of speed limits and coming to a full stop has been definitely subpar, Scholer states, and a well-enforced Hilltop area would require 40 per cent closer surveillance.

The first autogyroscope plane was flown Dec. 19, 1928, at Pitcairn Field, Willow-grove, Pa.

Grove City Team Feted At Dinner

Members of the Grove City High School basketball team, accompanied by the cheerleaders and coaching staff, were guests of Rush-N-Opal's for dinner Friday evening.

This dinner has become a traditional event at the popular eating establishment where the proprietors, Rush and Opal Thomas, play hosts to the team at the close of the basketball season.

Grove City High advanced to the semi-finals of the regional playoffs for the state basketball tournament before they were eliminated from contention by Columbus West High's basketball team.

PROMOTED

BRUCE L. HUTT, 2724 Elliott-av, general welding inspector for the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. Transmission Department, has been promoted to welding technician for the Columbia Gas Service Corp. according to an announcement by M. A. Hutchison, vice-president in charge of transmission for Ohio Fuel. Hutt succeeds Charles T. Allen, 1332 Lincoln-rd, who retired Apr. 1. Hutt has been with Ohio Fuel for 16 years.

Colombia under Simon Bolivar was united with Venezuela Dec. 17, 1819.

nity Council, will be Easter bunnies-in-charge at Glenwood Park, 1926 W. Broad-st, and Westgate Park, Demorest and Wicklow-rds.

Fun At 8 A.M.

At both Hilltop parks early birds will be entertained with group games and singing, starting at 8 a.m. Objects of these hunts will be the same — five cases of hard boiled eggs, 300 individually wrapped candy eggs and three special prizes — all donated by the Kiwanians.

Children will be divided into three groups for hunting — those four years old and under, those five and six, and those seven through nine, and will hunt in separate areas. The youngest group will hunt in a roped-off area, and parents will be excluded.

Prizes for several special prize eggs will be stuffed animals for the tiny tots and one-pound chocolate and fruit eggs for the seven through niners.

Volunteer "Bunnies"

Taking the helm at Glenwood will be Kiwanians Chuck Moore and Tony Taylor. Mrs. Marge Evans, Mrs. Nelle Callopy and Mrs. Pauline Miller are in charge of securing PTA members to make and serve coffee, hot chocolate and donuts, supervise the shelterhouse before the hunt, and boil and color the eggs.

Mrs. Campbell Warren, Mrs. Robert Duncan and Mrs. Herbert Hallman will head up Girl Scouts who will supervise the hunt area and lead in the early entertainment. Boy Scout Troop 45 will assist them.

The Westgate hunt is to be coordinated by Kiwanians Terry Ogden and John Reece.

Parent-Teachers Association's helping with the preparations are headed by Mrs. Howard Thurston, Mrs. A. O. Hall and Mrs. Frank Bowles.

Mrs. Sammie Lands and three troops of Girl Scouts as well as Gene Long and Boy Scouts of Troop 186 will help entertain and control the crowd.

Refreshments for all workers are being provided by the community council.

LINCOLN VILLAGE

878-4551

The bicycle check sponsored by the Prairie-Lincoln School safety chairman was considered a success. It was extended for three days to allow all children in the village to get their bicycles checked.

Happy birthday to Charles West, Darbyhurst-rd.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Bootes, Amesbury-wy, will celebrate their 22nd anniversary Easter Sunday. Congratulations to the happy pair.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Storch, Danhurst-rd, will celebrate their anniversary Monday, Apr. 15. Congratulations also to this couple who have been married for many years. Their son, Dave, is in college.

Winners in the Duplicate Bridge Club were, North-South, first, Mr. and Mrs. James Upson; second, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Willings; third, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Buchheit. East-West winners were, first, Mr. and Mrs. Karl Maul; second, Mr. and Mrs. Herb Welch; and third, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Crawford.

Jim Dresman, Darbyhurst-rd, is on a business trip to California for a month to six weeks. He is due to return shortly.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles "Dave" Gurley, 360 Weymouth-ln, are the proud parents of a baby daughter, born Apr. 3.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Matthews Ferguson and son Kenred and and family were transferred to Memphis, Tenn., where they have purchased a new home.

The Lincoln Village Mixed Couples Summer Bowling League will start soon. For further information and details please contact Oscar Smith, 878-3701.

The Executive Board of the Lincoln Village Women's Club had a surprise baby shower for Anna Morgan. Dick and Anna Morgan are the new parents of a baby boy, Thomas R' hard.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Allen, of Maumee, stopped on their way home from a three-month vacation at Daytona Beach, Fla., to visit their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James Allen, Darbyhurst-rd, for the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Downin traveled to Cleveland to visit Marianna's sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. "Skip" Middaugh, formerly of Lincoln Village, and to celebrate their niece Marjory's third birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Kedron Heckner, Topafield-rd, are enjoying a visit by Mrs. Heckner's mother, Mrs. Earl Bergendahl, who resides in Baltimore, Md.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Willings, Sturbridge-rd, are enjoying a visit with Mary Lou's mother.

Happy birthday is extended to Beth Heckner.

The Lincoln Village Women's Club Welfare Committee, under the direction of Mrs. Ray Good, are again sponsoring Easter [illegible] baskets for Orient State Hospital. The committee would like contributions of cottage cheese containers, the round bottom of bleach containers, plastic tomato baskets, etc., to make Easter baskets.

Anyone who would like to contribute grass, candy, etc., to fill these baskets may do so by contacting Mrs. Ray Good, 878-3935. The welfare committee wants to fill approximately 500 baskets. They have enough items for 350 baskets and the need is still great.

Monumental Policyholders Told To Pay

Monumental Life Insurance Co. policyholders have been advised that premiums must be paid when due, despite the continuance of a strike by some company agents.

In commenting on the strike, Frederick L. Wehr, president of Monumental, said:

"For policyholders to retain their insurance in full benefit and to assure themselves that claims will be paid, they are required to either mail or bring their premiums to one of the company's district offices."

Wehr's statement was made in answer to material distributed by some of the striking agents. Part of the material cited by Wehr was an unsigned letter to "Monumental Policyholders," from "Your Striking Monumental Agent."

The letter said in part:

"We urge you NOT to pay your premiums while the strike is on. The company has NOT said it would lapse any insurance for non-payment. Other insurance companies did not lapse insurance for non-payment during a strike." (Last sentence underscored.)

The letter urged policyholders to turn away any agent calling for premiums, and requested that picket lines not be crossed "in person or by mail."

Wehr described the strikers as "members of a union whose leaders approved the contract which these particular men have not accepted."

"Unless premiums are paid by our policyholders in keeping with the terms of our policies," Wehr said, "the benefits called for under the policies must cease."

To Hold Judging

The Department of Ohio Veterans of Foreign Wars will conduct their annual Community Service Recordbook judging on Saturday, Apr. 13, at 9:30 a.m. at the Neil House, parlor No. 5.

State judges will consist of Don E. Weaver, Miss Florence Worrell and M. E. Sensenbrenner. The state program is under the direction of Otis R. Lowe, 2981 Westmoor-dr.

STOPPING A CAR'S ENGINE BEFORE IT WARMS UP IS A MAJOR CAUSE OF ENGINE REPAIR. It's those 2-minute drives to the store that cause the trouble, because your car engine can't really get warmed up. Unburned gasoline, trapped in the cylinder chambers, runs into the crankcase oil, increasing sludge deposits and hastening the need for engine overhaul. It also pays to know how you can benefit by insuring your car with State Farm Mutual. Call me today!

Nurses Take Licks At S.B. 66

Who's Responsible: Hospital Board Or On-Duty Nurse?

By JOHN AUBLE, JR.

Seldom since Florence Nightingale — or Clara Barton, even — have nurses put up a greater fight than they're doing right now in Ohio during the current General Assembly session.

Target for the attack by the girls in white is Substitute Senate Bill 66 which, according to Dorothy A. Cornelius, R.N., executive director of the Ohio State Nursing Association, is being viewed with dismay by nearly 11,000 nurses in this state.

More than that, allied professional groups, such as the Ohio Academy of Trial Lawyers, Ohio Physical Therapists Association, Licensed Practical Nurses Association of Ohio and Medical Technologists Association, are voicing strong protests.

In essence, the bill (up three times before with negative results) would withdraw liability from hospitals, leaving the registered nurse answerable directly to the patient for her acts or omissions, which in many cases are performed by her solely as the agent of the hospital institution and not in an independent professional capacity.

In other words, if, for instance, a patient would trip over a light cord, the hospital would no longer be responsible under this substitute Senate bill.

Naturally, the patient would seek damages and the most logical one to sue would be the nurse on duty as the bill clearly removes the hospital and its administration from any responsibility or "gross negligence."

The bill has been brought into this session by Senators Joseph W. Bartunek (D) of Cleveland and Charles W. Whalen, Jr., (R) from Dayton.

Both Bartunek and Whalen serve on hospital boards in their individual cities.

The bill was recommended for passage by a 4-3 vote of the Judiciary Committee on Mar. 19 with Senators Kenneth Berry (R) from Coshocton and Charles H. Jones (R) from Hamilton opposing.

It was in the Rules Committee this week. While resting here, nurses and nurse officials have been flooding the legislature with objections. Letters were to be sent out this week to most of the [illegible] and to Governor Rhodes.

The governor, when contacted Friday about the issue, said he "had not had a chance to take a look" at the bill and reserved comment until he had a chance to do so.

The bill was previously vetoed by former Governor DiSalle.

"Senate Bill 66 would free Ohio hospitals from liability for negligent acts committed by their employes," the nurses director said. "It would place the whole legal burden on nurses, whose income has risen far less than most hospital costs.

"As professional people, nurses accept responsibility for their conduct and acts. But the public won't be protected if they alone can be sued."

From a nurses' director standpoint, biggest drawback to the bill would be its deterrent abilities for girls

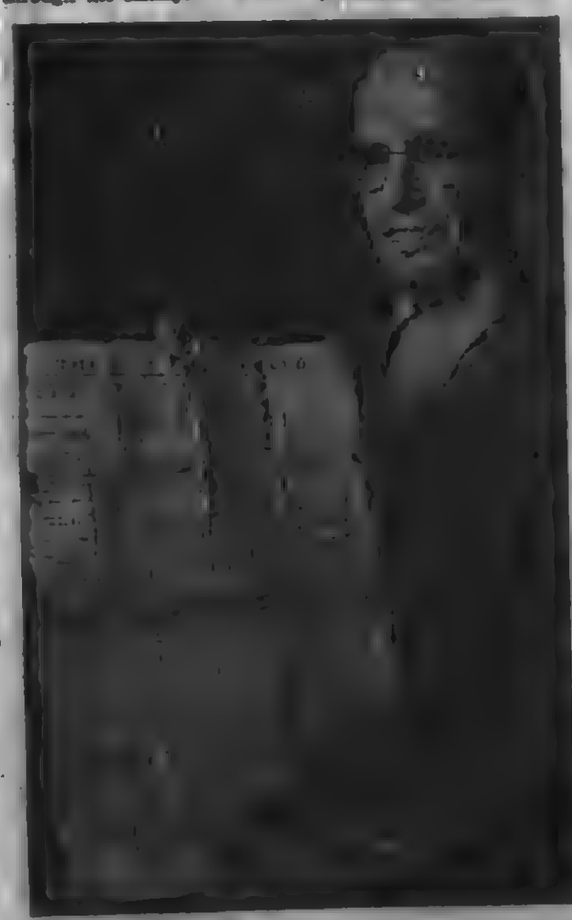
DASHED IN HIS BED.

By BOB PERKOWSKI

You had better be prepared for interest rather than money if you come across an Apr. 15, 1865, issue of the New York Herald with the above headlines. Even if it looks like a genuine copy of the 98-year-old newspaper, it probably isn't.

Some years ago museums spent a great deal of time, money and man-hours digging up old newspapers relating Lincoln's death. Outside of looking in people's old trunks tucked in attic corners, the searchers found few of the genuine articles.

But people still come up with what they think are actual accounts of Lincoln's death, as did William H. Hoelcher, 603 S. Westgate-av, who has a paper passed down through the family.



Originally owned by Hoelcher's grandfather, William Hackett, the paper appears to be real.

Inside, however, one finds why the newspaper was not published in 1865. A full one and one-half pages are devoted to personal endorsements of medicine wagon warns, and across the top of each is written: "Use Kitchel's Spavin Cure Now (1890) And Forever Hereafter."

Another paper, owned by Park Roush, 108 N. Burgess, looks even more authentic. The paper was originally owned by Noah Lehman, a Civil War veteran who died about 35 years ago. The paper had been preserved with other mementos.

Guard Forms New Units At Armory

Haubrich Armory, 4094 Sullivant-av, center of training for some 300 citizen-soldiers, has taken on new importance with the recent reorganization of the 37th Infantry Division, Ohio National Guard, into three brigades.

Maj. Gen. Loren G. Windom, commander, announced that the armory is now the home of: (1) Headquarters and Headquarters Company, Third Brigade; (2) 166th Headquarters Co., First Infantry Battalion; (3) Co. D, 112th Medics; (4) and the 37th Division Band. Only the band remains under its old designation. Col. Vernon B. McMillen, Worthington, is brigade commander.

The move coincides with the Army's dropping of the Pentomic Infantry Division concept, in use less than five years, and will open at least 60 new positions for specialists here. The reorganization has increased the span of control by the Third Brigade to include other battalions in Cincinnati and Springfield, and subordinate battalions as far away as Kenton, St. Mary's, Cincinnati, Hillsboro and Lancaster.

Objective of the new setup is to better prepare the divisions and brigades for action in widely varying climates and terrain that exist throughout the world. Col. McMillen explained it this way: "Under ROAD (Reorganization Objectives Army Division), the brigade has no regularly assigned battalions but could receive on an attached basis one or more infantry battalions, plus armor, artillery and supporting units necessary to do a job. This differs from the World War II regimental setup in that three infantry battalions were part of their organization."

On Apr. 1, Col. McMillen's First Battle Group, 166th Infantry, provided the necessary personnel to form the brigade headquarters and company as well as an infantry battalion headquarters and company. Lt. Col. James K. Hunter, 99 Bullitt Park-pl, heads the new battalion.

Members of the former reconnaissance platoon at the armory formed the nucleus of the new medical company, said Lt. Col. John W. Spain, brigade executive officer.

Maj. Frank H. Ladd, 4150 Sullivant-av, brigade operations officer, said the reserve based National Guard units will recruit more men to bring them up to strength. Vacancies now exist for dental assistants, a psychology technician, radar operators, communications personnel (wire, radio, message center) and Army aviation crew chiefs.

The entire 37th Division will hold its summer training stint this year from Aug. 4 to 18 at Camp Grayling, Mich.

The basement of Haubrich National Guard Armory has been designated as a "fall-out shelter" with room for 78 people. Lt. Col. John W. Spain, brigade staff assistant, this week encouraged people of the neighborhood to become familiar with the shelter.

Happy birthday to us!!

No, we're not baking a cake or buying up a stock of candles — just adding one more numeral to the line at the top of the page. (It's now 47.)

With that little formality The Hilltop Record observed the passing of another year and rededicated itself to continuous service to our readers and advertisers.

As the senior newspaper in the Hartley Newspaper organization, we take pride in believing adherence to this policy has contributed to our success and to the success of six other newspapers that have followed in our steps.

Zoning Variance Is Requested

A public hearing to consider an appeal by the Hilltop Christian Church, 130 S. Burgess-av, for a variance to the Columbus Zoning Ordinance will be held before the Board of Zoning Adjustment in City Hall on Friday, Apr. 26, at 2 p.m.

The church has requested a variance to the building setback regulations and the corner lot vision clearance distance to erect an addition at the southeast corner of Burgess-av and Olive-st.

The Board of Zoning Adjustment does not consider petitions to rezone property, only appeals for special permits and variances which cannot, for reasons of hardship or other causes, meet strict compliance with the Columbus Zoning Ordinance.

Valleyview Street Plan Is Opposed

A move to open up an undeveloped block of Powell-av in the northwest corner of Valleyview may be met with opposition at the village's next council meeting, May 6.

Paul Wichterman, 500 N. Powell-av, said about a dozen neighbor families "are very much opposed" to opening the link to Valleyview-dr because it could encourage southbound Hague-av traffic to short cut through the residential area to avoid the traffic light at Valleyview-dr.

Wichterman said this complaint will appear on a petition to council that he is preparing. "We don't see any great value in building a street there," he declared. "It most certainly will bring danger to children playing in the area. Hague-av is built to carry heavy traffic—Powell isn't."

He said the people knew nothing of the village's plans to develop the street until workers started to clear the brush away. The street lies along the Columbus incorporation line, but it is dedicated to Valleyview.

GOP Candidates Appearing Here Tuesday, April 23

Republicans of the 10th, 11th and 32nd wards will hold a "Meet - The - Candidates - Night" Tuesday, Apr. 23, at City National Bank, 3100 W. Broad-st.

Starting at 7:30 p.m., Richard Metcalf will introduce candidates appearing on the May primary ballot.

Committee leaders making arrangements include Earl Brownlee, Alma Smith, Lawrence Roach, Mary Sarrey, Joseph M. Enright and Bertha Sinnett.

$91 Awaits Winner Of 'Confederate' Jackpot

A total of 91 "Confederate" dollars now awaits the winner of the lucky "jackpot" in the Hartley Newspapers contest currently running in this newspaper. This means 20 Hartley "Confederate" dollars have been added to last week's total to make up the new grand total.

Each week the "Confederate" cash not claimed in the previous week's contest is added to the lucky "jackpot." Each week 25 new "Confederate" dollars are made available to readers of Hartley Newspapers by means of insignia, similar to those in this column, printed in a color other than black, hidden in the advertisements inside your newspaper.

There are 20 insignia containing the number "1" and one insignia containing the number "5" hidden in 21 different newspapers each week. Any reader finding a "1" insignia may bring or mail the page containing the lucky number to Hartley Newspapers, 2465 W. Broad-st, and he will receive a "Confederate" bill. The holder of a "5" insignia will receive five Hartley "Confederate" dollars, but if that reader is a paid subscriber he will also receive the "jackpot," which is 91 "Confederate" dollars this week. To claim the five "Confederate" dollars or the jackpot the winner must bring the page, containing the insignia, into the office in person.

All Hartley "Confederate" cash can be spent, just like U.S. currency, for goods or services with any advertiser in a Hartley newspaper during the week the winner wants to spend it. Advertisers are guaranteed the money will be redeemed, at face value, by Hartley Newspapers. Employes of Hartley Newspapers, including carriers or their families, are not eligible to participate in the contest.

Winners of one "Confederate" dollars included Mr. and Mrs. John Pennadecker Jr., 436 S. Ogden-av; Clyde McMannus, 1954 Daugherty-av; George Ottman, 3620 Bixby-rd; Mrs. Alan Miller, 1964 Fairfax-rd, and Gloria Baker, 9000 Alkire-rd, Grove City.

Another Family Night Dated Friday At Gladden House

All West Side families are invited to join in the fun at Gladden Community House, 183 Hawkes-av, Friday, Apr. 19. From 7:30 to 9 p.m. there'll be volleyball, basketball, cards, refreshments, dancing, ping pong, etc., plus a special exhibition of judo.

Friday, May 3, from 4 to 9, has been reserved for the third Annual Spring Festival at Gladden. Those wishing to help may contact Barbara Smoot at CA. 1-7801.

Changes Ordered At Intersection

Based on traffic and accident counts, the city has decided to post several Hilltop intersections as follow:

Chase-av, Roys-av and Haldy-av traffic yields to Steele-av.

Change "yield" signs that are presently in use so that Chase-av and Haldy-av cars yield to Grace-st, and Roys-av traffic stops for Grace-st.

A request by the traffic engineer to halt Powell-av traffic for Grace-st was held up pending a recheck of traffic.

RAT-A-TA-TAT!!

KNOW WHAT a "sidewalk dentist" is? If not, ask any one of the 1900 students at West High School. For the past two weeks workmen have been busy with their air hammers and cement mixers making new sidewalks around the school. This is part of a renovation program approved by the Columbus Board of Education to be carried out this spring and summer. Under the program many changes will be made to the 36-year-old building.—Photo by Craig Weaver

The happy reason is Dean & Barry house paint with Poly-Lin — the new super-processed linseed oil that makes your home look like a million.

You'll be happy with the smoother, glossier, solidly covered look Dean & Barry house paint with Poly-Lin gives when new. And you'll find that this new Poly-Lin paint looks better years later... in whiter white, or colors that stay fade-free bright.

You'll be happy to find that Dean & Barry house paint with Poly-Lin sells for less than most advertised brands. And you save, too, because only 5 economical gallons per coat does the average 6-room home. See us today. Or ask your painter-decorator to use the paint that's made with Poly-Lin. He will know what you mean. Happy news travels fast.

Notice the tighter, tougher, locked-together structure of Dean & Barry Poly-Lin — the wonderful new super-processed linseed oil that makes your next house paint job years away. No premature aging, no unsightly dull-out. And Poly-Lin gives Dean & Barry house paint a much smoother and brighter look, too. Try it and see.

VOTERS INFORMATION

April 1963 — 65 S. 4th St., Columbus 15, Ohio

Hartley Newspapers are pleased to cooperate with the League of Women Voters of Metropolitan Columbus in presenting herewith the following material compiled from answers to questionnaires which were submitted to candidates. The candidate's own words have been used and replies are on file in the League office.

The League of Women Voters is non-partisan; gives unbiased information to its members and the public; is concerned with a candidate's position on important issues; is working towards an informed electorate; is open to all women.

In gathering the information for this Bulletin the League gave the candidates an opportunity to specify their party affiliation.

PRIMARY ELECTION

TUESDAY, MAY 7, 1963

Polls Open 6:30 A.M., Close 6.30 P.M.

Explanation of City Council

The legislative power of the City is vested in the council, consisting of seven members elected at large.

The Charter provides that at least fifty regular meetings shall be held each year. The term is for four (4) years, and the salary is $4800 annually.

There are 10 candidates. Vote for only four (4).

Question asked City Council Candidates:

A. What financial problems do we face in providing community services such as: water, welfare, police and fire protection or any other areas of particular interest to you?

B. What are your proposed solutions?

Harvey H. Alston Sr. 56

1893 Greenway, S. — R
Columbus 19

Education: Graduate of East High School, Columbus, Ohio.

Occupation: Retired. Former Police Inspector of Columbus Police Dept.

A. 1. Water Division
2. Div. of Electricity
3. Police undermanned
4. Automotive equipment

B. 1. Bond issues to be retired on expected revenue
2. Bond issues
3. Gradual buildup
4. City car pool.

B. There is little a councilman can do in this matter except complain, and hope for results, since this is under administrative control. But I shall continue to cry to High Heaven regarding this and other waste.

Occupation: Consulting Engineer, specilizing in Efficiency and Economy. Income Tax Economic Specialist. I am now serving my fourth year as City Councilman.

A. We have faced the same financial problem for years. The above services suffer due to diminished funds caused by waste of taxpayers' money on un-needed or less important services, or services which should be performed by city personnel.

B. Money for all of these projects has been allocated in our Capital Improvements Budget. I voted to approve this Budget and if more money should be found available during the year for any of these projects, I will work to see that it is used where it is mostly needed.

Education: Graduate of North High School of Columbus, Ohio. Attended the Capital College of Oratory and Music.

Occupation: Member and President of City Council.

A. We need extensions and repairs on water and sewer lines, although more work has been done on our sewer lines in the past two years than has ever been done previously; because of the increase in our population, more money is needed for the welfare problem; I recognize that more employes are needed in the police and fire departments in order to give adequate protection to all sections of our city; in many sections of our city, sidewalks and streets are needed to give protection to our children especially near our school districts.

B. Money for all of these projects has been allocated in our Capital Improvements Budget. I voted to approve this Budget and if more money should be found available during the year for any of these projects, I will work to see that it is used where it is mostly needed.

Columbus 9

Education: I was born and raised in Columbus. My primary education was received at St. Mary's Grade School, and high school education was obtained, by attending evening classes at Central and South High Schools.

Occupation: For the past 38 years I have operated my own Appliance Store on Parsons Ave. Previous to 1925, I worked as a salesman for Heatons Music Store. During the years of my business experience I have endeavored to serve my business associates and community, by actively participating in the following organizations. I am past president of the South Side Business and Industrial Association, past president of the Columbus Appliance Dealers Association, member of the National Appliance Dealers Association, past president of the Southeast Lions Club. At the present time, I am chairman of Selective Service Board No. 39 and have served on the Selective Service for 23 years. For eight years I have been a member of the Board of Trustees of Mercy Hospital, and a member of the Board of Directors of Main Federal Savings and Loan Association for five years. I am a Board member and an officer of Redi Foods. I hold the Silver Beaver award in Scouting, and have been a member of City Council since 1958, and have served on all committees of that body.

A. The needs of the General Fund Departments can best be met through using our present revenue producing systems more effectively. This means more diligence in treasury investments and better business economics in purchasing, and administration of various departments. With improved methods and business practices, additional money would be available to furnish the manpower needed in the departments.

B. One of the major solutions for the administration of these departments, would be a closer co-operation between various department heads. Great economy would be gained, if the various departments would not overlap in their functions, and many man hours could be saved by closer co-ordination of efforts.

Occupation: Minister — Staff Associate; Columbus Area Council of Churches.

A. Government at all levels is faced with the matter of adequate funds to provide sufficient services to all areas of the city, i.e., water, welfare, recreation, police and fire protection, flood control, etc. In all of these areas of service there are inadequacies at present which could develop into real crises situations in our city. To illustrate, one might call to mind the series of molestings, purse snatchings, etc., which have plagued us recently. Manpower shortages in the Police Department is a definite factor in this instance.

B. 1. A thorough analysis of our revenue - producing services to be sure that the rates charged are sufficient.

2. A more positive approach on the part of city officials in their interpreting the true financial needs of government to the public. It is my firm belief that citizens are willing to take whatever steps are necessary to provide the funds needed for the various services if they are given positive leadership at the top.

3. A study of other revenue-producing means, which will be equitable and yet productive in terms of the city's financial needs.

Occupation: Practicing Attorney, self employed, 471 S. High St., Columbus.

A. We have the problem of raising sufficient capital to enable us to provide the capital improvements, in the way of a modern community facilities plant, i.e. water, sewer, highway and electric systems and improvements in our municipal safety systems.

The same problem confronts us in establishing the Columbus Industrial Development Authority which I propose.

All of these are vitally needed to attract new industry to the city.

B. Sale of general obligation bonds for non-revenue producing capital improvements and revenue bonds for those which do produce revenue, e.g. water and sewer services. These bonds will be retired from the increase in general revenue (in the case of the non-revenue projects) generated by the better value tax duplicate produced by the addition of the new industry they will bring to the City and by the revenues produced by the facilities themselves (in the case of the revenue projects).

For the financing of the Columbus Industrial Development Authority I propose the issuance and sale of bonds of the Authority which will be retired from revenues produced by the sales of and rentals of industrial tracts which the Authority will make to new industries, attracted to the city by the availability of these tracts.

I was Executive Assistant to Mayor Sensenbrenner of Columbus, '54-'58; First Director of Finance, '58-'60; Consultant to Municipal Govt., '60-'62.

Occupation: Stock and Bond Broker, Investment Consultant.

A. The city of Columbus lacks adequate revenues to provide capital improvements in the division of water. There is a woeful lack of police and fire manpower. Columbus has failed to keep pace with other large cities in contribution toward welfare needs. In this area our level of assistance is far below bare minimum need. Obviously, the present allocation of revenues from the General Fund is inadequate as the budget is being administered.

B. In the case of water, the first thing to be done is application of administrative reform and the use of performance measurement as recommended by myself in 1959. Then we should examine the rate structure, for possible revision.

Any specific recommendation for solution to the above problems in the General Fund departments would be incomplete and foolhardy at this time. Suffice it to say, the city needs more courageous fiscal planning to coincide with its planning for the city's physical (capital) requirements. There are several ways to do this and I plan to recommend them as the campaign gets underway.

A. We face all of the financial problems of providing community services such as education, transportation, water, sewer, welfare, police and fire protection, that any community faces where the population and motor vehicle registrations are greatly in excess of the average community.

B. The preparation of a comprehensive regional plan to solve the problems created by our rapid growth has been under study for several years by the Franklin County Planning Commission, the Columbus City Planning Commission and allied committees.

This study is about completed and as a Columbus City Councilman I would work to put the Comprehensive Regional Plan into operation.

Occupation: Employed by North American Aviation Company.

A. City of Columbus has what is known as "Growing Pains." We are in area, the largest city in Ohio. This affects us financially. A large share of the $63,000,000 budget this year has been appropriated towards our inner belt road system and capital improvements. Our finances are limited and our money is channeled to many needed projects; but with an outlay of millions of dollars, we still find ourselves not adequately protected by police and fire service. We also find some of our annexed areas without sufficient water and sewer service; that goes with annexing to our city.

B. (1) Welfare—Set up a good Case Worker Program, where the people who really need help will get it. In this way we get rid of the chiselers and help those who are deserving.

(2) Water—Economize in the departments of the city and we can find money to go for sewer and water service.

(3) Police and Fire Departments — Set up a Citizens Committee to restudy our budget for 1963, and see what can be cut and diverted to these departments for our immediate protection.

Occupation: Sub-station operator for the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co.; Secretary of Local Union 1466, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers; Committee of Political Education Director of same local union.

A. I believe that our biggest problem is that most of our city department employes are underpaid, therefore the turnover is great and the training of employes is very costly. Also this wage structure does not tend to attract all of the most desirable employes, which has a tendency to lessen departmental efficiency.

The inadequate and obsolete equipment which we have in our electrical, water and sewage plants is not effective and highly costly to maintain.

We also need street lighting in many areas of the city, if we light the streets of Columbus we will take a big step forward curbing the muggings and molestings which despite the current effort to paint a bright picture has reached an all time high. Those factors of our society which are responsible for these conditions abide in the darkness and are dispelled under the harsh light.

B. The solutions to these problems are, I believe, quite apparent. First a study of the overall cost of city employe wages and efficiencies would be necessary, but this can be done without the expense of costly outside investigators.

As far as the obsolescence of the equipment and the maintenance of the same is concerned I feel well qualified to examine this on my own and make numerous recommendations as to correcting this situation on a low cost program.

In regard to the problem of crime I believe along with the lighting of city streets, the enforcement of the city curfew on juveniles, coupled together with a strict law enforcement program will alleviate this situation. Also the enactment and enforcement of a "Green River Ordinance" regulating and controlling door to door solicitation, as it is in Minerva Park will help make the women safer in their homes.

PROPOSED CHARTER AMENDMENT

A majority affirmative vote is necessary for passage
VOTE BALLOT WITH AN "X"

Shall the Charter of the City of Columbus, Ohio, be amended by the amendment of Section 181 and the enactment of Section 181-1 to read as follows?:

"Section 181. City's portion of cost.

The city shall pay such part of the cost and expense of improvements for which special assessments are levied as the council deems just, which part shall not be less than one-fiftieth of all such cost and expense; and, in addition thereto the city shall pay the cost of intersections. The council may provide for the payment of the city's portion of all such improvements by the issuance of bonds or notes therefor, and may levy taxes, in addition to all other taxes authorized by law, to pay such bonds or notes and the interest thereon; but the above provision as to the payment by the city of not less than one-fiftieth of the cost and the cost of intersections, shall not apply to the construction or repair, in the manner hereinafter provided, of sidewalks or to the construction of sewers or water mains or the laying of sewer or water connections."

"Section 181-1. Petitions for Improvement.

"When a petition subscribed by the owners of sixty per cent of the front footage of property abutting upon a street, alley, easement, or other public improvement, or the owners of seventy-five per cent of the area to be assessed for such improvement, is regularly presented to city council, the total cost of such improvement, including the cost of intersections, regardless of the limitations of Sections 180 and 181 of this charter or of general law, and without reference to the value of the lands of those who subscribe to such petition, may be assessed and collected in equal annual installments, proportioned to the whole assessment, in a manner which may be fixed by city council. When the lot or land of one who did not subscribe to the petition is assessed, such assessment shall not exceed thirty-three and one-third per cent of the actual value including improvements thereon, as enhanced by the improvement for which the assessment is levied, such value to be determined as of the date of the assessing ordinance.

Westsiders To Mark 51st Wedding Day

Mr. and Mrs. James Stevens, 92 S. Central-av, will mark the 51st anniversary of their wedding day Thursday, Apr. 18, with a quiet celebration.

The couple was married in Cincinnati in 1912, and has lived on the West Side since 1915.

Mr. Stevens has won the admiration of many by his successful operation of the Stevens Realty Co. despite the handicap of blindness.

Known as an avid sports fan, Stevens played baseball in his youth for a number of semi-professional and industrial teams. He traveled throughout Ohio and visited neighboring states while a member of the Columbus Interurban team.

His interest in sports is still reflected in the many teams sponsored by Stevens Realtors — baseball, football, softball and bowling teams. He also sponsors a team for boys in the American Legion League.

Stevens served as a fireman on the T&C Railroad from 1917 to 1919, when he established his real estate company at its present address.

He is a member of the Columbus and the National Board of Realtors, is a director in the Old Timers Baseball Club, and a member of Agonis Club.

Mrs. Stevens, also a native of Columbus, is a member of North Methodist Church.

Richard Queen

Name Hilltopper 'Senate Leader'

A seventh grade student at West Junior-Senior High School became the youngest person to participate in the world affairs program, sponsored by the Ohio Collegiate Council, with his appointment Apr. 16 as "Ohio's Senate Majority Leader."

Richard Earl Queen, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Queen, 2146 Day-av, was named to the honorary post by Senate Majority Leader Sen. Stanley Mechem because of his interest in Ohio history.

Richard's "term of office" expired Tuesday.

'Science, Health To Be Published In Paperback

A paperback edition will be published on May 8 of one of the world's most widely-circulated religious books — "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy.

This book, for nearly 70 years, has been read along with the Bible at all Christian Science church services, in place of sermons by ministers.

Although this will be the first paperback edition of Science and Health, the book has already reached sales of several millions since it first appeared in 1875.

The new 700-page paperback, like all other editions of Science and Health, will be published by the trustees under the will of Mary Baker Eddy, in Boston. Printed on standard book paper, it will be priced at $1.95, the publishers have announced.

It will be distributed by Harper and Row, Inc., of New York, Evanston and London, to book stores throughout the world, and also by the publishers' agent to Christian Science reading rooms.

Todd, Nelson Receive Church-Scout Medals

The Pro Deo et Patria medal for Lutheran Church-Boy Scout service was awarded to two local youths Sunday, Apr. 7.

In ceremonies at St. Matthew Lutheran Church the awards were presented by the pastor, Garrard A. Haubrick, to Gary Todd, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Todd, 504 Townsend-av, and Terry Nelson, 14, son of Mrs. Thelma Nelson, 772 W. Rich-st.

Both are members of Scout Troop 225, sponsored by the church.

To be eligible for Pro Deo et Patria the boys had to give 150 hours of service to the church, complete two years of catechism, and show evidence of daily devotional practices. Together they constructed a large map showing locations of all churches of American Lutheran Church, church schools, children's homes and other affiliated institutions. The map is to be used by the pastor for future catechism classes.

Gary, a first class scout with five merit badges, is the youngest boy to earn the award at St. Matthew. He is a seventh grader at Hilltonia Junior High School.

Terry, an eighth grader at Starling Junior High, is a Star Scout with five merit badges and is senior patrol leader as well as a den chief. He is president of the Junior Luther League, of which Gary also is a member. Both boys are interested in sports and model building.

Gary will receive his rite of confirmation Sunday, Apr. 21. Terry was confirmed a year ago.

New Library In Works For Senior Center

Columbus Public Library officials said today that every effort will be made to have the branch library in the New Senior Citizens Center in operation by late June when housing officials from Washington are scheduled to inspect the unique center and high-rise apartment for the elderly.

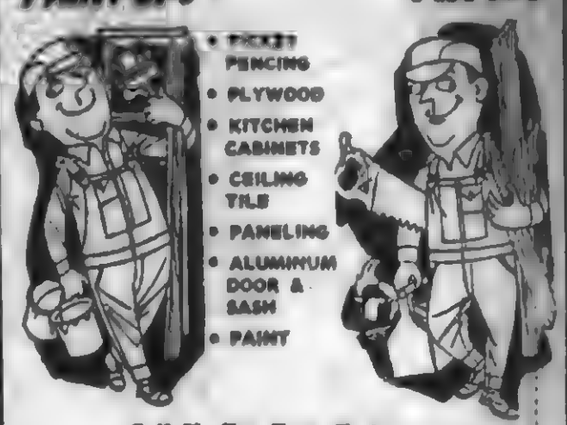
City Librarian Edward Daniels said advertising for bids for shelving might delay the opening of the branch. In all, he estimates, the completed branch for the use of center members, the apartment residents and their guests, will cost the library system in excess of $17,000. Such a branch would not be possible if a built-in patronage was not assured, Daniels added.

A special committee of center members will be appointed within the next two weeks to make rules and to advise the library on reading tastes.

Shelves will be stocked with a general collection of 3,000 books in a special room on the ground floor, Melvin Dodge, recreation supervisor of the Columbus Recreation Department, said. "In addition, there will be newspapers and periodicals in the lounge," he added.

Circulation procedures will be simplified so that patrons can fill out their own book cards, and deposit them in a file box. A staff member from the Franklinton branch will visit the center periodically to re-card books, record circulation, and return books to their shelves.

Enough shelving will be installed to make room for as many as 5,000 volumes.



PERMIT ISSUED

Director Donald D. Cook, Ohio Department of Liquor Control, has announced the issuance of C-1 liquor permit to Thomas Eugene Walters for the Cascade Carry-Out, 3615 Trabue-rd. The permit is for the sale of 3.2 per cent beer for carry-out.

PERMIT TRANSFER

The Ohio Department of Liquor Control has announced it is processing a location transfer application filed by Fort Hayes Grill, Inc., for C-2 permit (3.2 per cent beer for carry-out). The transfer would be from the R-J Bar at 641 43 W. Town-st to the Eureka Market, 182 Eureka-av.

CLEAN-UP

These Tips Will Promote Safety In Family Pool

Whether you now own a swimming pool or hope to build one some day, knowing the rules of swimming pool safety may make a vital difference to you and your family.

Here are some protective pointers:

1. Arrange for an adult to be present whenever the children are in for a swim. In case of neighborhood kids, make an informal rule that no small children will be allowed unless accompanied by an adult.

2. Be sure that swimmers stay out of the pool for at least an hour after meals.

3. Have a life preserver handy — an inflated inner tube is fine.

4. A high fence around the pool will protect wandering tots — and possibly save you from negligence charges. Keep the gate closed whenever the pool is not in use.

5. Electric lights in the pool area make night swimming safer, help prevent falls into the pool.

6. Filters should be run so that pool water is completely filtered every 18-24 hours.

7. Filters must be cleaned every 3 to 10 days.

8. Keep water well-chlorinated to fight the growth of algae and bacteria.

9. During the off-season, pool should be constantly covered with a plastic or canvas top strong enough to support the weight of a person who might fall or step onto it.

Choosing Right Size Vital In Buying Air Conditioner

When buying a room air-conditioner, it's important to select one with the right cooling power. There's no point in buying a 12,000 BTU/hr unit if an 8,000 BTU/hr unit will do the job. A unit with excessive cooling capacity won't do a better job, but it will cost more to buy and operate.

COMPACT air conditioner keeps kitchen free from heat and heavy food odors. Model shown by General Electric.

Room air conditioner dealers are equipped to advise families on what size units they'll need and where they should be installed, but dealers need information to arrive at an accurate estimate.

Pertinent Points

The homeowner should be able to tell a dealer:

1. The size and use of the area to be cooled.
2. Number and location of windows.
3. What exposure outside walls have to the sun.
4. Whether electric circuits are 115, 208 or 230 volts.
5. Whether ceiling or roof above is insulated.

The National Better Business Bureau, Inc., in a current booklet on room air conditioners, advises families to draw a simple floor plan to show the area to be cooled in relation to the rest of the house. Using the above information, a dealer can determine the cooling capacity needed in BTU's per hour.

Blend With Decor

Families who buy room air conditioners this year will find it's easier than ever to get a unit to meet specific cooling needs. In addition, many new room air conditioners blend better with the decor of a room.

The larger-capacity units are becoming increasingly popular. Often one or two units are installed in the walls while a house is being built to provide air conditioning for the entire house.

Some families place the through-the-wall models under a window, while others prefer a spot high on a wall to provide maximum circulation of conditioned air.

For Added Rooms

Home owners who add a room to their house can easily install batts of blankets of mineral wool insulation themselves, as long as this is done before interior walls and ceiling are finished. The basic tools needed are a sharp knife and a heavy-duty staple gun.

Here are a few installation tips to keep in mind:

1. Always install insulation with vapor barrier toward heated-in-winter side of walls, ceiling and floors.
2. Use plenty of staples, no more than six inches apart.
3. Insulation should fit snugly between studs and and joists.
4. Insulation with a reflective facing should be installed to provide air space between it and the inside wall.

Through the concern for the freedom of others our own heritage of freedom is best preserved and strengthened.—J. Irwin Miller

Most Homes Need More 'Housepower'

To keep pace with modern electric living, wiring in four out of every five homes needs upgrading. With twice as many electric appliances and much more lighting than they originally had, most homes 15 years or more years old are limping along, with wiring virtually unchanged since the house was built.

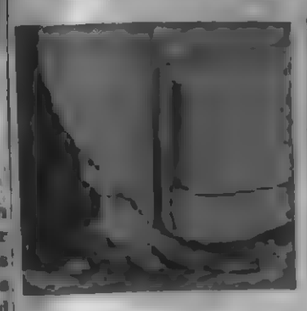
The result is that when appliances go on, lights often flicker or dim, the TV picture shrinks or winks, radios fade and fuses blow. Other symptoms of outdated wiring include "octopus connections" in outlets and extension cords strung around rooms.

In an adequately wired house, a family can take full advantage of the electric appliances it contains, conveniently, safely and with assurance that there is sufficient power to permit them to operate at peak performance.

For example, full housepower wiring permits the use of an increasingly popular appliance, the room air conditioner, without the need for additional wiring.

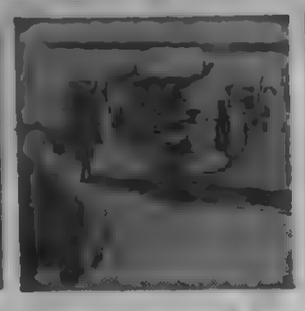
This is the kind of wiring always found in Gold Medallion Homes, which are all-electric homes designed around the concept of modern electric living. Wiring in these homes must conform to the American Standard Requirements for Residential Wiring, which are an excellent guide for the adequate wiring of older homes, too.

One requirement for adequate wiring is a 100 ampere electric service entrance. In older homes this would replace the 30 or 60 ampere service entrances with which most of them originally were equipped.



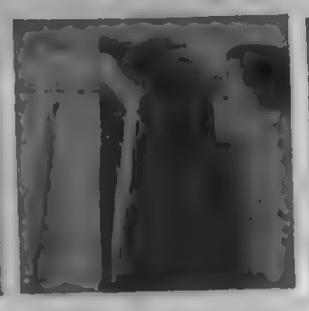
Another feature of an adequately wired home is the generous use of branch circuits. These include general-purpose circuits for lights, radios and the like; small appliance circuits for electric housewares such as toasters, waffle irons and broilers, and heavy-duty circuits to serve single major electric appliances, such as electric ranges.

Full housepower wiring also calls for electric outlets located so that no point along the floor line in any usable wall space is more than six feet from an outlet. In the kitchen, one outlet for every four feet of counter space is required.

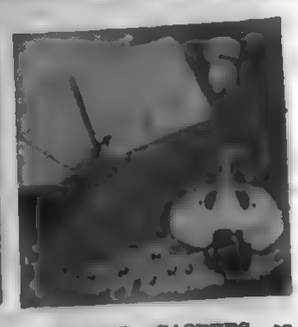


More and more homeowners are turning to multi-outlet systems to assure them of outlets where they are needed for now and the future.

These continuous outlet strips provide electrical outlets so placed that they will always be available. In general, a multi-outlet system consists of a metal channel with outlets located at predetermined intervals from six inches to five feet, along a continuous strip.

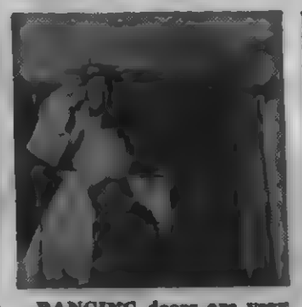


Ways To Eliminate Bothersome Home Noises



VIBRATING refrigerator can create distracting noise. Shore it up with a resilient [illegible].

DRIP, DRIP, DRIP from faucet is nerve-wracking. A new, easy-to-install washer will stop it.



HEAVY DRAPES will absorb a lot of noise from outdoors and prevent it spreading through house.

RUBBER CASTERS on chairs will eliminate a lot of squealing and squeaking on wood floors, too.

BANGING doors are very annoying. Install mechanical door closers to stop this aggravation.

LOOSE PIPES are apt to rattle in their clamps, get on everybody's nerves. Simply tighten clamps!

TO ABSORB noise, install acoustical materials on ceilings. About 200 patterns available.

Steady Savings On Fuel Bills Soon Cover Entire Cost Of Installation

IT'S EASY to install insulation blankets on exposed ceilings and walls of attics. This do-in-yourself project helps keep the house warmer in winter and cooler in summer.

Practically everyone can think of exciting ways to improve a home — but they all cost money. However, there is one home improvement that has consistently appealed to even the most budget-minded of families: it's having their homes fully insulated to meet recommended standards.

BLANKETS of insulation are installed on the attic floor.

BATTS of mineral wool are readily installed between ceiling joists.

HOSE pneumatically forces loose mineral wool into spaces between wall studs to insulate home. Individual shingles were removed and holes cut in sheathing to admit hose nozzle. At Job's end, shingles were replaced. These families reason that:

1. Insulation will pay for itself in a few years in savings on fuel bills.
2. It will continue to save money for them indefinitely.
3. If the house is sold, the original cost of the installation usually will be completely recovered because insulation is a permanent improvement.
4. They would welcome the added comfort: a warmer home in winter, a cooler home in summer.

Various studies conducted through the years show that when a house is thoroughly insulated, families will realize a saving on heating of from 30 to 40 per cent compared to their inadequately insulated homes. It doesn't take long at that rate for savings on heating to equal the initial cost.

Promotes Comfort

Insulation provides added comfort. The temperatures throughout the house are even and easy to maintain; chilling drafts eliminated.

Families who want to make sure they get optimum results from their insulation can follow the Quality Home requirements of the National Mineral Wool Insulation Association. These call for insulation to provide an installed resistance to heat flow of R-19 or R-24 for ceilings, R-11 for walls, and R-13 for floors.

The "R" number indicates its resistance to the passage of heat. The higher the number, the more effective the insulation.

The development of new installation techniques using "blowing wool" has made it possible to insulate older houses without damaging existing walls. To insulate the walls of an older house, a contractor first removes sections of the exterior siding. He then cuts neat holes into the sheathing and with pneumatic equipment forces the insulation through a hose into the spaces between the wall studs. After the walls are filled, the exterior siding is carefully replaced.

In the attic, the hose is often brought in through a louver, and the mechanic simply fills the spaces between the joists to the proper level. Batts or blankets are used where required.

Bags of blowing wool used to insulate existing houses are marked with the coverage needed to provide the resistance to heat flow specified for each of the key areas of a house.

How Precious OUR CHILDREN

In telling us of the heritage of the servants of the Lord, the prophet Isaiah says, "And all thy children shall be taught of the Lord; and great shall be the peace of thy children." Isaiah 54:13. We want our children to be taught the ways of love for God, for their neighbor, and for their fellow man. We know that if they are educated in the ways of love, great will be their peace and happiness, creativeness, and productivity.

What other agency is assigned by our Lord the task of teaching love of God and man than the church? Take your children to church this Sunday and claim His promises.

Lily Canvass Hilltop Drive Successful

The Lily Drive, held on the West Side Apr. 8, netted $222.61 for crippled children.

Sixteen West High School girls and several Franklin Heights Y-Teens distributed the tiny lilies under the direction of Mrs. Mary Murphy. The groups were stationed at Central Point Shopping Center, Lazarus West and Nationwide Inn. Drive headquarters was located in the Hillcrest Baptist Church.

The donations were turned over to the Easter Seal campaign of the Franklin County Society for Crippled Children. The totals were up from last year by $53.58.

A total of $3,943.98 was collected in the city and county during the 33rd annual parade.

KEDS, KIDS

Time was when the lowly tennis shoe or sneaker was only for the child of parents too poor to buy leather shoes. It was a crude ill-fitting, evil smelling thing of cloth and rubber. Not so today. Shoes of canvas, such as our Keds, are almost a necessity in modern out-door living.

Made over good lasts in a couple of widths with an arch cushion built in, they afford bare-foot freedom with some protection from stones and bees. I have been watching the feet of children who wear them each summer.

For almost ten years now I have been making foot-prints of the child at the time Keds were fitted and again at the end of the summer when school shoes were purchased. With very few exceptions, the child had a stronger, more muscular foot at the end of the summer than when he started.

Of course, there are exceptions, but usually wearing Keds is like going bare-footed on the ground. You have freedom of movement and a resilient surface to walk on.

Kids Overlook Golden Egg At Sunshine Hunt

Last Saturday's scramble for Easter eggs in three local parks was a sweeping success —except for one prize egg at Sunshine Park.

Although 900 children hunted the Sunshine playfield, not one bothered to turn over a paper cup under which the premium golden egg was hidden, reported Director Don McCann.

Meanwhile, on the Hilltop, both Glenwood and Westgate parks were filled to overflowing with egg-headed kids.

Following is the prize lists from the West area hunts:

Sunshine Park — Linda Sue Masterson, 3, 835 Coolidge-dr, Apt. A, and Paul Vincent, 3, 819 Bellows-av, won large Easter baskets and a stuffed bunny. Dwight Davis, 10, 140 S. Skidmore-st, won a $3 gift certificate. A special silver egg, redeemable for an Easter lily from the Parks and Forestry Dept., was found by Sandra Owens.

Glenwood Park — James R. Wassmuth, 4, 2471 Symington-av, and Janice Lynn Keller, 1191 Koebel-rd, stuffed rabbits. Lonnie Jordan, 40 Hayden-av, one-pound egg and lily plant.

Westgate Park — Doris Adams, 5, and Joey Geory, 4, stuffed rabbits. Lawrence and Douglas McKinney, 9, one-pound egg and lily plant.

List Needs Required For Light

Installation of a traffic signal at the intersection of Wilson and Fisher-rds will depend on certain "minimum" road improvements, according to a motion adopted by the Columbus Traffic and Transportation Commission.

The commission's chief engineer, John L. Gallagher, has forwarded the "minimum" improvement request to City Engineer Robert F. Werner. It calls for the following improvements:

Provisions of two lanes for both north and south Wilson-rd approaches to Fisher-rd, and the Fisher-rd eastbound approach to Wilson-rd.

In a previous exchange of letters between the commission and Werner's office, the city engineer had informed the commission that full improvement of the intersection would involve right-of-way purchases by both the city and Franklin County.

In outlining what the traffic division considered "the most effective reconstruction" of the intersection, Werner pointed out that the purchase of additional right-of-way might entail a six-to-18-month delay. (Werner's plan called for widening at all four approaches to the intersection.)

Gallagher indicated that, while full reconstruction would be desirable, the commission felt that action of a more immediate nature was required.

He said that installation of a traffic signal would not solve the problem until "minimum" improvements are undertaken.

The "minimum" improvements suggested by the commission call for adding lanes by stabilizing, or paving, existing berms, thus eliminating the need for right-of-way purchases.

Store Robbed By Three Women

The owner of the Dixiana Confectionery, 922 W. Broad-st, reported Wednesday night that two women entered her store, one of them pulled out a pistol and they escaped with an undetermined amount of money.

Betty Stout, 220 Stevens-av, was in the store when the two women entered and purchased a soft drink. They later returned and demanded the money in the cash register.

Mrs. Stout told police that while she was turning the money over to the pair of robbers, a third woman tapped on the window, apparently to signal to her partners in the store. All three then fled on foot.

News 'n' Notes of Camp Fire Girls

By NANCY TRUELOVE

Wa Ka Wee Ki Camp Fire held a ceremonial at the home of Mrs. Ruth Hill, Mar. 19. The girls received honor beads and certificates for passing Trailseekers Rank. Members served refreshments to their mothers. This group recently toured the Kahiki.

Mrs. Shirley Spellman, guardian, and Mrs. Marilyn Snyder took O Ki-Hi Camp Fire group on a tour of the Ohio State Museum. Their group also made Easter baskets for the Columbus State School and taught songs to Mrs. Helen Neff's Bluebird group in Hilliard. Members are Lynn Bogner, Jennifer Forshey, Karen Cassidy, Penny Platt, Cynthia Perry, Veronica Decker, Vickie Meehan, Sherry Lowe, Linda Hicks, Linda Spellman, Linda Snyder and Barbara Rinella.

West Leader's Association met at the Hilltop YMCA, Apr. 9. There will be Day Camp training for counselors Apr. 20 at Darby Metropolitan Park and rank training on May 9 at Glenwood shelter house. The Bluebird Mother-Daughter tea will be May 5 at Richards Avenue School, Grove City. Next leaders' meeting will be an all-day outing at Camp Wyandot, May 14. Anyone needing transportation may call Dora Bush at TR. 8-4929.

Chi Ki Ya group held a ceremonial at Westgate Methodist Church, Mar. 20. Theme was "All About Camp Fire." Bluebirds Kristie Hostetter, Carol Sue Brown, Marilyn Moody, Claudia Norris, Debbie Jochem, Debbie Neff, Cindy Kahn, Pam Travis, Barbara Weeks, Trina Crawford, Emily Hoeble and Victoria Boyer, and their guardian, Mrs. R. Jochem, were guests. The following members of the Chi Ki Ya participated in the program: Debra Boyer, Kathryn Bell, Susan Finlinson, Diane Hall, Beverly McVay, Barbara Minch, Kimmy Rickel, Barbara Scribner, Virginia Swinford, Cheryl Swisher, Carol Voelker, and Rebecca Wilson. Carol Voelker was presented the National Thrift Award. All contributed to the Edith Kempthorne fund to help promote the work of Camp Fire.

The following Camp Fire groups had displays at Hilltonia Junior High School during birthday week: Tom Ki Wa Ya, Da Ki Ya, Wa Zu Na Ki O Ki Zu, (all Junior Hi groups) and the Ke Da Ki Wa Horizon Club.

FBI Recovers More Bank Loot

Little by little the FBI is getting most of the loot taken by their brothers in a daring daylight robbery of the Ohio National Bank in the Great Western Shopping Center early last week.

Of the $45,546 taken in the robbery, $41,682 was recovered from a valise hidden near Xenia and another $1000 was found in the car of one of the men charged with the robbery. The missing total now amounts to $2,866, which officers have not yet accounted for.

According the FBI investigators, the latest money recovered was found in an auto belonging to 32-year-old George Linville of Miami, Fla. Linville along with his brothers Norman, 39, a staff sergeant at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, and Kenneth, 27, of Paris, Ky., are awaiting sentencing after pleading guilty to the robbery in U.S. District Court Thursday.

Judge Mal G. Underwood ordered a pre-sentence investigation by the federal probation department before passing sentence on the trio.

SMOTHERS, PREPS TOP SHOW CAST

The comedy-folk singing of the Smothers Brothers and the vocalizing of the Four Preps headline "Swing Into Spring" at Veteran's Memorial Wednesday, May 1.

The concert, which also features Dixieland jazz by Phil Napoleon and his Memphis Five, is sponsored by the Franklin Heights High School Boosters Club.

Comedian Clarence Loos will emcee the show and entertain with some of his own antics.

Tickets for the production are on sale at the Central Ticket Office, 37 N. High-st and at all other Richman Brothers stores.

Proceeds will be used to support the Franklin Heights High School Athletic Association.

Soldier Earns Weapons Badge

Army Pvt. I.C. John M. Schellhaas, whose wife, Mary, lives at 86 S. Terrace-av, recently was awarded the Expert Tank Weapons Badge in Germany.

Schellhaas entered the Army in October, 1961, completed basic training at Fort Knox, Ky., and arrived overseas in March, 1962.

ROOF CLIMBING is a lesson for John Roulka

Age No Hindrance To 74-Year-Old

Senior citizens often bemoan the fact that their age prevents them from doing what they would like to do. Such is not the case with John Roulka, a Lithuanian immigrant who will turn 75 on Sept. 10. Roulka, who lives at 747 Glendower, jumps around on roofs as if he was no more than 25 or 30.

He was putting a new roof on the home of Jess Tressler, 157 N. Yale, when a Hartley cameraman caught him. The photographer introduced himself and shook Roulka's hand. Roulka nearly broke it. This 74-year-old stands about 6 feet 1 inch and weighs about 260 pounds.

Roulka has been in this country since 1912 and has been a resident of Columbus for the past 38 years. He loves his work and does it tirelessly. This he says, accounts for a large part of his excellent physical condition.

thinking of entering the profession — a profession which, in Ohio, is reportedly in need of 100 per cent more ladies of mercy.

"Low hospital salary levels (supposedly at an average of $295 per month) have made it very difficult to attract the right numbers of qualified young women into nursing. If we remove hospital responsibility, the present nursing shortage will get even worse," Miss Cornelius theorized.

"The burden of carrying liability insurance would be shifted significantly from the hospital administration to the individual employe, professional and non-professional alike," she added.

The current rate of hospital liability insurance has been estimated at 10 cents a bed per day. If individual nurses were forced to purchase the insurance (by law or by their own desire for protection) the rate would be an extra burden with current salaries.

In 1956, the Supreme Court ruled that hospitals should be held responsible. Since then greater safety measures than ever before have been introduced and observed by administrations.

"In view of some deplorable conditions presently existing in many hospitals in our state, we view as untimely the attempt by hospitals to limit their liability for negligence in caring for and treating a patient in the hospital," Miss Cornelius concluded.

Missing 'Steer' Found On Lawn

Residents of the 900 block of Mound-st were a little shocked Saturday evening when they saw a Black Angus steer standing on a lawn at about 7:30 p.m.

It seems the steer had been "rustled" off the top of a station wagon, belonging to Dwight Hensel, parked in front of 613 Townsend-av. Hensel had placed the life-size model, used for advertising purposes, on the top of his station wagon to use in promoting a frozen food company for which he works.

Police, who at first were a little skeptical about the missing steer, picked up the life-size model in an ambulance cruiser and returned it to its corral on top the station wagon.

Weitzel, reference librarian for the Ohio State Museum, proved it to be a reprint. The most obvious difference from the original was that the price of Roush's copy was 10 cents. Even the more obvious reprint mentioned above correctly stated the price at four cents per copy. Also, several typographical errors were obvious in the headlines.

So what can you do with a reprint? Many things, according to Gilbert Dodds, researcher for the Franklin County Historical Society. If you're interested in seeing how accurate it is, you can probably compare it to copies available in some museums. Or you could obtain a Library of Congress Periodical Division circular giving some of the differences between the original and reprints in its possession.

"They could be very entertaining," said Dodds. "Keep the newspaper and show it around. Someone might hear about it and like to see it."

Keeping the newspaper reprint as a memento was probably the reason the reprints were made. Most were used to advertise some product, and the newspaper kept as a memento would be a constant reminder of the medicine wagon wares.

There have been cases where a newspaper was reprinted accurately enough to fool even some of the experts, such as a newspaper dealing with George Washington's death. The firm that duplicated the 1799 paper was quite successful. When it was discovered they were fakes, nothing could be done because they never advertised them as originals.

But, even if you find an original, there's not much money involved. Its worth depends entirely on condition and demand. Then, too, museums are not interested in paying a great deal of money.

ENDS TEST

WINS CONFEDERATE CASH

WE'VE NEVER been lucky before, said Mr. and Mrs. John Pennabecker Jr., 436 S. Ogden-av, as they accepted a Hartley Newspapers' "Confederate" Dollar from Hartley employe Bob Santo. The lucky couple, who said at first they couldn't believe it, found the "Confederate" insignia in their copy of the Hilltop Record Wednesday night. By turning the copy of the paper into the Hartley Newspaper office before the Monday deadline they received a "Confederate" Dollar to spend with any Hartley advertiser whose ad is found in a Hartley Newspaper during the week they wish to spend the cash.

ARMY EMPLOYEE RETIRES

CHAUNCEY W. BARBER, 28 S. Richardson-av, receives a Second Army certificate of retirement from Col. Glenn Cole, deputy commander, 20th U.S. Army Corps, after 26 years of civilian service with the Army. Barbee served as a unit aide with the 83rd Inf. Div. Reserve.

Two Added To Saxton Staff

William E. Saxton, broker of Saxton Real Estate, with offices located in the W. Broad-st Post Office Building at 18 N. Harris-av, announces that Roy A. Clark and Bill Gibbons are now associated with his organization.

Clark, appointed to the position of sales manager, has been in the real estate business for 11 years, specializing in Hilltop and Westgate homes. He is experienced in financing and will handle financing and closings for the firm.

Clark Gibbons

Gibbons was born and raised on the West Side of Columbus, graduated from Holy Family, and attended business college. He was associated in the grocery business for fifteen years on the West Side, and for the past five years has specialized in the sale of Hilltop and Westgate properties. Gibbons will specialize in the same area with Saxton Real Estate.

Sopha Serves On Destroyer

Ronald O. Sopha, radarman seaman apprentice, USN, son of Mrs. Dorothy M. Sopha of 773 Derrer-rd, is serving aboard the radar picket destroyer, the USS Kenneth D. Bailey, currently operating with the Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean.

The Bailey crewman recently set a replenishment-at-sea record, receiving stores, food supplies and fuel from three service ships in just two hours and 14 minutes.

We must dare now to live as moral men — at long last relying on our ability to change men's hearts rather than on our capacity to destroy their lives.

Hilltoppers Invited To Help Select 'Mother Of The Year'

Every year the Hilltop Kiwanis Club, through its Support of Churches Committee, pays tribute to an outstanding mother of the Hilltop area.

On May 9 another woman of the community will be honored "Mother of the Year." This year the club is inviting the entire community to help make the selection.

Persons who have a friend or neighbor whom they would like to have considered for the title may make nomination on the following blank (deadline is Apr. 24):

Emergency Boat Saves Hilltopper

An attempted suicide leap from a Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad bridge by a 37-year-old Hilltop man was thwarted by the quick action of an off-duty Columbus firefighter late Thursday afternoon.

Firefighter Kenneth Cox spotted Walter Welch, 2345 Sullivant-av, as he stood on the bridge preparing to make the jump into six feet of water. Welch stayed on the 65-foot-high bridge for nearly 20 minutes before jumping.

In the meantime Cox called the fire department radio operator who dispatched an emergency squad boat to the bridge.

The boat was approaching the bridge when Welch made the dangerous leap and emergency squadmen quickly pulled the unconscious man from the water.

Following treatment for shock at Grant Hospital, Welch was transferred to the Columbus State Hospital for further treatment.

Columbus Fire Insurance Premium Rates May Drop

A team of engineers from the National Board of Fire Underwriters began a survey in Columbus this week which may lead to a reduction in fire insurance rates. The premium drop may reach five per cent, according to Mayor W. Ralston Westlake.

The survey will take from six to eight weeks to complete. Then the team will turn its findings over to the Ohio Fire Inspection Bureau, the organization which establishes the rates.

The engineers will analyze the water supply (location, pressure, etc.), the fire department and its new facilities (buildings and equipment), the new fire alarm system and the new series of building regulations.

Any rate changes will affect commercial establishments, as well as homeowners, the mayor said.

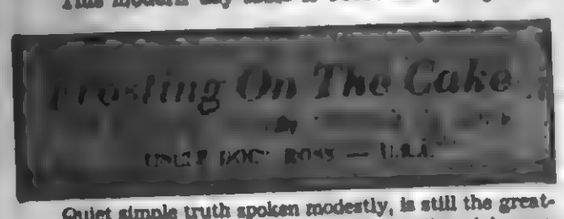
Creeping Socialism Sneaks Up In Many Ways

Charles W. Claybaugh, publisher of The News and Journal, Brigham City, Utah, and president of the National Editorial Association, concluded his remarks at the recent annual convention of the Ohio Newspaper Association with this modern fable

Although it is pointed to editors and publishers, we pass it on to our readers because it has wide application and speaks of a symptom of the times more in truth than in fable:

'This modern day fable is about the young man who lived with his parents in a public housing development. He attended public school, rode the free school bus and ate the government subsidized hot lunch. He entered the Army, and upon discharge enrolled in the state university journalism school under the GI bill.

Upon graduation, he married a public health nurse, and bought a farm with an FHA loan. He took a Civil Service job at a nearby Air Force base with the public information staff. A baby was born in the county hospital. He bought a ranch with the aid of the Veterans' land program and obtained emergency feed from the government. Later, he put part of his land in the soil bank and the payments soon paid off his farm and ranch. His father and mother lived very comfortably on the ranch on their social security and old-age assistance checks. REA lines supplied cheap electricity and the goverment helped clear his land. The county agent showed him how to terrace the land, and the government built him a fish pond and stocked it with fish.



His children grew up, entered public school, ate hot lunches, rode free school buses, played in public parks under supervision of the city and county recreation departments. He got another FHA loan on his farm and bought a newspaper, complaining because the Small Business Administration couldn't make loans in the mass media field.

As a stalwart and fearless leader of the [illegible] munity, he campaigned editorially for the federal highway program and was instrumental in getting a new post office building, circulated petitions seeking federal assistance in developing an industrial project to help the economy of his depressed area, got federal Hill-Burton funds to enlarge the county hospital, FAA aid to improve the airport, a grant-in-aid to enlarge the sewer plant, urban renewal funds to clean up the run-down section of town.

He went to Washington with a group from the Chamber of Commerce to ask the government to build a great dam so that the area could get the benefits of subsidized electricity, irrigation and recreation. He petitioned the government to give the abandoned air base to the county.

Then one day he wrote a burning editorial, addressed to his Congressman: "I wish to protest these excessive governmental expenditures and attendant high taxes," he wrote. "I believe in rugged individualism. People should stand on their own two feet without handouts. I am opposed to all socialistic trends and I demand a return to the principles of our Constitution and the policies of states' rights."

"Does anyone in the audience happen to know an editor like that?" the speaker asked in conclusion. Needless to say, no one did. The only editor known to these Ohio editors who may have remotely resembled the fabled character never owned a farm, didn't have children or had never asked for a post office for his home town.

Quiet simple truth spoken modestly, is still the greatest single force for genuine leadership in all social progress. The ideal of the "common good" has always been kept alive in the minds and hearts of free men by those real leaders who dare to dream and then persist politely to make those dreams come true.

The ideal of excellency is always a great spiritual tonic, and all individuals who have made that priceless discovery about life and the living of it, achieved healthy soul status in this life and assured comfort and peace of mind about the life to come.

When we hear an evil thing about a neighbor, we must not repeat it. We must believe it untrue unless it is validated. And even if validated, pray for the moral recovery of the one accused.

Of all the deadly sins, the vilest is ingratitude, because the ingrate is both morally blind and spiritually sick. People who constantly take everything they can grab by hook or crook, are never happy individuals.

Snakes in the Garden of Eden are still doing business. They are Hurry and Worry. Hypertension kills more people than all the wars and disease put together.

How About Aid for Us TAXPAYERS?

This Card's To Your Credit

The week of Apr. 21-27 will mark the seventh observance of National Library Week. It is a good time to consider the power of the library card.

The wallet-sized card is unpretentious. It retains its shape, neatness and readability much longer than most other cards because it is much less used.

But it is as powerful a tool as any you will find in a factory.

The library card is an entrance visa, an exit visa, a passport and a magic carpet. It represents the opportunity to escape from the sometimes oppressive realities of life; yet it affords avenues of return to reality.

A trip to the library can provide us with the means of touring the world from our living room easy chair. We can travel to outer space without donning a space suit; increase our knowledge in the arts, sciences, or world affairs; or relax by reading nonsense rhymes to the smallfry.

If you don't already have a library card, we remind you that the service it represents is one of the few not affected by inflation — it's still free.

Leftovers . . . by John McPeek

So, Who's A Hero?

"Do I have within me the stuff of which heroes are made?"

This is a question that all men, from boyhood on, ask themselves. Most are lucky and never find the answer.

McPeek

The question began to plague me at about 10 when I read the verse about the boy who stood stupidly on the burning deck whence all the smart ones but he had scrammed . . .

Perhaps if I hadn't read that gung-ho piece of literary goop I would have been content to go blissfully through life as a coward in ignorance . . . or maybe even a hero unaware.

As a boy I had little chance to find the answer. Never did I have the opportunity to rescue a fainting old lady from the path of an onrushing streetcar as did juvenile heroes in the Horatio Alger novels. But this, I concealed myself, may largely have been due to the total absence of streetcars in my small hometown.

Nor did a moment of possible glory present itself to me to rescue a swaddled infant from a burning house. Probably this was because the only fire I witnessed as a boy was when the drugstore on the square burned. Any thoughts I may have harbored to rush into the smoking building to see if any baby, swaddled or unswaddled, was in need of such attention vanished at the sight of candy bars scattered into the street with other debris thrown out by the firemen.

The bars quickly were gathered up in handfuls by myself and several other urchins, after which we fled to a cooler site to enjoy our unexpected feast. (Who needs to see the last ember extinguished?)

It was not until the war when I scrubbed my acneyed face and marched off to battle the Axis (actually, in keeping with Greyhound's great wartime slogan, "Leave the marching to the Marines, and ride with us," I took a bus), that I encountered my first real hero's test.

It came on my first visit to a kool-ade parlor where I and several other smartly uniformed warriors on pass had repaired to quench our thirst and brag about our training camp adventures. Vaulting onto stools, we clamored for service—whereupon a Sophie Tucker-type creature, clad in an alpaca T-shirt and GI physical training trunks, rumbled up from behind the bar.

"What'll it be, Patriots?" she rasped cheerfully. But then sighting my warm little eyes peering over the top of the mahogany, she curled her hemplike lips and muttered:

"Who let you in here Junior? Cub Scouts meet down the street in the 'Y'."

My first mortified impulse was to carom a spittoon off both her heads, but noting her log-sized biceps I restrained such manly instincts.

"Look, Sophie," I said snarling, "I don't know why you haven't been fitted with treads and sent off to the tank corps, but spare us your jokes; It's not amusement we want——it's abooserment."

"Funny, funny, Sonny!" she sneered. "But you're going to have to do your growing up somewhere else. If you don't crawl down from that stool and vamoose, I'm going to restage the War of the Bourbons and you'll be the first to get a Purple Heart."

So saying, she advanced menacingly around the end of the bar. Then came the moment of truth. I stood my ground . . . or rather, my bar stool.

Seconds later I found myself scrambling awkwardly across the sidewalk in front of the sawdust oasis. Mortification of mortifications! To be thrown bodily out of a saloon by a wartime female bartender.

I clung to a pole until my trembling subsided, then crawled down the street to the "Y" where a USO matron applied cold compresses to my flushed brow.

Needless to say, from that day on I was of little value to my country and spent the remaining two years of the war touring the more sedentary islands in the backwaters of the Pacific, a creature shorne of any possible heroic fibers.

Which probably explains why I married relatively late. (If one has to be a coward, why be a stupid coward?)

Through bluff and diplomacy, I thought I had concealed my weaknesses from my mate. But the other day, in a moment of forgetfulness, I recalled aloud Emerson's immortal words:

"Each man is a hero and an oracle to somebody, and to that person whatever he says has an enhanced value."

"Is that right, Dear? Do you think of me that way?" I asked my tender wife.

Guffawing widely and rolling on the floor, she exclaimed: "Good grief! You are a scream! Where do you get all that nonsense?"

ALAS! I'm a husband. Color me yellow.

Trade Supports Reds

To the Editor:

The citizens of America, and of the free world generally, must be mindful of the arrogant boast of one of Communism's chief architects. That boast concerned itself with the observation that the way to financing the eventual domination (by Russia) of the world lay in the area of world trade.

The workers in Communist-held countries labor to exhaustion for ridiculously low wages, which enables the Red masters to tighten their hold upon the workers and to expand their deceiving and fallacious theories into "movements" and "coups" in non-totalitarian countries.

The Communist system must have money in order to accomplish its duality of sinister purpose for the propaganda machine to be used against the minds of men, and for the machinery of violence and death.

Since the Soviet Russian propaganda is increasingly costly and demands new revenues, foreign trade became the object of attention.

The attention given foreign trade culminates in the appearance, upon local shelves, of slave-made merchandise. Retail merchants thus aid the conspiracy to enslave themselves and all free men. Through corruption and blackmail in the political field, through naivete in the citizen purchasing Soviet goods . . . to economic and social ruin of this nation, runs the continuity of Communist purpose.

A Word From Woody

The help your newspaper gave to the recent Heart Fund campaign is deeply appreciated by the Heart Association.

By telling your readers the Heart Fund story, you helped make them aware of the triumphs over heart disease which Heart Fund dollars have achieved to date through research and of the many areas yet to be conquered.

An informed public is essential to the continuance of the fight. Our sincerest thanks for your services in publishing this information.

An Editor's Outlook . . . by Jenkin Lloyd Jones

Do Away With Sawdust Sandwiches!

If we can ever cure the asininities of the "look-say" method of teaching reading, which has condemned many hundreds of thousands of young Americans to word-guessing, it will be time to start in on the content of grade-school textbooks.

These beautifully printed and illustrated books include texts so remarkable for their dullness that it is little wonder young America can hardly wait to get back to the TV. Most of them have been steam cleaned of every vestige of excitement, of inspiration and romance.

Jones

There is no reference to God or religion. This is regarded as controversial. There is no story of war. If we don't think about it, maybe it will go away. There is nothing that would give rise to patriotism. How old-fashioned!

I have before me a fifth-grade reader, "Days and Deeds" published last year by Scott, Foresman and Company and standard in many American school systems.

With a puerile vocabulary, it discusses such things as Uncle Lem's new outboard motor, John's lawn-mowing business, and how Wally, the bloodhound, helped Jerry, the police dog, find his missing bone.

I have also before me a reprint of McGuffey's Fifth Eclectic Reader, published in 1879. Let's skip through the list of contents: "The Relief of Lucknow," London "Times"; "Battle of Blenheim" by Southey; "Sands of Dee" by Charles Kingsley; "An Old-Fashioned Girl" by Louisa May Alcott; an account of a riot in the Massachusetts State Prison; supposed speech of John Adams by Daniel Webster; excerpts from "The Virginian" by Thackeray and from Hamlet; "Dissertation on Roast Pig" by Charles Lamb; "A Frigate Chase in the English Channel" by James Fenimore Cooper; "The Boston Massacre" by William Wirt; "Religion, the Only Basis of Society" by William Channing.

Blood and thunder? Plenty of it. Heroism? Of course. Moral homilies? In profusion. Religious preachments? Unashamed. Patriotism? With pride. And, in addition, tough words and involved sentences that would flabbergast the fifth-grader who has been brought up on the thin consomme of today's "Days and Deeds" series.

On June 20, 1961, Dr. Max Rafferty, school superintendent of La Canada, Calif., made a speech that caused a sensation and resulted in his election last fall as superintendent of public instruction over the dead bodies of the progressive educators. He asked: "What happened to patriotism?" and I quote:

"We have been so busy educating for 'life adjustment' that we forgot to educate for survival. Words that America had treasured as a rich legacy, that had sounded like trumpet calls above the clash of arms and the fury of debate, we allowed to fade from the classrooms.

"'Liberty and Union, now and forever, one and inseparable.'

"'We have met the enemy and they are ours.'

"'Millions for defense, but not one cent for tribute'."

Search for these towering phrases in vain today in too many of our schools. The golden words are gone. Patriotism feeds on hero worship and we decided to abolish heroes.

The quest for the Golden Fleece has been crowded out by the visit of Tom and Susan to the zoo. The deeds of the heroes before Troy are now passe, and the peregrinations of the local milkman as he wends his way among the stodgy streets of Blah City have taken over. Bobby and Betty pursue this insipid goal of a ride in the district garbage truck while the deathless ride of Paul Revere goes unsung.

For Roland at Roncesvalles we have substituted Mukluk the Eskimo boy. It is, I think, significant that education during the past three decades has deliberately debunked the hero to make room for the jerk!

No wonder these heroless American kids often broke down before the Red brainwashers in the Korean prison camps. They had no points of reference. They [illegible] understanding of the traditions of liberty. In many cases, the Communists were delighted that there was so little to erase. It was a cinch to unteach those who had never been taught.

In commenting on a modern sixth reader, "Bright Peaks," put out by Houghton Mifflin, Dr. Russell Kirk says: "With the exception of a poem by Sara Teasdale, another short poem by Robert Frost, and an autobiographical piece by John Muir, every selection is by a fourth or fifth-grade writer."

Why? Could it be that the fifth and sixth graders can't read the classics as they did in the days of McGuffey? Could it be that the bankruptcy of the "look-say" method and the stubborn refusal of many school administrations to admit the error have required them to pretend that there is special virtue in extending kindergarten-style reading to the upper grades?

It's time America got a new set of textbooks. It's time we quit boring bright students to death with the banalities of John and Jane visiting the henhouse. It's time we put romance and courage and excitement and some frank moral indoctrination before our children in their most impressionable years.

We don't have to go back to McGuffey.

There's plenty of good writing. But let's give our children some literary taste, some ethical calories and patriotic vitamins.

To hell with these sawdust sandwiches!

Evils Of Liquor A Blot On History

One of our major problems in America is drunkenness.

Day after day, year after year, liquor threatens to eat away the luster of our gleaming past, and corrode the brightness of our future. The creeping paralysis of liquor is sapping our morals, ruining our homes, and luring people away from the church. Many Christians have been too smug about this great evil. Negatively they have folded their hands and said: "Drunkenness does not bother me," while at the same time they do nothing to "bother drunkenness," and to destroy its devastating power.

Rev. Anthony

Strong drink caused Noah to commit the first sin following the flood. It brought a moral blackout to the family of Lot. It played a tragic part in David's sins of adultery and murder. It was employed by Absalom when he murdered Amnon. It debauched and killed Nabal, a descendant of grand old Caleb. Ahasuerus dethroned good Queen Vashti because she refused to promenade her beauty before his drunken party. Mighty Babylon fell while Belshazzar with a thousand of his lords drank wine and praised the gods of gold and silver. John the Baptist got his head cut off at a drunken birthday party.

Evangeline Booth, who, with her Salvation Army, went around the world gathering up the human wreckage from the streets and gutters, never spoke truer words than when she declared: "Drink has drained more blood, hung more crepe, sold more homes, plunged more people into bankruptcy, armed more villains, slain more children, snapped more wedding rings, defiled more innocence, blinded more eyes, twisted more limbs, dethroned more reason, wrecked more manhood, dishonored more womanhood, broken more hearts, blasted more lives, driven more to suicide, and dug more graves than any other poisonous scourge that ever swept its death-dealing waves across the world."

The Bible very emphatically declares, "Wine is a mocker, strong drink is raging; and whosoever is deceived thereby is not wise." I stand with the Bible on the question of drunkenness. Any sin which can keep a man from inheriting the kingdom of God, I must denounce; and the Bible says: "No drunkard . . . shall inherit the kingdom of God."

JUVENILE DELINQUENCY — The files of Ada County, Idaho, revealed that 96 per cent of juvenile delinquent cases in that county, coming before the court, involved liquor. But what can we expect when many modern parents have liquor in the family bar?

IMMORALITY AND DIVORCE — Drunkenness not only dulls the mind and depresses the spirit; it inflames the baser passions and brings out the animal in man. One [illegible] authority estimates that more than 50 per cent of the divorces in America are the result of, or are related to drunkenness.

DRINK IS A KILLER — At least 10,000 people die every year, and more than 250,000 are wounded in accidents on our streets and highways involving people who are drunk or nearly drunk.

We could go on compiling facts detailing the evils of drunkenness, but that would be useless. Drunkenness is not merely a disease — it is a vicious, ugly, devastating sin.

If you are bound down by this evil habit, come to Christ today, confessing and forsaking your sins, and by faith receive Him as your personal Saviour and He will change the desire of your heart and fill it with something that satisfies. He will give you happiness without a headache, real joy without a hangover, and a thrill without a highball.

WHOA, THERE! NOT SO FAST

Someone's Counting Chickens Before They're Hatched

Editor's Note: In the past several years we have encountered many unhappy people who have purchased homes only to find that the real facts of their purchase were unraveled after the deal was closed. Unincorporated areas are finding themselves faced with real school problems as a result of promises made by developers. We asked our reporter to inquire about a new housing project in this county. Names and locations obviously have been changed . . . but not the facts.

By JANE ROBINSON

Anyone shopping for a house in "Boondock Bungalows" subdivision last Thursday could meet "J. O. Doaks."

He was on hand to show model homes and discuss financing with those interested in the subject.

Though describing himself as "an office boy sent out to keep an eye on the furniture," he also revealed that he was one of the two who must pass on credit before a sale can be approved. Not many office boys are given this responsibility.

He pointed out to at least one person the site where "an elementary school will be built this summer." He stated that the local school board had bought 14 acres for the purpose. However, he did not argue the point when reminded that though acreage was set aside for a school when the subdivision was platted for approval by the Regional Planning Commission, no purchase has been made.

Confirming his statement that the building would be started soon was the project superintendent for "Boondock Bungalows."

Asked what would be done if by any chance this school did not materialize by September, the "office boy" explained that "shell homes" would be thrown up to provide classrooms until construction was complete.

Such a pat solution would be welcome news to those in the school district who have been alerted to the possibility of double sessions for at least some of the primary grades.

The only sour note is that the announcement of such "school board plans" is news to the executive head of the district (called here John Brown).

"I have never discussed school plans with any representative of 'Boondock'," he stated definitely, when informed of the new picture of the situation.

"Brown" once again listed the facts of the situation.

Ten, not 14, acres of land were set aside when the development was platted, and can be purchased by the school board at $3,000 an acre.

Looking forward to a big jump in enrollment this fall as about a thousand families are expected to move into the subdivision, the board has on the drawing boards plans for an elementary school at the site. This is only part of future construction the board feels must be undertaken.

Three times a building bond issue has been put on the ballot. Three times it has failed.

In May, approval is being asked for $1.2 million worth of construction bonds. As a 60 per cent majority is required to pass an issue in an odd-year election, there remains a big "if" in any building plans.

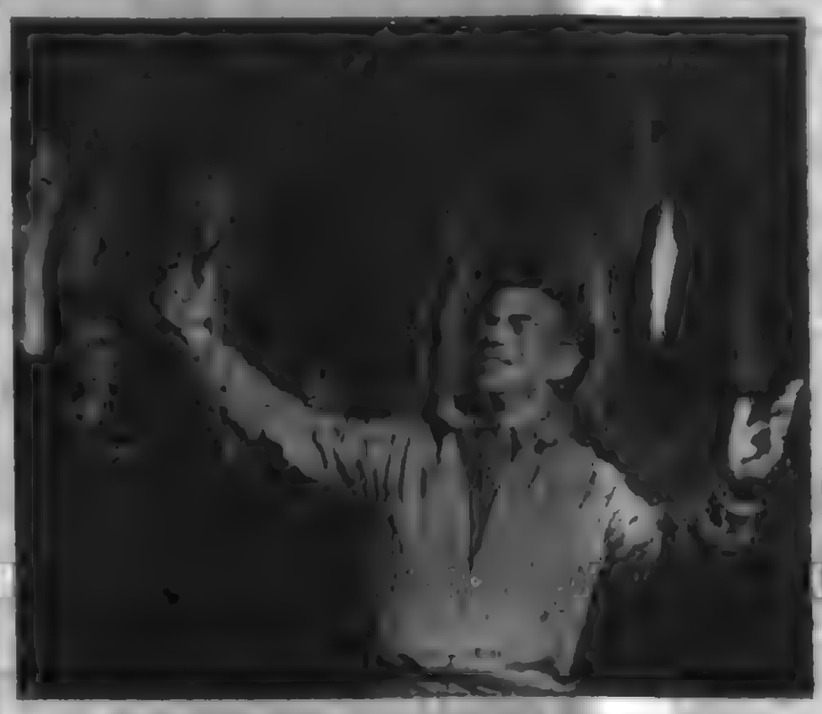
The length of time which it takes to advertise for bids and award contracts makes it virtually impossible for construction to be completed by September under any circumstances.

"Brown" stated that at one time the board had discussed the use of "shell homes" for schools with "Podunk Patios," major builder in the subdivision.

However, according to the executive head, the board decided the plan was impractical as it would involve considerable expense for makeshift facilities.

"Doaks" was overheard stating what monthly tax rates will be on each of the two homes. (One model is more expensive than the other.)

Told of the figures given, "Brown" agreed they were reasonably accurate, "if the bond issue FAILS."



A call was later made to a "Podunk" salesman.

The representative at first said he believed school construction was to begin immediately, but when asked if there was not a bond issue that must first be passed, he said he would check and call back.

This he did, with the motion to call "Brown," as he was the person best qualified to report on the school board plans.

"I would not want to tell you one thing and have him tell you something else," he said.

"Brown" said that the president of "Podunk Patios" has attended several school board meetings at the board's request and is well informed of the school situation.

CALL TO 'PLAY BALL'

1963 Coumbus Jets Open Nine-Game Home Stand

Opening game ceremonies have been set for Thursday at Jet Stadium as the International League entry opens its first home stand which runs through next Wednesday evening and includes nine games.

The stadium gates will open at 6 p.m. and early birds will be serenaded by the Ray Cindione Band. At 7:35, MC Joe Hill will open the ceremonies with the introduction of the '63 Jet roster.

THE PLAYER introduction will precede the introduction of Mayor Westlake, George Trautman, John Galbreath, Fred Jones and Big Bear president Wayne Brown.

Following the national anthem and flag raising, Gov. Rhodes will throw out the first ball of the '62 campaign to the starting Jet pitcher.

Apr. 18—Indianapolis
Apr. 19—Indianapolis
Apr. 20—Indianapolis
Apr. 21—Richmond (2), 1:30
Apr. 22—Richmond
Apr. 23—Buffalo
Apr. 24—Buffalo

All games start at 8 p.m. unless otherwise indicated.

Falcons Sell Candy

The Franklin Heights Athletic Council will sponsor a candy sale from Apr. 22 through May 6. The candy, selling for one dollar per box, will include almond coconut, chocolate mints, assorted jellies and walnut fudge.

Valleyview Adds Pony 9 To '63 Slate

All boys interested in signing up for the new Valleyview Pony League must report to the Valleyview Council House at Valleyview and Richardson Saturday at 10 a.m.

The new league, for boys in the age bracket of 13 to 15 years, will join Valleyview's Little League and Pee Wee League setups this summer to provide area boys with teams in all three are brackets.

THE VALLEYVIEW Boosters also announced that the teams will play their home games on a new field on Valleyview-dr which has been donated to the Booster Club for two years by the Dean and Barry Co.

Members of the club worked Saturday with a bulldozer to level the site in preparation for laying out the diamond.

Indictment Returned In Automobile Death

An indictment charging second-degree manslaughter was returned by the Franklin County Grand Jury in connection with the Feb. 12 traffic death of Samuel W. Webb, 967 S. Richardson-av.

Charged in the death was Donald A. Novak, 39, of 4200 Clime-rd, who earlier was charged with running a stop sign at the intersection of W. Mound-st and Chesterahire-rd and causing the collision with the car driven by Webb.

Beulah Opens Season Apr. 27

Prospects appear bright for a highly successful spring meeting at Beulah Park starting Saturday, Apr. 27, and concluding Saturday, May 25.

Already on hand are some 450 to 500 horses and it is anticipated that the equine colony will grow to around 750 prior to the opening.

HIGHLIGHT OF the first meeting will be the fourth running of the R. J. Dienst Memorial Handicap at a mile and a sixteenth for a purse of $6000 on Saturday, May 18.

This year Beulah Park will have the 48-hour closing rule, which means that entries will close two days prior to the running, rather than just one.

President Robert Y. Dienst has set 2:15 p.m. as the post daily and there will be the usual daily double on the first and second races.

Boating Registration Certificates Available

With the rapidly approaching boating season, the Ohio Division of Watercraft has listed the registration agencies where residents may secure new or renewal certificates for 1963 for their boats and motors.

Boaters are reminded by Charles W. Krier, chief of the Registration Section, that to secure renewal certificates it will be necessary for them to present their 1962 certificates to the registration agency.

IF THE BOATER is unable to show his former certificate, he must obtain a duplicate copy from the Division of Watercraft, 1800 West Fifth-av, Columbus, 12. A service fee of 25 cents is charged.

In 1962 there were 134,472 boats of all types and 139,406 outboard motors registered in Ohio. Numerous boaters own more than one motor, while many individuals own only an outboard motor used on rented boats.

Boat registration agencies in this area include:

Too Much Emphasis Put On Major Sports

It has always been our contention, while trying to keep our finger on the pulse of sporting activity in this country, that too much emphasis is put on the so-called major sports.

Although the majority of the public is naturally more interested in physical activities such as football, baseball and basketball, it seems a shame that national sports pages slight such small-time sports as pigeon racing, squash and kite flying.

A NATIONAL shoe company has taken a step in the right direction by publishing a 60-page booklet listing the who's, how's and wherefore's on 82 American sports, major and minor.

Unfortunately, there are several sports that the booklet apparently has overlooked in its desire to inform the public.

As a public service, we would like to supplement this list with several athletic diversities that have found favor with at least a minority of participants.

UMPIRE BAITING — Origin—Although the experts are a little cloudy on this point, umpire baiting (not to be confused with the advanced "player baiting" and "bench jockeying") began sometime in the late 1800's when the first umpire missed a close call at first base.

Participants—At least seven; to every ballpark (major, minor, college or high school leagues). Equipment—Strong lungs and tonsils, gruff vocal tones and usually a beer or soda pop bottle to wave threateningly in the right hand.

CLUB THROWING — A popular sport among golf enthusiasts in this country — Origin—John McGregor, Scotland, 1872, after three successive slices into the woods off number four. Equipment—Ordinary set of golf clubs that won't hit the ball straight regardless of your talent. Bad disposition and even worse attitude helps to increase your proficiency at this sport.

The sports' national headquarters reports that if you're over 35 and take your game seriously, you've thrown a club an average of 12.8 times per golfing month. Record — 37 feet, nine inches (1956, Tommy Bolt).

GOAL POST DISMANTLING — Seasonal sport connected with last college football game of the year in most parts of the country. Participants — High-spirited college students and higher-spirited [illegible].

Equipment — Brute force with six coaches for every player. This sport is sometimes referred to as "rioting" when goal posts are on opponent's field.

DRAG RACING — Sport concerning the operation of a motor vehicle while under the influence of speed. Organization — Amateur (on track) early 1920's; professional (on highways) 1905.

FLOOR LITTERING — A new sport usually confined to basketball and founded in Bloomington, Ind. Organization — Ohio State-Indiana game, 1960. Equipment — Soft drink cups, programs, sour grapes, etc.

PRO-WRESTLING SARCASM — Origin — Sometime in the mid 1950's when TV introduced the sport to a wide audience. Procedure — Sit behind an avid fan and root for the opposition or degrade the integrity of the match.

Equipment — Plenty of fortitude, a spirit of recklessness and a 6-2, 220-pound physique. If you are of a scrawny nature, the national headquarters suggests making the sport a team activity.

INJURY FEIGNING—Origin—Notre Dame-Iowa football game, 1954. Procedure — Collapse on the field to stop the clock when your team has consumed its regular number of time outs.

Equipment — A sense of dramatic timeliness, good facial expression and the ability to writhe with pain. National headquarters inform us that over 500 participants win letters in this sport each season.

POOL HUSTLING — Origin — Unknown. Procedure — Let yourself get talked into a friendly, penny-ante game of eight ball. Goof a couple of side pocket rail banks and then find a comfortable high chair. Equipment — White shirt with blue chalk marks on the sleeves, a retiring, nervous gaze and strong thumbs.

FISHING BOAT STRAFING — A highly competitive new sport with strong international flavor. Origin — Gulf of Mexico, about 45 miles south of Florida, 1963. Equipment—One or two jet fighters with fun-loving pilots at the controls. The national headquarters warns that this sport can be dangerous when conducted on an amateur level.

Bullheads After Sunset Is Spring Fever Tonic

INSIDE ON THE Outdoors By ROB COCHRAN

It was a hot summer day, typical of June or July in Ohio. School had been out for sometime and barefeet were in style. Two or three of us gathered on the bank of a muddy pond, a forerunner of today's farm ponds. Cattle were standing in the water to cool, and were swishing flies with their tails.

Some heavy black line was tied to a willow pole, and was baited with a worm. In went the rig with considerable commotion. Soon the bobber dipped. Once. Twice. The anxiety was too much. A big yank flopped a bullhead onto the grass behind, and I had caught my first fish.

THIS, PERHAPS, is not the storybook birth of an angler—a trout or bass should have been the star performer, and a big one at that! But it was a bullhead that cast the die. In real life, as they say, this is more often the case than not.

All of this reflection was started because it is bullhead season, and they are hitting at Buckeye Lake and elsewhere. Long stringers are being taken by those anglers who have the zeal to fish all night and work hard at it.

You may make more modest catches by not working so hard. Bullheads are traditional spring fever medicine. Along morel mushrooms, which will be showing up in a week or two, bullheads offer the first real excuse to get outdoors again.

CATCHING BULLHEADS is not demanding in its simplest form. You find a grassy bank near the water, one that is sheltered from the wind and that catches the spring sun. You bait your hook with a garden worm or nightcrawler, and throw it in the water.

Then you retire to the bank, where you can see migrating warblers flitting in the treetops, or watch fleecy clouds drift by. When you get a nibble, let him chew awhile and then set the hook firmly. You pull in the wriggling bullhead and repeat the process. This, happily, is medicine that you can take as often as necessary.

Quiet water with silt bottoms are best for bullheads. Lakes are better than streams, and Buckeye Lake seems to be ideal for them. The bullhead catch there some years has been truly phenomenal.

They go to a favorite location and anchor. Here they light up gasoline lanterns, set up their rigs and begin fishing. They are bundled against the chill night air, and are well stocked with thermos' of hot coffee and sandwiches. The bullheads keep them from getting sleepy.

A bullhead safari is not complete, of course, until the fish are cleaned and deep-fried. Then you sit down to a repast that brings back memories. Bullheads will make a boy of you again.

Gahanna Poor Host As Lions Win Relays

Gahanna proved to be a poor host Saturday as the Blue Lions took first place honors in their own relays, outpointing runner-up Whitehall, 53-38.

The relays, which attracted eight other schools, highlighted the area's track schedule during the week. East, Groveport and Hartley were other area winners.

THE UNBEATEN Lion cindermen nabbed blue ribbon honors in six events, establishing new meet records in four of the six firsts.

New marks were established in both hurdles (60.8), the mile relay (3.38:4), the broad jump (61'6"), the four-mile relay (20.75:5), 880 relay (1:36.0) and sprint medley (1.40:3). The latter two marks were set by Westerville and Eastmoor respectively.

Eastmoor, the Relay winner last year, finished in third place with 32 points. Other team scores were: Lancaster, 23; Brookhaven, 19; Westerville, 18.5; Groveport, 10; Mifflin, 9 and Springfield Shawnee, 8:5.

IN OTHER track action around the area, East's Tigers shattered three marks enroute to a tight 62-56 verdict over Worthington. The Bengals' Sherman Lundy was the meet's top performer with three first-place finishes in the 220 (new record), 180 and broad jump.

The other two marks were set by East in the 880-yard relay (1:33.6) and mile relay 3:31.8). The losers cracked an additional two marks.

Groveport outdistanced DeSales, 72-46, as Mark Green took first-place honors in both the shot put and discus. Kirk Sharrock won four events for the losers.

HARTLEY'S HAWKS downed St. Marys and Aquinas to win their own triangular meet despite a one-man show by the Rams' George Maurer.

Hartley accumulated 69¾ points to top St. Marys (57 5/6) and Aquinas (19.5). Maurer scored a total of 15¾ points while taking firsts in the shot put, discus throw and high jump, plus running on the Rams 880-yard relay team.

Whitehall, paced by steady Clark Fuller, slipped by Newark, 60-58. Fuller's 18 points included firsts in the 220, high hurdles and broad jump in addition to a second place finish in the 440 event.

BILL WAKEFIELD set a new pole vault record of 11' 4" but Pleasant View settled for a third place finish (44) behind Mifflin and Franklin Heights who tied for the triangular laurels, 52-52.

Gahanna notched firsts in 10 of 15 events to crush North and Walnut Ridge in another area triangular, 89-43-14.

DUBLIN'S BOB LaValley took first in both the 220 and 440 and added a second place finish in the 100-yard event but Hilliard edged the Shamrocks, 56⅝ to 52⅛. LaValley scored a total of 13 points.

Steve Thompson and Jerry Lugger scored eight points apiece for the winning Hilliard club. The Wildcat runners also scored 2⅛ points in the Mansfield Relays, finishing 32 positions behind meet winner Cleveland E. Tech (28 points). Hilliard also lost a 64-54 decision to Arlington earlier in the week.

Optimistic West Nine Faces Central Friday

By SKIP SANFORD

"It looks like it's going to be a real good year for us," said West High third baseman Don VanOrder of the '63 season this week. Optimism is seen in all of the Cowboys, and they have good reason for it. With all but one of the starters back from their summer league championship team, West will be tough to beat.

So far this season the Cowboys have won four games and lost only two. In their latest contest they just didn't seem to get started. West collected only four hits as North downed the Cowboys, 8-1, in the City League opener for both clubs last week.

THE LOSS was taken by George Shaffer, giving him a 1-1 record for the season. Other West moundsmen are Gary Glascow, John Goodin, John Morlan and Darryl Rohrer.

Although hitting was their major problem against North, Cowboy averages do not denote a weakness. Leading the hitters is Don VanOrder with a .714 average. Following are John Morlan and George Shaffer at .500, Pete Krull, .444, Bill Baseman and Ron Grundstein, .400, and Rich Neeley and Rick Finke, .333.

The optimism from West players is encouraging and if Bronco sophomores come through as they think they will, the Cowboys feel that they could go all the way in the City League race this spring.

The Cowboys will receive an opportunity to put their optimism into practice Friday when they meet Central's nine on the Bronco diamond.

G-C Jockeys Down P-V Faculty 57-52

The Grove City Jockeys downed the Pleasant View Faculty, 57-52, last week in the cage tournament finals sponsored by the Prairie Lincoln Jaycees at Franklin Heights High School.

Individual trophies were presented to the players. Members of the winning Grove City team included J. Funk, Bill Voss, Marv Eakins, Tom Rogers, Bob Paris, Charles Ewing, Gordie MacCarter, J. Wears and Dick White.

The trophies were presented to the players at a banquet sponsored by White's Barber Shop.

Agriesti Ends Warfare Course

Army Spc. Five Richard R. Agriesti, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Agriesti, 502 Derrer-rd, recently completed a five-week demolition and mine warfare course at the U.S. Army School in Murnau, Germany.

Agriesti, a squad leader in Headquarters Company of the 48th Infantry's First Rifle Battalion in Worms, entered the Army in Aug., 1959, and arrived overseas in Nov., 1961.

The 26-year-old soldier is a 1954 graduate of Central High School.

Permanent Office For Deputy Registrar

A permanent deputy registrar's office has been established at the F. J. Quinn Furniture Store, 2655 W. Broad-st. The office will register motor vehicles and issue license plates and drivers' licenses.

Hours of operation will be 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., Monday through Friday, and 9:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday.

Cardinal Richelieu, French statesman, died Dec. 4, 1642.

Accident Injures Hilltop Resident

Officials of St. Anthony Hospital report Joseph Hoctor, Jr., 24, 239 S. Hague-av, is in satisfactory condition at the hospital where he is being treated for injuries received in an auto accident Monday night on Sunbury-rd.

Sheriff's department reports stated the car was driven by Roger Mumma, 23, of 262 Broadmeadows-blvd. Mumma apparently lost control of his car and ran through the yard of E. V. Clemmens, 2893 Sunbury-rd, hit a parked car, struck a utility pole and skidded sideways into another yard, rolled over twice and ended up at the bottom of a steep embankment. Mumma and all three passengers were hospitalized.

The driver of the car was cited for reckless operation.

AIRBORNE ACROBATICS

BROOKHAVEN POLE vault entry Randy Whalen grimaces as he prepares to release the pole on his downward flight to the pit after clearing the cross bar Saturday at the Gahanna Relays. The Lions, who won their own event with 53 points, took first place in the pole vault competition when Bob Darragh cleared the bar at 11 feet, six inches.

SALMANS' BLISS CAPTAIN

BLISS COLLEGE basketball coach James Redman (left) talks over plans for the '63-'64 season with captain-elect Bob Salmans, Jr., of 2516 Regina-av. Salmans, an ex-East High grad who also starred in baseball and football, was the Bookkeepers' top foul shooter last season.

IT'S A GIRL!

Pfc. and Mrs. Ronald McCafferty (former Rosemarie Davis of 1831 Richmond-rd), are parents of a daughter, born Apr. 13 at Fort Carson Hospital, Colorado Springs, Colo.

Free Estimates For Pest Control Offered By George H. Turley Co.

"One of the advantages we can offer over the do-it-yourself method is in the preparation of the strength of the insecticide. When you buy an insecticide in a store you can only get one strength regardless of the size of the job."

That is the way George Turley, owner and manager of George H. Turley Co. Pest Control, 1328 Murri, described one of the many facets of his business.

He went on to explain that his company purchases the chemicals used in pest control projects in a concentrated preparation. This preparation is then diluted for the specific job for which it is to be used, he added.

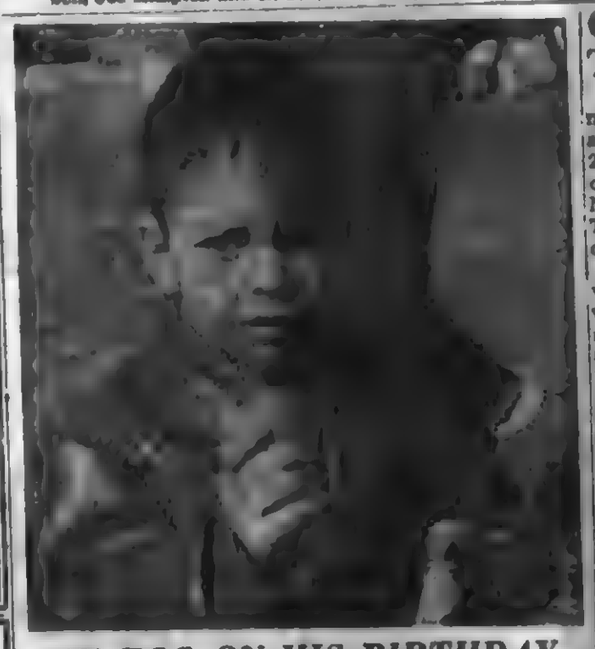
The Turley Co. specializes in commercial work but will also accept individual assignments. The organization recently completed the pre-treating of a group of new homes as insurance against infestation by termites.. Other jobs include the extermination of ants, roaches, rodents and various types of insects that have invaded the structure of a building.

Free inspection is offered by the Turley Co. at no cost or obligation to the persons requesting the service. If the inspected structure is found to be in need of pest control services, a price is quoted by the company, again at no cost or obligation to the customer.

Each job completed by the Turley Co. is guaranteed with a five-year warranty against re-infestation by termites.

Founded 15 years ago, the George H. Turley Co. is a member of the National Pest Control Association and the Columbus Chamber of Commerce.

Turley's trucks are never marked so there is no publicity connected with the processing of a home or building for pest control. The job is done efficiently and quietly by experts, according to Turley, and seldom takes more than a few hours. Any pest control problems may be discussed with the Turley Co. at no obligation by calling the organization or stopping at their offices.



MILO FLEMMING, 2280 E. Main-st, inserts a rod through a hole drilled in a cement walk to protect the house and foundation from ground termites. A solution, to kill the termites when they return to the ground, is then pumped under pressure through the rod. Looking on (at rear) is George Turley, owner and manager of George H. Turley Pest Control Co.

HAMS FOR WINNERS

AN EGG ON HIS BIRTHDAY

Completes Radar Training Course

Gerald M. Bonomini, radarman seaman, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Renner of 260 N. Burgess-av, recently completed Radar School at Naval Schools Command, Treasure Island, San Francisco, Calif.

The 24-week course provides basic operation and preventative maintenance of standard radar equipment, sound power and tracking procedures, surface and air plotting and operating countermeasures equipment.

Harper Trains

Marine Pfc Thomas W. Harper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Harper, 1885 W. Broad-st, is serving with Battalion Landing Team 3/6, which is participating in amphibious warfare training in the Caribbean.

FOOD MARKETS THIS WEEK

Frozen Food Industry Expanding

By ESTELLE B. FRANKS

THIS WEEK LOOK FOR:

FRUITS — Bananas, apples (C A storage), fresh pineapple

VEGETABLES — Carrots, potatoes, lettuce, celery, new cabbage, radishes

MEATS AND POULTRY — Beef "specials," pork loin and shoulder roasts, fryers, sausage, bacon

OTHER FOODS — Dairy products, frozen: corn, lima, French fries

How many of the items on your shopping list for the week will come from the frozen food chest of the supermarket? For most families, the list has increased sharply in recent years.

Mrs. Franks

As a result, keeping the frozen food chests filled is really big business today. According to the trade magazine "Quick Frozen Foods," the frozen food industry has increased 735 per cent in the past 10 years and is expected to expand another 250 per cent in the next 10 years. Just how big the business is can be judged by the fact that sales now stand at $3.6 billion annually. Almost $152.5 million are accounted for by retail sales of frozen foods here in Ohio.

With such expansion, new trends in products are sure to come. At the Frozen Food Training School, held last week for extension agents at the Ohio State University, Lois Simonds, Extension Food Market Specialist, gave the following as some interesting trends to expect in tomorrow's frozen food:

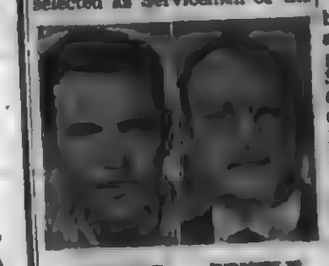
• Frozen seafood products are going to make big advances in the next five years. Per capita consumption is growing, though slowly, and industry thinks this will accelerate.

• Frozen baked goods will continue to forge ahead. Several large baking companies have elaborate programs on schedule and are coming out with many products that are new.

• Prepared vegetables — those "dressed up" with seasonings or sauces — are beginning to snowball. Prepared red cabbage and stewed tomatoes are additional possibilities. Chopped and diced raw onions will ease the cook's chores.

• New methods of freezing will open up a new field for salads — lettuce, cucumbers, tomatoes and the like. Such vegetables as green beans and okra may be breaded and French fried.

• More frozen prepared meals can be expected, since the current yearly sales of over 275 million dinners indicates their acceptance. Frozen breakfasts will join the line, to offer a solution for the most neglected meal of the day. Such platters as scrambled eggs with sliced ham, grapefruit and orange sections and even oven fried potatoes, marketed in a three-compartment tray, are being tried out.



• More boil-in-bag items, including precooked cereals, may soon enter the retail trade.

• More frozen meat items will offer greater uniformity in quality, price and cut than is possible with present merchandising methods. Stews, a good hash and red cabbage, and smoked pork are ideas of the future.

As Servicemen Of The Year For Outstanding Merits

Four servicemen, representing all four branches of the U.S. Armed Forces, have been selected as Servicemen of the Year by a selection board comprised of several Columbus community leaders.

FRAZIER BRISTLE

EBERT WHITCOMB

Named to the honor on the basis of their service work and community projects, the group includes Air Force SM/Sgt. King T. Frazier, Navy Chief Evan D. Bristle, Marine Corps GY/Sgt. Robert W. Ebert and Army Sgt. Alan Ellis Whitcomb.

The honored servicemen and their families will be guests of Columbus area service and civic organizations and will be presented with appropriate proclamations by Governor James Rhodes and Mayor W. Ralston Westlake. They will also be presented at Columbus City Council.

Other activities include a theatre party, weekend at the Arlington Arms and an Armed Forces Day Luncheon, May 17, at which Defense Secretary Robert McNamara will be the featured speaker.

NEW GARAGE

Bob Sharp, 1052 Frank-rd, has received a building permit to construct a two-car, concrete block garage at the same address. Construction is valued at $1,350. Contractor is P. J. Builders.

'Confederate' Ca$h Jackpot $hoot$ Pa$t $100 Mark

The South will rise again!

And whoever wins that big Hartley Newspaper "Confederate" Jackpot can really rise up and shout 'cause it now totals $113.

Yes sir, if you find that little old "5 Confederate" insignia in your copy of any of the Hartley Newspapers this week you will receive all 113 of those "Confederate" Dollars . . . now as good as gold and spendable for real, honest to goodness merchandise with any advertiser in one of the seven Hartley Newspapers. Of course, if you don't happen to be a paid subscriber to one of these papers, you will receive only $5.

This little, old "Confederate" Jackpot is climbing each week and the best way to be sure you are in the money is to see that your subscription is paid either through your carrier or by mail. Better check up on it right now.

The jackpot grew by another $22 this past week when only three persons were able to find the "1" insignia.

Three actual winners, who received one "Confederate" dollar for sending in the proper insignia to Hartley Newspapers, were J. Curtis, 6962 Claymer-dr; W. Hiser, 28 W. Welch-av, and Gloria Baker, 9000 Alkire-rd, Grove City.

Five almost winners sent in what they thought were proper "Confederate" insignia which turned out to be part of an advertisement and not an actual insignia good for Hartley "Confederate" cash.

Don't forget, the insignias are just like those printed in this column, but always in a color other than black. They are just like those printed in this column but always in a color other than black. They are not part of an ad but printed in the white space around an ad.

To win the jackpot the reader must find the "Confederate" "5" insignia in his newspaper and be a paid subscriber. All "1" insignia are good for one 'Confederate" dollar if sent in to Hartley Newspapers, 2465 W. Broad-st, before the deadline at noon on Monday following publication of the paper containing the insignia.

The holder of the "5" insignia must bring the paper containing the insignia in person to the Hartley Newspapers Office to be eligible for the jackpot or to win the five "Confederate" dollars.

Employes of Hartley Newspapers, including carriers, and their families are not eligible to participate in this [redacted]

Twenty-one insignia will be hidden in 21 different copies of this week's edition, and one of these insignia is worth 113 "Confederate" dollars to a lucky reader. Start checking the advertisements right now for the winning "Confederate" insignia.

Don't delay any longer . . . by spending a few minutes checking the advertisements in this paper you could be $113 richer.

Attention To Youth

This past week we received a nice letter from a "Disappointed Mother" in which she takes us to task for not reporting the Science Fair in detail.

We regret this fact but at the same time feel we are not entitled to be criticized for lack of recognition to youth. Any issue of our papers will show that we regularly devote a great portion of our space to our young people, and shall continue to do so.

We did not print the letter because it was not signed. We welcome letters but also appreciate knowing who writes them.

The Gay Philosopher says: "The greatest disappointment a guy can have is to marry a gal with the hour glass figure only to find out that it was later than he thought."

Definition — Mrs. Molly Pugh at Roosevelt Junior High School recently asked a boy in one of her health science classes to give a definition of a mammal. The youngster pondered the question for a minute and then answered: "An animal born already hatched."

Another Fine Message

Some time ago we carried a short item relative to the new book by Charles L. Allen, "The Twenty-Third

ARCHITECTS' CONCEPTION of the proposed addition to Hilltop Christian Church.

JACK AND STELLA Thomas, Hilltoppers-turned-Californians, pose with 14 boxes of clothing they shipped to Harlan, Ky., last Mar. 27.

Hilltoppers Will Build Sanctuary

A $120,000 building fund drive is now underway at Hilltop Christian Church, Disciples of Christ, corner of Burgess and Olive, for a completely new sanctuary and remodeling job.

The sanctuary will be built on the corner with a one-floor plan and seating capacity of 280. It will feature arches of oak and white oak furnishings and a large cross above the chancel.

The building, currently being used for worship services, will be remodeled for educational purposes and a social hall. It was originally built in 1921 with that intent in mind. The addition in back was added in 1953.

Adjoining the old and new sections of the church will be a wing containing a minister's study, ladies' parlor and church office.

Rev. George Alexander said they hope to break ground next year for construction.

Starling Williamson is chairman of the building planning committee, and Paul Marziuf is in charge of building funds committee. Lewis Trout is president of the church's official board.

Architects are Arthur J. Dupre and James P. Swiatek of Columbus.

Lincoln Villagers Ask More Area Police Protection

By ED CHURCHILL

Ten Lincoln Village organizations this week submitted a petition to the Franklin County Board of Commissioners, calling for more money for more police protection.

The petition asked that more money be appropriated to the Franklin County Sheriff's Department to achieve the additional policing.

Robert Bookman, president of the Lincoln Village Residents' Association, which spearheaded the petitioning, said this was the first of as many pleas as necessary to get the point across.

Bookman added, "We just want to get the protection we pay taxes for."

Chairman of the commissioners, Henry A. Koontz, said that nothing could be done about the request in 1963, since all appropriations of county funds have already been made.

"It would be January of next year before we can even entertain the idea," he stated, "and even then it will depend on the estimated county income for 1964."

"I would think they could hire their own police force like the West Side merchants do," said Koontz, "if they need protection badly enough."

Bookman said the idea of a private police force has been considered, and was even tried in 1955, but abandoned because of dissatisfaction with the operation.

He further stated, "Why should we pay for additional protection of a private police force when we pay taxes to the county for it?"

One good point, Bookman said, is that at least two members of the sheriff's department live in the Lincoln Vil-

Sidewalks In Works For Westgate Center

New sidewalks will be in use around Westgate Recreation Center by mid-summer. That is the promise this week from Mayor Westlake's office.

The mayor's aide, George Smith, said funds also have been secured to widen streets in the area.

According to Smith, a new walk will connect with the present one along the Wicklow-rd border of Westgate Park (which was installed several years ago by Westlake when he was councilman) and will curve southward in front of the new center along Westgate-av. It will then follow Parkside-rd westward for 120 feet.

Smith said a second walk will be built from Parkside to Sullivant-av and the entire stretch of Westgate-av from Wicklow to Sullivant-av will be repaved and widened from four to eight feet.

The recreation department reported that Westgate Center will not be ready for use by May 1 as had been hoped. Bad weather slowed the work by several weeks.

Hilltop Community Council, noting the muddy conditions near the park this spring, spurred efforts to get the new sidewalks.

Swinford Accepts Penney Managership At Pittsburgh

The Hilltop and West area will lose one of its top civic leaders May 1, when L. B. ("Les") Swinford assumes the management of the J. C. Penney Co. store at Monroeville, Pa., a suburb of Pittsburgh.

A native of Paris, Ky., he came to Columbus eight years ago to open and manage the Penney Great Western store and has since served in that capacity. Swinford has been with the J. C. Penney Co. for 22 years and was manager of the Ashland, Ky., store prior to coming here.

Currently president of the Hilltop Kiwanis Club, "Les" has served on the Hilltop YMCA Board and the Hilltop Business Association Executive Board. He also heads the Great Western Business Association, is a Scottish Rite Mason and is affiliated with Aladdin Temple.

The Swinfords reside at 1473 White Ash-dr in Western Estates and are members of the Hoge Memorial Church. They have four children, two of whom are planning to remain in Columbus. Mrs. Swin-

Nippert In Race For School Post

John E. Nippert, vice-president and treasurer of the Nippert Electric Products Co., 1750 W. Mound-st, today announced his first-time candidacy as member of the Columbus Board of Education.

His name will appear on the November ballot along with the names of Hilltopper Paul R. Langdon (president, incumbent) and two North Siders, Dee Calhoun, Jr. (I) and Dr. William Logan.

Two veteran members of the board, Homer Trantham and Daniel W. DeHayes, have chosen not to run.

Nippert, 50, lives at 1615 Berkeley-rd. Born in the South Side, he was graduated from South High School and attended Ohio State and Franklin Universities. He moved to the Hilltop where he lived until 1951.

Two years ago he was named chairman of the local Statehouse Conference on Education. He served on various committees for the Columbus Public School system and recently was elected president of the Marion-Franklin PTA. He was one of the founders of Smith Road PTA.

Nippert is in his third term as president of the Tuberculosis Society of Columbus and Franklin County, a cause which he has served for eight years. His other affiliations include West Gate Lodge of Masons; Columbus Chamber of Commerce (educational committee); Brookwood Presbyterian Church, elder and superintendent of Sunday School; Hilltop Business Association; and Hilltop Kiwanis Club.

His wife, the former Annabel Breese, is a graduate of West High School. They have three sons: David (fifth-year engineering student at OSU); and Tom and Jim, students at Marion-Franklin. A daughter, Mrs. Richard A. Reese, lives in Oxford, O.

SKIP EACH OTHER AT CHRISTMAS

Couple Spends Time, Savings On Good Deeds Across Nation

"They have made the work of helping others almost a second career. . ."

That was the way the Los Angeles Times recently described Jack and Stella Thomas who moved from the Hilltop seven years ago to make their home in California.

What was the newspaper talking about? One glance at the clippings tells the tale — of how the couple have collected clothes and shoes from all over the San Gabriel Valley, cleaned and pressed and packed them for shipment to disaster areas in Alabama, Mississippi, Tennessee, Virginia and Kentucky; how they have aided the needy on the Indian reservations in the West; and especially, how they entertained 207 kiddies in wheelchairs to a Rose Parade grandstand view from their front lawn last New Year's Day.

The Thomases, many will recall, lived at 25 N. Haldyav before they moved to Pasadena. Jack was salesman for a food broker and for 30 years was a magician in vaudeville. For 20 years, as long as they have been married, Stella was his stage assistant, being "cut in half" at each performance and catching the rabbits and doves her husband pulled from his sleeves.

On New Year's Day the Thomases' wide boulevard frontage was filled with 500 to

AT STATE HOSPITAL . . .

A Diploma For Every Child Is Goal Of Dedicated Crew

By BETTY DANT

A new dimension was added to public school education last fall, and with it, a bright promise for a happy, productive adulthood was made to the city's emotionally disturbed children.

Glenwood School, located on the State Hospital grounds, is an encouraging sign of the times, a cooperative concern of the State Hospital and Columbus Public Schools that all children should be assured an education.

Half of the 48 students are resident patients at the State Hospital. The rest are referred to Glenwood by the Hospital Community Service as emotionally troubled, in need of the school's unique services, and arrive by taxi every morning.

Although housed in a state-owned building and staffed by the Columbus School System, the seemingly complex operation of Glenwood is made remarkably smooth by its simplicity of purpose.

Each student is capable of learning; each doctor, social worker, therapist and teacher, is dedicated to making their education possible.

In the past, the only classes offered young patients at the hospital were in an educational therapy, part of the activi-

LINCOLN VILLAGE

● Mrs. Forrest Allen
878-5170

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Knotts, Deerfield-rd, have had the pleasure of a visit with Libby's mother, Mrs. Colt Rawley, from Ravenswood, W. Va.

Mr. and Mrs. LeMar J. Ballinger, Taunton-wy, recently returned from a visit to Trenton, N. J., where they visited their son David and his wife. On the return trip they stopped in Moorestown, N. J., to visit Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Guiheen (formerly of Lincoln Village) and also visited frends at Point Pleasant, N. J. Their twins Kathy and Kristy traveled with them.

The Westminster Presbyterian Church will hold its first family night of the year on Apr. 26. Dick Mindigo and Dick Nealeigh are among those in charge to make this one of the finest family nights yet. Entertainment will be provided for the children. Everyone should bring a covered dish and their own silver. The starting time is 6:30 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry F. Peel, Weymouth-ln, are the happy parents of a daughter born Apr. 17.

The public is invited to an Arbor Day program Friday, Apr. 26, at 2:30 p.m. in the all-purpose room at Prairie-Lincoln School, 4900 Amesbury-wy. Mrs. Robert Fox, president of the Lincoln Village Beautifiers, will make a presentation to the school of one Magnolia and two Washington Hawthorne trees, donated by the Beautifiers and Heritage Garden Club in commemoration of Arbor Day. Gerald Kingsmore, principal of Prairie-Lincoln will accept. The school band and choral group will give several selections.

The Prairie-Lincoln spring festival, Country Fair, was a tremendous success. The chairman wishes to thank all those who helped by their work and/or contributions in making this the success it was.

The Lincoln Village Women's Club held its election of officers for the coming year and elected the following officers: Mrs. William Moore, president; Mrs. Harry Hamilton, first vice-president; Mrs. William Strapp, second vice-president; Mrs. J. Mack Parkhill, recording secretary; Mrs. Raymond Mason, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. James Swiatek, treasurer.

Mrs. James Drennan, current president, along with Mrs. William Moore and Mrs. Harry Hamilton, will be the club's voting delegates at the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs convention to be held in Columbus, Apr. 23 to 25.

All area residents are being invited to attend a meeting where the topic "Doctors Hospital, Lincoln Village and the Community" will be discussed. This meeting is to be held Monday, Apr. 29, with William S. Konold, administrator of Doctors Hospital as the guest speaker. The new Doctors Hospital-Lincoln Village is scheduled to open Oct. 1. As the building progresses, community interest has grown and many questions have arisen about the hospital.

Be it concerned with volunteer hospital work for yourself or teenagers, employment, osteopathy, the facilities available or other pertinent questions, plan to attend this Apr. 29; meeting to learn more about this new member of the community. This program is sponsored as a community service by the Lincoln Village Women's Club.

Colic to College CCL will elect officers for the coming year at their Apr. 23 meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. Eugene Williams, with Mrs. D. Spung as the co-hostess.

The next meeting of Trudeau No. 36 will be held at 8 p.m. Apr. 25, at the home of Mrs. Tony Taylor, 340 N. Murray Hill-rd. The co-hostesses will be Mrs. Donald Ellsworth and Mrs. Kenneth Hamrick.

The Prairie unit of the League of Women Voters of Metropolitan Columbus meeting will be held Thursday, Apr. 25, at 8 p.m. at the home of Miss Alice Schweibert, 5016 Beacon Hill-rd. The topic is "League Action in our Community" led by Mrs. Carl Agriesti. Guests are always welcome and further information may be obtained by calling Mrs. Gunther Schwehm, 878-4829.

Mrs. Charles Warren's niece, Annette Conners of Neff's Ohio is coming to Children's Hospital for open heart surgery on Apr. 26. Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Conners, her parents, will be staying with the Warrens during her stay at Children's Hospital.

The seminar to be conducted by Dr. Adolph Haas, head of the Psychiatric Clinic at Ohio State University, at Columbia Heights Methodist Church will be held Sunday, Apr. 28, at 7 p.m. It is open to the public. Dr. Haas will speak on the subject of "Parental Attitudes Toward the Sex Education of Children."

A nominal cost of $1 per couple or 75 cents per married person is being asked. This money will be donated to the Pyschiatric Clinic for mental health research. Babysitting will be available with crafts for the older children. For reservations please contact Mr. Thomas Cunningham, chairman of the Christian Social Concerns Commission, 878-4562; the Columbia Heights Methodist Church office, 878-4530; Mrs. Charles Warren, 878-4795, or the Rev. Huntington National Plans Opening Of Westview Office

The new Westview office of the Huntington National Bank will hold open house Friday, Apr. 26, from 3 to 9 p.m. and Saturday, Apr. 27, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. The office is located at 121 Georgesville-rd, just south of W. Broad-st.

This 10th Huntington office will open for business at 9 a.m. Monday, Apr. 29, under the direction of Jack L. Prather, assistant cashier. He will be assisted by William H. Waddell. The installment loan officer is Sam Massara.

This will be the third new bank building constructed by the Huntington within the last year and a half. In the same period, the Huntington added four other offices through merger. Construction also has been started on the Huntington West, a multi-story office building at the corner of Broad and Fronts.

Clair E. Fultz, president, and John E. Stevenson, chairman, cited this expansion as "further progress in our continuing effort to make efficient banking services more convenient for the families and businesses of Columbus and Central Ohio. This new Westview Office positions the complete banking facilities of the Huntington where they can best serve the needs of the fast-growing west side."

Four drive-in banking windows will provide quick, accurate service even during rush periods. Other convenience features of the new Huntington office are night depository, time-saver deposit chutes and ample parking facilities. All banking and trust services, including checking and savings accounts, installment and business loans, Trust Department services, safe deposit and Travelers Cheques will be available at the Westview office.

To provide swift and accurate bookkeeping service for recent, and future expansion, Huntington has installed a $500,000 Burroughs electronic computer system, the first such installation in a Central Ohio bank.

Prather

Jack L. Prather, officer in charge of the Westview Office, has been a Huntington employee since his sophomore year in Bexley High School. He worked at the bank during summer vacations at Bexley while earning his B.A. at Denison University and LLB. at the Ohio State University College of Law. He has worked in all departments of the main banking office and has served as second in command at the Eastmoor and Cleveland-av offices of the Huntington.

He is a member of Bexley Methodist Church, Columbus Junior Chamber of Commerce and American Institute of Banking. Prather is also a graduate of the Dale Carnegie Leadership School and is presently taking advanced courses at the Stonier Graduate School of Banking. He lives at 924 Montrose-av.

William H. Waddell, Westview Office assistant is a native of Sabina, O., and a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan University. He is a member of the Columbus Chapter, American Institute of Banking, and is presently advisor to the Columbus "bank," operated by Junior Achievement. He lives with his wife and daughter at 1847 Belmead-rd.

Sam Massara, installment loan officer at the Westview Office, has held the same position at the Huntington's Groveport Office. He has six years' experience in the installment lending field. A Linden McKinley High School graduate, Massara played third base on the Panthers' baseball team and end on the football squad. He is a member of St. Matthias Catholic Church and of Linden Lions Club. Massara lives with his wife, two sons and daughter at 880 Norris-dr.

Tech Staff Misses Call In 'Bells Are Ringing'

By BOB PERKOWSKI

Technical difficulties almost stole the show when the Independent Players presented "Bells Are Ringing" last Friday and Saturday at Veteran's Memorial.

Reviewer's stage, screen Corner

From the beginning there was Trouble (with a capital "T") that even a "music man" wouldn't have to concoct. The door to Susanswerphone (the answering service from which Ella Peterson becomes involved in the lives of her clients) wouldn't open. From then on the cast not only fought the door but a host of other difficulties as well.

Through it all the cast performed ably, even in the powerful darkness (poor lighting) that often descended. The leads, Joanne Howard, Carol Kruckeberg, Hal Summers and Stu Sinclair, came out on top over the stagehands for attention.

The singing ensemble did especially well in all its songs, which, happily, were many in number. The ensemble also had the advantage of concealing whatever distractions occurred behind them.

The orchestra, under the direction of C. Robert Myers (Friday evening), gave its all to the memorable Jule Styne melodies.

Though slow in the beginning scenes, the musical picked up later in the first act and continued with vigor, doing justice to book and lyrics by Betty Comden and Adolph Green.

All in all, there was much to be enjoyed. What distracted was a poor performance by the technical staff—the part of the show which performers are often inclined to slight.

This reviewer hopes the next show by the Independent Players sees the situation improved. Even though the technical staff may get no notices for their labors, it would be better than the amateurish attention-getting devices in "Bells Are Ringing."

FOOD MARKETS THIS WEEK

Spring Treat—Fresh Fish From Lake Erie

By ESTELLE B. FRANKS

THIS WEEK LOOK FOR:

Meats, Poultry, Fish—Chuck roasts, beef steaks, ground beef, pork "specials," fresh smelts, fryers, eggs

Vegetables—New red potatoes, salad greens, new cabbage, carrots, celery

Fruits—Bananas, apples, pineapple

Other—Dairy products, canned: peaches, pineapple, tomato products.

A SPRING TREAT—FRESH FISH FROM LAKE ERIE

If you're hungry for a meal of fresh fish—meaning as they come from the water — the season is here. Lake Erie fishing has opened up at last. The lake waters are very cold which means the fish have an excellent flavor.

Dealers say the pan fish in best supply this week are perch, white bass and smelts. You can also find "jumbo" pickerel for baking (they came early this year from Lake Erie) and large pickerel from Canadian waters. Small pickerel are just beginning to come.

A Real treat for any fish lover is a big platter of fresh smelts. They're at their very best now, fresh and plump before they start to spawn in another couple of weeks. Remember the tedious task of cleaning smelts? This is no longer true—you can get them dressed for the fry pan . . . or, whole if you prefer to clean your own. Prices are quite reasonable.

You're probably wondering where to find fresh fish. True, fresh fish are never abundant in our markets, but the selection is better now than usual. At fish specialty markets, such as those found at Central Market, you can get fish only 12 hours out of the water. Some supermarkets are offering a fairly good selection, and if you happen to be in the Sandusky area you can get them right off the boat. The fish are packed in ice as soon as they leave the water and are shipped in refrigerated trucks to hold their fresh quality.

When buying fresh fish, remember the fishin' fact we know best . . . the fresher the fish, the better the flavor. So, any method to get—and keep—that just-out-of-the-water flavor is the trick.

Top quality fresh whole fish have bright, clear bulging eyes that "look like they're looking at you"; firm, moist, elastic flesh—springing back when pressed; and an odor that is fresh . . . not tainted or stale. Fish that have a strong "fishy odor" are not fresh.

An easy tip for scaling whole fish, we learned from Tom Stockdale, Extension Specialist, Wildlife Conservation: Use a teaspoon for scaling small fish and a tablespoon for large ones. It works. You won't have scales all over the place, and on you.

Tom also points out that fresh fish are highly perishable. So, keep them iced or place in a plastic bag with some ice and keep in the coldest part of the refrigerator. Use within the day.

Nancy Lee Ream, George Watkins Repeat Vows At St. Andrew Church

MRS. GEORGE H. WATKINS

St. Andrew Church was the scene of the ceremony uniting Miss Nancy Lee Ream and Mr. George H. Watkins on Saturday, Apr. 20. Fr. Charles Griffin performed the 11:30 a.m. service.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Ream of 3277 Somerford-rd. Her husband's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Wallace D. Watkins, 453 S. Terrace-av.

The bride chose for her marriage a gown fashioned of pure silk organza over bridal taffeta. The molded-bodice featured a crescent neckline, completely overlaid with Alencon lace and encrusted with seed pearls.

Long sleeves tapered to a delicate point over the hands. Motifs of the rich lace were repeated on her controlled silhouette skirt and again on the carriage back and wide Chapel train.

Her bridal veil of imported silk illusion fell from a contour coronet of pearls, caught in back with a soft streamer bow. She carried a bouquet of shattered carnations centered with a white orchid and surrounded by lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Donald Gilliland was matron of honor and bridesmaids were Mrs. John Hummel, Mrs. Richard Burke and Miss Juanita Watkins, sister of the bridegroom.

The attendants wore identically fashioned sheath gowns of Azure blue organza over taffeta, designed with squared necklines and brief sleeves. A separate tunic line overskirt accented the dress.

Mr. Wallace D. Watkins, Jr., served as his brother's best man. Ushers were Mr. Robert Courtney, Mr. Edward Delesk and Mr. Charles Ream, brother of the bride.

A reception at the church followed the ceremony.

The new Mrs. Watkins was graduated from West High School and is employed by First Federal Savings and Loan Association. Her husband is also a graduate of West High and is employed at Westinghouse Electric Corp.

The couple will reside at 4914 Medfield-wy after Apr. 28.

Mother-Daughter Banquet Heads Bethlehem Events

Women of Bethlehem Lutheran Church will hold their mother and daughter banquet at the church Monday, May 6, 6:30 p.m.

Tickets are available at the church office, and reservations must be made by May 4. All women of the church, with their daughters and friends, are invited.

Mrs. Vernon Moder, kitchen hostess, will assist Mrs. Maxine Merekle, who will cater the dinner.

Brotherhood men will serve the meal.

A short program, "The Important Events In a Girl's Life," will be presented, with Mrs. Norman Ealy and Mrs. Edward Schneider in charge. Mrs. Pete Scholten is in charge of decorations.

A short business session will be held with Mrs. Jones Le Page presiding.

Bethlehem Circles will be guests of St. John Lutheran Church, W. Broad-st at Hague-av, as follows:

Circle 1 will meet Apr. 30 at noon, Circle 2, May 13 at 7:45, and Circle 3, May 2, at 9:30.

Beacon Ladies will meet May 23, 9:30 a.m., to sew for the Lutheran Welfare League.

Hilltop LCW Arranges Tea

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER tea will be given by the Hilltop Lutheran Church Women Sunday, May 5, 3 until 5 p.m. at the church, W. Broad at Terrace-av. A pageant, "Beautiful Lights of Home," written by Mrs. Leonard Echols, will be presented by mother and daughter members of the congregation. Mrs. Leonard Echols, program chairman, is seated, and from left, standing, are Mrs. Gerald Pryor, chairman, and Mrs. Hulda Carey, president of the LCW. Everyone is invited.

Former Hilltopper Graduates, Marries

Robert R. Sandusky, Jr., a graduate of the University of Colorado in aeronautical engineering, was one of six ROTC cadets to be commissioned as second lieutenants.

On his graduation day he was married to Miss Carolyn Hopper of Grand Junction, Colo. She is the daughter of Mrs. L.A. Hopper and the late Mr. Hopper.

Mr. Sandusky is the son of Mrs. Robert Sandusky and the late Mr. Sandusky.

The new couple are living at Ft. Belvoir, Va., and are soon to be sent to France.

NURSES CLARIFYING

Confusion Clouding Senate Bill Waters

By JOHN AUBLE, JR.

It doesn't take a nurse to tell that the thermometer is up to fever proportions around the state over substitute Senate Bill 66, which is causing more headaches for the ladies of mercy than a flu epidemic.

The bill is designed to withdraw liability from hospitals, leaving the registered nurse answerable directly to the patient for her acts or omissions.

Under the leadership of Dorothy A. Cornelius, R.N., executive director of Ohio State Nursing Association, the some 11,000 OSNA members have glutted the state with literature in opposition to such action.

Biggest fight now is beating down of flash fires springing up throughout Ohio—with seemingly no geographic or political pattern — as a result of the nurses' opposition. According to Miss Cornelius, most of the effort by nurses is dispelling "false rumors" concerning the bill and what it actually means.

It may take an extra ounce of dispelling in the greater Columbus area where two of the senators — Kline Roberts (R) and Robert Shaw (R) — indicated to Hartley Newspapers Tuesday that the bill has "some merit."

The bill, still in the rules committee Tuesday, was passed by legislators on two previous occasions but vetoed by Governors Frank J. Lausche and Michael V. DiSalle.

No official word has come from Governor Rhodes' office as to how he might act if the senators see fit to repeat their past performances. Of course, indications are strong that there won't be a repeat for the simple reason that there are different senators mulling over the matter this time and, in fact, five less lawmakers than in previous general assembly sessions.

"There's a lot of interest in this bill," Shaw said seriously. "I'm not going to say that I'm against the nurses' stand but I do think that the bill has some merit."

To date, the biggest urging for passage of the bill has come from Rev. Fr. John P. Gallagher, director of Catholic nurses in the Youngstown, O., Diocese.

Fr. Gallagher, in an article printed in the Youngstown Vindicator, said, "I appeal to all nurses of the Ohio State Nursing Association, out of a sense of loyalty to the institutions that trained them and in the interest of the general public, to ask their representatives in the Ohio Legislature to vote in favor of Sub. S.B. 66."

Mary Jo Grotenrath, attorney and legislative counsel for the OSNA, fired a telegram back to the Vindicator saying:

"In the light of the church's traditional and respected teachings in the area of social justice, I am somewhat appalled that Father would use the dignity of his office to promote contrary legislation.

"As recently as last week, in his encyclical 'Pacem In Terris' the Holy Father, Pope John XXIII, deplored special interest legislation. So do we."

There is much confusion, actually, over what the bill actually would do.

When contacted Tuesday, Senator Roberts stated that "the only thing the bill does is return the law to the same status that was in effect prior to a court decision in 1959 and makes a hospital or charitable institutions liable in the selection of its personnel."

The Cleveland Press, in an article Apr. 18 headlined "Ohio Hospitals Seek to Regain Immunity From Suits," took the same view and suggested that the bill would remove the personal liability of hospital employes for negligent acts committed by them.

"This is not true," Miss Grotenrath stated. "This article erroneously suggested that the hospital immunity bill in its present form would remove the personal liability of hospital administrators.

"This is not true," Miss Grotenrath stated. "The R.N.'s have never asked for such immunity from liability. As professional persons they abhor the very notion of irresponsibility in the area of patient care as morally and legally wrong.

"OSNA's opposition to the bill has been, is, and will continue to be based on its interest in promoting the efficient care of the sick, one of the purposes to which the organization and the individual R.N. is dedicated."

Crum Covers Pan-Am Games For WLW-C

WLW-C sportscaster Jimmy Crum departed by plane last evening for San Paulo, Brazil and the Pan American Games to provide TV-4 viewers with filmed reports on the progress of five local performers, competing in the '63 games.

Crum will shoot over 3500 feet of film, showing the efforts of East High School high jumper Estelle Baskerville, OSU basketball All-American Gary Bradds, U.S. cycling team member Gus Husse and Buckeye diving stars Lou Vitucci and Juan Botella.

Three 30-minute filmed reports, highlighting these five local stars, can be viewed on Channel Four on three consecutive Monday evenings (May 13, 20 and 27) at 9:30 p.m.

SEPARATE SOLIDS FROM LIQUIDS

BLANCHE KLEIN HONORED FOR 2500 HOURS WITH VA

They work 13 hours at a stretch, energetically and with unflagging enthusiasm.

Neither is young, and neither gets paid a dime.

Blanche and Charles Klein drive down to Chillicothe every Thursday.

There they are volunteer recreation workers at Veteran's Hospital.

Mrs. Klein will receive a silver pin Sunday in recognition of having given more than 2500 hours to the hospital.

She is the only member of the American Legion Auxiliary in Franklin County to receive this honor and has more hours to her credit than all but one Ohio member.

Charles Klein who, until his retirement from the railroad in 1958 had only one day a year to devote to this service, has already logged 626 hours.

When Mrs. Klein first started at the hospital, many of the patients were older men, veterans of World War I, but now the group is younger and includes many who fought in Korea.

However, the work remains the same. Starting with a class at 8:30 a.m. the volunteers work with four groups of 40 or 50 ex-service men through the day.

"When I was a little younger, I even played soft ball with them," she laughed, "but keeping bowling scores and playing pinochle is more my speed now."

And the day always winds up with a dance in which the Kleins are anything but wall flowers.

"She dances with the patients and I watch out for employes and other volunteer workers who need a partner," Cline explained.

He is a member of the "Swing Club," one of the groups that is part of the United Voluntary Service who play golf with the veterans. This past week Klein edged a win over a man half his age, with a 49 on the nine-hole course.

Klein is no slouch in any field of athletics, once being a member of the famed Panhandle Team, the group headed by the six Nestler brothers which traveled the country playing football, and bowling and playing baseball on the side.

Asked what position he played, he said "everything, but quarterback."

The traveling team only had 13 members, he explained, and no one was allowed to get hurt. It was this rugged group, playing without headgear or shoulder pads that was never defeated in Columbus.

Mrs. Klein, like other auxiliary members frequently bakes cakes and cookies to give the men, and Mr. Klein is known as an "easy mark" for cigarettes.

Provided with cigarettes to give as prizes to winners of the pinoche tournaments, he buys a carton or two on his own to give to the losers.

One Thursday each month a party is held for birthday celebrants of the past 30 days.

Then a whole district of auxiliary members, crisp in their blue and yellow uniforms, arrive, armed with home-made cakes, cookies, candy and ice cream.

"This is where part of our Poppy money goes," Mrs. Klein explained.

Both had nothing but praise for the recreational facilities with which they work.

Like all boys of any age, Mr. Klein was especially fascinated by the five miles of electric trains, on a three deck level which help them while away many tedious hours for the men.

Mr. and Mrs. Klein feel they have found a wonderful solution for use of a retired couple's spare time.

Enthusiastically, they urge anyone who possibly can, to attend the annual open house Sunday, May 5.

Police List High Accident Areas

Increased traffic law enforcement has been called for in two districts on the West Side by the Columbus Police Department.

Special attention was called for in district 20 to the high accident rate location of W. Mound-st between Harmon and Hawks. Police officers were cautioned to watch for left-of-center driving violations and for drivers changing lanes without a signal. The hours between 7 and 10 a.m. were listed for special attention.

High accident location in district 21 was cited by city police on W. Broad-st, from Cypress to Central-av. Special attention in this area was called for between 4 and 9 p.m. Officers were alerted to enforcement of speed laws and failure by motorists to yield when making a left turn.

No fatal traffic accidents have been reported in Columbus for the first 15 days of April, however 23 pedestrians were involved in accidents, 17 under the age of 10.

Welfare Board Supervisor Quits

Cuts in the budget were blamed for the resignation of Milton Kanzaki, 692 Wedgewood-dr, from the staff of the Franklin County Child Welfare Board after nearly three years of service. He served as a caseworker supervisor for the organization.

In a letter of resignation, Kanzaki said he could not compromise any longer with what he considered "sound concepts of services to children and families."

CWB Executive Secretary Charles Caton said he hoped this was not the beginning of the loss of other key members of his staff.

Books Key To Summer Fun

Summer sports books are on hand at the Hilltop Library, librarian Mary E. Keyes, said.

For the golfer, there are such newly-published books as "Golf Lessons from the Pros" by the editors of Sports Illustrated Magazine, Ben Hogan's "Five Lessons: the Modern Fundamentals of Golf," Cary Middlecoff's "Master's Guide to Golf," Dai Rees' "The Key to Golf," and "Sam Snead on Golf."

Baseball fans will be interested in seeing "Baseball Play and Strategy," "Sisler on Baseball" and "Winning Baseball."

"How-to" books on swimming, diving, skin diving, water skiing, archery, tennis, riding and jumping, and camping are also on the shelves.

Sailing enthusiasts will find books to their liking, with the following suggested: "Sailing Techniques," "Sailing Illustrated," "First Sail for Skipper," "Invitation to Sailing" and "Alone at Sea."

Fishermen will soon take to the lakes and streams and may be aided by such books as "Here's How in Fishing," "Fresh Water Fishing Complete," "Sports Illustrated Book of Wet-Fly Fishing" and "Practical Fresh Water Fishing."

Camp Fire Girls

Eleven Camp Fire girls were among those honored at West High School this week by induction into the National Honor Society. Members of the YA Ka O Wa group who were inducted are Diana Ferguson, Shirley Forgrave, Lynn Fullerton, Martha Houk, Nancy Kearn, Kay Minniear, and Betsy Prout. Guardian of this group is Mrs. Lucille Minniear.

Ku Ke Ta girls inducted were Patti Bradshaw, Cheryl Dorsch, Ann Lehman, and Sue Rosenberger. Mrs. Sybil Beranek is Hu Ke Ta guardian. Congratulations to all the girls on receiving this high honor.

On Apr. 9 the Daisy Bluebirds took a tour of the Lazarus department store. The girls were taken behind the scenes to see the various phases of store operation. Members of this group are Susan Fairless, Debbie Killian, Karen Frasher, Jeannie Brinkley, Ada Scalf, Debbie Stephan, Judy Miller, Susan Stumpp, Lee Ann Thompson, Debbie Deason, Mary Beth Vandermaler and Vivke Arrington.

Mrs. Lois Killian, Mrs. Margaret Miller, and Mrs. Mary Stumpp, guardians, accompanied the girls.

The following members of the Ki Da Ki Wa Camp Fire group were graduated from the Lazarus self-improvement course on Apr. 20: Penny Foote, Elizabeth Kingsworthy, Michelle Hobbs, Cathy Foster, Carol Krueger, Jackie Wisecup, Janet Clay, and Chris Horne. Guardians of this group are Mrs. Jack Hobbs and Mrs. John Clay.

Exhibits from all levels of Camp Fire were displayed recently at Highland Avenue School. Members of the Wan Ka Shus Snah group, under the guardianship of Mrs. Mildred Cummings and Mrs. Irene Johnson, set up the displays and served as hostesses to the teachers who were invited to view the exhibits.

Wan Ka Shus Snah members are Marsha Bryant, Rosalind Cummings, Navita Cummings, Karen Ginn, Belinda Greenshaw, Linda Johnson, Linda Hope, Dorothy Lyles, Michelle Mays, Tanya Potts, Kathy Starks, and Kathy Peterson. This group also held a special council fire to celebrate Camp Fire birthday month.

The annual Easter Monday skating party was held at the Norwich Skating Rink in Hilliard. Each girl who attended made an Easter bonnet and prizes were awarded. In the Bluebird division, Shane Simpson and Valerie Kent won prizes for the prettiest hat, Diane Snyder and Rosemary Stillwagon, most original, and Becky Waltz and Meredith MacDogall, the funniest.

Camp Fire girls who won were Janis Curtis and Becky Wilson, prettiest, Beck Hewson, and Barbara Scribner, most original, and Cynthia Smith and Carol Voelker, funniest.

Zone Change Cases Heard

Columbus City Planning Commission agenda for Wednesday included the following petitions for change of zoning classification:

A change from single family to two-family residential on both sides of Sylvan-av from Joan-rd to Valleyview-dr. Plans include construction of twin-single units on lots at the southeast and southwest corners of Sylvan-av and Valleyview-dr.

A change from suburban residential to apartment residential for two lots on the north side of Alberta-st, 450 feet west of Wilson-rd.

The commission also considered acceptance of the final plat of Holly Hill subdivision No. 7.

Hear Zoning Bids; Paving Is Authorized

Columbus City Council granted a petition to change one zoning classification and tabled a second request during Monday evening public hearings.

Granted was a petition to change from a residential designation to off-street parking lot No. 55 of the Theodore E. Knauss Amended Subdivision. The lot extends from the northwest corner of Hayden-av to the first alley north of W. Broad-st.

Tabled was a request to rezone a 1.5-acre tract on the east side of Sylvan-av, just north of the first alley north of W. Broad-st, from a commercial to an apartment residential designation.

In another action, council passed a resolution declaring the necessity of paving Claredon-av from Mound-st to the alley south of Mound-st.

Morrison Cast In Otterbein's May Day Play

Tom Morrison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur H. Morrison, 684 South Roys-av, has been selected as a member of the May Day play cast at Otterbein College, Westerville.

A senior at Otterbein, Tom is active in A Capella Choir, Brass choir, band, YMCA, band, and the college debate team.

He was recently awarded a Ben Snow Scholarship, a part of the Root-Tilden program at the New York University School of Law. He is a member of Kings Fraternity.

The play will be given Thursday through Saturday, May 9-10-11. Tickets will go on sale at the Cowan Hall Box-Office, April 29. "Man and Superman," will be this year's play.

WestSideCouncil Sends Note Of Thanks To City

The West Side Neighborhood Council handed a compliment to City Hall recently.

A letter signed by Mrs. Bonnie Durbin of the council's health committee and sent to Service Director Ernest Stork read: "... (we) wish to commend you and your department for the manner in which the recent possible flood and water situation was handled.

"The Dry Run levee and flood gates at McKinley-av continue to be of utmost importance to the people of the near West Side. The anxiety of the property owners about the reoccurence of the 1959 flood situation continues to be detrimental to the improvement of property in the near West Side."

The letter concluded with a request that the neighborhood council be informed of further flood prevention efforts.

Know Your Postman . . .

Bill Richards

The last 13 years for Bill Richards have been spent in the service of the Post Office Department. He has two and one-half years credit on the Hilltop route bounded by Eldon, Broad, Wheatland and the railroad.

Now living at 3588 Briggsrd with his wife and two sons, Richards is a member of the Hallridge Club and Branch 78 of the National Association of Letter Carriers. He attends St. Mary Magdalene Church.

Richards is a sports enthusiast, as his hobbies of golf, bowling, hunting and fishing testify.

Not Surprised By Air National Guard Letter

Young Robert Rector, 861 S. Burgess-av, wasn't too surprised when he received a letter from the Air National Guard urging him to fulfill his military obligation as soon as possible.

The letter from the office of the deputy commander of the 121st Tactical Fighter Wing, Ohio Air National Guard, pointed out many advantages of enlisting now and urged the young man's father to encourage this plan. The letter was delivered to Robert last Saturday.

Robert wasn't surprised — not because he had requested more information, but because he couldn't read it. He is the seven-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Rector and so far hasn't shown too much interest in a career in the armed forces.

In Training

William J. Thompson, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William V. Thompson of 819 Brixham-rd, graduated Mar. 29 from basic recruit training at the Naval Training Base, San Diego, Calif.

The nine-week training course consisted of physical fitness drills, military drills, seamanship, basic military law, customs and etiquette of the naval service, swimming and survival and first aid.

Safety Is Object Of Bike Program

Westway Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 3441 will conduct a bicycle safety program on Saturday, Apr. 27, at the Hilltonia Junior High School.

The program, nicknamed "Lite A Bike", will begin at 9 a.m. and will involve bike safety inspection and safety instructions conducted by the Columbus Police Dept.

The oject of "Lite A Bike" is to decrease the hazards involved with bicycles. Each bike will be decked with reflector tape for safer cycling after dark.

Program Chairman George Bradley, committee members Roland Wolford and Larry Cash, and Auxiliary Chairman Ann Meehan remind the 6-16 group that safety is first.

Set Festival Date

The second annual Hilltop YMCA Strawberry Festival has been set for June 5, from 5:30 to 9:30 p.m. Dr. James Hardie, general chairman, announced that tickets, which will again sell for 50 cents, will be on sale after May 1 from all club members. The tickets entitles the holder to one serving of strawberries, ice cream and cake, plus coffee or milk.

Levee Plans Are Nearing Completion

An early May date has been set for submission of plans for protection from Dry Run and extension of the Dublin-rd levee along the Scioto River, Columbus Service Director Ernest H. Stork said.

Burgess and Niple, consulting engineers, will complete the plans by May 10.

Plans call for the Dry Run levee to be raised four feet. Its top elevation will correspond to the grade of the Pennsylvania Railroad embankment at a point where Dry Run levee joins the railroad southwest of McKinley and Grandview-ave.

Work proposed calls for a flood gate at the intersection of McKinley-av and the north leg of the Dry Run levee. The roadway is about four feet lower than the top of the levee at this point. The gate will close the gap in the levee at times of high water.

ALL HAIL THE COMING OF SPRING!

THOSE AREN'T DANDELIONS you see in the lawn of this home on Postle-blvd, Rome Heights — they're hailstones. They pelleted houses, cars and people shortly after noon last Wednesday as Ol' Man Winter tried to prove he isn't dead yet. In the closeup, Mrs. W. H. Groom, 2966 W. Mound-st, shows one of the stones of near golf ball proportions.

Seventh Birthday To Be Observed By Kiwanis Club

West Side Kiwanis Club will mark its seventh anniversary at a dinner party Saturday, May 4, at Yarnell's Party House, Westerville.

Games and dancing will follow a 7:30 p.m. banquet.

Theatre Group Plans Meeting

Anyone interested in dramatics or who thinks they may be is invited to the Gladden Little Theatre meeting this evening (Wednesday, Apr. 24) at 7:30 p.m.

Plans will be made for presenting a play early this fall. Chuck Lewis will direct. Questions will be answered by Barbara Smoot, CA. 1-7801, of the Gladden Community House, 183 Hawkes.

Stage Dance Concert Apr. 28

Stella Beclar Dance Concert will be staged Sunday, Apr. 28, 8:15 p.m. at Central High School.

Admission is by invitation, which may be secured from any member of the dance group or by calling the studio, CA. 4-0822.

Seventy-five girls will participate. Guest singers will be the Columbus Chorale, under the direction of Jack Woodruff. Accompanists for the concert will be Elda Volpe Hall and Mildred Myers Gruesen.

Dem Hopefuls To Meet Here

A meeting for Democratic candidates in the May 7 primary has been set for Thursday, Apr. 25, at 8 p.m. in the Wesgate Park closed shelterhouse, according to John S. Bowers, chairman of the Franklin County Democrats for Precinct Organization.

HONORED BY Y'S MEN

THE HILLTOP Y's Men's Club named John Prout its "Boy-of-the-Month" for April. Harry Miller, chairman of the Boys Work Committee, presented a framed certificate to the recipient. John is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard A. Prout, 79 S. Sylvan-av, and belongs to the Westmoor Jr. Hi-Y Club. Nominees for the award are based on recommendations from school principals, ministers, and members of the Hilltop "Y" staff. The names of all boys selected for this honor appear on a special board on display in the Youth Center at the Hilltop YMCA. The activity is one of the regular programs of the Y's Men's Club in its service to the "Y."

Couple—

600 people — space reserved only for crippled children and their families. Awaiting the parade, the children watched some of Jack's magic and stuffed themselves on doughnuts, cake and milk. The parade was halted several times just to autograph the children's books.

In a brief note to the Hilltop Record the Thomases said one of their latest projects was sending five 300-pound bundles of good clothing to flood victims in Virginia and Kentucky. Stella, who lived in Kentucky as a child, recalls the cold and poverty that can exist there.

"This goes on nearly 18 hours each day, seven days a week," Jack wrote, adding, "There's not even the price of a postage stamp in it for us, but it helps people in need and that makes us happy too. I don't buy Stella anything for Christmas and she doesn't get me anything; and by a little saving each month we manage to do this."

And, already the Thomases are planning an even bigger "wing-ding" for the crippled children next year.

On the whole the spiritual life is not made up of thrills but of quiet faithfulness whatever the outward circumstances. — Frederick J. Tritton ties therapy program.

Under the present plan, instruction is provided in all required subjects in grades one through 12.

Discussing the solution to daily classroom problems at Glenwood, Principal James Boster said earnestly, "We are school teachers — not therapists or psychiatrists, and we approach each problem like teachers.

"Compromises are made, of course, but classrooms are as normal as we can make them. There are 10-minute breaks during the day, and quiet rooms where children can rest when they feel upset.

"The program is flexible — for instance, physical education classes are an informal play period, with teachers joining the children, rather than merely supervising them.

"After all, when these youngsters are well enough to fit themselves into more formal, group programs, they won't need this school.

"One of the boys will receive his high school diploma in June," Boster remarked with pride, "and three more will receive junior high diplomas."

Learning by trial and error, and guided by compassionate understanding, the school staff has "played it by ear" this year.

Next year will be easier. For one thing, a new school building on the grounds will be ready for occupancy, especially designed to fit the students' needs.

And there will be this year's experience to benefit by.

Evening classes are also offered for interested adult patients, and credits are given for completed courses.

Burglars Crack Restaurant Safe

Burglars apparantly hacked a hole in the roof of George's Coney Island, 3479 W. Broad-st, early Monday and escaped with the cash contents of a safe, according to a police report.

Owner George Petrotoulos told police the burglars got an undetermined amount of money and a .38 caliber revolver from his safe after opening it with a pry bar and a hammer and chisel.

A second, similar robbery was reported at 1239 Cleveland-av, where thieves also gained entrance through a hole in the roof and opened a safe early Monday.

Receives Award For Writing

Winners of Miami University's annual Greer-Hepburn, Montaine and Bookwalter Awards for excellence in writing have been announced by the Department of English.

A top prize of $75 was awarded to Michael Kagay, Columbus senior, for his essay on Soviet Students, 1962. Kagay is a son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Ralph Kagay, 65 N. Roys-av. He has achieved senior standing in his third year.

Dr. Walter Havighurst, chairman of judging, said the 1963 awards have been made collectively, without traditional assignment of specific awards to individual winners or class representatives.

Linda, who will receive a B.S. degree in education at Ohio State University this summer, will teach in Columbus next fall. Leslie, Jr., will be graduated from Franklin Heights High School this spring and enter OSU in September.

Virginia is a sixth-grader at North Franklin School, and Mac will begin his first year of education next fall.

The transfer of Swinford, according to J. C. Penney officials, is in accordance with the company's policy of moving up successful men within their ranks. The Monroeville store's operation is considerably larger than that of Great Western, it was reported.

Though he assumes managership of the Monroeville store next Wednesday, the family does not plan to move there for several weeks.

Succeeding Swinford at Great Western will be C. P. Berns, who comes to Columbus from Levittown, Pa., where he also managed a J. C. Penney store.

Psalm." Numerous of our friends have received much strength and encouragement from the words of this wonderful book.

Now comes another fine message from Charles Allen entitled, "The Lord's Prayer." "Praying is not saying words. Words merely form the frame on which the temple of thought is built. The power of the Lord's Prayer is not in the words but rather in the pattern of thinking in which our minds are formed," says Dr. Allen.

We are indebted to Mildred Smith of Christian Book Store for a preview of this fine new message.

PLAYS ROLE

REV. FRED KLOPFER, 1023 Hodges-dr, is cast in the role of Vasek in Smetana's opera "Bartered Bride," to be presented at Capital University May 17 and 18. Klopfer is a 1949 graduate of Capital and in 1953 was graduated from the Evangelical Lutheran Theological Seminary. The musical production is sponsored by Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia and Phi Beta honorary fraternities.

lage area.

"This could be a big help in a local emergency," he said.

Sheriff Stacey Hall has acknowledged in the past that more protection is needed in the Lincoln Village-New Rome area, possibly a cruiser with two men patrolling the area around the clock.

The petition to commissioners stated the signers would work with the commissioners, sheriff's office, Ohio State Sheriff's Association and the state legislature, "or any other organization to promote the appropriation of more money to provide an expansion of law enforcement services to Lincoln Village and other urban areas of Franklin County, which are not part of a municipal organization.

The petition was signed by Bookman; Mrs. James C. Hennemus, president, Collc to College CCL; Mrs. Ruth G. Bell, president, Pioneer CCL; Mrs. Fred Brumfield, president, Prairie-Lincoln PTA; Charles Dygert, president, Prairie-Lincoln Jaycees.

Mrs. Agnes Tweed, president, Heritage Garden Club; Mrs. James Drennen, president, Lincoln Village Women's Club; Mrs. J. J. Lane, president, Prairie Players, Inc.; Mrs George M. B. Gelles, president, Tumbleweed CCL; and Mrs. Robert Fox, president, Lincoln Village Beautifiers.

TO MAKE ADDITION

Lawrence M. Kelly, 332 Pavey-st, has been issued a building permit to construct an addition to a frame home at the same address. The addition is valued at $1,200.

SUSPEND PERMIT

The Ohio Department of Liquor Control has suspended a D-5 permit for Broadway Grill, 3770 W. Broad-st, from Apr. 23, to May 28. Suspension was for Sunday sale of intoxicating liquor in and upon the permit premises on Aug. 12, 1962.

ART SHOW, CONCERT SET AT F-H

PARTICIPANTS IN the Franklin Heights High School Art Show and Band Concert, which will be put on Friday, Apr. 26, starting at 7:30 p.m., are, Renne Montoney, artist; Beverly Bolin, saxophone player, and Lynne Bradford, French horn player. There will be no admission charge for the evening and the show will be staged in the F-H auditorium.

F-H Girls' Ensemble Slated In Concert At Art Gallery

Franklin Heights' Girls Ensemble will present three works for women's voices in concert at the Columbus Gallery of Fine Arts on Sunday, Apr. 28, at 3 p.m.

The Ensemble will be assisted in Pergolesi's Stabat Mater by a string quintet, and Columbus Symphony harpist, Mrs. Jean Harriman, will accompany the group in a contemporary setting of a text from the Song of Solomon entitled "I Sought Him" by Herman Berlinski.

In the final work, "Seven Choruses from the Medea of Euripides" by Virgil Thomson, the ensemble will be joined by the girls of the high school senior choir for the concert finale.

Admission is $1 and tickets may be obtained from ensemble members by calling the high school, BR. 6-2639, or at the door.

Drowning Sorrow In New Fashion, Tried By Trio

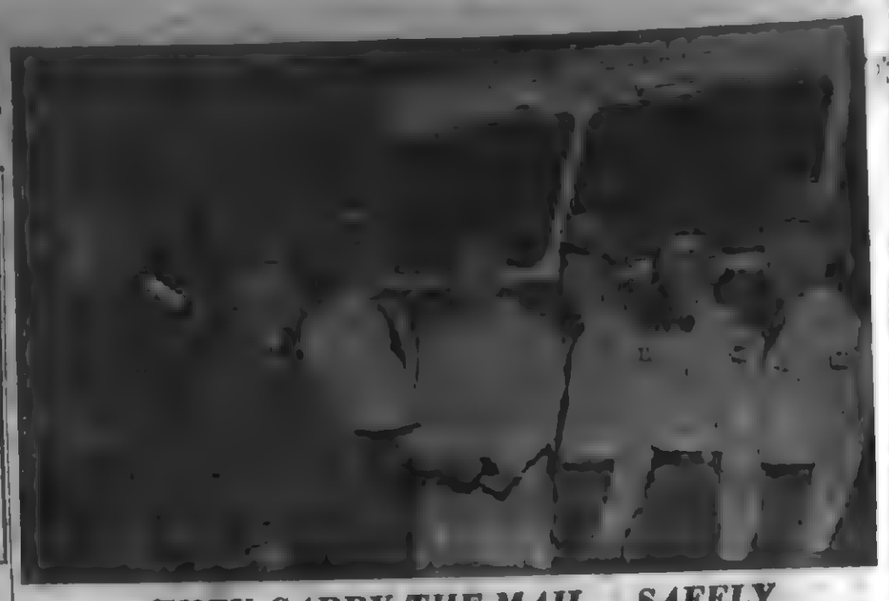
A Louisville, Ky., man, apparently seeking a new way to rid himself of payments on his car, decided, with two Columbus friends, to get rid of the automobile last week.

The three were arrested on trespassing charges by Sheriff's Sgt. Clyde Mann and released on $50 bond each, after their fiasco.

It seems they tried to ditch the car — in the Franklin Quarry pond. Mann caught them leaving the scene.

The trio includes: Harry G. Clarke, 43, owner of the car; Palmer Compton, 47, 769 Marine-dr. and John Ratliff, 24, of 39 Volney-av, Clarke's son-in-law.

Skin divers later located the car, which was dumped because "it was a lemon" and Clarke didn't want to make any more payments on it.



Prairie Players To Meet Sunday

The next regular monthly meeting of the Prairie Players will be held Sunday, Apr. 28, at 8 p.m. in El Rancho Gun Club on W. Broad st, according to the club president, Mrs. J. J. Lane.

Highlight of the evening will be an excerpt from the next production, "My Three Angels", to be presented May 17 and 18.

Memberships for this year are still available.

Membership chairman is Mrs. Tom M. Haydock at 875-3214.

THEY CARRY THE MAIL...SAFELY

BUILDING PERMIT

Fred Fenneken, 1862 Eastfield-dr North, has been issued a construction permit to build a two-car, concrete block garage at the same address. Construction is valued at $1200. Contractor is P. J. Builders.

Triplets Born To West Side Couple

Triplet sons, born to Mr. and Mrs. William Dale Winders, Jr., 1405 W. Broad-st, were reported "doing fine" by Mt. Carmel Hospital officials.

The first boy weighed in at four pounds, three ounces at 3:12 p.m. Thursday. He was followed by a younger brother at 3:13 p.m. who weighed four pounds, six ounces and the third brother arrived at 3:14 p.m. and weighed four pounds, 10 ounces.

The boys join an older sister, two-year-old Merrie Dale, in the Winders' household.

Charge Man With Shooting At Car

Columbus Police have filed charges of malicious destruction of property against Joseph Hector, 48, 239 S. Hague-av, in connection with a shotgun blast fired at a passing car early Saturday.

Hector had been held by police for investigation of shooting with intent to kill after the gun blast hit the left wheel of an auto driven by David Bowen, 395 S. Powell-av, as he drove in the 200 block of S. Hague-av.

Local Woman Escapes Attack

A 27-year-old Richardson-av woman reported to police that she had been grabbed from behind by an unidentified man Monday night and struck on the head with an object as she was walking near her home.

She told police she was then dragged into an alley and thrown to the ground by her attacker. She said at this point the man apparently became frightened and ran away.

A similar happening occurred the same night to a woman on W. Second-av, according to investigating police.

Your Youth

By Hilltop YMCA Staff

The seventh annual Tall Tale contest was held Tuesday, Apr. 9. The contest proved not only an exciting event for the boys, but provided entertainment for the parents and friends who attended the contest.

All schools who have Gra-Y Clubs were represented. North Franklin, the school sponsoring the winner, received a traveling trophy to be shown in their school until next year. The winner of the contest was Jeff Rennie of North Franklin. Jeff's story was about "Stretch, the Basketball Player" who was only 3' 8" but could he stretch! Second place was taken by Bruce Kennedy of Prairie Lincoln; third place was won by Gary Williams of John Burroughs.

The winners received prizes, all other finalists received a YMCA T-shirt.

The third annual Talent Show will be held May 14 at 7 p.m. at the Hilltop YMCA. All boys in the Gra-Y Clubs are urged to enter. The finalists will participate in the Talent Show at the "Y." Any boy or group of boys may enter. Singing, dancing, playing musical instruments, and impersonations are among the favorite acts you will see.

As a result of the mint sale, John Burroughs has taken over first place in the "Club-of-the-Year" award. John Burroughs has 742 points, North Franklin is second with 722 points, Eakin Road is third with 719 points, Westgate is fourth with 713 points, tied for fifth are West Mound and Valleyview with 708 points.

As you can see, the "Club-of-the-Year" race is close among the top six clubs. The final tabulation will bring joy to one club and despair to the others, but all the clubs work hard for this award which is the top award of the year.

John Burroughs was the "Club-of-the-Month" for March. Gary Wiseman, president of the club, accepted the "Flag-of-the-Month" award that will be displayed in the school until the next Gra-Y Council meeting.

The Gra-Y Clubs are in the process of selling Jet Badges. The badges are 50 cents each and are good for any child up to the senior year of high school. Any child wearing this badge, and accompanied by an adult, can see over 50 Jet baseball games this year. That is only a penny a game. So, when a Gra-Y member comes to your door selling Jet badges, buy one for all the children in your family.

The 1963 annual Columbus Hi-Y City Day, which is sponsored by the Columbus Senior Hi-Y Clubs in cooperation with the Columbus City government officials, was held on Apr. 3. The boys representing the West Sr. Hi-Y Clubs were Ron Sloter, Tim Weisert, Robert Lynch, Rick Finke, Joe Eichenberger, Ray Click, Richard Bashor and Bill Johannes.

These boys assumed the responsibility of their counterpart for the day. The following is a list of the boys' responsibilities: Ron Sloter, Planning Commission director; Tim Weisert, director of Urban Renewal; Robert Lynch, councilman; Rick Finke, office manager, Sanitation Division; Joe Eichenberger, Civil Defense executive administrator; Ray Click, director, Employees Health Clinic; Richard Bashor, registrar, Vital Statistics; Bill Johannes, Municipal Court judge. Bill Johannes, president of the West Sr. Hi-Y Club, wrote a bill for the consideration of City Council for City Hi-Y Day.

Each of these boys served in their counterpart's capacity for the entire day. Their counterpart explained their duties and function and what they were responsible for as far as city government was concerned. At the noon luncheon, five youth city officials gave reports on what their responsibilities of the day concerned. These five represented the total responsibilities of some 125 boys and girls and their duties. The representatives from West High School, as well as the other youth involved in the total program of City Day, learned much about the City of Columbus and its city government setup.

BOWLING CENTER UNDER CONSTRUCTION AT GROVE CITY

A NEW 24-LANE bowling center, Stardust Lanes, has been announced for the Grove City area. It is being built at the intersection of Stringtown and Hoover-rds just inside the city limits, a seven-minute drive from W. Broad-st on the South Freeway. The artist's drawing depicts the finished building scheduled for opening Aug. 1. John Morgan and Jerry Winkel, who are also co-owners of Fiesta Lanes, Holiday Lanes and Wink-O-Lanes, said the new facility will house a cocktail lounge, snack bar, six-table billiard room, baby sitting rooms and conference rooms for league meetings. A 200-car parking lot will surround the new center. The 2460 square-foot center will be equipped with the latest available bowling conveniences. League and bowling arrangements can be obtained by calling Manager Earl Purcell, HU. 8-3004.

Women Assist In Annual Cancer Drive

The following local women will be assisting Mrs. E. C. Sheets, Jr., Township chairman, as captains in the annual cancer drive to be held on Sat., Apr. 27. Mrs. Charles W. Burks, Mrs. Alex Martin, Mrs. Eugene Kaderly, Mrs. Arvin Murray, Mrs. Raymond Pope, Mrs. Charles Warren, Mrs. Francis Eugene Smith, Mrs. W. Prather, Mrs. Herbert Steele, Mrs. Peter Traber, Mrs. Curtis Westerman, Mrs. Howard Breckenridge, Mrs. Allen Hunt and Mrs. Philip Reger.

There will be several area captains with Mrs. Sheets on the WLW-C Jack Denton Show, 9 a.m. Friday, Apr. 26, as special guests to initiate the opening of the drive.

The results of last year's efforts for this area merited highest rating for collections in seventeen townships, and it is the hope of these volunteer workers to exceed last year's goal. The cooperation of the members of the community will be appreciated.

Among the contestants participating in the auditions for the Ted Mack's Original Amateur Show will be Jeffrey and Eddie Sheets, 168 Rome-Hilliard-rd, who had their tryout on Monday at 6:30 p.m. at WBNS-TV Studio.

A double-header baseball game was held at Pleasant View High School on Saturday with Washington C. H. squads. PV's Varsity won with a score of 6-1, and the reserve team also won with a score of 3-0. Activities were concluded with a "Bermuda Dance" for the students — all wore bermuda shorts.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Quinn, 5267 Fisher-rd, entertained Mrs. Quinn's mother, Mrs. H. E. Baughman, and aunt, Mrs. Richard Kuschke, and Mrs. Bernice Rice and friend Miss Fanny Fassig, with an Easter dinner party at the Scioto Country Club.

Twig 26 of Children's Hospital, scheduled their annual tea for Wednesday, May 1, at the Scioto Country Club. Hostesses will be Mrs. E. B. Quinn, Mrs. Paul Van Swearingen and Mrs. Ellsworth McDowell.

Thrift shop for this group was held on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday of this week. Thrift shop chairman is Mrs. J. Philip Gibbs.

Mrs. Fredrick D. Kunz, president of the Prairie Gardeners and superintendent, Floriculture and Garden Clubs, Franklin County Fair, had a special meeting in her home to work out plans for the annual flower show schedule for the 1963 fair.

Those attending were Paul Bausch, Prairie Gardener; Mrs. Eugene Jewell, Lincoln Village Beautifier who will serve as publicity chairman for the Fair Flower Show this year; Mrs. James W. Whalen, publicity, OAGC Region 9 and past publicity chairman for the Fair Flower Show; Mrs. Silas Adams, Prairie Gardeners past president; Mrs. Marvin Shover, president, Darby Valley Garden Club, and Miss Marjorie Emmelhainz.

Another meeting of this group was held at Mrs. Kunz's home on Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Burks and daughters, Gwenda, 80 Buena Vista-av, went on a nature hike at Big Darby Metropolitan Park on Sunday and observed a pair of Eastern Towhees and Tufted Titmice.

One hundred and forty attended the annual Mother-Daughter Banquet for the ladies of the Columbia Heights Methodist Church, which was held in the new Glenwood Methodist Church on Thursday, Apr. 18. Co-chairmen were Mrs. Charles W. Burks and Mrs. Frederick Davis. Also serving were Mrs. P. O. Bailey, Mrs. Robert Trowbridge and Mrs. Charles Warren. Hostess of ceremonies was Mrs. James E. Farrell.

Mrs. Joseph Wharton extended the welcome and her daughter, Diana Jo Wharton gave the response, with Mrs. Daniel Hock giving the Invocation.

Program was a pantomime comedy entitled "Out of the Mouths of Babes," with Mrs. Thomas Cunningham, Mrs. John Faut, Mrs. Mack Parkhill, Mrs. Edward White, Mrs. Ernest Akiyoshi, Mrs. Bishop Hamilton and Mrs. Robert Donahue.

Recognition gifts were presented to the eldest mother, Mrs. Rosalie Mays, mother of Mrs. Grant Rice, youngest mother, Mrs. Marlene Yeager, and mother with most daughters present, Mrs. Edward White.

Plans are being made for the annual Vacation Bible School to be held at the Columbia Heights Methodist Church June 10 through 21. Volenteers are needed, and those interested in participating should contact either Mrs. Myron Gifford, TR. 8-4076, or Mrs. Harry Householder, TR. 8-5463.

The members of the senior high school Sunday School Class of the Columbia Heights Methodist Church will have their breakfast at Big Darby Metropolitan Park, Sunday, Apr. 28, at 7 a.m., to be followed by worship service. Class teachers is Mr. John Holloway. This will be followed by a nature hike and bird walk.

The Executive Board of the WSCS of the Columbia Heights Methodist Church will meet at the church on Monday, Apr. 29, at 8 p.m.

The members of the Sarah Circle of the WSCS of the Columbia Heights Methodist Church will serve the coffee hour at the church on Sunday, Apr. 28. Circle chairman is Mrs. E. C. Sheets, Jr.

Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Repp, 72 Pasadena-av, were Mr. and Mrs. Roy Tjepkema of Whitehall. Mr. and Mrs. Repp are building a new home at 292 Pasadena-av.

Mr. George Terry, 284 Pasadena-av, returned to his home on Thursday after having been a patient at Mt. Carmel Hospital.

The annual luncheon for all the Guilds of the Riverside Methodist Hospital has been scheduled for Monday, Apr. 29, and will be held at the Fort Hayes Hotel.

The monthly noon luncheon meeting of the American Indian Committee of the Franklinton Chapter, DAR, will be held at the home of Mrs. Lewis W. Cellio, 2410 Onandago-dr, on Wednesday, May 1. Assisting hostesses will be Mrs. John A. Dawson, Mrs. Winthrop B. Wilcox and Miss Hazel Ross. Group Chairman is Mrs. W. W. Bennett.

Mrs. D. J. Woehrle, 49 Buena Vista-av, was a dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Woehrle and sons of Westerville on Easter Sunday.

Mrs. Alice Smith, 118 Pasadena-av, attended a luncheon given in honor of the District Past Matrons, OES, which was held in the Masonic Hall at South Charleston on Saturday for District 18.

This past Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bricker were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bidwell.

Mrs. D. J. Woehrle, 49 Buena Vista-av, accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Edward Noble of Grove City to the Friday evening dinner meeting of the Watch Washington Club in the ballroom of the Seneca Hotel. Honored guest and speaker was Dr. Revilo Oliver, professor of classics of the University of Illinois. His topic was "How Communists Work in Our Government." Members took their husbands to this meeting.

Horticultural hint by Mrs. Henry Warner, horticulture chairman, Prairie Gardeners: Feeding any early-started plants with liquid fertilizer a few days before transferring from pots or flats will prove beneficial.

The members of Girl Scout Troop 423 are sponsoring a dance to be held at the Prairie-Lincoln School on Saturday, Apr. 27, from 7 to 11 p.m., outdoors, weather permitting. Tickets will be 40 cents stag, 75 cents drag. Proceeds to be used for a week of camping at Black Water Falls State Park, W. Va. Troop leader is Mrs. William C. Hamilton.

Keep Utilities Private

Current discussions between the City of Columbus and Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Company appear to be pointing in one definite direction—something better for Columbus power consumers.

The offer made by Harry M. Miller, C and SOE president, to make a $3.5-million rate slash possible over a three-year period in exchange for a study as to the desirability of the city's expanding its own power operation sounds like one under which Columbus [illegible] not lose. This is particularly true if there are no strings attached in advance of the survey.

This presentation sounds especially good since it appears to be an admission that the C and SOE can afford to make such a rate slash. By the same token, it appears they are so certain of their case that facts will be produced to point up the inadequacies of further municipal ownership.

That portion of the proposal pertaining to the swap of the C and SOE-owned Columbus Transit Company for the municipal light plant doesn't appear to have too much good flavor at this point.

We have long been advocates of having utilities operated by business firms rather than political institutions. We will continue to argue that this is the best for our community. Therefore, if the city administration is determined to hold on to an electric plant, it might be well that they expand no further than their present limits. But, by all means, stay out of an additional public utility field, the transit company!

We will join all of Columbus in welcoming a reduction in our electric rates and we sincerely believe much can be brought out in favor of private rather than public operation of our utilities.

Laws Safeguard Well-Being

Governor James A. Rhodes has proclaimed May 1 as "Law Day U.S.A.," and the week of Apr. 28 to May 4 as "Law In Your Life Week" in Ohio.

Basic objectives of the national observance of Law Day are:

To foster a deeper respect for law by teaching how laws serve and protect citizens.

To encourage responsible citizenship by demonstrating that individual rights and freedoms involve individual [illegible].

To emphasize the basic values of the role of law in the United States as contrasted with the rule of force under communism.

Law In Your Life Week, a special observance for Ohio, is sponsored by the Ohio State Bar Association in cooperation with more than 100 local bar associations throughout the state.

These bar associations are to be commended for the extra effort they will put forth to better acquaint all citizens with the rights afforded them by law and their obligation to protect these rights.

He Remembers Buster Roos

A couple of weeks ago it was our pleasure to see Ralph Edwards, the TV star, who was in town for the opening kickoff of the Cancer Crusade in Ohio.

Edwards is wrapped up in his volunteer work for the American Cancer Society. He takes it seriously. He is not a figurehead. He's a working charman, and he seems to know whereof he speaks.

Ralph Edwards

"I'd like to tell you how I got into the cancer fight," Ralph told us. "For me the reason was a voice on a radio tape, a child's voice: 'And then I'd like a pony and a bike . . . and a balloon . . .' It was the faltering voice of a little boy who would soon die, the voice of Buster Roos, an eight-year-old cancer victim who, for a very brief moment, had some of his dreams come true on my radio program 'Truth or Consequences.'

"That was 16 years ago and the beginning of my interest in cancer. Last year when the American Cancer Society asked if I would be National Crusade chairman, I felt the time had come to step into this one big volunteer job," Edwards went on.

"My private memorial to Buster Roos is, very simply, a world free of cancer for the boys and girls of tomorrow," Ralph says.

"I have been fortunate in meeting many, many fine scientists who are conducting cancer research. In New York I met Dr. Rodney Heller, a director of Sloan-Kettering Memorial Cancer Center. He's a vigorous, robust man, who has had cancer — twice. Surgery and radiation cured him.

"In Houston, Dr. A. Clark Griffin of the University of Texas told me about the role viruses may play in cancer. Some of the evidence supporting this theory comes from investigations of leukemia, another form of cancer. The American Cancer Society is currently supporting leukemia-related research in the amount of $2,014,000," Edwards said.

"Here in Columbus I've met Dr. Charles A. Doan, one of the best-known leukemia researchers. Dr. Doan told me of progress being made in this field by use of new drugs and mentioned that patients are now being kept alive up to six and eight years, where the prognosis a few years ago would have been six months or so.

"Dr. Doan says it is this constant hope that the next drug might be the one to result in the ultimate answer which keeps physicians and researchers going at this problem," Edwards said.

Edwards talked more. It was interesting to hear him. He is a dedicated man. There is nothing phony about him. He wants to be a good Cancer Crusade chairman. He's one of two million volunteers working hard.

Some of our neighbors are joining him as volunteers, and when they come to your home in the next week or 10 days, they will be bringing you information which could save your life, and they will be asking for support for a program designed to save lives — research and education.

Physicians, housewives, businessmen, researchers . . . a great army which deals with cancer every day says this is the way cancer can be whipped.

Maybe they are right. It's the way we all joined together to wipe out polio.

Are You Another Little Card Carrier?

You know the type — the fellow who always distributes little cards or pamphlets bearing terse homilies, credos or verses on how to get along in life. He's usually a salesman, who probably hopes his Johnny Appleseed card-sowing will reap future sales.

I have such a pamphlet before me now. Given to me by a salesman, it obviously was written by a salesman for salesmen. Frankly, it's good. But I'm no salesman and assuming that most of us aren't, I have taken the liberty to rewrite it so that it pertains to a majority group — namely husbands.

McPeek

Except for a few key words, minor deletions and major distortions, the following credo, titled "The Art of Getting Along," is exactly as anonymously printed in the original. The parenthetical remarks, naturally, are mine:

1. Sooner or later, a husband discovers, if he is wise, that married life is a mixture of good days and bad, victory and defeat, give and take. (This is true. In nearly a dozen married years, I've had a few good days — none of which I can recall at the moment. I've also had a few victories — mostly when my wife was in late stages of pregnancy and before she took up karate. The give and take is a 50-50 thing — I give and she takes.)

2. He learns that it doesn't pay to be a too-sensitive soul; that he should let some things go over his head like water off a duck's (perhaps "chicken" is a better word) back. (A show of sensitivity paid off for me for several years. But now when I cry, my wife opens an umbrella and ignores me. I let many things go over my head. Just yesterday I ducked two pots, a package of frozen broccoli, and the fall-winter edition of Alden's mail-order catalog.)

3. He learns that he who loses his temper usually loses out. (He also learns that "she" who loses her temper always wins out.)

4. He learns that all husbands have burnt toast for breakfast now and then and that he shouldn't take his wife's grouch too seriously). (The only time I don't have burnt toast for breakfast is when my wife makes burnt oatmeal. If by "wife's grouch" the writer means mother-in-law, you certainly shouldn't take her seriously — or any other way, for that matter.)

5. He learns that carrying a chip (or a chippie's hair) on his shoulder is the easiest way to get in a fight. (No comment.)

6. He learns that buck-passing always turns out to be a boomerang and that it never pays. (That's right, it never pays . . . the husband. You pass the wife a few bucks and zing, like a boomerang, she's back for a few more.)

7. He comes to learn that he is not indispensable, that his home could run along perfectly well without him. (But not without his paycheck.)

8. He learns that his wife is a human being and that it does no harm to smile and say "good morning," even if it's raining. (True, it does no harm. Of course, it likely will do no good either.)

9. He learns to sympathize with the young nincompoop who just got married, because he remembers how bewildered he was when he first started out. (As years go by, a numbness sets in and the bewilderment is less disturbing.)

10. He learns not to worry when he loses a fight, because experience has shown that if he always gives his best, his average will break pretty well. (Re-read parenthetical remark about "victories" below Item 1.)

11. He learns that no husband ever got to first base alone, and that it is only through cooperative effort that he will move on to better things. (Like left field.)

12. He learns that wives are not any harder to get along with in one place than another, and that "getting along" depends about 98 per cent on his behavior. (The other two per cent depends on how fast he can run.)

13. He learns that wives are not monsters trying to get the last ounce of money out of their mates, but that they are usually pretty sharp operators who have succeeded through artful conniving and who want to do the right thing . . . for themselves. (Much justifiable distortion in this item.)

(Could there be any significance in the fact that the credo contains "13" items?)

EARTH PATTERN

Lovely my garden
Wears its bloom and tree and sod
Like star-bright jewels.
Yet it cannot be
My only inspiration
And consolation.
For always I must Go forth to a fellowship
Sharing loss and gain,
Then come back to rest
Renewing strength and valor
Spent in common cause.

Home is the base where we come back to renew our strength after spending it, for loss or gain, in the great fellowship of humanity. We are dependent upon one another more than we know, for the race is a family, each member giving and needing, sharing experiences more common to than unique to a few.

Wherever we may live, if we have a tree and a rose and a bit of grass, so much the better. As they look to the life-giving sun and adapt themselves to Nature's changing moods, so may we learn from them that things seen are an earnest of things yet unseen and that as

Foundations Of True Witnessing Suggested

I. True witnessing is rooted and grounded in faith in Jesus Christ as our Saviour and the Son of God. This faith can come only by hearing the Word.

The witness of the resurrection of our Lord receives power from on high. As a generator charges, revives and builds up a weak run-down battery so is a witness of our Lord built up with power from above; thus charged with spiritual power, we go forth to bring celestial light to a sin-laden world in suffering and misery.

Rev. Smith

The substance of power in our testimonial is His promise to give to every true believer Life everlasting, and a mansion where there are many mansions. He is a mansion of warmth to every stranger, to every one who is in need of a friend.

"Come unto Me," He said, "and I will give you rest; lay down, my weary one, lay down your head upon My breast."

II. Every true witness must have a little talk with Jesus. Tell Him all about your troubles; He will understand, and take you by the hand; He'll start a little fire burning, start a little prayer-wheel turning, just a little talk with Jesus makes everything right.

The foundation of all power to witness must come from close communion with Jesus. As the fires on the Temple altar were never allowed to go out, so Jesus as the Great High Priest will keep the fire of the Holy Spirit burning in our hearts if we pray for renewed zeal to serve Him in building His Kingdom.

III. Jesus gives to every true witness a perfect love that casts out fear;

Before we gain the victory we must struggle against the Red Sea of yearning for a new expression of our personalities; the Jericho of hidden desires; the Lion's Den of hatred and seeking after power to destroy all interference with our personal freedom; the Fiery Furnace of superiors who ever strive to dominate our lives; the ninth-hour crises in our own lives when some hidden foe puts us flat on our backs; the period when Satan will be "loosed for a little season"; the sting of death lurking in the wings waiting for the final drama of life to drop the curtain; the victory of the grave now shorn of its power.

The fullness of time has truly given new meaning to the "Great Commission," "Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel . . . and lo, I am with you alway, even unto the end of the world."

These are the foundations of all true witnessing.

Stanley S. Smith, pastor
Southfield Baptist Church

An Editor's Outlook . . . by Jenkin Lloyd Jones

Get Ready For Some Strange Visitors

One of these days a swarthy gentleman in a turban is going to walk up to a hotel desk in—let's say—Cedar Rapids, sign the register and add: "Two wives, one concubine."

The desk clerk won't know whether to call the bellboy or the house dick. The U.S. Department of Commerce fervently hopes he'll call the bellboy.

For the drive to entice foreign visitors to the U.S.A. is now in full swing. The United States government is running come-hither ads in many foreign newspapers and periodicals. The airlines and steamship agencies are pushing the campaign. The hope is not only to fill unused travel space but also to whittle down in some measure the $1.1 billion deficit gap between what American tourists spent abroad last year and what we earned from foreign tourists on American soil.

Jones

It is quite a jolt to pick up The London Observer or the Paris Monde or the Neue Zurcher Zeitung and read a full page advertisement setting forth arguments on why you should see the United States. I saved a few tearsheets from a trip abroad last summer.

The London ad displayed a big picture of the Jefferson Memorial surrounded by blooming cherry trees. The blurb read: "How to take your wife on your next business trip to the U.S.A. for as little as five pounds a day." Five pounds is $14, and that requires a non-shopping wife.

Britishers were assured it wouldn't cost them a penny to visit the White House. Why should it? And then an American remembers that you can't go through Buckingham Palace or 10 Downing-st for any price.

British travelers must be keen on botany and bird-watching. Listen to this:

"You can picnic in the shade of Sequoia trees which were living in the time of Christ. You can see wild tiger lilies, gentians and azaleas, forget-me-nots, larkspur, parqueflower, kalmia, cactus, lobelia, cardinalis and blue flax.

"American birds are worth seeing, too — roseate spoonbills, cardinals, scarlet tanagers, Baltimore orioles, snowy egrets, eagles, pelicans and ospreys galore. One hundred species in one day is not too much to expect."

How many Yanks could spot a pasqueflower, kalmia or roseate spoonbill?

The French ad from Le Monde appealed chiefly to women, apparently on the theory that stingy French husbands could be nagged into the trip. It showed a lovely lady in a 10-gallon hat astride a cow pony. It promised that for less than $10 a day you could live on a dude ranch with the horse thrown in.

Madame was assured that she could ride on the back of a mule to the bottom of Grand Canyon for 65 new francs, "mule comprise." Imagine calling one of those smart little burros a mule! For 15 cents, said the ad, one could voyage on the Staten Island ferry in the light of the moon, and you can get breakfast or "le snack" at a New York hotel for 60 cents. Some breakfast! Some snack! In Washington one can assist at the seances of Congress.

However astonishing these blandishments may be to Americans, the campaign is beginning to show some results. The Wall Street Journal reports that there were about 620,000 foreign visitors to the U.S. (not counting Canadians) in '62 as against 516,000 in '61. A Japanese travel agency estimates that 100,000 Japs are ready to see the U.S as soon as their government permits them to convert yen into dollars. This is expected this year, and thousands of special savings accounts have been established in Japanese banks.

The American Hotel Association is taking this travel seriously. It has put out a booklet to its members advising them that if Far Eastern visitors belch loudly after dinner it is their way of complimenting the food. South Americans, warns the A.H.A., clap their hands for service. This is not rudeness. Waiters must be reminded not to serve Moslems with the left hand, which is considered unclean.

America's airlines and railroads have special discounts for foreign visitors. But no one can top the Greyhound bus company's offer. For $99 it will give a foreigner the right to travel anywhere any time for 99 days. It has sold more than 12,000 tickets under this plan, and one bargain-hungry Australian family jammed in 16,000 miles of bus riding in 10 weeks.

But what does a foreign adventurer with shaky English do when he arrives in an American city where practically no one — not even the local travel agent — speaks anything else? Only a few communities have prepared for him.

The "Los Angeles at Home" club has 100 families on its list that speak a variety of languages and will invite visitors out to dinner. And the Fort Worth Council on World Affairs guarantees travelers a good time, including a trip to a cattle ranch where they can be photographed on a cutting horse, waving a lariat.

This is a wonderful idea. Most foreign visitors are both educated and interesting. They generally make appreciative guests. Any honest cross-section of any people, of course, would produce the counterparts of the loud-shirted American men who are noisy in the cantinas, and the bulging American women who wander into the ancient cathedrals wearing slacks. But prosperity abroad hasn't yet gotten down that far.

When it does, we'll be steering 'em and plucking 'em and snickering at 'em behind their backs, just as they do us.

Frosting On The Cake

"UNCLE DOC" ROSS — U.S.A.

Millions of literate minds all over the world are aware of the great importance of sane, rational diet for their general health. Too few are aware that much more priceless and important facts about a "balanced ration" for their minds and souls. No man can feed his mind and soul on trash or filth and not get the "diseases of the soul" that destroy so many. Habit is the heaviest word in our language and some words weigh a ton at least.

There is some excuse, perhaps, for people who were the victims of neglect in childhood and now battle daily with poverty. But what excuse can be offered for those who were brought up in good homes by conscientious parents, and who have most of the things necessary for family happiness? Yet these are some of the worst offenders among the Americans who refuse to discipline our growing children.

Trained brains, cultured manners, honorable persistency of purpose, accurate use of the native tongue; all these are master keys and the end result of all genuine education is the functional capacity of the individual. Add the bedrock of character and then use what tools old Mother Nature gave you. Success is no mystery.

Gospel Sing Is Scheduled For Saturday

Ohio Fuel Gas Company's Choir will appear on a program sponsored by the Columbus Gospel Singing Association, Saturday, Apr. 27, 7:30 p.m. at Franklin Heights High School Auditorium, 1001 Demorest-rd.

Also appearing on the same program will be The Gospel Mariners Quartet from Dayton, and The Noblemen Quartet from Huntington, W. Va.

The Columbus Gospel Singing Association is incorporated in Ohio as a non-profit organization to promote gospel singing in the Columbus [illegible]. The organization is two years old and it is supported by free will offerings taken at the programs.

It is estimated that someone flees from a Communist country every minute of every day.

Panel To Air Teenage Problems Sunday

Problems facing teenagers, and the role of church, home and school in their solution, will be discussed by a panel at the Church of The Savior, 1074 W. Broad-st, Sunday, Apr. 28, 7:30 p.m.

Everyone interested is invited to attend.

Panelists will be, Dr. Floyd Faust, pastor of Broad Street Christian Church; H. W. Williams, Columbus Board of Education; Mrs. Paul Love, high school and Sunday School teacher, and mother of a teenager; Mr. Faust, Franklin County Juvenile Court, and four teenagers.

'Tuesday At The Y' Guests To Join Lei Day Brunch, Card Party At Central YW

"Basic Flower Arranging" will be the topic of the morning session of "Tuesday at the Y" at the Hilltop YWCA Center, 2879 Valleyview-dr, on A[illegible] 30.

Mrs. Harold Elliott will lecture and give a demonstration in the basic skills of the art and equipment needed for it. She will show several complete arrangements of spring flowers.

Mrs. Elliott is a member of the Belle Fleur Garden Club and holds several "best of show" awards.

Immediately following the program those attending will leave their children at the Hilltop YW Center with supervised babysitting and will attend the "Lei Day Brunch and Card Party" at the YWCA, 65 S. Fourth-st.

Guests will watch Miss June Shimoohkawa dance the hula, observe the art of making flower leis, and learn how to correctly pack bags for a trip.

Following brunch will be an afternoon of card playing. Prizes will include Hawaiian beachbags from airlines. Table prizes and free gifts will be given everyone.

The YWCA is sponsoring the Hawaiian Lei Day Festival to provide funds for furnishing the new residence rooms to house 40 girls now being added to the present structure.

Mrs. Thomas Chase, 1391 Ongaro-dr, is chairman of the event, and Mrs. Harold E. Ebbing, 255 Ceramic-dr, is vice-chairman.

Total cost of the day will be $2.50 including babysitting. Mothers are requested to bring a sack lunch for their children. Milk will be furnished.

Reservations will be necessary and can be made by calling CA. 4-0121.

The Protecting LIGHT

This lighted tower is a light shining in the darkness to guide sailors and ships through the night. Our Lord is our light who guides us faithfully through life, even though it be as a stormy sea — He knows the way. His word, as proclaimed in His church, will light your way and bring peace, joy and comfort.

"Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path." Psalm 119:105.

Attend the church of your choice this coming Sunday and receive the blessings awaiting you.

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Pirates Rope Cowboys In CL Diamond Tilt, 2-0

By SKIP SANFORD

"There is still time!" is the general attitude of the West High baseball team. The Cowboys have lost their last three in a row but have not given up. Their two latest defeats came at the hand of Linden (3-0) and Central (2-0).

Against Linden, West just couldn't put its hits together. The Cowboys scattered five of them, along with two walks, over their seven inning game, but could not come up with a run.

LINDEN ALSO collected five hits and two walks but totaled 3 runs, all of which came in the sixth inning.

Against Central the Cowboys still had trouble getting their hits to produce runs and were shut out again. Bill Baseman, Don VanOrder, and John Morian all collected hits for the Cowboys but no West runs crossed the plate.

Central also collected three hits plus one walk but turned them, with the aid of five West errors, into two unearned runs.

DAVE ROBERTS was the winning pitcher for Central while Darrell Rohrer took the loss for West. Roberts drove in both of Central's runs with a third-inning single, fanning 13 to gain the Pirates' fifth straight CL win.

The Bronco team has scored only one run in their three losing efforts but are looking for their luck to change.

Dwight Black, varsity baseball coach, has been switching his personnel around in hopes of finding a winning combination. He, as well as the rest of the squad, is now looking toward the future and Walnut Ridge a week from Tuesday.

Hornung, Karras Guilty But Penalty Questioned

You probably could have traded one Johnny Unitas for 174 Paul Hornungs in the bubble gum card mart last week.

That would probably be the going rate of exchange after Mr. Pete Rozelle swallowed hard, puffed through several packs of cigarettes and then threw the book at two of pro football's super stars.

THERE ARE plenty of people who think Rozelle was justified in going the limit with his penalty to curtail player lottery on pro games.

The culprits were guilty as charged, and since their contracts stipulate "no betting" they deserve just punishment.

However, no evidence was produced which indicated that bets by Hornung and Alex Karras influences the outcome of any game.

Furthermore, there was no indication that there was any telltale point spread involved which might also jump the charge from a misdemeanor to a felony.

FOR THESE reasons, we question the justice of Rozelle's punishment. An indefinite suspension with no opportunity for redress for one year is a pretty stiff penalty.

Such a heavy sentence smacks of the old military axiom . . . "make somebody an example and hit 'em hard." Rozelle isn't fielding a circuit of little leaguers who have to be in bed before dark.

We rather doubt if he believes that he has or will be able to clean house with the Hornung-Karras case. We might even go so far as to suggest that the NFL might have a hard time filling up their playing rosters if every player who ever bet on a game or looked twice at an "undesirable" were booted into the doghouse.

IT JUST ISN'T likely that every sports participant leaves the great American pastime in his hip jocket with a change of clothes.

If we had a nickle for every jockey who ever bet on a horse race, we could retire tomorrow. (This doesn't imply that the race is fixed).

You may argue that Rozelle's penalty put some teeth into this country's effort to keep the gamblers at the tracks, well and good, but as of this sitting, the whole scandal has sounds of scapegoat.

IF THE NFL investigators continue their snooping and collect all the offenders, we'll be most happy to eat these words. But if the whole probe slips back into obscurity without ALL the guilty parties getting their just deserts, we're holding our stand till the Mets win the NL flag.

BITS OF WIT(T)—A good chunk of fan interest at last week's Jet opener was centered around Indianapolis pitcher Herb Score as he worked out in the Indian bullpen during the late innings.

In a pre-game uniform number identification, Score got one of the biggest plaudits we've heard for a non-Columbus player since Mo Mazzali made his return to the stadium in a foreign uniform a few years back.

It would be pretty hard to find a baseball fan anywhere who isn't pulling for this victim of one of baseball's greatest tragedies—a fellow whom the Boston Red Sox wanted one million dollars' worth just nine short seasons ago.

Weather Never Spoils Hungry Fish Appetite

INSIDE ON THE Outdoors BY ABE CAUDILL

Everyone wishes for that ideal day when water conditions are perfect, the temperature is right and the fish are hitting. But conditions are seldom perfect and we must make do with what we have—rain showers, muddy water, finicky fish.

All successful anglers have one rule in common, go fishing when you can! Do not wait until the moon or the wind is right.

THE SECRET, of course, is to be adaptable and to change your fishing methods to fit the day. One of the most common aggravations from now on will be muddy or roily water after nearly every rainy period. When the water gets so bad that you can "plant corn in it," fishing is bound to be poor and you might as well put in your window screens or mow the grass.

There are many days when the water is roiled, far from perfect, but will yield fish to the knowledgeable angler. Under these conditions aquatic creatures switch from visual control to "instruments" and carry on life pretty much as usual. By understanding this, your creel will be heavier.

The instruments in question are simply organs of smell and hearing, senses that are just as important as sight to a fish's well-being. With visibility reduced, they'll carry the load.

BAIT IS the tried and proven prescription for curing the disabilities of mud blindness. Most any baits that give off a tantilizing aroma will penetrate the visual barrier and entice hungry fish within range.

This is especially true with the bottom feeders, which often go on a feeding spree after the water has been stirred by runoff. These would include catfish, bullheads, carp and suckers.

The other sense-hearing can be just as useful to the fisherman who doesn't give up because of silt-laden streams. He knows that much of the success of night fishing depends on the fish's response to sounds. And the proof lies in the fact that the best lure on a moonless night is often a black one.

SO IF YOU want to try for bass or crappies, break out the noisiest underwater plug in your tackle box. Shapes and patterns are of secondary importance, but the lure should be of the rapidly vibrating type or have spinners on it. A spinner with a good-working blade is also a good choice. Another tip is to use white or yellow lures, or chrome spinners.

Fishing muddy water is far from ideal, but it is not impossible. Some of my most memorable catches were not trophies, but were fish taken under difficult conditions. On a day when everyone is catching fish, there is not so much of which to be proud. But when everyone else is skunked, a couple of fish loom mighty large.

The main thing to remember is that fish don't go "home" when things are not just right. Why should you?

Beulah Racing Opens Saturday

Everything is set for the opening of the spring racing season at Beulah Park Saturday and all indications point to spirited competition during the 25-day stand which ends on May 25.

President Robert Y. Dienst is hopeful that the fine array of talent assembled for the meet, will bring business to a level of a couple of seasons ago.

WITH SOME 750 horses on the scene and possibly a fifth of them "newcomers" to the local area, it is expected that the fans will have a wide choice of new names in the racing lineups as well as new faces among the jockeys and trainers who will be plying their trades.

One of the strongest jockey colonies in recent seasons is ready for action, headed by Paul Ward and Jimmy Dobson, who have been campaigning at Beulah for many years.

Post time for the racing will be 2:15 each day and every effort will be made to complete the programs well before 6 p.m. There will be a daily double on the first and second races and sales of double tickets will close 10 minutes prior to first post.

. . . AND SHE'S SMILING, TOO!

DONNA LEE SCHMIDT makes it look easy as she demonstrates the art of weightlifting to a physical fitness class of Georgian Heights residents recently. The program, set up mainly for adult recreation, is sponsored by the Heights' Civic Association. Mrs. Schmidt is a local instructor of physical activities such as tumbling, hand balancing and trampoline for children and young adults. Her husband, Otto, is presently performing similar duties at schools and colleges in the eastern section of the U.S.

Parks' Workshop Reveals Statewide Camping 'Boom'

The number 10 seems to be a significant figure when it comes to Ohio campers, according to V. W. Flickinger, chief of the Division of Parks.

Ten types of campers have increased 10 times over in the past 10 years. This information came out in a camping workshop held by the division to discuss design and construction techniques that will aid in the efficient operation and maintenance of campgrounds, some of which become small cities during the summer season.

IT WAS SHOWN that camping has mushroomed in the state since 1953. In fiscal year 1953-'54 there were 63,972 camper-days logged in Ohio. By 1961-'62—the total was 700,431.

"Splitting campers into 10 types may be cutting things a little fine," commented Flickinger. "But they are easily recognized by park managers, and each type seems to want slightly different facilities and puts different demands on camping areas. They must be identified in order to talk intelligently about campground design and construction."

According to Flickinger campers are divided into: sleeping bag (back-packers and hikers), tent, tent-trailer, converted school bus, boat (those that come ashore), station wagon, turtle back (units carried on pick-up trucks), self-propelled (units manufactured by auto companies) and transient (as differentiated from vacation campers).

Central, West Thins Record Victories

In two area events, West outpointed North 62½-55½ while Central clobbered Linden and Eastmoor, 70-42½-35½.

THE PIRATES' Bill Solomon and Ron Bell set the pace in Central's victory. Solomon scored 12¼ points which included two second-place finishes in the 220 and 440 plus a winning effort in the 100-yard dash.

Bell bettered the high jump mark by a quarter inch by taking the event with a leap of six feet, one and ¾ inches.

LANKY STEVE Barnard helped pace West to its victory over City League rival North.

Soph Barnard finished first in both the low and high hurdles and nabbed the third place points in the high jump.

Physical Fitness Gets Boost At Georgian Hgts.

There's been a lot of talk about physical fitness but the people at Georgian Heights have decided to do something about it. That community's civic association is sponsoring a recreational program in the hope of promoting physical fitness and fellowship.

Through the cooperation of the Georgian Heights School, the association has acquired the use of the school's new multi-purpose activity room. The program, set up mainly for adult recreation, includes basketball, volleyball, table tennis, weightlifting, tumbling and card playing with movies and television for the children.

Donna Lee Schmidt was a guest at the school recently and demonstrated weightlifting and handbalancing to the group.

Entries Taken For Hospital Golf Tourney

Team entries from throughout Ohio are being received for the Second Annual Hospital Day Golf Tournament at the Chillicothe Veterans Administration Hospital.

The tourney is being sponsored by the Chillicothe Swing Club of United Voluntary Services, a golfers organization whose members work as volunteers in veterans and military hospitals.

THE INVITATIONAL event gets underway at 8 a.m. Sunday, May 5, and consists of three flights.

One is for ladies while a "championship" and a "first" flight are planned for men. They will vie with patient teams for the club's Josef E. Clark Memorial Trophies.

PHYSICAL FITNESS is stressed as part of the treatment program at Chillicothe VA Hospital, one of the three largest neuropsychiatric hospitals operated by the Veterans Administration.

The hospital has a large stadium, an exercise building housing a gym and an Olympic-size pool, nine-hole golf course, bowling alleys, tennis courts, horseshoe courts, badminton courts, and table tennis.

These are among the hospital facilities the public is invited to see during the hospital's "open house" on Hospital Day.

BUSINESS REVIEW

Jerry Fry

Named Swim Club Manager

Jerry and Patty (Kight) Fry have been named to manage the Westview Swim Club for the coming summer, according to an announcement issued by swim club officials. The club, located at 3700 Sullivant-av, will open for the season May 30.

Jerry Fry is a 1951 graduate of West High School and graduated from Capital University in 1956. At present he is completing work on a master's degree at Ohio State University.

Fry is known for his work as a football coach, history instructor and guidance counselor at Brookhaven High School. Prior to joining the Brookhaven staff he spent four years as an instructor at Eastmoor High School.

The Frys are active members of the Westgate EUB Church and reside, with daughter Jennifer Ann, at 57 N. Huron-av.

Father Of EUB Pastor Killed In Auto Mishap

The father of Rev. Irvin Lane, pastor of the Burgess Avenue EUB Church, Howard Roy Lane, 75, of near Circleville, was killed by an oncoming car as he crossed the road from his barn to his house early Tuesday morning.

Lane, who lived on a farm five miles east of Circleville on Rt. 56, apparently did not see the auto when he walked into its path. Sheriff's officials did not hold the driver.

The victim is survived by his wife, Bessie; son, Rev. Lane, and three daughters, Mrs. Oakley Leist, Mrs. Richard Marshall and Mrs. Glen England.

Friends may call after Wednesday at the Defenbaugh Funeral Home in Circleville until the time of the service. The funeral will be held at Morris EUB Church, four miles east of Circleville, just off of Rt. 56, Thursday, Apr. 25, at 2 p.m.

Funeral Planned Thursday For Mrs. Myrtle Coon

Mrs. Myrtle Ellen Coon, 69 of 294 S. Harris-av, died Monday at Mt. Carmel Hospital. She was the stepmother of Bill Coon, 338 N. Warren-av, advertising salesman for Hartley Newspapers.

Also surviving are one sister, Miss Irene Kimble, of Cleveland; two brothers, Charles of California, and Edward of 99 N. Harris-av; two stepgrandsons, Bill Coon, Jr. of Hilliard and Alan, at home; nieces and nephews.

She was a member of Hilltop Church of Christ in Christian Church.

Friends may call at the Jerry Spears Funeral Home after 4 p.m. Wednesday. Funeral will be held there Thursday, 1 p.m., with Rev. George Alexander officiating. Burial will be at Sunset Cemetery.

EUGENE J. COURTNEY

Eugene J. Courtney, 464 Whitethorne-av, died Apr. 19 at the age of 82. He was a retired employe of the Columbus Bolt and Forge Co.

He is survived by wife, Mary; sons, Joseph E. and William G.; four daughters, Mary Mary Laycock, Columbus; Mrs. Margaret Ann Matthews, Calif.; Mrs. Helen Jane King and Rosemary Courtney, Columbus; nine grandchildren; two great-grandchildren; brother, Thomas Courtney, Florida, and two sisters, Margaret Courtney and Mrs. A. A. Priest.

Interment, Mt. Calvary Cemetery by Egan-Ryan Funeral Home.

HARLEY SHINE

Harley E. Shine, of Columbus, passed away Apr. 20 at the age of 57.

He is survived by sister, Mrs. Anna Cline, 402 Princeton-av; half brother, Rollie Twigg; several aunts and uncles.

Interment, Eastlawn by O. B. Woodyard Co.

CHARLES W. STRONG

Charles W. Strong, formerly of 904 Sullivant-av, passed away at the age of 56.

He is survived by sisters, Helen Tritt and Edith Hanish.

Interment, Green Lawn by Jerry Spears.

DOROTHY CHAFFIN

Dorothy Chaffin, 270 N. Southampton, passed away at the age of 77.

She is survived by two sisters, Osee Gard and Ida Coffman; nieces and nephews.

Interment, Dublin Cemetery by Jerry Spears.

WALTER HUGHES

Walter D. Hughes, 80 S. Burgess-av, died Apr. 20 in Mt. Carmel Hospital at the age of 69.

He is survived by wife, Mary Jane; four stepdaughters, Mrs. Joy Lechler, Mrs. Marjorie A. Brenot, Mrs. Mary Erwin, Mrs. Zelma Platt; one stepson, William Moore; two sisters, Helen Baumgarner and Ethel Grist; a brother, Robert; 10 grandchildren; several nieces and nephews.

Interment, Milford Center by Jerry Spears.

RUSSELL WILSON

Russell J. Wilson, 164 Winner-av, passed away Apr. 19.

He is survived by mother, Catharine Logan; sister, Willie Mae Lowry; an aunt; a niece and three nephews.

Interment, Eastlawn Cemetery by C. D. White and Son Funeral Home.

WILLIAM RICHARDSON

A World War I veteran, William E. Richardson of 2354 Valleyview-dr, died at the age of 72.

He is survived by wife, Edna; aunt, Mrs. Nettie Martin; nieces, nephews and cousins.

Service was held at the Cook and Son Chapel, Wednesday, Apr. 17. Cremation followed.

Snyder's Offers Personal Interior Decorating Service

As a specialist in interior decorating, Ralph Snyder, owner and manager of Snyder's Interior and Furniture Store, 3097 W. Broad-st, will actually visit the home or office to be decorated to make suggestions.

Snyder said, "In many cases our customers don't even come in to the store — they just call and we work out their entire decorating plan at their home."

Snyder's store can furnish all types of carpeting, draperies, furniture, custom slipcovers, accessories and decorator items. "And we stress personal service," Snyder said. "We like to think we know all of our customers personally and have worked out each individual problem with the customer. There is no charge for suggestions and any interior lay-out ideas we give our customers, whether it's for one item or a whole house," he added.

When it comes to custom design few stores can compare with the service offered by Snyder's. For instance, a customer may choose a custom carpet that is built to his own specifications.

The customer may choose from hundreds of samples of weave, fiber and color. If the prospective buyer doesn't find the exact item he wishes, the manufacturer is notified and more samples are sent. If the exact item is still not found Snyder's will send a sample of the desired color to the carpet manufacturer and he will return more samples for the customer's approval.

"One advantage of buying a custom carpet," according to Snyder, "is the fact you do not have to pay for any unused carpeting. You only pay for the exact amount used in your home."

Another example of custom design at Snyder's is found in the choice of chairs and couches.

In this case, the prospective buyer chooses the exact back, arms, base, corners, size and color he wishes at no additional cost.

These are put together in a model and the customer can actually see what the sofa or chair he has chosen will look like. If he is pleased with his design the exact sofa of his choice will be manufactured at no additional cost, according to Snyder.

Other items offered by the store include all types of gifts and accessories for the well-furnished home, priced in any range the buyer or gift giver might wish to pay. These include pictures, lamps, ash trays, dishes and many other items.

Snyder is a graduate designer with 15 years' experience in the interior design field. He has operated his own business within the same block for the past seven years.

The store likes to stress quality products at "very" competitive prices and offers bank-rate terms to customers. And, according to the owner-manager, "We do our own delivery and offer our personal attention to each customer to make sure they are pleased with their purchase and get the maximum use of their new item in their individual decorating scheme at home".

Local Man Heads Insurance Group

J. O. Ford, 333 Carilla-ln, was recently elected president of the Association of Mutual Insurance Engineers at their 27th annual meeting in New York City. Ford is a commercial safety specialist with Nationwide Insurance in Columbus.

During the annual meeting more than 100 participants discussed topics dealing with fire prevention and safety. The meeting was co-sponsored by the Federation of Mutual Fire Insurance Companies and the National Association of Mutual Insurance Companies.

ELECTED

NEWLY ELECTED to the office of president of the Columbus Society of Professional Photographers, was Richard N. DeWitt, 46 N. Westmoor-av. DeWitt was named to the honor during a recent meeting in Columbus. Earlier he was named second vice-president of the Ohio Professional Photographers.

Judge Acts On Cases Of Deliquency

Six of nine Hilltop juveniles charged with delinquency in mid-March appeared Friday before Juvenile Court Judge John W. Hill. The 16-year-old, whose apprehension touched off the chain reaction involving the others, was committed by the court to the Boys' Industrial School at Lancaster.

Three of the boys were placed on probation, and cases of two others were dismissed, court officials reported.

Cases of the remaining three members of the group, all juvenile girls, remain to be heard.

Charges against the teenagers (ranging in age from 15 to 17) were filed by Columbus Juvenile Bureau officers.

Officers reported that activities of the group included check theft and forgery, unchaperoned parties at which beer was served, larceny of money from a Georgesville-rd service station, car theft, and other delinquent activities.

Columbus Police Cite Three For 'Commie' Goods Sale

Managers of two of the three Columbus stores cited for violation of the city's "anti-red goods" ordinance have indicated that they will remove all Communist manufactured or processed merchandise from their stores.

First test of the ordinance passed on Apr. 8 came on Tuesday with issuance of summonses against Shoppers' Fair, 3616 E. Broad-st; Bargainland USA, 1909 E. Livingston-av, and Arlan's Department Store, 2361 Morse-rd.

In each case the charge was "offering for sale Communist manufactured or processed goods without a license, in violation of ordinance 203-63 of the city code."

Sgt. Will Daugherty of Safety Director Albert G. Giles' office reported that Detectives Allen Schilling and Robert DeWeese purchased goods at each of the stores on Monday.

In accordance with provisions of the ordinance, Daugherty said, registered letters had been sent to officials of each of the stores when an initial check indicated the presence of merchandise in violation of the ordinance. Purchases were made during rechecks which occurred at least one week following issuance of notice to comply with the ordinance, Daugherty said.

Meyer Hoffman of Bargainland USA told Hartley Newspapers that he was not aware that such material was still available at the store.

"We thought we had it all cleared out," he said. "We had three people go through the store.

"I would never apply for a license." Hoffman declared, and added, "It will never happen again."

David Schwartz, manager of Arlan's, said:

"We have no intention of obtaining a license and no intention of selling merchandise made in a Communist-controlled country. We started a check of that nature about six months ago, and our policy has been that we will not sell such items."

Schwartz explained that the items purchased by the detectives had apparently been placed in the store unintentionally.

The third manager and store named was Cornelius Barnes and the Shoppers' Fair.

Barnes said that he had "no comment," and that there would be no comment from any other store official.

Sgt. Daugherty reported that items purchased included the following:

Whisk brooms from Hungary, clothes baskets from Poland, various wooden items such as bread boards, broom sets and cutting boards, and wicker baskets from Yugoslavia.

Columbus City Attorney John Young reported that conviction on the violation carries a maximum penalty of $500 and/or six months in jail.

Young indicated that more such charges would be forthcoming.

Neighborhood Council Slates Meetings On Loans, Traffic

The Health Committee of the West Side Neighborhood Council will meet on Wednesday, Apr. 24, at Gladden Community House, 7:30 p.m., with finance officials of various lending institutions in the city of Columbus.

The purpose of the meeting is to explore ways that home improvement might be made more available to property owners in the West Side. Mrs. Bonnie Durbin, Health Committee chairmen, felt that such a project could be worked out with the lending institutions, thus makingg it easier for West Siders to get financial assistance for improvement of their homes.

The Traffic Committee of the West Side Neighborhood Council has scheduled a neighborhood meeting of the residents around the Ryan-av area for Thursday, Apr. 25, at the Pentecostal Church, corner of Union and Ryan, 7:30 p.m.

Many residents of Ryan-av petitioned the Traffic Commission of the City of Columbus to change Ryan-av from a two-way to one-way street, running north, so that parking might be permitted on the east side of the street. The Traffic Commission has asked the West Side Neighborhood Council Traffic Committee to determine the desires of the majorty of residents in that area about the matter. Frank Schneider, Traffic Committee chairman, stated that this meeting was to hear the expression of residents in the area and the council committee will recommend to the city what the majority of residents wish.

Local Man Is Seriously Burned

Reports from Upper Marlboro, Md., indicated that Charles F. Williamson, Jr., 19, of 56 N. Terrace-av, was in serious condition Tuesday night after he had attempted to burn himself in an attempted suicide.

Williamson apparently tried to kill himself after he was sentenced to a Prince Georges County jail for armed robbery.

Williamson earlier had said he couldn't stand to be behind bars and according to reports had wrapped tissue paper around his hands, arms and legs and set fire to it. He suffered first, second and third degree burns over 50 per cent of his body.

The youth was taken to Prince Georges County General Hospital for treatment.

Public Sees Remodeled Green Lawn Chapel

Several thousand Ohioans were on hand to visit the newly remodeled and enlarged facilities at Green Lawn Memorial Chapel during the opening day ceremonies, Sunday, Apr. 21.

New additions to the building, dedicated Nov. 11, 1902, include columbariums, crematory and visitors lounge. Many of the visitors were visibly impressed with the mosaics which have been there since 1902. Designed by Tiffany's of New York, the mosaics were included in the overall cost of the chapel which originally cost $26,000.

Replacement of the large mosaic alone would cost at least $100,000 today, according to Edward N. Sloan, general manager and secretary-treasurer of the Green Lawn Cemetery Association.

The cemetery ground was dedicated in 1849 and at that time included a total of 68 acres. This area has now been expanded to cover 341 acres.

Miles of winding roads and grass are maintained by a force of specialists under the supervision of Sloan. The general manager estimated the current available land included in the area will take care of burial needs for the next 75 years.

Broadway Grill Liquor License Suspended Again

The Broadway Grill, 3770 W. Broad-st, was handed a 70-day suspension of its liquor license on Apr. 10, on top of a 35-day previous suspension.

The latest license lifting came on charges of possession, for resale, of spirituous liquor in original containers which has been refilled, partially refilled or diluted.

End of the 35-day suspension and beginning of the 70-day penalty is May 28.

Final date of the penalty is Aug. 6, which is after the expiration date of the present license.

The ruling was handed down by the Ohio Department of Liquor Control Board.

TO BUILD GARAGE

Arnold J. Owen, 3565 Glorious-rd, has been issued a construction permit to build a two-car, concrete block garage at the same address. Construction is valued at $1,225. Contractor is United Garages.

WILL BUILD HOME

Clarence E. Rice, 462 N. Powell-av, has been issued a construction permit to build a six-room, two bath, frame, brick and stucco building with attached garage at 1415 Hickory Run-dr. Construction is valued at $20,000. Contractor is J. P. Neff.

PERMIT SUSPENDED

The Ohio Department of Liquor Control has announced suspension of a C-2 permit for Donelsons Carry Out, 2130 Sullivant-av, from Apr. 23 to May 7. The suspension is for Sunday sale of intoxicating liquor in and upon the permit premises on Dec. 23, 1962.

W. Franklin Kiwanis Speaking Contest Set

"You and the Law" is the theme of this year's West Franklin Kiwanis Club speaking contest for schools in the South-Western City District.

Participating schools are North, South, East and West Franklin, Prairie-Lincoln, Prairie-Norton, Alton - Hall, Georgesville, Darbydale, Harrisburg, Franklin Heights and Pleasant View.

Three divisions have been designated. They are elementary, grades five and six; junior, grades seven and eight, and senior, grades nine thru 12.

The preliminary contest will be held Thursday, Apr. 25, starting at 7 p.m. in Prairie-Norton School, 117 Norton-rd.

Preliminary contest winners will be picked for the finals to be held in May.

Speeches must be three to five minutes long and made without notes.

"You and the Law" is the topic to be spoken on.

Local school principals have further information for interested persons.

Veterans Group Plans Conference

Commander Robert E. Connick, Department of Ohio Military Order of the Purple Heart, has announced the spring conference for the state organization will be held in Columbus, Sunday, Apr. 28. Slated for Benson W. Hough Post 3424, VFW, at 2299 S. High-st, the meeting will begin at 1 p.m. and will be followed by a buffet lunch.

The organization is composed exclusively of combat-wounded veterans of all wars and was chartered by an act of Congress.

Shamrock Club Elects Officers

The Shamrock Club has elected the following officers for the coming year: Edward M. Dempsey, president; Jeremy P. Grady, vice-president; Charles Timlin, treasurer and Tom (Duke) Hinton, secretary.

The annual club picnic will be held Sunday, July 14, at Murphy's Party Barn and Picnic Grounds, 365 Olentangy, Powell, O.

The Glee Club, under the direction of Patrick Walsh, and the Irish dancers, consisting of 20 boys and girls, will be featured in the program. Kay Lehman is instructor of the latter group and her repertoire includes the jig, reel and hornpipe and various group dances.

Ample Money, Good Prices For Home Buyers

New Homes Accent Better Kitchen Plans

The impressive kitchens are eye-catchers in April's new homes. They'll appeal to the men as well as the women.

The growing enthusiasm among men and women for gourmet cooking as a hobby has given the kitchen new prominence and importance. Some people even like to do their entertaining in the kitchen—and play to an admiring audience as they prepare the menu.

Home builders have given great attention to the design of the new kitchens. Good planning on their part has made this focal point of the home glamorous as well as efficient and functional. Delightfully harmonizing colors extend from walls and floors to counter-tops and appliances. There is an abundance of storage space. Shining appliances are arranged for comfort and convenience. Kitchen lighting is vastly improved. Translucent panels in ceilings and recessed lighting over work counters are no longer a characteristic of only custom-built kitchens.

Probably the feature of the new kitchens that appeals most to the housewife is the tendency toward space for dining. Frequently this means room for a table. Sometimes it is counter space that doubles as an eating area. Surveys reveal that kitchens with enough room for family breakfasts or lunches come high on the list of Mrs. America's dream kitchen.

Here are points to keep in mind when inspecting new kitchens to see how well they are designed:

Sufficient counter space.

Good cabinet and storage [illegible]

An adequate eating area.

Good lighting and ventilation.

Well arranged clean and mix centers.

A refrigerator with the latch side next to a counter—so that the refrigerator door opens away from the counter rather than blocks easy transfer of food stored in the refrigerator.

Space for easy traffic without one person having to squeeze by another.

Location of the kitchen so that groceries can be brought in without traffic through the living room or other part of the house.

Two-Story Homes May Come Back

A new look at an old favorite—the multi-story home—is predicted by a housing authority for one of the nation's leading manufacturers of building materials.

Builders are once again giving two-story and other multi-story home designs a renewed look after concentrating on one-story dwellings for the past 15 years.

One of the main reasons for the revival is the crowded conditions developing around large cities. A two-story home provides about the same living space as a single-story dwelling on about half the land. Other savings are possible in roof and foundation construction costs.

The multi-story house has been an American tradition since before the Revolutionary War and still offers more living area per dollar than any other design.

Two simple, but effective techniques being considered by architects to modify the box-like look of many two-story structures, are to extend planters for several feet beyond the sides of the house and to roof it with shingles that have extra-wide tabs.

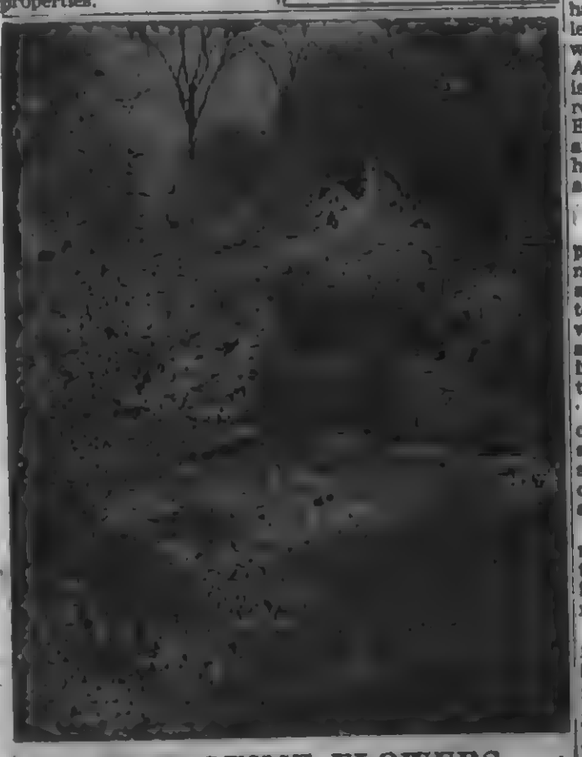
Kitchen Color

It's just as important to have cheerful, colorful kitchen walls as it is to design a kitchen to save steps and work.

Today's trend is to make the kitchen area flow into the dining area. You can select two colors, one for dining room walls, the other a complementary color for kitchen walls.

If your kitchen is small, select bright colors such as red and yellow.

Try painting one wall a deep yellow, another might red, and the ceiling sky blue.



The new pastel shades can fill a kitchen with a bouquet of charming color.

Your Land Can Wear Out, Too

People think of houses and furniture wearing out, but land also can wear out and its value depreciate if the land is not planted and conserved, advises the American Association of Nurserymen.

The best way to conserve land is by planting it. Otherwise it becomes bare, trodden and eroded. In such cases it loses much of its value.

Try this, advise the nurserymen. Walk around your neighborhood and observe other properties. People generally prefer well-planted properties.

SPRINGTIME FLOWERS

AMONG THE GAYEST decorations of the year are the many beautiful flowers and trees that bloom in the early spring. Attractively arranged gardens and plants can do much to beautify a home and raise the spirits of the occupants. Well-planned homes and gardens include many of the early-blooming plants.

Experimental House Contains New Ideas For The Future

THE 1963 EXPERIMENTAL HOUSE of the National Association of Home Builders at Rockville, Md., nears completion. This is NAHB's fifth research house to test new building materials and techniques intended to increase housing values and hold down construction costs. It is being built by NAHB's 1963 President W. Evans Buchanan.

Kitchen counter tops of adjustable heights may be one of many new features in the home of the future.

They are among the innovations being tried out in the Experimental House which the National Association of Home Builders has constructed at Rockville, Md., near Washington, D.C.

The two-story building is the fifth Research House built by the association to test new building materials, techniques and equipment. The objective of the research program is to find ways to build better and more economically. W. Evans Buchanan, NAHB president and the builder of the new Experimental House, said the dividends will go to the consumer, for "he will get a better home at less cost."

Adjustable To Work

The counter tops and cabinets of the new Experimental House are hung on the wall by brackets that can be moved up or down on a metal frame. The counters not only can be adjusted to the height desired by a housewife, but also to the kind of work done on them. The system permits different heights for the sink, the food preparation center, the mixing center and the work desk that is included in the house's kitchen.

Attention-getters in the three-bedroom house include the 2½ bathrooms, whose walls and fixtures are of reinforced plastic that came from the factory in sections.

The downstairs bathroom has a vanity running the length of the room, with a wall-to-wall mirror above it. At each end of the long vanity is a plastic medicine cabinet, recessed in its plastic wall. Each has a decorative door and six shallow shelves for handy [illegible] commodious storage.

Ready-Built Wall

One wall, which came complete from the factory, has a molded, decorative pattern and a recess for a "built-in" towel bar. The bathroom is white, but the plastic walls and fixtures can be obtained in color. It is not only attractive, but easy to clean.

Upstairs, there are one and one-half baths, two medium-sized bedrooms and a king-sized bedroom. The house has over 60 linear feet of closet space.

So many pre-finished materials were used in the house that virtually no inside painting was needed when the last nail was driven.

Panels with a vinyl plastic film laminated to gypsum board which is glued to light gauge steel studs, are used for the upstairs partitions. They came from the factory with colorful textured finishes that are durable and washable. The panels can be repainted if a change of color is desired, but the finish is long-lasting.

Aim To Cut Costs

"The idea," Buchanan said, "was to use as much pre-finished material in the house as possible, because this cuts down on-site labor and thus on costs. Materials finished in the factory under controlled conditions are proving to be exceedingly durable."

Exterior walls of the house are covered with plywood, coated with a plastic film laminated in the factory. They will require no repainting or other maintenance for 15 to 20 years at least.

The roof, using an NAHB-developed truss system, has a wide overhang. The pre-finished roofing material, of a plastic film on plywood, was laid down in sheets.

The house has a free traffic pattern. From the front entranceway a visitor can turn right to the study, left to the kitchen or go straight ahead to the living area or up the stairs to the bedroom area.

Unusual Garage

The large living room and adjacent family room, which can serve as a formal dining room, open through sliding glass doors to a private, rear terrace. The kitchen also opens with sliding glass doors to a patio which connects with the garage.

The garage itself is unusual. On the street side it has storage for a car. But on the house side, it has an enclosed porch for summer living, complete with its own fireplace for summer barbecues. In the winter, this section can house a second car.

An economical flooring system also is used in the house, with one layer of flooring doing the duty of two. The flooring looks like a fine, conventional oak floor.

Like other Research Houses built by the NAHB, the 1963 Experimental House will be put to a lengthy test of wear and liveability by the family that eventually will become its owners. Periodic performance checks will be made by technicians to see how the innovations are working out and if they should be applied to general home construction.

THIS TWO-STORY HOUSE at Lansing, Mich., was another of NAHB's five-test houses. It was built in 1960.

AN "A"-SHAPED garage and a new material of foamed plastic were tried in this 1958 house at South Bend, Ind.

EXTRA LIVEABILITY and comfort at low cost were the goals of this widely copied house at Knoxville, Tenn., built in 1958.

NEW, MORE economical exterior walls were tested in this 1955 Research House, NAHB's first, at Kensington, Md.

Home Improvement Year Is Stressed

"There is real merit in an industry-wide drive which encourages Americans to remodel and improve their homes. Such a program also helps in the maintenance and enhancement of community life throughout the nation," stated President Kennedy in a telegram to the Home Improvement Council.

Landscaping and planting and beautifying home properties is an integral part of the home improvement drive in 1963. These improvements add to the liveability of individual properties as well as neighborhoods and communities.

"Plant a tree for '63" is a slogan of the American Association of Nurserymen.

Home May Take One Of Many Styles

Many different terms are used to describe the new homes. Split level, split foyer, ranch style, rambler, two-story, and Colonial are but some of them.

However, from an architectural standpoint, most homes fall into one of three general classifications. They are traditional, modern, and contemporary.

The traditional home suggests designs used in the early days of the country, when homes were rectangular, compact, and built of native materials. Favorite features of the traditional home today include small-paned windows, shutters, second-story dormer windows, formal entrances and interesting detail. The traditional home of 1963 will have many variations and innovations brought about by progress in home building. But basically it calls on the architecture of the past for inspiration.

The modern home is strictly a product of the 20th century. It has a low-pitched and flat roof, wide overhangs—or occasionally, no overhang—strong horizontal lines, much glass, and simple, structural planes. Usually, it is built of unadorned materials and it follows the open plan of interior arrangement.

The contemporary home is often referred to as a "middle of the road" design because it blends the best of the old and new. Its lines may be traditional, but it may use much glass to extend view and liveability beyond its walls. It often uses the [illegible] plan of interior design, but not necessarily. It shows the appreciation of detail that is our architectural inheritance from Colonial days. Perhaps more than any other, the contemporary home can be termed the "house of today."

Time Appears Right To Buy New Home

Homes at stable prices . . . homes more spacious and pleasing than ever before . . . ample mortgage money for loans at reasonable interest rates. . .

That seems to be the consensus of government officials, home builders, and private economists connected with the home building industry.

Recently, Joseph P. McMurray, chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, said that in 1963 "people will have an opportunity like they never have had in recent years to get mortgages and houses at bargain prices."

Favorable Rates

Another official, J. Stanley Baughman, president of the Federal National Mortgage Association, put it this way:

"I would expect mortgage rates to be generally favorable to home buyers in 1963 and that the supply of funds will be at least as plentiful in relation to demand for loans as it was in 1962."

What types of loans are available for the purchase of a home? There are three—conventional, FHA and VA.

The conventional loan, from a bank or savings and loan association, is the one most home buyers obtain. Predictions are that savings and loan associations will lend home buyers about $23.5 billion in 1963—or 12 per cent more than they did in 1962.

S&L Big Leader

McMurray is one of those who expect such an increase in loans by savings associations. He also said that savings and loan industry has been by far a more constant source of mortgage credit since the late 1940's than any other lending group. Thus, the thrift of Americans has helped substantially to make this a country of home owners, he pointed out.

Under FHA, the government insures loans for home purchase and improvement. The person getting the loan pays a fee of one-half of one per cent of the mortgage. However, the interest he pays on an FHA-insured mortgage is usually lower than he would pay on a conventional mortgage.

The third form of financing is the VA mortgage. The Veterans Administration guarantees repayment of 60 per cent of a loan made to a home-buyer or $7,500 of the loan, whichever is less.

Whichever type of loan a home buyer obtains, he builds up an equity in his home as he makes his monthly payments and has something to show for his money instead of merely collecting rent receipts.

Homes Reveal New Trends In Design

By W. EVANS BUCHANAN
President, National Assn. Of Home Builders

Fine new homes in all price brackets and many designs await the inspection of families throughout the country during the celebration of April as New Homes Month.

More than ever before, the new homes have been constructed with ease of liveability in mind. Blueprints were drawn with the enjoyment, comfort and convenience of the eventual owners as the guiding yardstick. The homes are unsually attractive, but also extremely functional.

Designs of the new homes vary according to regions, but nationally there appears to be something of a trend back to the two-story house. This is due to the fact that families are larger, while land prices are still rising. A two-story house provides more square footage of space for the same amount of money in many cases. However, ramblers and ranch houses are still favorites in some parts of the country, especially California and Florida, where indoor-outdoor living has virtually no dividing line.

The trend, too, is toward more bedrooms and bathrooms. There are many four-bedroom homes. Where previously you might have seen two big bedrooms and one small bedroom, you now likely will find a large master bedroom and more smaller bedrooms. The smaller bedrooms are entirely adequate to their purpose while providing the privacy of a separate room for more children.

It is impossible to single out one type of house and say it is the home of 1963. In the clothes world, you can point to a particular fashion as "the" spring style of the year. But people want more variety from which to choose when they select their homes, the center of family life.

At any rate, people resist drastic changes in the appearance of their homes. The multitude of changes that have come in recent years have been evolutionary rather than revolutionary. Many of the changes that contribute to the improved comfort of today's home regardless of its design are not apparent to the eye.

The changes include, for example, better insulation to make the homes tighter and warmer in winter while cutting cooling bills in summer. Materials used in build-

PLANNED COMMUNITIES OFFER ADVANTAGES

PLANNING for more advantageous use of land in suburban housing developments NAHB members gather around models of successful housing areas to compare modern ideas to the conventional plan shown in the foreground. Several hundred of the home builders and planners met recently for the annual NAHB convention. (See story, Page 8)

WORKING WALLS USED TO CONSERVE SPACE

A GARAGE LINER, prefinished with perforations above a wainscot, is useful in turning otherwise wasted space into an attractive working area by providing hanging space that eliminates storage. Heavy-duty hangers will bear the weight of bulky lawn and garden tools and equipment. The grooved panels, with a factory applied finish, come in man-sized four by eight sheets and can be nailed directly to studs.

BOY'S ROOM employs prefinished panels, decoratively designed to provide handsome and practical working walls within the home. Other designs and patterns of perforated hardboards are available, some with random spacing, tracery designs and even with square holes. In a child's room or a utility room an added feature is that the surfaces will wipe clean with just a damp cloth.

Carpet Styles Can Be Adapted To Fit Decor

Whether your home is elegant in the traditional manner, or smartly contemporary again proving that the "well-ary, carpets and rugs are dressed floor" is the perfect starting point for home decor.

Carpets and rugs for 1963 reveal two definite style trends: Traditional and contemporary. There's a return to elegance in a variety of traditional patterns, rich colors and soft, thick textures. At the same time, there are crisp colors, interesting textures and patterns done in the contemporary manner.

Several important color trends are seen throughout these varied stylings. Gold appears as the most important color family for 1963 — ranging from soft-burnished bronze tones to sharp clear golds, often mixed with a related color such as orange or russet.

There's a tinge of gold in other color families, too—notably in the greens, with avocado, moss and bronze greens appearing in many new styles.

Sharply contrasting colors are often seen in vivid area rugs, but in carpets there is a definite trend toward the subtle blends of color. Closely related color mixtures, such as turquoise and bronze, or reds with orange, are favored over the tweeds with a definite contrast, such as black-and-white, or the "salt-and-pepper" tweedy styles.

When carpets are not done in vivid colors, they are shown in a variety of interesting "neutrals" — mixtures of black with brown or charcoal; varying mixtures of browns and beiges. All of these have a definite color "character," however. The nondescript "neutrals" are waning in popularity.

Color, of course, goes hand in hand with texture, and the two together determine the total style effect of a carpet or rugs.

Homes—

ing today's homes also are vastly improved. Even nails have greater holding power. The unsung, and sometimes unseen, ingredients that make today's home a better home include more durable finishes, longer-lasting roofing, and maintenance-free exterior materials.

Storage Space Organized

Home builders have been giving greater attention to the design of their houses. One of the happy by-products of this —especially from the housewife's standpoint — is the abundant storage space which the new homes feature.

Storage space is organized and planned for specific items. Clothes space, for instance, is larger. The average person today has more clothes to store than a generation ago.

Home builders keep in mind the changing habits of Americans so that the houses they build will meet the needs of growing families. Builders today are aware that many families require facilities for storing outdoor games and sports equipment, such as fishing rods or skis, garden tools, garden furniture, fuel, seasonal trimmings, such as Christmas ornaments, travel equipment, toys, including tricycles, sleds and doll furniture, and all of the other appurtenances that go with modern living.

Increased attention to design has paid dividends in another way. You will find that the new homes have excellent circulation or traffic patterns. The interior arrangement is such that you can go from room to room without having to pass needlessly through a third room. Groceries can be brought from the car to the kitchen without traffic to the formal part of the home. Good traffic patterns in a home not only save steps, but help keep the house clean.

The advances made by progressive home builders have been accompanied also by greater discrimination on the part of home buyers. They have a much better idea than ever before of what to look for in selecting a home.

Test your own home IQ by visiting some of April's new homes in your area. You will love them.

New Ideas

There are countless new ideas in bathroom decoration today. It is no longer a must, for example, to install the medicine cabinet over the wash bowl. Some put the cabinet on a side wall. This leaves space for an extra-wide mirror over the vanity.

Flood Insurance Difficult To Sell

Most people who buy insurance on their homes in the form of the popular "homeowners' package policy" are aware of the fact that the policy does not provide for damages caused by floods.

But few people understand why insurance companies do not offer such coverage, according to a study undertaken by the Ohio Insurance Information Service, Inc.

The fact is, says O.I.I.S., that insurance companies over the years repeatedly have tried to offer coverages for flood and others such as wavewash and high tides which now are specifically excluded from homeowners policies.

But insurance companies have found that few people are willing to pay premiums adequate to cover the catastrophic losses involved. Rates necessarily must be high because the only people who want to buy flood insurance are those whose property is located in areas almost certain to be flooded sooner or later. Hence, it is impossible to "spread the risk," the basic tenet of all insurance.

This is the reason, O.I.I.S. reports, that losses caused by floods, high tides and wavewash are omitted under commercial insurance policies on fixed property such as homes and stores, although movable property such as an automobile can be readily insured against water damage.

Make Entrance Inviting

A tiled entrance hall has many advantages. It is easy to keep clean. It can be dramatic. There are many decorative patterns available. Special thought given to an entrance will bring dividends to you and your guests. The first view of your home should be an inviting one.

Competitive Prices Expected To Influence Home Market

Many signs indicate the presence of a good selling market for homeowners for the balance of the year, Paul J. Falco, president of the Columbus Board of Realtors said that "an authoritative national survey of buyers' intentions has found that more families intend to buy a home this year than at any time in recent years, but at the same time, competition will be the trademark for 1963."

The National Association of Real Estate Boards' Department of Research, on this subject, found in a recent survey that potential home sellers in many areas of the country are today offering their houses at more realistic prices than they were a year ago, and more in line with the market. On the other hand, in other areas, price stability in the existing house market has started to be recognized only to a limited extent, home owners still thinking in terms of market trends experienced in periods of housing shortages.

The market for existing homes will expand in the future to the degree that owners become more conscious of the present market situation.

Falco also said that sales will be facilitated by a mortgage market characterized by an abundance of loan funds at moderate interest rates as the flow of savings in various financial institutions grows. The supply of older homes is more than adequate in most places and a homeowner can no longer count on an automotic profit when he sells his house. The seller must reconcile himself to the fact that overpricing is a major handicap to making a sale within a reasonable time.

Mr. Falco indicated that for the realtor who has become well established in his business, the outlook for 1963 is good and there are buyers waiting for many types of property—but they are selective; they are looking for bargains. Many realtors have expanded their business to the use of the trade-in program.

Falco added, owners, when talking of trading their home on another home, are now compelled to take into account in their sales price, the benefits they had received for living in the home during their period of ownership. Housing is definitely a consumption item the same as clothing and food and must be treated as such in arriving at values. Some of it has been consumed by the owner during his occupancy. Inflation has abated and supply has begun to catch up with the demand, according to Falco.

Conference Spotlights Role Of Storage In Modern Home

Home builders are well aware of the importance of storage space to a homemaker and 1963 homes are being constructed with this need uppermost in mind.

Kitchens with efficient work arrangements are also high on the list of what people want in the way of a home. Many like eating areas in the kitchen. A recent Women's Housing Conference, held in Virginia Beach, Va., spotlighted the role of the kitchen in the modern home.

More than 56 per cent of the women attending said they preferred to have their main meals in the kitchen. An even greater number — 65 per cent — said they would give up bedroom space to have a larger kitchen.

Housewives like color in their kitchen and the 1963 homes have light, bright and colorful kitchens with new counter tops and other materials in a beautiful array of colors.

Most families want a home that extends beyond its walls. More and more people tend to make the outdoor area a harmonious, flowing unit rather than separately divided.

The trend also is to more bathrooms and the new bathrooms are attractive, according to modern builders with plenty of mirrors and often with vanities with storage space for towels.

Most couples with children include a recreation or playroom among their house wants. This is particularly true in large families where both the children and the parents want to entertain with a measure of privacy and without disturbing the others.

Tourists At Center

The National Housing Center is among tourist attractions in Washington, D.C. On display are the latest appliances, equipment, and materials for new homes. Visitors are welcome to roam the exhibit floors. Admittance is free and the center is open seven days a week, except for national holidays. Hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. six days a week and 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. on

HOME LOANS TO SIZE

CONSTRUCTION • CONVENTIONAL • FHA

In home design, you willingly pay extra for custom features. In a home loan, custom-tailoring actually can save you money.

You can find out quite easily at any Huntington office. An experienced loan officer will gladly explain how a flexible Huntington home loan can fit your budget as comfortably as your home fits your family. Your loan can be FHA, construction or conventional, whichever is best shaped to your present needs and future plans.

A friendly discussion now might pay you big dividends every month. Just ask for the man who can tailor a loan to fit a home.

Have A Question? Here Are Some Suggestions For Solving Your Decor Problems

Q. I have a copper-colored sofa and a moss-green chair in my living room. What do you suggest as a carpet color?

A. Since you have contrasting colors already, it would be better to choose a carpet in one of these tones, rather than introducing a third color. You might choose a carpet in a copper or moss green shade, or one blending these tones.

Q. I have a rug with a definite floral pattern. Can I also use patterned draperies?

A. Probably not. Although it is sometimes possible to use two definite patterns in a room — if one is large-scale and one is small-scale, for example — it's usually best to let one pattern dominate, especially in a large area such as the floor. Your draperies, however, might have a great deal of texture interest or a muted color combination.

Q. Should my walls and carpet be the same color?

A. This isn't necessary at all. They may be different tones of the same color—generally, with the darker shade used for the carpet—or they may be related colors. It's best to avoid directly contrasting colors in these two large areas unless the room is very large.

Q. Can tweed carpets be used with traditional furniture?

A. It depends on the variation of design. Many "tweed" carpets today are subtle mixtures of color and blend beautifully with the soft lines of traditional styling. Also, traditional furniture may be fairly simple rather than ornate. A sharp "salt-and-pepper" tweed would probably not be compatible with very elaborate period furniture — but between these two extremes, there are many possibilities.

Q. I would like to use a room-sized rug in a living room with a bay window. Would it look awkward?

A. Room-size rugs leave a border of floor showing all around the room — usually, eight to 10 inches from the wall. You might prefer a room-fit rug—cut to fit the contours of the room, including the bay window. Or you might use a rug showing a narrow border of floor and accent the bay window area with a handsome area rug.

Carpets Have Proven A Comfortable And Welcome Addition To The Kitchen

It finally happened. Carpet has made it to the kitchen.

And so now it is entirely possible to make the midnight raid on the family refrigerator and not make a sound . . . unless you fall over the kitchen table or something.

Yes, a carpeted kitchen is quieter and reportedly more comfortable to work in. In many cases the kitchen has become a pleasant second family room after the addition of a carpet.

Satisfied users say maintenance is a pleasant surprise. Vacuum-cleaning takes the place of scrubbing, waxing and polishing. Spot cleaning is a matter of just a few minutes.

Practically all spots and stains can be removed from the normal carpet with a detergent and water solution, or a cleaning fluid for oily stains. Best of all, routine cleaning can be done at regular intervals. If you're interrupted there's no problem like with waxing or a scrubbing job. Just come back later and take up where you've left off.

The quick and easy use of a vacuum cleaner or carpet sweeper instantly gives the kitchen a neat "picked-up" look which is a head start on the spotless appearance of any room.

Experts say that nylon carpets are most frequently used in the kitchen since they resist rapid moisture absorption and can be readily cleaned of any water stains.

Comfort, quiet, beauty and easy maintenance are all factors that are especially important to the room where a housewife spends a big part of her busy day. This fact probably accounts for the reason that many homemakers who have tried carpeted kitchens are no longer skeptical, but are enthusiastic about their discovery.

Chemicals Can Take The Place Of Constant Weeding

If you've been a shareholder in "Weekend Weeding" for the past couple of summers, the advice of this column is sell—but fast. And invest instead in chemicals—lawn and garden chemicals.

They'll earn the plaudits of your neighbors, and your dividends — in the form of a healthy, green lawn — will be constant and appreciable.

When you "bought" WW (a wild "growth" issue, incidentally), you rationalized that you'd save money. But did you? And what about your time? Apply the yardstick of the going rate on your regular job, and you'll find that you've been employing a pretty high-priced weed control system. And probably a none too effective one at that.

This year why not let the chemicals do your feeding and weeding, while you put your time to more profitable and enjoyable use?

Feeding plants is like feeding people. Both need easily accessible sources of nutrition in their youth and a continuous balanced diet during their entire life.

More than 15 food elements are considered essential to plant growth. Of these, 12 come from the soil, and three are obtained from air and water. The primary food elements are nitrogen, phosphorus, and potash.

Nitrogen gives the dark green coloring to plants, promotes rapid growth and fullness. Phosphorous stimulates early root formation and growth. Potash (potassium) provides plant vigor and disease resistance, as well as stepped-up food production.

Mother Nature supplies the air and — in most cases — the water. (She uses chemical compounds, too.) So that just leaves the feeding and weeding — and in some instances disease control.

An excellent food for all lawns is a 20-10-10 turf food, a balanced combination of nitrogen, phosphorous, and potash, fortified with iron to impart deep greening and combat chlorosis. Phosphorous and potash are long lasting, but nitrogen isn't always. Modern turf food formulations, however, contain "Uramite M" fertilizer compound, a unique fertilizer developed by Du Pont to control the release of nitrogen to the grass as it is needed. Such turf food provides an immediate feeding to the soil that greens grasses quickly, and a long-lasting feeding that keeps it green and healthy for months.

Turf food should be applied in early spring, again in the summer, and — for best results — once more in the fall. One 22-pound bag covers 5,000 square feet of lawn area.

Good turf food is textured for steady flow through your spreader. There should be a handy chart on each package that shows the correct setting for your particular spreader. To avoid unsightly stripes of unfed lawn, you might want to set the spreader at half the recommended opening and cover the area twice. The second time walk at right angles to the first.

If your lawn has been invaded by broadleaf weeds like plantain, dandelion, buttercup, and chickweed, you can feed and weed in one application of 20-10-10 turf food containing 2,4-D weed killer. Apply in the same manner as turf food, and one 22-pound bag treats the same 5,000-square-foot area.

Most lawns look best if kept to a height of one and a half to two inches. If the lawn is to be used as a play area for children, you will be wise to keep it somewhat higher, from two to two and a half inches.

Fence Brings Value, Beauty

A good fence makes good sense, in terms of creating a feeling of privacy, visually defining property lines, and adding a design dimension to the homesite.

Fences help integrate the relationship of house to lot, and contribute much to the landscape planning and the overall architectural scheme.

For the new house, fencing and patio screens or walls immediately take away the awkward "unfinished" look new houses have until landscaping is completed. And if your house looks too similar to those next door, distinctive fencing will make it stand out as individual.

An excellent material for decorative fences and for patio enclosures, sun traps and windbreaks is tempered hardboard. Tempered hardboard has been specially treated at the factory to make it harder and tougher. Thus it is more resistant to changing hot summer and cold winter weather conditions.

The smooth surface of tempered hardboard panels takes paint well and paint will lend beauty and long life to exterior applications of this moisture-resistant material.

There are many functions that a fence can serve, as definition of lot lines and yard areas, as a background for planting, to shut out sun and wind. For wind and sun, fence design directly affects the temperature you feel. The sun will feel warmer, for example, if the fence screens the wind.

For wind control, a solid fence is only one-third as efficient in protecting against high winds as a slat fence. This is because a solid fence creates a wave of air that splashes over the fence, whereas a slat fence diffuses, or filters, the stream of air.

Solid fences erected to provide privacy can deflect the wind better if a slanting baffle is added to the top to force air to flow over the fence in a gentle arc.

Painting Can Solve Room Size And Shape Problems

You can "change a room's dimensions" if you know the magic tricks of paint color. In this day, when every room may not be the answer to your dream-house architecturally these problem-solving hints from the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association come in handy, indeed.

First, some basic color facts.

The lightness or darkness of a color radically affects the illusion of size. Try this test yourself to see how it works. Place side by side identical objects, one in black, the other in white, since these are dark and light extremes. See how the white seems larger and farther away, the black smaller and closer.

So it is with walls.

White or pastels (which are only colors tinted generously with white) will open up a small area and "enlarge" it. But if you wish to diminish the wide open spaces of a cavernous room, deep shades will seem to draw the walls coolly together.

Now the color itself.

You may have heard them described as "warms" or "cools." The easiest way to tell which is which, is to relate them to familiar things. Like the sun, like flame, the warm colors are variations of orange, red or yellow. They seem nearer to you and make rooms smaller.

Conversely, like the sky, like water, variations of blue, violet, green and gray are the airier "cools." They make objects appear to recede. Therefore, rooms look larger.

These colors will actually make you feel warmer or cooler mentally. So take this into consideration along with the size of the room before you paint. For instance, a pastel yellow will seem to enclose you more than a pastel blue, even though they are both pale. So if you're painting a long, narrow corridor you might very well prefer choosing your pastel from the cool family.

Speaking of long, narrow rooms, it is best to break them up with color. Favorite decorator tricks are painting the two narrow ends in a deep, warm shade and keeping walls light. This shortens the length considerably to your mind's eye. If the ceiling is abnormally high, pull it together with the floor by painting them both in the same deep shade.

In any room, this ceiling rule holds true: too high, keep the color deep; too low, lift it with a light color.

A half-wall jutting out from nowhere splits a room's symmetry. Since you can't disguise this architecture, dramatize it with a bright, warm shade. This might be the focal point of a furniture grouping or prize painting. More interest is added to a too-square room with this technique, too.

You can afford to chop up space with contrasting-color woodwork and doors only if the room is big enough to take it. Otherwise, paint all. Everything blends. The same goes for radiators, pipes, lighting fixtures, extraneous molding and other such eyesores foisted upon you. They will fade away.

Using top quality paint makes the most of your budget. Only the best will look the way you want it, wear and cover properly.

Protect Your Plants They Add Value To Your Home

Not many things consumers purchase will become more valuable with time. However this is true with well-cared-for trees and shrubs on a home owner's property, says the American Association of Nurserymen.

A $10 tree, properly cared for, in a period of 10 years or more may cost up to $100 or more to replace. There are reasons for this. Not only is the growing tree an investment, increasing in value, but the labor costs for planting trees multiplies as the trees get larger.

Most home owners prefer to plant the average sizes, usually from one to one and a half inch diameter of the trunk, while other prefer larger trunk diameter of two and a half inches and upward, in order to provide immediate fruit, or shade as the case may be.

These trees of course cost more, but the home owners are willing to pay more for immediate results.

Other home owners, especially young couples, can watch their trees grow in size and value.

If they wish to sell the home, good landscaping will increase the total value considerably, up to 20 per cent more being reported in some cases.

On the other hand, houses poorly planted or without any planting of significance deteriorate in value more rapidly.

Good landscaping often can be worth up to 10 times its cost after the first 10 years or so; and, when and if the house is sold, can be one of the best investments a family can make.

Nurserymen members of the association are equipped with the proper knowledge to advise home owners on how to plant properly to increase real estate value.

HOMES OF MANY LANDS . . .

The Swiss Alps Farm House

The mountainous terrain of South Switzerland is the locale for this geranium bedecked farm house. The extremely cold winters explain the small windows and thick stone wall construction. Hay, cured on the mountain side the summer before, is stored in the attic and proves to be valuable insulation. The timbers of the upper stories and gables have a handsome coloration due to the drying effects of the sun in the thin atmosphere. The economy of the area is dominated by dairy cattle, producers of world-famous Swiss cheeses.

300 New Homes Now Being Built By Vilardo Builders

A new housing area known as Asbury Heights is being developed by Vilardo Builders on Noe-Bixby-rd to offer the well-known Vilardo Homes at moderate prices to the discriminating buyers.

According to Vilardo President Phillip J. Vilardo, many persons have been interested in buying a Vilardo home in the past but have found the prices to be prohibitive. Now, said Vilardo, the firm is developing Asbury Park to offer new homes with prices starting at $15,750.

Asbury Park, to be opened May 5, will feature six new model homes, all containing one and a half or two baths. The area is located one-half mile north of route 33 (Canal Winchester-pk), from 3521 to 3567 Noe-Bixby-rd. When completed Asbury Park will be a 300 home community.

Vilardo Builders was founded as a family business consisting of the father, Frank Vilardo, and his sons, Phillip and Danny. A third son, Samuel, heads Sam Vilardo and Co., Realtors, 1341 S. Hamilton-rd, the exclusive agent for Vilardo Homes.

Asbury Park will be completely constructed by the trained crew of Vilardo Builders and sold only by Sam Vilardo and Company.

Recipes

A beautiful home-made cake, tender, moist and delicious, is a source of pride and pleasure for the woman who created it.

Fudge Cupcakes

Shortening, ¼ cup
Unsweetened chocolate, 2 sqs.
Water, ½ cup
Sugar, ½ cup
Vanilla, 1 teaspoon
Cake flour, 1 cup
Salt, ½ teaspoon
Baking powder, ½ teaspoon
Baking soda, ½ teaspoon
Egg, 1
Sour or buttermilk, ¼ cup.

Melt shortening and chocolate in 1½-qt. saucepan over low heat; blend in water and sugar; cool to rooom temperature; add vanilla. Sift flour, measure, add salt, baking powder and soda; sift again. Add egg to chocolate mixture in sauce pan; beat well.

Add flour mixture alternately with milk, blend well after each addition; beat till smooth. Fill muffin pans greased or lined with paper baking cups two-thirds full. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) about 18 minutes. Makes one dozen medium or one-and-one-half dozen small cupcakes.

Richmond Chocolate Frosting

1½ tablespoons cornstarch
⅓ cup sugar
1 one-ounce unsweetened chocolate grated
Dash salt
⅓ cup boiling water
1½ tablespoons butter
½ teaspoon vanilla

Mix sugar and cornstarch; add chocolate and salt. Add water, cook until mixture thickens. Remove from heat; add butter and vanilla. Spread on cake while hot for a glossy frosting which remains soft and smooth.

Nowadays there's no trick to making perfect cakes. Even amateur cooks can bake cakes that meet with the approval of experienced cake-eaters. With today's carefully tested food products such as double-acting baking powder and delicate cake flour, plus modern kitchen appliances such as mixers and automatic electric ovens, even the inexperienced cook can enjoy consistently excellent cake-baking results.

Modern electric ovens, especially, have taken the guesswork out of baking cakes. Since accurately controlled heat that's evenly distributed throughout the oven is a vital part of perfect cake making, any woman—or her teenage daughter—who will follow directions carefully can bake perfect cakes consistently.

RESEMBLING NATURAL brook pebbles, small chips of translucent vinyl provide an intriguing design effect for this new vinyl flooring. True wall-to-wall beauty can be obtained with durable vinyl flooring that is manufactured in sheet form six-feet wide. Custom designs of contrasting colors in the same flooring material add an attractive decorating extra. Sheet vinyl flooring, installed virtually without seams, offers an extremely easy-to-maintain floor for this remodeled breakfast area.

New Designs And Brighter Colors For Floor Coverings To Be Produced In 1963

The "beige age" in resilient flooring is still going strong, but 1963 is certain to see brighter colors and more design make a noticeable appearance.

As home owners this year prepare for their various remodeling and fix-up projects, they will find a much wider selection of new types of flooring products with more pattern and more vivid colors than have been available in recent years, according to interior designers.

Parallel to the desire for more design in other home furnishings, the resilient flooring industry is reflecting consumer interest in a wider range of more pronounced patterns. Both realistic and stylized versions of traditional flooring effects, such as marble, ceramic tile, small scale geometrics and stone, should continue to be popular.

Consistent with the trend toward more design in flooring, 1963 should find an increased use of specified inserts, feature strips and other custom effects to provide floors with individuality. This trend will be most noticeable in luxury tile and vinyl flooring in sheet form six-feet wide, but custom designs are also making an appearance this year in the less expensive installations where materials such as vinyl-asbestos tile are selected.

The use of more vivid colors will become especially noticeable in resilient flooring materials in 1963. In the past, resilient flooring color preferences followed color trends established in other areas of residential interior design. In 1963, color choices in resilient flooring will start to "lead" other color trends.

This new interest in brighter colors and unusual designs in resilient flooring has developed partially from the changes in residential construction with the advent of ranch houses and open-plan construction. The versatility of vinyl has permitted flooring manufacturers to offer the consumer a wider choice of colors and unusual design effects.

"Because the floor occupies such a large physical portion of any room," Mrs. Margaret Gordon Dana, A.I.D., supervisor of Armstrong's Bureau of Interior Design, says, "the selection of flooring material is one of the first considerations in decorating."

The role of the floor in residential interior design has changed considerably in recent years. It has changed from merely "something to walk on" to a vital part of interior design. Flooring materials must coordinate and complement all of the elements involved in modern interiors.

Resilient flooring, with its broad selection of colors and designs, has introduced many new products in recent years and is on the threshold of announcing other exciting effects in new, versatile materials that only a few years ago were not much more than dreams.

A Retreat From City Life Offered By Suburban Living

By Ron Barlow

I guess it's pretty hard for a boy from the country to get used to big-city living. The hustle and bustle of metropolitan life, the tall buildings, the lost feeling of being a stranger, the continual racket of traffic and the enormous size are almost too much for someone used to a little town, where everybody knows everybody else and you can throw a stone from the center of town to the city limits in any direction.

This probably is reason No. 1 for my speedy retreat to a suburb almost before the ink was dry on my application for a job in the city.

I was looking for a quiet street, grass-filled lawns and small-town friendliness you find in a suburban community. Even though I had nine hours a day to spend in the hustle and bustle I wanted to get back to a small town on my own time. It all added up to the fact I wanted to get away from it all. All, in this case, meaning the city.

We found a little nest in the west (West Side of Columbus), and moved in. It was a nearly new home, comfortably constructed, with adequate conveniences and the usual amount of crab grass. Even the trees and shrubs were new and the fun of watching them grow was included in the price of the house. (Who buys an old tree?)

The things I didn't like about my new domain I figured I could change myself, and I immediately made elaborate plans to spend many relaxing hours in the yard planting, replanting and adding personal improvements. My back might get sore but I would be relaxed.

My neighbors turned out to be folks just like me. They had kids, liked to get together for an evening of cards, enjoyed getting away from it all and had sore backs from working in the yard.

And like me the neighbors are mostly from small communities and like to include atmosphere of home-town living in the neighborhood.

Those would be main reasons suburban living appeals to me. Ask a dozen suburbanites why they like to live away from the city and you'll probably get a dozen different answers. And you can bet they'll all be good ones.

Design Galleries Offer Professional Interiors

Unless you're an expert yourself, you will probably need professional guidance in interior design. Not only will it save time, but also the needless expense of buying furniture, carpeting or draperies only to find they do not work out to your advantage.

Design Galleries, Interior Designers, offers professional aid in selecting everything you need to bring your planned interiors to life, tailored to your individual needs and achieving the best overall design possible.

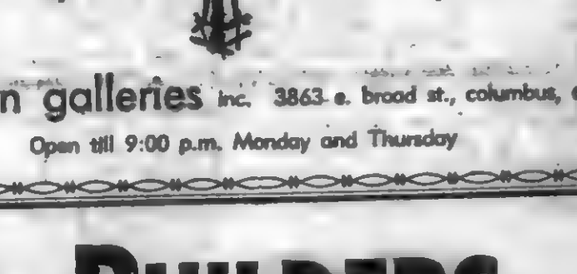
Appointments can be arranged at either the Design Galleries studio or in your own home by calling 237-2207. A qualified professional can then offer his services on selection of color, wall covering, drapery treatments, furniture arrangements, picture placements, accessories and other interior design problems.

SHORT CUT

When sawing an intricate design, tape pattern to wood; then cut through both at once.

STOP SPILLS

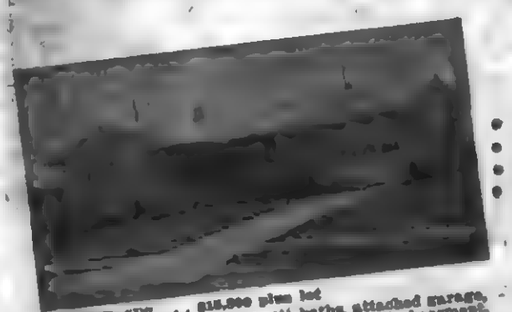
No need to spill liquids poured into smaller mouthed containers, when no funnel is available. Hold a pencil over mouth of bottle with tip pointed where liquid should go. Pour slowly and steadily. Liquid will follow pencil.



CLEANING BRUSHES

If liquid paint brush cleaner isn't available, emulsify paint by working an all-purpose liquid detergent into bristles.

LONG REACH



When painting high, out-of-the-way places, tape or tie a wooden or aluminum extension pole to the handle of your brush or roller.

For the most Discriminating
A mood of elegance set into everyday living can be an artful enchantment with unique design and subtle interplay of colors.
Only thru DESIGN GALLERIES' professional designers can this coordination be achieved.
Visit our studio-showroom today . . . or phone 237-2207 for appointment at home.
It will be our pleasure to serve you.

Forest Park Offers Homes By Many Columbus Builders

Forest Park, now being developed by Metzger Brothers Co. Inc., 4160 Indianola-av, has the distinction of being the first self-contained community in Columbus.

The community has been developed in such a manner that it will include a nature trail park, playground, elementary and junior high school, swim and tennis club, 16-lane bowling center and a grocery covering a 7000-square foot area. Every possible service and convenience is being planned and offered to residents of this new community.

Another interesting concept in the development is the diversified and varied selection of homes being offered to buyers. At present homes have been built in the community by 38 different builders who in some cases have constructed as many as 11 different types of homes. The large volume of quality homes each builder produces enables them to construct custom homes for near project prices.

Home sales in the new area are being handled by Metzger Brothers Realty Co. and have so far averaged more than one new home per day since the beginning of the project two years ago.

Many persons buying homes in Forest Park already own homes in another location and these properties must be sold or traded in order to buy a new home. Metzger Brothers have tailored their organization to include an existing home sales department which has proven very successful in finding buyers for trade-in homes.

A spokesman for Metzger Brothers said the plan has been so successful that the department is constantly in need of additional existing homes.

The 1961 committee for the Columbus Home Builders "Parade of Homes" selected Forest Park to display 38 different model homes. At the present time 19 model homes are on display in the Forest Park area and several builders are in the process of preparing 34 new models for display in June.

Anyone interested in purchasing a new home is invited to visit Forest Park and see the many model homes on display by various local builders. This area has proven to be a new and successful concept in construction and development within easy driving distance, up the north freeway, of anyone in the Columbus area.

OLD BEDFRAME USE

Top of a discarded bedframe with a few 4" boards, and it makes a great off-the-floor storage platform for screens, storm windows, fireplace logs or bags of fertilizer, cement, etc.

Three Ways To Buy Insulation

Batts (in 4 and 8-foot lengths) are usually preferred for installation in walls.

Blankets (usually in 50-foot rolls) are often best adapted for ceilings or for floors above crawl spaces.

"Fill type" insulation comes loose in bags. It is simply poured between the attic floor joists and smoothed to any even depth.

Insulation materials are made of mineral wool, rock wool, fiber glass, slag, paper pulp, gypsum, asbestos, cork, aluminum foils, vermiculite, cotton and other vegetable and mineral matter.

Proper Mowing Important In Planning Healthy Lawn

By DR. W. A. LIDDELL

In the good old days, mowing the lawn used to be work, but the power mower — gasoline or electric — has changed all that. Today, it is a mild form of exercise — not even that, if you have one with a sulky seat and a fringe on top! — giving us time to concentrate on some of the whys and therefores of this gentle art.

Each is good. The reel type is good for maintaining a close-cropped, even-textured, well graded lawn. The rotary has the edge for lawns with uneven grades and for hard-to-get-at-places. The rotary type is usually less expensive, easier to sharpen, and better at cutting tall grass; but it can be a dangerous instrument if not handled carefully. Whichever kind you choose, keep the cutting edges sharp.

How High to Cut?

Unless you prefer to adjust the machine according to the season — lower for close clipping in the spring and fall, higher for the stress conditions of midsummer — a good average is a cutting height of 1¼ to 1½ inches, providing of course, that your lawn receives its normal requirements of plant food during the season.

On most reel mowers the height of the cut is controlled by adjusting the roller next to the stationary blade. Some are adjusted by shims or shoes extending in front of the machine. Always make adjustments on a level surface, so you can accurately measure the height between the stationary blade and the ground. For rotary mowers, the height is often controlled by adjusting the wheels.

How Often?

This depends a lot on how fast your lawn is growing, but generally, frequent light clipping tends to stimulate leaf growth, provided soil fertility and moisture are ample. Since leaves play an important part in photosynthesis, the process by which plants use light to create plant tissue, it is a poor practice to remove more than a third of the leaf growth at one time. This again argues for frequent clipping rather than occasional heroic scalping.

Mowing a New Lawn

Wait until the grass is about three inches high. By then the plants should be well established, but it is most important to use a sharp mower, as they may not be firmly anchored and may be torn from the soil easily by a dull or poorly adjusted machine.

If possible, roll the new lawn area with a very light or even empty, water-ballast roller the day before the first mowing, to firm the plants in the soil, and help prevent them from being yanked up by the mower.

Mow when the grass is either dry or only slightly moist, and plan to remove excess clippings to prevent smothering of the young plants. After the first mowing, you can follow the practice for regular mowing recommended above.

If you mow often, leave the clippings. They won't be unsightly and in time will add organic matter to your soil. After a two-week vacation, though you may want to remove the clippings to prevent smothering the growing grass. Clippings make an excellent mulch for the garden, if your lawn is big enough to yield a significant volume and if you don't mind the small effort involved in raking.

To give your lawn an even texture, and to prevent the development of a "grain," or striped pattern, plan to mow at a different angle each time. This will encourage the grass to grow erect, preventing a more even and attractive appearance.

1. Use a good, sharp mower.
2. Mow at a height of 1¼-1½ in.
3. Remove only ⅓ to ⅔ inch at a time.
4. Suit yourself about the clippings.

NOISE CAN BE SOFTENED

YOUNG GLADIATORS are nice, but noisy to have around the house—especially when people are trying to carry on a conversation nearby. Fortunately though, there's a way to keep this noise under control without relegating the kids to a back bedroom. Modern acoustical ceilings are designed to "soak up" unwanted sounds and keep them from spreading all over the house. An average acoustical ceiling costs little, and can be put up by the family do-it-yourselfer in less than a weekend.

PAINT STRAINER

Strain lumps and sediments out of a can of paint by pouring slowly through a double thickness of cheesecloth that has been tied over the mouth of an empty jar or pail.

CARE FOR MARBLE

Prevent stains and abrasions on marble furniture tops by washing frequently with a mild, neutral detergent and keeping waxed with a thin coat of paste wax.

Built-In Storage Units End Home Clutteration

Is your family always looking for things? If the time spent by families searching for missing articles could be computed, it would undoubtedly run into millions of hours each year.

Which, in many a home, points up the importance of somewhere, somehow developing additional storage facilities, to the end that there shall be "a place for everything, and every thing in its place."

One of the most versatile and adaptable forms of storage unit is the storage wall. This type of storage, which would be equally at home if placed in any room in the house, may be either straight storage or a combination storage and activity center (known as a "living wall").

The key to successful storage walls, be they "living walls" or straight storage, lie in careful planning and assessment of individual needs plus correct choice of construction material.

If solid lumber is used for a storage wall, the wall can be effectively integrated with the rest of the room—particularly if the room is paneled with matching lumber.

As for the where and what of storage walls, straight storage is most commonly incorporated in kitchens, bedrooms (or dressing rooms) and bathrooms; "living walls" are adapted to family and living rooms.

The beauty of the straight storage wall is the fact that it assures that all the items to be stored are consolidated, keeps the articles within easy reach out of sight, and it obviates the necessity for a full complement of bulky furniture.

Although the straight storage wall is usually built along one wall in a room, it may also serve as a room divider, perhaps separating sleeping from dressing area or creating separate activity areas in a child's room.

Combination, or living, walls are limited only by family interests and imagination.

The activity wall is self-explanatory. It might be dedicated to a hobby or series of hobbies such as tropical fish aquariums, the storage of paraphernalia for painting or flower arranging, for photographic equipment or might even include a built-in sewing machine.

On the other hand, the activity wall might be, in essence, an entertainment wall which would include built-in television, a movie screen, stereo and hi-fi equipment, etc. Or it might be built around a large stationary object such as a piano or organ.

Obviously, ending "clutteration" via built-in storage units can, at the same time, make a home much more livable.

Fine-Tooth Comb

Starting brads is one of the hardest of chores. There is always the danger of hitting a finger. Try holding the brad with a comb until it gets started. It may make the job easier and faster.

BUILT-INS store anything from sportswear to hobby gear in this boy's room. Wood is western pine.

FIT FOR A QUEEN

Built-in automatic dishwashers, which fit into standard size cabinet spaces, make it easy to include automatic dishwashing in your new kitchen plans. Or you can choose a convertible model that fits flush with counter tops and fronts on adjoining cabinets, or a portable unit that rolls under the counter when you're not using it.

The Yardener

Flowers Forever, Almost

Try this way to preserve those choice blooms from your garden: Mix one part glycerine and two parts water, put into proper size container and submerge flower stems in the solution for about two weeks.

HANDS OFF

Family won't mistake furnace and other infrequently used controls for light switches if you tape a small loop of cardboard over switches not to be touched.

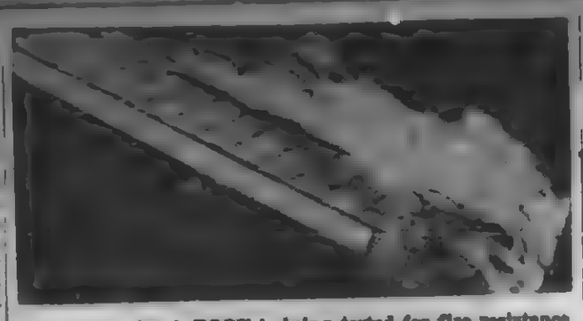
Attic Fan Helps Cool Warm Night

The installation of an attic fan has proved an inexpensive means of cooling a home, and one that is especially effective on those hot, steamy nights of summer that sometimes make sleeping extremely difficult.



Here's the principle on which an attic fan operates. During a hot day, most roofs absorb a great deal of heat. The temperature in the attic can soar as high as 30 degrees. Then, in the evening, when outdoor temperatures may drop as much as 20 degrees, this accumulated heat is radiated downward, through the rest of the house, so that living areas scarcely have a chance to cool off.

An attic fan [illegible] this heat by exhausting the heat while drawing air through downstairs windows. As the cool air flows through the house, it draws heat out of the walls, ceilings and furnishings. This lowers the temperature throughout the house.

Attic fans range in size from 24 to 48 inches in diameter. Each is rated as to the number of cubic feet of air it can exhaust per minute.

In most areas, it is recommended that fans be large enough to effect one air change per minute, which means that a fan should have a rating equal to the cubic content of the living area of the house. This can be determined by multiplying the length and width of each floor of the home to compute its total floor area. Then multiply this figure by the ceiling height.

The best location for the fan is on the attic floor, near the center of the house. The fan is installed horizontally over a square opening which is cut through the top floor ceiling.

PART OF A ROOF is being tested for fire resistance as the first step in making sure asphalt shingles qualify for a UL label. The panel of roofing pictured is being exposed to a 1,200-degree blast of flame to determine its resistance to heat and fire.

Approved Materials Should Be Considered In Contruction

Most families who live in large cities are protected by building codes that bar the use of unsafe building materials. But what about the millions who live beyond city limits, where the biggest shockwaves of the building boom have been felt?

A tragic rash of conflagrations that devastated many cities years ago spurred the adoption of ordinances calling for fire-resistant roofing on all homes in many cities. But equally strict codes have never been adopted for residential construction in many suburban areas that have sprung up in recent years.

To be on the safe side, a family planning to build or buy a home outside city limits, should see to it that the builder or contractor uses approved materials.

For example, they should insist on roofing approved by the Underwriters' Laboratories. The UL label on a bundle of asphalt shingles means that the shingles have met UL specifications for materials and have passed a rigid series of laboratory tests for fire resistance. Only those asphalt shingles that pass these stiff tests receive the UL label.

UL technicians also make frequent unannounced inspections at the asphalt roofing plants, conducting further tests to make sure the shingles continue to be manufactured according to UL specifications and that they will perform with "reasonable satisfaction."

How To Choose Contractor For An Improvement Job

Before entering into any agreement for home improvement work, it is wise to make a number of checks to be sure you are dealing with a reliable contractor.

Here are some "do's and don'ts" to guide you in selecting a contractor, which are suggested by NERSICA (National, Established Repair, Service, Improvement Contractors Association) a national association of home contractors.

Check Points

1) Deal only with established firms in the community.

2) Visit the office or showroom of the home improvement contractor to be sure that he has a financial stake in your community.

3) Ask about the contractor at your local Chamber of Commerce, Better Business Bureau, etc.

4) Check with your banker about the contractor's reputation, the number of financing jobs the bank has handled for him, and whether there have been any complaints on these jobs.

5) Speak with the sales manager of the supply company whose material the contractor plans to use. This will help you to ascertain if the contractor will deliver the grades of materials stipulated for use in the work. Ask, too, about the contractor's credit and standing.

6) Be wary of the contractor offering to cut his price if you sign immediately.

7) Be wary of the man who says, "If you sign tonight, we'll start tomorrow." Good contractors are usually busy, and complete their work in the order they get it.

8) Be wary of limited customer "recommendations" offered by the contractor. The only reliable check of this type is a list of all his customers with the privilege of checking with any of them you please.

9) Look for adequate insurance coverage. Have the contractor provide proof of public liability insurance coverage, workman's compensation, etc.

10) See detailed drawings. Have the contractor show you sketches of the planned alteration or improvement.

11) Get a completely filled-in contract. Written contract should specify the products to be used, work to be done, full price of the job. Contractor should also give you, in writing, dates of start and completion of work.

"Brush Clean" Item

12) Arrange for the "clean up." Most good contractors will include a "brush clean" item in your contract—if you want it. This guarantees the cleaning up of all debris, usually for a small sum. It is wise to include this in your contract since cleaning up, yourself, can be an arduous task.

Keep Lines Clean And Sharp Painting Walls And Ceilings

One mark of a good paint job is the skill with which the walls and ceilings are "cut in" — the distinct separation between the two areas. This is particularly important when different colors are used. The same is true of the sharpness of the separation in corners where walls of the same or different colors meet.

Here are some hints on how to prevent the ceiling color from getting on the walls, and vice versa, as well as on how to obtain a sharp demarcation between adjacent walls.

It's always best to paint the ceiling first so that splatters will not mar your newly painted walls. If you are using a latex paint, which has the virtue of not showing lapmarks, the first step is to paint a narrow strip all around the perimeter of the ceiling where it meets the walls.

You can keep the paint off the wall by protecting it with a metal strip known as a "painter's time saver" or with pieces of cardboard like the ones which the laundry uses with men's shirts. Hold the strip or cardboard against the wall as you brush or roll the paint on the ceiling. Change cardboards frequently to prevent smearing the wall and clean the under surface of the metal strip with a damp rag before moving it to a new area.

An even easier method is to buy an edging roller which is so constructed that it is impossible to deposit paaint on the walls while the strip is being painted on the ceiling.

Using a roller or brush, paint the entire ceiling, working across the width of the room. You'll find that you save a lot of time if you place a sturdy plank on the steps of two-step ladders and work on it rather than climbing up and down a single ladder. Your paint dealer also has an extension handle that screws into the roller and permits you to paint the average ceiling while standing on the floor.

If you are using an alkyd paint instead of a latex, you go about the job differently. Instead of painting a strip around the perimeter, you brush or roll on a strip only two feed wide next to the wall and then paint across the width of the ceiling. You protect the walls at either end of the room in the same way.

Once the ceiling is completely dry, an hour or less for latex (read the label) and several hours for the alkyds, you are read to paint the walls. The procedure is just the reverse of that already described. Protect the ceiling with the metal strip or cardboard while you apply the paint to the walls. Again, if you are using a latex, you can paint a strip all around the perimeter of the room and then complete the job. If you're applying an alkyd paint, paint an area two feet wide or so, working from the ceiling toward the baseboard.

Whatever paint you use, always work from a dry area into a wet one.

The same techniques are used in painting two walls that meet at right angles and which are to be of different colors or even when the same wall is being painted in two colors to define different areas. Using the cardboard guard, or edging roller, protect the already painted wall (after making sure it is completely dry) and apply a narrow strip of the second color to the adjacent wall.

U-L Label Needed For FHA Or VA Loan

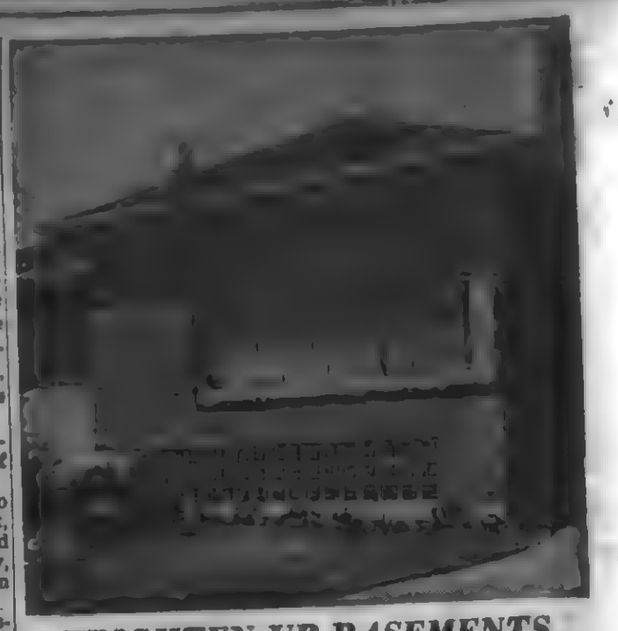
If you finance a new house with an FHA-insured mortgage, the asphalt roof shingles must bear an Underwriters' Laboratories label. The Federal Housing Administration makes this requirement in its standards, which are intended to result in "better and more economical housing for American families."

The Veterans Administration has a similar requirement for new homes purchased with VA mortgages. Federal specifications exert the same control for buildings built for the U.S. government itself.

Home buyers who buy houses with mortgages in which the government is not involved can be sure they have roofing of the same quality if they themselves check to make sure that UL-labeled roofing material is used.

Lot-O-Lite Is Now Available

Is there a thief lurking in your area? The easiest, most economical way to outwit him and others of his "ilk" is to have installed a new "Lot-O-Lite."



Whether you live on a farm, operate a factory, want your home or small business protected, or have a need for an automatic dusk to dawn light for school or church, "Lot-O-Lite" is the answer to your problem.

There's no investment and no down payment, and "Lot-O-Lite" can be installed for as low as $3.50 a month. This low price includes free maintenance, lamp replacement and installation, as well as the cost of electricity to operate it. "Lot-O-Lite" provides modern light for driveway, garage, livestock and grain handling areas, machine storage and other outbuildings.

For industrial use, it helps prevent accidents on loading docks and other service areas, provides convenience and protection for night-shift employes and helps ward off theft and vandalism.

For residential — ideal for suburban and rural residences in lighting drives and rear yard areas.

Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Company, 215 N. Front-st, can give you all the details about installing "Lot-O-Lite."

BRIGHTEN UP BASEMENTS

WHEN BRIGHTER BASEMENTS are built it's very likely glass blocks will be used to build them, in part at least. Since glass blocks can be installed in any size opening, they are a versatile way to introduce natural daylight into an area of the house that is most often dependent on electricity for proper illumination. Installed in a former window area or in a horizontal row to bring out the long, low lines of contemporary architecture, glass blocks can be beautiful as well as functional. Their four-inch thickness provides an insulation value equivalent to an eight-inch masonary wall. An additional advantage is the safety factor this type of unit provides by eliminating the easy slip-open type of entrance frequently used for illegal home entry.

Color Schemes Easy To Make

There are three kinds of color schemes you can plan for your home: Monochromatic, related and contrasting.

Monochromatic schemes are made up of the various tints and shades of one color —light, medium and dark green, for example. It's always a good idea to use a dash of contrasting color in accessories.

Related schemes are made up of closely-related colors —blue with green, or orange with gold. These color schemes are easy to plan, and you'll see related colors combined in a variety of carpets and decorative fabrics.

Contrasting schemes are made up of directly opposite colors — such as red with Green, or blue with gold. It's advisable to have the walls and the floor in shades of the same color.

Builders Now Seek Better Planning For Use Of Land

America, the spacious, is running out of elbow room.

Land has become a limited resource. Its cost is soaring. Our population is increasing. Wasteful and extravagant uses of land are the main causes of this economic problem which confronts virtually every section of the country.

What can be done about it so as to provide more homes for more families at all income levels?

For years, the National Association of Home Builders has been making a serious effort to promote ways of community development that will eliminate land waste and keep costs within reach of lower and moderate income families, according to Robert C. Ledermann, Director, Community Facilities Department, NAHB.

It is clear that residential zoning in the conventional sense cannot do this job. Regulations that require a half acre or an acre lot for every home are so unrealistic as to be ridiculous.

Some of the new concepts in land development are as exciting as they are promising, says Ledermann.

One is the cluster plan. Homes are grouped or clustered in a manner that makes it possible to build on a smaller lot and yet have greater privacy for each home. The frontage of a lot under this plan may be reduced 20 per cent and one-third in overall dimension. The saving in lot size makes possible an open area for park or playground. This green stretch not only offers recreational opportunities but enhances the appearance of the community.

To show what can be done, the NAHB plotted the development of a theoretical 50-acre subdivision using the conventional concept, and then replanned the same subdivision using the cluster idea.

Under the conventional plan, 102 lots were laid out. But the cluster plan made possible 125 lots. In addition, a total of 16½ acres or just about one-third of the entire tract became, under the cluster plan, common, usable open space. Under the conventional development, there was no such open space.

Intersections — possible points of hazard—were reduced from seven in the conventional layout to four in the cluster plan. Street frontage similarly was cut from 5,840 linear feet to 5,425 linear feet. The total street area was shrunk by almost two acres so that it comprised only 14 per cent of the total tract area instead of 17 per cent under the conventional development.

Length of sewer and water lines also were cut — representing substantial savings.

Not all cluster developments would follow this plan. However, many variations are possible. It is generally recognized now that diversity is desirable and that communities benefit from the blending of different types of housing.

Town houses — or, as they once were called, row houses —can be included in the new pattern of community development. They appeal to those who do not want much grass to mow and who are looking for a minimum of maintenance responsibility.

Town or row houses today, properly grouped, can be an attractive addition to a neighborhood, while still providing economical housing. They offer especially good housing for older or retired persons.

It isn't likely or possible that every subdivision can be converted into this particular type of development. But some means can be found to increase the density of development in certain suburban areas to prevent the spread of "urban sprawl" and make it possible for municipal services such as bus lines, police, fire fighting, street lighting, garbage collection and all the rest, to be economically maintained rather than spread out in an even thinner net.

In years ahead, says Ledermann, we must be able to accommodate more people in a given area, rather than just the same number, as is now so often the case. In many areas this will require revision of local governmental policies which now increase housing costs and decrease efficient use of land.

To a large degree, responsibility rests upon local municipal officials to take a long and understanding look at the future.

Cooling Unit Can Utilize Heating Line

Cooling engineers have developed a variety of systems so that air conditioning can be installed in any type of house, regardless of the type of heating system used.

A combination hydronic system uses heating-cooling convector units installed in each room of the house. The central power source — a boiler and water chiller — is usually located in the basement.

Hot water and chilled water are circulated to the units through a common tubing system. Each convector unit has a fan, filter, cooling-heating coil and a thermostat for room by room temperature control.

Same Ducts Used

Combination warm air systems use a furnace and cooling unit, usually located in the basement, as the power source. Warm air and cool air are circulated through the same duct system. It's important, however, that ducts be accurately sized. Cooling requires larger ducts than those used for heating alone. If ducts are sized for heating only, the cooling system may not operate efficiently.

Combination heating-cooling systems are not always more economical to install than separate heating and cooling systems. In certain types of construction, for instance, a separate hot water baseboard heating system with a separate cooling system may be more economical than a combination heating-cooling duct system.

To combine cooling equipment with a heating system at a later time, special provisions for air conditioning must be made when the house is constructed. If these provisions are not made, then a separate cooling system may be required.

Some cooling equipment is especially designed for installation independently of the heating system. This equipment also can be installed during construction or later. For instance, a separate chilled air unit can be used with any type heating system since it functions independently of the heating system. This central cooling system is suitable for modernization is small or medium size homes.

Unit Placement

The cooling unit can be installed in unused space in the attic, garage, hall or closet. Cooling registers, or outlets, are usually located near the ceiling of each room.

A separate chilled water unit can also be used with any type of heating system. It also functions independently of the heating system, and is easily installed in homes located in regions not requiring heating. This unit is suitable for central cooling for new construction or modernization, but especially for multi-story or rambling designs in which zone control is necessary for best results.

This system contains a single cooling unit, remotely located in the basement, which sends chilled water through small tubing to several heavy-duty convectors which have individual temperature controls.

IN THE KITCHEN

Modernizing Job Gets High Priority

Napoleon said an army "travels on its stomach"—and most mothers will tell you that the same thing is true of a family. Which makes the cook and her "theater of operations" mighty important, and is why so many families in setting up their schedules of home improvement, give top priority to the modernization or remodeling of the kitchen.

A good approach to the whole subject of "re-doing" the kitchen is to ask yourself this question — if you were buying a new home, what kind of kitchen would you want? Then compare this "dream room" with your present kitchen. The chances are the two rooms are not very much alike, but they could be.

Remodeling and modernization can change the size, shape and efficiency of your kitchen as well as its appearance, at a cost that may well be considerably less than you now think.

One of the first things you should do is to make a list of everything you wish to replace, together with all of the additional appliances or fixtures you want.

Very early in your planning it is a good idea to consult with specialists. There is an abundance of professional help available to you. You can work with an architect or kitchen designer, a kitchen cabinet dealer, a store which may offer you a complete "kitchen package" or the home economists of a utility company. Do not hesitate to ask for bids or estimates, especially if the job will involve major structural changes.

Depending on financial or other factors, you can do an overall job of remodeling or modernization at one time, or can make your desired changes a step at a time, major appliance center by appliance center, until the job is finished.

If you take the latter course, be sure to plan ahead for the future installations of wiring and plumbing that will be required to complete the picture of your "dream kitchen."

The newest concept in kitchen planning is to analyze the kitchen according to work there in number, (1) basically threein number, (1) the stove or cooking area, (2) the sink or cleaning area, and (3) the storage area.

A dining and food planning area is often included. To plan a kitchen that is easiest to use, the first step is to decide exactly what is needed in each area. The best coordination of the work areas with one another will follow naturally.

Worth considering in planning a program of kitchen modernization are these basic characteristics of the up-to-date kitchen.

(1) Step-saving. Kitchens are planned for time-and-step-saving convenience. Appliances, counter space and storage units are grouped so that the house-wife can quickly turn from one to another, enabling her to prepare a meal on a "turn-around" basis.

(2) Easy-to-maintain surfaces. Plastic laminates are used extensively for cabinets, wall surfaces and countertops. The housewife appreciates the advantages of a surface that can be kept clean with a damp cloth.

(3) Lighting where it should be. No homemaker likes to work in her own shadow. For this reason the trend is to get away from center lights and instead have them under the cabinets. The ideal arrangement is to have a light for every countertop.

With respect to major kitchen appliances, manufacturers are offering a wider variety of units than ever before, and designing compact units that can be used for many chores, rather than several different chores. Whether these units are free-standing or built-in, they have a built-in look for easy coordination.

Compact units mean less steps and more room for storage. The variety or design means that it is possible to find just the right major appliance for the needs of the family.

A good example of the trend to multi-functional units is the new type of range that does a number of cooking tasks, from baking and broiling to grilling to range-top cooking.

Let Wallpaper Key Your Color Scheme

Whether you are decorating one room or the whole house, almost the first thing to consider is the color scheme. With today's wide range of new colors and unusual combinations, the choice is often difficult. How to choose colors that combine well and are neither too strident nor too nondescript?

Choosing a color scheme can be looked at from two angles: first, if you are starting completely from scratch with all new furnishings, and second, if you do have existing furnishings to consider, such as draperies, carpet or upholstery.

If you are starting from scratch, you will find that wallpaper can be a good starting point.

Today's wallpapers have a range of color and design to please all tastes: when you have selected your pattern, choose a major color in the pattern for your main colos. Use this on the floor, which is the next largest area to your walls.

Then choose a second color from the pattern for your secondary color areas, such as large upholstery pieces in the living room, the bedspread in the bedroom, and the draperies.

Finally choose a third color from your pattern for accent, to be used in small effects such as lamps, cushions and accessories. Remember these patterns are created by trained artists who know how to use color: you are using their knowledge to create your own color scheme.

Living Room Decor

For example, you might choose for your living room a traditional medallion pattern that uses burnt orange, black and beige against a warm tan background. By using warm tan for the carpet, black and beige for the large upholstered pieces and draperies, and accent touches of burnt orange, a harmonious color scheme is achieved. If a more vibrant look is desired, then the burnt orange could be used for the carpet, with the other colors used for major furnishings and accents.

If you already have furnishings that must be used, wallpaper can help you set your scheme around the existing colors.

Supposing you have a leaf green rug in your bedroom. Choose a wallpaper design that includes this color, and you may be sure that the other colors in the design will form a good color scheme that will tie in with your rug. Your choice here might be a pretty floral design in sky blue, lavender and leaf green against a white background.

Color Coordination

By using the blue for the bedspread and curtains, with accents of lavender in lamps, small chairs and accessories, your bedroom will have a new and attractive color scheme, even though your green rug is still with you.

If you have more than one color to consider in your present furnishings, you can tie these together by choosing a wallpaper that incorporates both these colors. If they are unusually strong and vivid colors, however, you may prefer a neutral background.

Large 'Woof' Featured In Modern Tepee Design Home

California has fathered a host of gracious, easy-living ideas. One of them is the A-frame house.

Easy to build, low in cost, and practical to live in, the A-frame gained popularity on the West Coast as a vacation lodge. Because it's perfect for beach house, ski lodge, or lakeside living, it is now catching on all over the country.

The A-frame, long favored by woodsmen, is ideal for areas that suffer severe winters. Its high-pitched roof-wall sheds rain and snow easily and rebuffs high winds.

The company which makes precut A-frame houses, uses asphalt shingle roofing because of its durability, wind and fire resistance, and wide choice of colors. They select wind-resistant asphalt shingles with a factory-applied adhesive. The self-sealing shingles are applied in the usual way, but the adhesive bonds each layer of shingles to the next.

A BROAD EXPANSE of asphalt shingles on this A-frame home adds space to the interior and is designed to resist high winds, rain and snow.

Since the largest exterior area of an A-frame house is the "woof," or wall-roof, its appearance is important. If the house is at the beach or in any area exposed to beating sun, white or pastel asphalt shingles are best because they reflect much of the sun's heat. In shadier areas, any of the many asphalt shingle colors can be chosen to suit individual tastes.

One advantage of the A-frame is that there are no pillars, posts, or load-bearing walls. This simplifies construction, lowers costs, and adds to living space. Non-supporting partitions can be moveable, making it easy to arrange floor space to suit individual needs.

A 24x30-foot A-frame can be arranged to include two bedrooms in the second floor and a large living room, dining area, kitchen and bath on the first floor. If more space is needed, two or more of the structures can be placed end to end, or, with passages added, side by side.

According to the builder, their homes are simple enough to be built by the average do-it-yourselfer. Construction is simplified and costs kept down by using stock window units of Ponderosa pine.

Cathedral Ceiling Becomes Popular

The striking beauty of a ceiling with exposed wood beams is now within reach of everyone planning a home, because of a 3-in-1 product called "insulating roof deck."

In all areas of the nation, people are asking their architects, builders and lumber dealers to plan their new homes with exposed beams in the ceiling because:

(1) Exposed beam or cathedral ceilings are highly representative of today's contemporary architecture.

(2) Exposed beam ceilings are among the most beautiful devised. They have been a part of the chalets of Switzerland and the cathedrals of Europe for centuries. The natural or stained beauty of the framing members stand out in rugged contrast to the ceiling itself.

(3) A ceiling with exposed beams seems to add spaciousness and grace to any house.

(4) The system of exposed beams enables the use of windows in the gables, which makes a bright and cheerful house—even on rainy days.

(5) With insulating roof deck, an exposed beam ceiling is actually less costly than most conventional roof systems.

Insulating roof deck — which makes a cathedral ceiling an economical possibility —comes in individual 2x8 ft. panels, either 1½, 2 or 3 inches in thickness. These units give your exposed beam roof (1) structural strength, (2) more than adequate insulation and weather tightness and (3) the factory-finished inside ceiling.

You can have a perforated or fissured sound absorbing ceiling if you desire. And, the ceiling can be painted with a non-bridging paint without damaging acoustical properties if you wish to redecorate at some later date.

A roof made with insulating roof deck units is less costly than conventional roofs partially because the builder can put it up faster. The large, strong panels interlock. Once the insulating roof deck units are in place, your inside ceiling is complete — without plaster or paint. To finish the roof on the outside, the builder may use asphalt shingles, a built-up roof, or composition roll roofing.

In colder climates, insulating roof deck units must be the type with a built-in vapor barrier. You can get insulating roof deck units from your building materials dealer who is supplied by one or more of America's largest insulation board manufacturers.

LARGER ROOM

You can make your room look larger by painting the baseboard the same color as your wall-to-wall carpeting. To protect the carpet use a curved metal shield known as a "painter's time saver" or use the cardboards which laundries insert in men's shirts. You'll find it easier to apply the paint with a roller than with a brush, and there are rollers with guards which will prevent paint from getting on the rug. Incidentally, protect the wall above the baseboard the same way.

CLEAN SOLDERING IRON

Keep a piece of emery cloth or sandpaper tacked in one corner of work bench, and wipe hot soldering iron across the abrasive occasionally while working. This keeps hot surfaces free of scale.

Nutcracker's Use

Grasping the bottle cap tightly with a nutcracker and giving a twist is a good way to open tightly closed bottles.

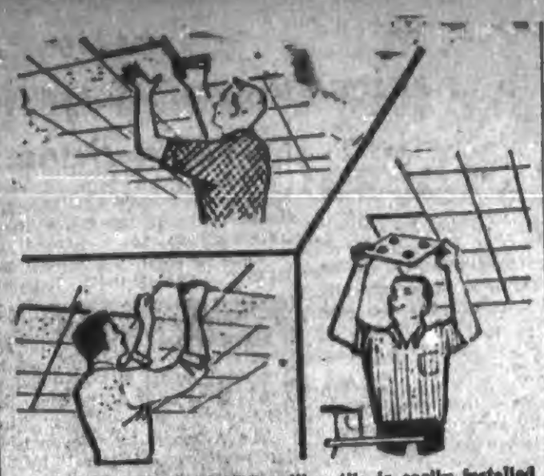
New Windows Aid Old Homes

An older house takes on a remarkably new aspect, inside and out, when new windows are installed.

The exterior looks more welcoming and up-to-date, and the interior gains a sense of space, light and air. If the new windows are made of wood, they add a feeling of warmth and become a contributing part of the decor.

If you are remodeling an older house, replacing old windows with new is an effective way to add beauty and to increase winter comfort.

Today's wood windows have weather tightness built into them at the factory, and, since wood is an efficient natural insulating material, they help keep a house warmer in winter. Ponderosa pine, from which most stock wood windows are made, transmits 1800 times less heat or cold than metal.



Because of this they are not susceptible to the formation of condensation which can damage draperies and walls. In addition, they lend themselves to a variety of decorative treatments since they can be painted, waxed or stained, and with wood frames it's easier to install curtains and draperies.

Stock wood windows are chemically treated in the factory to last indefinitely. Factory-installed weather stripping and locking devices make windows tight when closed, yet wood window units are engineered to operate easily and quietly.

Addition of Desk Will Aid Kitchen Efficiency

A work-corner in the kitchen for correspondence, filing and all sorts of paper-homework is a tremendous contribution to housewifely efficiency.

If desk construction is in your new kitchen plans, arrange for a panel of pegboard backing. This will serve as a bulletin board, to post grocery lists and specials. A rack for magazines and a cookbook shelf will also be useful. A drawer deep enough to hold a standard office file will quickly organize such household necessities as tax records; two shallower drawers will accommodate paper supplies.

INSULATION BOARD ceiling tile is easily installed by the home handyman. At upper left, staples are driven through flanges on edges of the tile into lumber furring strips. Lower left shows tiles being fitted into metal channels attached to the ceiling. At right, the adhesive method is shown. In this case the installer uses a flat or "butt" edge tile.

Acoustical Ceiling Can Add Beauty, Lower Noise Level Of Any Room

Modern American homes are designed for a feeling of spaciousness and grace. Large expanses of glass, long walls and high ceilings are the eye-appealing result.

Unfortunately, many of these hard, flat surfaces reflect sound and seem to intensify it, unless it is properly controlled.

You can eliminate the sound amplifying qualities of large windows and walls without much trouble. Furniture, drapes and tapestries take care of walls and windows. A carpet will quiet the floor. Ceilings are the "last frontiers."

The most effective way to keep sound from reflecting off your ceilings back into the room is to install an insulation board acoustical tile ceiling. The job is so easy that many homeowners make it a family project.

There are three simple ways to install insulation board acoustical ceiling tile:

1. Adhesive method: The ceiling should be level and unbroken. Determine the center of the ceiling by snapping a chalk line in both directions. Apply the first tile in the center at the junction of the chalk lines. Use insulation board tile with flat (or "butt") edges for adhesive installations.

Apply adhesive daubs about the size of a walnut to each corner of the 12x12x½-inch tiles. Press the first tile up to ceiling to line with the chalk lines. Apply the remaining tile to line up with the first one.

If borders require less than full-sized tiles, you can easily cut the tile with a hand saw or fiberboard knife. You may apply a wood molding at the junction of the wall and ceiling to trim out the room. If the tile is carefully cut flush to the mall, moudling is not needed.

Good Walls Defy Kiddie Scuffing

Children's rooms need not be drab or lack decorative appeal just because they are subjected to a lot of wear and tear over the active years of growing up.

By selecting suitable materials for wall and ceiling surfaces, the home builder can combine durability with good looks that will last.

With hardboard paneling, for example, there is a minimum of maintenance, both in cleaning and in refurbishing. Scuff-proof hardboard is tough enough to take the rough treatment that goes with hard play, and is simple to keep clean with just a wipe of a damp sponge or cloth.

Storage is always a problem for any bedroom. In a child's room, built-ins are a natural solution. One idea is to build a long counter the full length of one wall. Topped with plastic-coated hardboard, it makes a durable desk and hobby work table with wash-and-wear ease of care. Portions of the space beneath can be enclosed for toy and equipment storage with sliding doors of hardboard, hard to dent or scuff.

Building in a blackboard in a child's room provides a wonderful source of amusement and creative exercise for a youngster. And it's practical, too, with new blackboard made of lightweight, warp-free hardboard.

Trees Are Valuable Assets To Be Treated With Care

In the real estate business, they have a ready one-word answer for any question of respective lot values: location.

Thus when two lots are in the same general area (but one is priced higher), the justification is just as brief and to the point: trees.

Trees are valuable assets. They should be treated as such. If they're not, the home owner is shortchanging himself.

A complete tree care program starts with pruning and includes feeding and pest control as well.

Pruning controls trees — their size and shape, their flowering, and the amount of fruit they yield. But more important, pruning preserves trees from injury and prevents defective growth.

A good rule of thumb is: prune nonflowering varieties in the spring, and flowering varieties after their blooming period. Never — repeat never —prune the center shoot of an evergreen tree. This will only cause side shoots to extend upward and result in malformation of the trunk.

The tool and equipment list —like the answers of the real estate man —is short and simple: a sharp saw, a pair of pruning shears, a can of tree wound dressing and a stepladder. (If anything higher than a stepladder is needed, chances are a tree surgeon is too).

Cut off the low or unwanted branches. Those that interfere with mowing or normal traffic. Remove dead or diseased wood and cut out branches that hamper the growth of other branches. Cut off all diseased branches at least six to eight inches below the infected area. Where trunkz or main branches are damaged or decayed in spots, cut out the damaged area. Then apply tree wound dressing to all cut areas immediately to promote healing.

Where two leads appear, cut one off. This is not a problem when the tree is small, but such a structure forms a weak joint when both limbs reach mature size. There is a right and a wrong way to do this, too. The latter usually results in the weight of the falling limb stripping a foot or so of bark from the main branch or trunk when it falls.

First, notch the underside of the limb about three or four inches from where it grows out of the tree. Then make a second cut from the top — an inch or two farther out. Saw until the limb falls off. Then cut the stub flush with the main branch or the trunk, and spray. Peeling of bark allows moisture to enter and fungus diseases to decay the wood. Certain borers are also attracted by the odor of newly pruned trees. The aerosol tree wound dressing forms a protective seal which prevents the flow of sap and the entry of foreign matter while natural healing is taking place.

Your deciduous trees will benefit from a spring feeding with a balanced fertilizer such as turf food, while evergreens respond well to azalea and evergreen food. Do not, however, feed evergreens in the fall in regions with cold winters. The new growth encouraged will only be killed by the frost.

Insect damage to trees can be stopped by spraying insecticide at seven-to-10-day intervals. The task is made much easier with the use of a garden sprayer or a garden hose.

Rainbow Colors Made For Roofs

"White is easily the most popular color for roofing today," according to Howard Ketcham, noted color authority. "However," Ketcham said, "a recent survey of manufacturers of asphalt shingles indicates that other colors are on their way up.

Ketcham, who was the color engineer for the first colored telephones, attributes the national preference for white roofs to three basic reasons:

1. Since white is a neutral color compatible with all others, its use on the roof permits the widest selection of house body and trim colors.

2. White provides maximum heat reflection, which helps keep a house cooler in summer and lowers air conditioning costs.

3. White is "safe." Many home owners are afraid to trust their own judgment when it comes to colors. They hesitate to use colors that might leave them open to ridicule.

"I feel the increasing use of colorful asphalt shingles is a good sign. It means that more and more families are becoming color conscious and are learning to take advantage of the qualities that only color can provide," Ketcham said.

"White obviously has its place, but according to the survey, an increasing number of families have found that a complementary shade of green may be just right for a house surrounded by nature's greens and browns. And in many southern states light shades of tan are being chosen by families who want both variety and a high degree of heat reflectivity.

"Not too many years ago," Ketcham explained, "Asphalt roofing was available in only a limited number of colors—red, black and the grey-green of natural slate. Today, however the development of synthetic colored granules has led to the production of a wide range of roofing colors, including pastels and blends.

"Blended color asphalt shingles are becoming more popular because they harmonize with a wider variety of exterior trim and sidewall colors than do many solid shades," Ketcham explained.

Some blends consist of several shades of one color, while others are a mixture of two or more different colors. Another type of blend is achieved by using colors that differ from shingle to shingle.

ADD AN EXTRA HINGE

Making a door for a room? Or buying a ready-made one? You'll have less trouble with it over the years if you add a third hinge midway between the conventional top and bottom hinges.

PREVENTS ACCIDENT

Caution: always place a pail or other container under the sink cleanout plug when you remove it. Even though the faucet has been turned off, there's always a certain amount of water still in the pipe.

FEATURED AT HOME SHOW

FEATURED HOME of the American Institute of Architects at the 1963 Cleveland Home and Flower Show was this beautifully landscaped one-floor house. Designed by a Berea, O., firm, the floor plan shows the compact grouping of three bedrooms, a dressing room, two baths and a utility room in one wing, separated from the living area by a foyer. The exterior shows the development of the garden areas to become an integral part of the living areas.

Here's How Special Ceiling Traps Sound

Insulation board acoustical ceiling tile is made of natural wood or cane fibers that are matted into large sheets during manufacture. Specific products, including acoustical insulation board ceiling tile are cut from the large sheets, which are either ½-inch or ¾-inch thick.

Acoustical ceiling tile can absorb up to 70 per cent of the excess noise that strikes it. Drilled, cut or molded openings in the surface of the tile permit sound to enter. When sound waves hit the fibers inside these acoustical openings, friction slows down and absorbs its further movement, preventing it from bouncing back into the room.

TIP TO STOP SPLATTER

Protect door knobs and hardware from splattering paint by coating them liberally with damp soap. Paint after soap dries. A wet cloth removes paint spatters along with the soap.

Ohio Bell Offers Convenience, Beauty In Home Communications

Does needless shouting disturb the quiet of your home? Do wasted steps try the patience of your family?

Probably one of the most neglected elements in the home today is improvement of home communications—a relatively easy way to make your life simpler, safer and more convenient.

Families, especially those moving into new or larger homes, could benefit in greater comfort and convenience by reviewing their telephone needs in terms of newly available services.

Local Ohio Bell business offices are ready, willing and able to inform homeowners about the number and variety of telephone servants which are at their beck and call.

Perhaps the most revolutionary new service available today is Home Interphone. This new system permits a wide range of intercom services, from answering the front door to minding the baby, plus the handling of outside calls from every phone in the house.

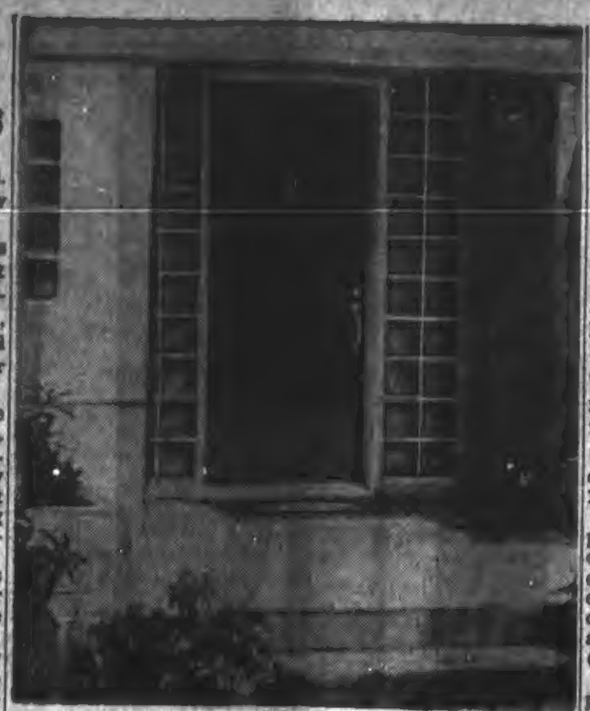
It is particularly useful in emergencies, such as reporting a fire or accident, or calling for help within the home.

For those who would like a telephone chime instead of a ring, Bell Chime is available. At the flick of a switch, Bell Chime provides a choice of three sounds — a loud bell, a low bell or a melodic chime. Another useful device is the outside bell which lets you know the phone is ringing when you're outdoors.

Today's homemaker also has her choice of new, streamlined telephone instruments. With the one-phone family rapidly becoming a thing of the past, families are striving to integrate the style of extension phones to the decor and needs of special locations. This is especially true in new homes.

The compact Princess phone, with built-in night light on the dial, is most often found in the bedroom, while the handy wall model is especially appropriate for kitchen or basement use.

Another convenience device becoming increasingly popular in the multi-phone household is the exclusion key which automatically cuts out other extensions, insuring complete privacy for important calls. When the receiver is put back, the key is pushed down and the other extensions are returned to the line.



Several products originally designed for limited or business purposes are finding useful applications in the home. A boon to the hard-of-hearing, the new volume control handset has also been gratefully received by mothers with overly vocal young children.

Ohio Bell advises those people who are planning to build new homes to look into the advantages of concealing wiring and adding extra outlets for future phone needs. Advance wiring of a house, like concealed wiring, should be considered in the early planning stages. The result is a neater, more finished final appearance.

The popularity of color phones is further testimony to the growing role the telephone is playing in decorating plans. At the request of color-conscious home owners, the Bell System has installed more than 15 million color phones since their introduction several years ago.

Research has revealed a changing location pattern for telephones in recent years. The trend is to kitchen, bedroom and basement and away from traditional living room or dining room locations. Among the most frequent users of the upstairs phone is the teenage member of the family. Some parents present teenagers with a private phone and listing as a special incentive award for help around the house, good grades or other desirable performances.

Since today's telephone service can be fitted exactly to almost any way of life, families can win extra comfort and convenience dividends by looking over their current phone needs.

DAPPER DOORWAY

ENTRANCES SET THE MOOD for the entire home, and this dapper doorway gives the feeling of an interior that is light, bright and full of life. Glass blocks, framing a wood-panel door, make a king-size entrance out of an ordinary doorway. Homeowners can choose transparent or translucent glass blocks for varied degrees of privacy. Transparent glass blocks admit light as well as vision. Translucent glass blocks bring in plenty of light but eliminate all vision for maximum privacy.

18th Century Design Interpretations New Aid In Revival Of Traditional Furniture

The trend toward Traditional furnishings is being perpetrated by the elegtnt new interpretations of the 18th century English designs. It is natural that designers should seek inspiration in that era, says the House Furnishings Industry Committee. Many feel some of the world's finest cabinet-makers were producing between 1680 and 1820.

Some authorities divide the periods of decorative arts according to the popular wood of the time, such as the Age of Walnut (1680-1710), Age of Mahogany (1710-1770) and the Age of Satinwood (1770-1820).

Other writers in the field prefer to designate these periods by rulers: Queen Anne, Georgian (Early, Middle and Late), Regency and Victorian.

Our designers are looking for style motifs from the Early Georgian through the Regency periods (the Ages of Mahogany and Satinwood).

There is no clear-cut demarcation between Queen Anne and the Early Georgian periods, although the tendency graduated toward somewhat heavier structures and more subtle curves. The beautiful mahogany furniture made by Chippendale and his followers has stimulated many to call this the golden age of furniture design.

The "reign" of Hepplewhite was next. His beautiful executions in Satinwood exerted profound influence on the furniture of that time.

Sheraton ranks with Chippendale and Hepplewhite in designers' hall of fame. Many of his creations are characterized by straight lines and classical elements as well as decorative motifs from France.

Everything went classical in the last portion of the 18th century. Trend setters for the time were James and Robert Adam whose furniture was classically simple, restrained and delicately crafted.

The classical forms continued into the Regency Period (Early 19th century) which marks the end of this era of outstanding designs.

Modern manufacturers are adapting these gracious designs from a civilized age for use in our homes. Their quality, flexibility, comfort and practicality are pure 20th century.

INSPIRED BY MASTERS, the "Piedmont" collection of furniture embodies the treasured motifs of England's golden era of design and the honest comfort and simplicity of the 20th century. Mahogany, aristocrat of the hardwoods, is exploited for all of its many variations in grain and pattern. Rounding out these 75 pieces of distinctive furniture is a splendid selection of upholstered armchairs and sofas.

Patio Becomes Family Haven For Relaxing And Entertaining

One of the easiest and most economical ways to add both comfort and value to your home is to build a patio.

A patio can be as simple or as complex as you want to make it. By using wood, it's possible for a weekend carpenter, using simple tools, to do the whole job himself.

Flagstones are frequently used for patio floors, but, in some cases, wood will harmonize better with the color and styling of your home. The deck should simply be laid on a framework of naturally durable or preservatively treated 2x4s partly imbedded in the ground. It's a good idea to put a layer of sand between the ground and the underside of the decking.

Before embarking on the construction job, though, plan the patio carefully. Decide first of all what it will be used for — dining, sun-bathing, reading? Patios also serve, of course, as children's play areas and make ideal settings for summer parties.

Some patios have built-in storage areas which are used for such things as gardening tools and outdoor furniture.

If the family is going to be using the patio at night, you'll probably want to install electric outlets and screening. Sunbathing calls for a patio with a western or eastern exposure. If very young children will be playing in the area, you may want to make it easily visible from the kitchen. Another point to remember in picking a location is that existing walls and fences can provide part or all of the enclosure needed.

If an additional enclosure is desired, it can be built in a number of ways, since one of the big advantages of wood is that it provides almost infinite design variety. You can cut it to satisfy any set of dimensions, shape it or assemble it into a variety of attractive patterns and obtain additional variety through the use of the natural grain by applying paint or stain.

Wood is also easily available and economical. A lumber yard or building materials dealer is probably only a short distance away from where you are right now.

Some very attractive patio enclosures can be built by forming an open-lattice of horizontal and vertical 2x4s spaced six to 12 inches apart. Another idea is to build a framework of 2x4s and then panel it on one or both sides.

A patio or sundeck might be free-standing, attached to the house or detached but connected via a series of protected decking walk-ways. Whichever it is to be, consideration must be given to the existing landscaping, property lines and the direction of the sun's rays and the prevailing winds.

And when selecting the actual design of the structure, these factors must also be taken into account. That is, the functional must be considered as well as the aesthetic.

Perhaps for example, the windward side of the patio, deck or pool ought to be sheltered. Such protection can be achieved by incorporating a distinctive solid lumber screen along the windward side. By using a lattice-work design, vertical louvers or a basket weave design for the screen, protection can be achieved without cutting off the supply of light and air completely.

Whether or not the decking is to be placed directly on the ground or raised is another question that depends largely upon the general lay of the land. It may be constructed either way, but if the yard slopes appreciably, it would be better to raise the decking on posts. Solid lumber is ideally suited to this type of construction.

LOWER WITH COLOR

There are two ways to "lower" an overly high ceiling visually with paint color. The first is to paint the ceiling a darker color than walls. The second is to extend the ceiling color down the side walls in a band of whatever width looks attractive.

THE NEW RODENFELS TRUCK SERVICE CENTER

Some time ago Rodenfels Chevrolet recognized the need for separate and specialized demands to handle the growing demands of their truck owners. So planning began for the construction of an efficient new service center. Our new Chevrolet Truck Center provides an additional 8,000 square feet of service facilities, plus the skills of 17 specially trained truck mechanics. Every truck owner's service needs are available.

The big facilities—devoted exclusively to trucks—will provide better service to owners and help minimize costly down-time. The Chevrolet Truck Center offers complete facilities for front-end alignment and precision wheel balancing, plus lift and lubrication capabilities for some of the smallest wheelbases to some of the largest. The addition is another plus to the already extensive Rodenfels car-truck complete service program.
